PLUNGED DOWN TO DESTRUCTION

A Boston & Albany Limited Train Goes Through a Bridge.

THIRTEEN PEOPLE DEAD

Fifteen Others Badly Injured and Some of Them Expected to Die.

Ghastly Scenes Among the Dead and Dying—Sad Farewells at the Entrance to Eternity—Deeds of Heroism in Soothing the Suffering—The Bridge Was Being Repaired but the Railroad People Deny That It Was Weak.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sep. 1.—The Chicago limited express train for Boston broke through a frail iron bridge on the Boston and Albany railroad just east of Chester, about 12:30 yesterday, and four Wagner cars were crushed, killing at least 13 persons, fatally injuring several others, while at least a score are badly hurt. The wreck is the worst ever known on the road.

The bridge was being strengthened for the big locomotives and the workingmen who were putting on the plates were at dinner when the crash came. The locomotive fell beyond the structure, but was smashed, the water tank being thrown a long distance. The buffet, two sleepers and a dining car were smashed to kindling when they struck the stream twenty feet below, but two day coaches and a smoker in the rear did not leave the track. There had been 13 dead bodies taken out at six o'clock and 12 of them had been identified.

It is believed that there are two more bodies in the ruins.

The list of the identified dead are:

J. E. DEWITT, of Portland, Me., president of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company.

T. K. KELLY, of Boston.

MISS SUSIE COTTING, of Boston.

MRS. G. BISHPAM, of Philadelphia.

MISS EMMA DELERTY, of Columbus, O.

H. C. IVES, of Chicago.

FRANK SEDGEWICK, of Palmer.

JOHN MCMASTERS, express messenger, of Springfield.

J. H. MURRAY, brakeman, of Greenbush, N. Y.

GEORGE W. MORSE, baggagemaster, of Boston.

J. C. STACKPOLE, Wagner car conductor, of Hartford, Conn.

R. C. HITCHCOCK, of Bellows Falls, Vt.

There were about 15 seriously injured and five or six may die.

The train was seven minutes late at Chester and the railroad hands say it was going at the rate of 20 miles an hour when it struck the first of the two spans across the Westfield river. The locomotive seemed to leap across the bridge, as the trusses collapsed and fell over to the south.

The conductor was taking tickets in a day coach, and although thrown down violently escaped serious injury.

There are only a few houses in the vicinity and a man driving by whipped up his horses and gave the alarm through the village street.

In a few minutes hundreds were on the scene. The shrieks of the imprisoned were most terrible, and scores of people looked on completely unnerved. The heroes of the hour were Dr. George L. Wood of Collinsville, who went to the train to meet his wife, and the colored porters and waiters in the dining car. Although their faces were bruised and cut and covered with blood they did splendid work. The village people soon recovered from the shock and were hard at work. The hospital was a group of apple trees in an adjoining orchard, where a score were taken. Ox teams brought loads of straw, cushions, bedding and food. The wounded were soon removed to the houses of N. A. Harwood, Washington Moore and J. C. Crocker, and all that remained on the apple-strewn ground were 13 bodies covered with red blankets from an adjoining stable. Many of the dead were horribly mutilated, heads crushed in, limbs torn, and often only recognizable from the clothing. Mr. Scull of Phildelphia was with his sister, Mrs. Bishpam, in a Wagner car. She was instantly killed and he was pinned down, but finally extricated. When her body was laid out a wrong name was affixed to the breast, and the officials called him to see the muutilated face, which he had avoided. "Are you sure she is your sister?" the officials asked.

"My God, it is, it is!" he exclaimed, while the bystanders turned away and wiped their eyes. The body of Miss Sussie Cotting, of Boston, was identified, by Miss Andrews, daughter of Edward Andrews, president of the Security Safe Deposit company of Boston. Mr. Andrews was unable to get a seat in the Wagner car, and so went into a day coach with his daughter and Miss Beal, of Boston. They were not injured.

J. E. Dewitt, of Portland, Me., president of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company, was reading a magazine. M. W. Kirk, of Chicago, started to sit with him, but seeing that he was absorbed, excused himself and went into the rear car and was saved.

Mrs. John J. Howard, of Boston, whose stage name is Hattie Blanchard, was one of the five saved in the sleeper next in front of the dining car, which was the worst wrecked. She left Albany where the John L. Sullivan company had appeared the night before.

She says that she felt the car going down and reached for her hat in the seat in front. In an instant she was pinned down with a beam across her waist. A chandelier had crashed down over head. She extricated herself and turned to Mrs Bishpam, who was crying for help. Her head was wedged under a car seat arm. When she saw it was impossible to extricate the woman, the poor victim squeezed her hand with a "God bless you, good by."

The wounded are as follows:

Mrs. Rev. Dr. Lewellin Pratt, Norwich, Conn., cut hand, right thigh sprained.

Robert Cuckson, Boston, Wagner car porter, badly scalded.

Murray Graves, Boston, fracture of right thigh and broked forearm.

Ethel Carson, Dalton, shoulder sprained.

John R. Carson, Dalton, bruised.

Louis Buchanan, Boston, badly bruised.

Rose Stephane, Springfield, Italian, fractured ribs.

Mary Saoie, Springfield, Italian, bruised.

John Platt, Riverton, N. J., bruised.

Mrs. John Platt, Riverton, N. J., bruised.

Mrs. Dr. Alice Littel, Brookline, bad scalp wound.

M. F. Leach, Rainfall, fractured left thigh.

Mrs. James T. Eldredge, Boston, broken hip, fractured shoulder.

Mrs. H. E. Whitney, Cleveland, badly bruised and scalp wound.

Mrs. J. M. Winchester, West Roxbury, bruised.

Sumner Cammings, Worcester, compound fracture of the leg.

Mrs. Sumner Cumming, Worcester, leg fractured and bruised.

Wellesly Porter, buffet porter, Boston, fractured thigh.

Arthur Williams, Lennox, bad scalp wound.

Frank Lang, Chicago, bruised chest and back.

Winthrop Wade, Boston, fracture of the thigh.

Mrs. Helen Rich, Pittsfield, bruised and cut face.

Walter Hawkins, of Pittsfield, bad scalp wound and serious contusion of mouth and nose.

Lewis Mitchell, Albany, badly bruised and fractured skull.

J. Waldron Johnson, Boston, porter, bad scalp wound.

E. B. Adams, Holyoke, head bruised.

Mrs. Avery, Holyoke, hip injured.

The bridge was undergoing repairs and the railroad people deny that it was weak. There is no evidence that the train was deserted. The bridge was built about 20 years ago by the Brighton Bridge company and had been rebuilt once or twice.

BOLD PLOT.

Conspiracy to Set Fire to Honolulu and to the Panic Seize the Public Buildings and Restore the Queen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sep. 1.—Steamers from Honolulu report a conspiracy of Royalists having been arranged to restore the Queen on the 18th by firing the city, destroying the buildings with dynamite, and then in the panic rushing in and capturing the government buildings. The government were apprised of the plot and Admiral Skerrett prepared to land his forces and assist in maintaining order. This frustrated the plans of the conspirators who had enlisted 300 natives as soldiers for the plan and had told them that the United States forces would help them.

It is understood that Marshal Hitchcock had sufficient evidence to connect the Ashford Bros. with the scheme. No outbreak took place, as Admiral Skerrett put the warship Boston under orders. The military had been warned and special orders were issued to 300 reserves, who could have been rallied in 20 minutes. Admiral Skerrett has since admitted that he acted entirely on his own authority. The opinion prevails here that had the Boston's troops landed the stars and stripes would have gone up again never to be lowered. The Royalists deny that any outbreak was contemplated.

The new military bill has passed and has gone into effect. Owing to repeated threats made to seize or exterminate the government a new bill for succession of the office of vice-president has been introduced.

The United States Consulate was recently broken into and everything in the shape of documents in Consul General Severance' room was overhauled that could be found. Nothing was taken. It is said here that threats and late actions of the Royalists are due to a reply made by Minister Blount, just before he left, that the United States would never recognize any faction not in control of the seat of government and executive buildings.

It is the belief that Hawaii is now practically under a United States protectorate, and officials high in authority say that before Blount left he virtually said this much.

WOLCOTT'S WITTICISMS

Sudden Conversion of Democratic Senators.

POPULIST PEFFER AGAIN SAT UPON

His Resolution Regarding National Banks Refusing to Pay Depositors in Currency Buried in Committee—Some Progress With House Rules.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The speech of Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Col.) against the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of Sherman act was delivered yesterday in the presence of almost all the Senators, and of a large audience in the galleries. The most telling parts of it, and those that amused and interested its hearers most, were some humerous and sarcastic touches, in which he depicted the conversion of Democratic statesmen from their belief in silver and their devotion to bimetallism, to the gold monometallism faith of the President.

The next speech was on the opposite side of the question and was made by Mr. Caffery, the successor of Mr. Gibson of Louisiana. It was his first appearance in the Senate as a speeckmaker, but the speech was remarkable as a pronounced declaration in favor of unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, although he admitted that the position so taken by him might not meet the approval of his State, and might put a bar to his further political career.

The resolution offered last week by Mr. Peffer (Pop., Kas.) in reference to national banks refusing to pay checks of their depositors in currency was taken up, and against his opposition and a score of other Senators, was referred to the Finance Committee by a vote of 35 to 21.

Still Struggling With Rules.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 1.—"Threshing over old straw" was the amusement which the House indulged in yesterday. The rules of the Fifty-third Congress were relegated to the background, and the rules of the Fifty-first Congress came in for the chief part of the discussion. No new charges were made and no new answers were interjected, but Mr. Reed was kept upon his feet almost continuously, justifying the propriety of his course when he occupied the chair.

The banking and currency and the coinage, weights and measures committees were granted leave to report at any time; and these were the only noteworthy changes made in the new code. But there is an amendment still pending that, if adopted, may be found to be far-reaching in its effects. It was offered by Mr. Boatner of Louisiana and provides for a practical cloture whenever a member in charge of a measure on the floor sees fit to ask for it. No action was taken on this amendment before an adjournment.

GLEVELAND'S HEALTH.

Father-in-Law Perrine Talks Freely About the President's Health and Mrs. Cleveland's Expected Illness.

BUFFALO, Sep. 1.—Henry E. Perrine, President Cleveland's step-father-in-law, has just returned from a trip through the Western States, and says that he and his wife have been considerably annoyed and worried over the reports of the President's condition which have been sent broadcast indicating that Mr. Cleveland's health was so badly shattered that the worst fears for the future were entertained.

Speaking of these reports Mr. Perrine said to a reporter:

"They are terribly exaggerated and sensational. Through Mrs. Cleveland we hear of the President twice a week, and nothing has come to justify the reports which have been sent out.

"We received a telegram Wednesday stating that the President was perfectly well and that he and his wife left Gray Gables Wednesday. The President will probably arrive in Washington to-night as Mrs. Cleveland will remain for a brief visit with the Benedicts on Long Island.

"The President was worn out and needed a perfect rest. This he has obtained and is thoroughly restored.

"He was also suffering from an ulcerated tooth which had not been properly attended to, and the ulceration spreading, had affected a neighboring tooth and a portion of the jaw bone.

Both teeth were extracted and the diseased portions of the bone removed.

"The operation was successful and produced the desired relief. This has been the extent of the President's illness and as I said, he is now thoroughly recovered and is as well as ever."

Mrs. Perrine says she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Grover Cleveland, about September 15th and attend her during her expected illness.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 1.—The faculty of Yale have notified the local selectmen that, according to a recent act passed by the General Assembly, all bodies of persons dying within the town's jurisdiction and unclaimed by friends for 24 hours, must be turned over to that institution. The college has notified other charitable institutions in the State to the same effect. The local town officials do not relish the law, owing to the comment it will excite.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

United States and British America Show Remarkable Increase in Numbers and Influence Within Eight Years.

ST. LOUIS, Sep. 1.—At the seventh international Sunday School convention, in session here, President J. G. Harris of Selma, Ala., in his address, held that evangelization should be turned toward those elements of our own country not yet fully fitted for citizenship—the foreigner migrating to our shores and the negro with us. Of the foreigners, recent events, notably the New Orleans riots, were evidence of the need of the spirit of Christ. Of the negro, he would depreciate not one whit of the advancement already made and he paid high tribute to those marked examples of ability of some of the race. Yet there remained much to be done to instil into the negro a true conception of manhood and womanhood. That they were rising in the scale of true citizenship could not be denied, and they were entitled to every aid in the uplifting of the race. In conclusion, he declared that the spirit of Christ would ere long rule the world, and "We will war no more, and all shall be under the rule of the prince of peace." As the speaker closed the convention rose in pledge of the recognition of no North and no South in the work of evangelization of the negro.

The convention then proceed to the nomination of the various committees, and as the roll call proceeded it developed that five-sixths of the United States was represented, while every section of British America had a full delegation.

Statistical Secretary E. Payson Porter of New York has completed his report. The totals show a remarkable growth all along the line. They are as follows: Sunday schools in the United States and British America, 180,197; teachers and officers, 1,372,558; scholars, 10,870,104. Total, 11,641,109. In 1875 there were 69,272 Sunday schools, 788,805 teachers and 6,062,064 scholars; a total of 6,850,869.

NEW PENSION RULES.

Modification of the Practice of Suspending Pensions in Doubtful Cases During Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 1.—Pension Commission Lochren yesterday issued orders modifying the existing practice of suspending pensions during the investigation of questionable cases. In speaking of this new order, Commissioner Lochren said: "The Secretary has for some time questioned the fairness of the old practice of the Pension Bureau, which suspended pensions during inquiry as to the right of a pensioner to the pension rate he was receiving. At his request the whole matter has been carefully considered and the present order modifying that practice, so as not to suspend in doubtful cases, has been agreed to as more equitable.

"During the progress of the examination of cases under the act of June 27, 1890, a larger number of pensioners were found liable to suspension under the old practice than had been anticipated, and cases were found where persons have been suspended whose disabilities have increased since the date of being pensioned, and who are now entitled to remain on the rolls. In every instance as soon as these cases were called to the attention of the bureau the correction was promptly made, but it was feared that the suspension might work hardship by preventing the payment of pensions to those who at the present time were legally entitled to the same, though they were not at the time the pension was granted."

DREADED ANTHRAX.

The Disease Breaks Out Among Horses and Cattle in Delaware.

DELAWARE CITY, Del., Sept. 1.—For some time past cattle and horses in this locality have been afflicted with a mysterious disease which has caused death within a few hours after being attacked and has assumed such proportions that the people are thoroughly alarmed. It first appeared in the herd of Long & Scott, who lost 15 valuable cows. From there it spread rapidly and now many horses are dying. James Warren, who has charge of the insurance on stock here, will place no more policies and at his suggestion a consultation of surgeons was held. Dr. Peirson of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Peirson of New York city, Dr. Eaves of the Delaware State Veterinary College, Dr. Jeffries of Wilmington, and local doctors were in attendance. After a thorough examination of the dead animals they pronounced the disease the dreaded Anthrax, and will at once determine what can best be done to check its spread. As this is a great dairy country the farmers are much excited over the situation.

COUNTING CORPSES BY THE HUNDRED

Horrible Details of Sunday's Deadly Cyclone in the South.

SIX HUNDRED BODIES

Sickening Scenes in the Woods and Marshes Around Port Royal.

Rescuers Pay No Attention to Single Bodies but Are Only Attracted by Dozens and Scores—Many People Estimate the Dead at a Thousand—Over Two Million Dollars of Damage.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sep. 1.—A special to the Chronicle from Beaufort, S. C., says: Over 890 dead bodies have been found on islands about Beaufort and Port Royal. Over two millions of property has been wrecked near the same points. Both are the direct result of severe storms which swept along the Atlantic coast Sunday night. Every one of the fifteen or twenty islands lying around Port Royal and Beaufort is in mourning.

The beeches, the undergrowth and shrubbery, the marshes and the inlets are revealing dead bodies every time investigation is made. Those who are at all posted about the country and the habits of the people in the storm-visited sections are confident in their prediction that the death roll will run as high as 600. Some of the best people of this section of the State, even place the loss at more than 1,000.

As the waters recede and the people move deeper into wreckage gathered by the storm the ghastly remains are uncovered. So frequent are these discoveries that a single finding attracts no attention.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sep. 1.—Accounts continue to come in of general havoc by Sunday's storm. Advices from the sea coast are summed up from Charleston papers. Mr. R. Robinson gives a graphic story of the effects of the storm in the low country. He had just arrived from Walterboro and stated that from Bischoff's Place on the Ediste river to Jacksonboro, two negroes floated the whole distance on the top of their shanty and reported that all the negroes on the place in the lowlands had been drowned, in all about 100 men women and children. They relate a terrible experience and furthermore state that all of the dwellings are totally destroyed and the place in abject desolation. At Walterborro, Mr. Robinson says, many of the houses had been completely washed from their foundations out into the streets and all the rice fields were overflowed.

Port Royal, lying on a tongue of land further down the Beaufort river, must have been even more exposed to the fury of the tempest. The place is practically in ruins. Its water front is destroyed and great damage has been done to its buildings. The great loss of life which resulted from the storm on every shore of the islands is greatest here or else it has been more authentically stated. Thirty odd negroes were found dead on the beach and the number was expected to be largely increased before the death roll was finally closed.

Several gentlemen from this city, who were in Fort Royal or Beaufort during the hurricane, returned to Charleston on the first train which came into the city over the Charleston & Savannah railway. They report that the loss of life and the destruction of property at those places and the neighboring sea islands has been something terrible. The death roll had already risen to 80 odd persons, among whom was numbered Dr. Ellis, the newly appointed quarantine officer for the port. Paris Island, where the United States dry docks are building and which stands between the Broad and Beaufort rivers, was swept by the cyclone. The fatality which has pursued the Government improvements since their inception found its culmination Sunday night. The injury could not be accurately calculated.

Beaufort, the prettiest island town in the Carolinas, is terribly damaged, notwithstanding the fact that it stands six miles up the river. Many of the residences in the town were badly damaged and the wharves are nearly or quiet destroyed. The experience of Capt. Whiteley and his wife and family of ten children on Castle Pickney on the night of the storm was a terrible one. The wind blew the store house to pieces and blew away all the ship chandler's stores and his dwelling was so exposed that is was seen to be dangerous to remain in it. He and his family sought shelter from the fury of the tempest to the leeward of the fort, and with his children stood out the storm, occasional waves breaking over the helpless family. Three of the little ones were from six months to three years of age and they stood it like the old ones, without a whimper.

The fury of the winds and waves was so great that some huge masses of iron used for building buoys, and weighing 4,500 pounds, were moved from their places and rolled about the beach. Some great anchors weighing from 4,500 to 6,000 pounds were flung about the place like so much timber. The place is a complete ruin, and in spite of all Capt. Whiteley and his brave family are in the Castle and holding the fort.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Clearing Tomorrow, Easterly Winds.

The Washington Star is fighting for the introduction of free postal delivery into that town. That is right. Washington won't amount to anything in the eyes of the outside world till it has that essential of modern civilization.

The Plainfield Press is calling attention to the meagre attendance at Sunday evening services in the churches of that city. We are sorry to hear that that the citizens of Plainfield are degenerating in their religious tendencies. We think Somerville could set them an example in church attendance. Somerville is preeminently a church-going town.

So says the Somerville Unionist-Gazette. Since Somerville is so virtuous, can't she send a missionary to this atrociously wicked city and restore our fallen morals?

When the people heard that the Newman Philharmonics would not be given this winter, they were consoled by the thought that there was still left to them the Venino concerts. But it is now certain that on account of the departure from Plainfield of Mr. Venino, the Venino concerts also will have to be abandoned. There is in this cause for Plainfield's sincere regret. Of course the Choral and Melopoia societies will still remain in existence, and will continue to do excellent service to the cause of good music in Plainfield, but the variety of music Plainfield has been having was very delightful, and people hate to have so much lost to them for a time.

AFTER-VACATION OVERWORK.

With September ends the summer. From the universal outing everybody returns acknowledging that rest is a tonic beyond the power or ken of science, a renewal of energy and strength, giving added length of days and usefulness. What is the course of average man or woman with the words of this confession scarcely ended? Do they husband and increase this God-given blessing, this new wine of life in their veins? On the contrary they at once begin a system of lavish waste, that, were it money, would be regarded unpardonable recklessness.

Making themselves martyrs to business or cares of household, they strain every nerve to accomplish necessary duties and many which are wholly optional and not important for the comfort and welfare of those dear to them.

Nature is a kind mentor giving timely warning when her laws are broken. If the seeming requirements of life cannot be accomplished without undue expenditure of nerve force (so fatal to health), what does wisdom advise? In pecuniary stress of circumstances, retrenchment is sought as means of relief. By careful self-examination, many things that fatigue will be found to have their origin in false pride and ambition and can be left undone. Is there not time tomorrow for the undertaking that lack of strength enters protest against today? In this rush and busy strife of living, to be overworked seems a cause for vainglory rather than selfreproach. Nowhere is economy needed so much as in this direction; and how extravagant, without thought of after consequence, is the world, in waste of physical and mental power!

A smiling happy wife and mother are far more welcome at the evening meal than a dinner of many courses, its presiding spirit over-weary and without inclination or time for sympathy and pleasure. Whatever is left undone, let homes be love-lighted, family burdens shared, and life not too much devoted to the things that "moth, rust and thieves" can take from us, leaving us poor indeed. In the end, what does it profit, if we gain the whole world beside and lose the joy of living and loving while our day lasts.

NEW JERSEY'S PAROLE LAW.

One of the details of the parole law has been brought to the attention of the New Jersey authorities through the stories published about alleged suicide of at first supposed to be "Count" William C. Kockegey. The "Count" emerges from obscurity in Philadelphia and says that he is not the Kockegey that committed suicide in SanFrancisco, but that he is living in Philadelphia with his first wife. He was sentenced to the State Prison for bigamy and released on parole. It has been generally understood that prisoners so released were not to leave the State, but to remain within its boundaries so that they could be under the inspection of the proper officers of the law, but on investigation it was shown that the law makes no provision as to future residence. While it was first thought that Kockegey by residing in Philadelphia had broken the contract he made with the State, it is discovered that he has a perfect right to reside anywhere he chooses, providing he reports every three months to the Governor, giving an account of his whereabouts and his social and industrial habits.

In framing the parole law no provision in regard to the future residence of the ticket-of-leave men was made. It is probable that the next Legislature will be asked to amend it so as to compel the prisoners to reside in the State for the period covered by their parole, or to provide that some one shall give security for their good conduct should they remove from it.

There are some of the paroled men living in other States, among them ex-Sheriff Rockwell, who killed James Wainright in Ocean county, and was released six months ago from the prison on parole. He did not return to Ocean county, but took up his residence with some relatives in Brooklyn. Several other paroled men are living in New York and four of them in Philadelphia.

It is claimed by those who are interested in the parole system that this omission almost defeats the practical application of the law. Paroled prisoners are still in the custody of the State and can be restored to the institution from which they have been given a ticket of leave at any time that their conduct warrants it. They are practically prisoners out on their good behavior, but the New Jersey law has no one watching them to see how much they refrain from idle or immoral habits. While the law provides for their rearrest for any breach of conduct should they be in the State, there is no oversight over those who leave its jurisdiction, and even should it come to the knowledge of the prison authorities or the Governor that Kockegey or Rockwell were disobeying the conditions of their parole, it would take a long and tedious process of law to secure their arrest and imprisonment.

As far as the State authorities report, the parole law has worked to their satisfaction, only two persons having been returned to the State Prison. It is reported by the Executive Department that all the prisoners report regularly, including the ballot-box stuffers, who were released last Christmas. Their time of parole will soon be over, when they will be given an absolute release, but they will still be under the ban of disfranchisement.

ELIZABETH LOCKRIE'S FUNERAL.

Attended at the Tomb by Odd Ladies and Daughters of Pocohontas.

From the late residence, 455 West Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 2, the funeral services of Elizabeth Lockrie were held. The Rev. Charles E. Herring officiated.

Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, United Order of Independent Odd Ladies, and Iona Council, Daughters of Pocohontas, were present. They also contributed some very pretty flowers.

The Rev. C. E. Herring said, in part: "I have been much impressed with the words taken from Scripture 'I will be with you all the days'. 'Always' is an indefinite term, but 'All the days' is significant.

"In the midst of all our adversity Christ says 'I will be with thee in the height of thy prosperity and the depth of thy adversity'. There are times when we are joyous and there are times when we weep. The Saviour said 'I am going away, and cannot be present bodily with you. I am going away that I may send you another comforter, the Holy Spirit, and His presence you may have always'. We need what the word comfort means, strength for living, and then we shall have grace for dying. May this bereavement turn our eyes heavenward. Death is spoken of in the New Testament as one being asleep.

"I was passing an engine-house recently and noticed it was draped in mourning I was pleased to see the words 'Our loss his gain'. It meant something more than was to be seen at first glance.

"Our sister is with Christ today. Her pastor, Dr. Ketcham, desired very much to be present, but was prevented. He sent this message, That she was a woman of strong common-sense, she has a personal Saviour. May we so live that when we die the Master will say 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord'."

At the grave the members of the two lodges took charge and conducted the service according to their ritual. "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung, and Mrs. Westphal recited the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Corwin made a prayer, after which Mrs. Morse and several others read appropriate selections. Another hymn was sung, and then the women made a circuit of the grave dropping sprigs of evergreen therein. A closing sentence was read by Mrs. Corwin. The Rev. C. E Herring pronounced the benediction.

The pall-bearers were: James Patterson, John Morton, Harry Cottrell, William Dodds, William Hutchinson and Joseph Randolph.

Interment was made in the Methodist Cemetery.

MR. VENINO'S GOOD FORTUNE.

Plainfield Loses a Valued Artist Who Takes Horace Greeley's Advice.

It is with deep regret that the many Plainfield friends of A. F. Venino learn that he has decided on September 14 to leave here and make his home permanently in Spokane Falls, Wash., where he will assume the directorship of the Spokane Conservatory of Music. He will receive a good salary and in addition will receive the entire proceeds of all recitals that he gives.

There will be five opening recitals given as follows: at Helena, Sept. 18; at Spokane Falls, Sept. 21; at Tacoma, at Seattle and at Portland.

Mr. Venino has been in Plainfield eleven years and has been identified during that time with all the city's principal musical affairs. His first appearance before Plainfield people was at a benefit given to Muhlenberg Hospital.

He subsequently appeared at the benefit given the Crescent Avenue church, and also at the first Melopoia concert. He gave numerous piano recitals and chamber music concerts and was a successful teacher, many pupils having remained under his tutition during the whole time of his residence in Plainfield.

It will, of course, now be necessary for Mr. Venino's winter course of concerts in Plainfield to be abandoned, which is a most unfortunate thing for this city.

They Lost an Honored Friend.

In the peculiarly sad death yesterday of President J. E. Dewitt, of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company, who was killed in the Boston and Albany Railroad accident, a keen bereavement is felt by two of Plainfield's citizens, John M. Crane and Samuel P. T. Wilbur, as these gentlemen were not only for many years connected with the company of which the late Mr. Dewitt was the head, but they also had close personal and social relations with this excellent gentleman, which they will always remember with deep pleasure. The circumstances of the case are such that it is but natural that they should be touched with genuine sorrow at his sad death. The deceased was a nephew of Peter Dewitt, of Somerville.

—M. B. Leavitt's Own Company will present the celebrated spectacle, "Spider and Fly" in Music Hall Monday night, with new scenery, new costumes, pretty maidens, funny comedians, and new features, which embrace many novelties.

—Justice Nash utterly denies that he refused to take any case against Charles Hand's female book-agent. Everyone in Plainfield knows that the Judge never does anything but what is right. The Judge simply has n't been asked to take the case stated.

A Few Honest Suggestions Which Should Be Appreciated.

All tooth powders practically contain the same ingredients, namely, chalk, castile soap, etc., with some flavoring. We use in the manufacture of Royal Tooth Powder the best English prepared chalk, the finest English Castile soap, delicately flavored. Your dentist will tell you these substances are perfectly harmless and accomplish all that is to be expected from a tooth powder. A full 2-ounce package of this unexcelled article (same as is usually sold for 25c. under other names, but which we retail for 10c.) will be given with each $1 purchase and upwards. People of correct ideas will appreciate this offer but some will say: "We never use tooth powder." Those who do use it, however, can be distinguished from those who don't, as the rose can be distinguished from the dandelion. This will seem cruel to some, but duty compels us to speak plainly. The "Royal" is being received everywhere, and jobbers compliment us with their duplicate orders. A trial of Royal Tooth Powder will delight you. J. C. ALLEN, Plainfield, N. J.

"SPIDER AND FLY."

Gorgeous Entertainment Provided for the Labor Holiday.

M. B. Leavitt's great and superb spectacle, "Spider and Fly", will be presented at Music Hall next Monday night. The production this year is an entirely new one, and is known as the Second Edition. Many novelties secured from both hemispheres have been added. The scenery, of which there are two car loads, is all brand-new, as are also the mechanical and electric effects. The costumes, which are magnificent, were made by London's famous costumer, Charles Alias. Some are an exact reproduction of the gorgeous ballet produced at the Grand Opera House, Paris, last winter. The play itself has been rewritten and up to date, and all the music will be new. The play contains everything which tends to pass an enjoyable evening and please the senses. A grand scenic effect is immediately followed by some new and artistic specialty, then comes a song which is succeeded by a superb ballet, the whole interspersed with comedy and aided by magnificent surroundings, and one thing following another so fast during the evening that the eye is fairly dazzled. With such a combination of attractions it is easy to account for the tremendous success which the "Spider and Fly" has had wherever it has appeared. This will not only be the fifth season but also the last. After this year the company play in London and other principal cities in Europe.

The Best They Ever Saw.

James Force, formerly of this city, is favored with gratifying and deserving praise in The Caterer and Hotel Proprietors' Gazette, of New York, which says: Proprietor Force, of the Mansion House, Bound Brook, has one of the finest country hotels it has ever been our good fortune to inspect. Everything is in apple-pie order, and the table is exceptionally good. Mr. Force has been in Bound Brook only a year, but the way he has boomed the Mansion House is surprising. Mr. Force is an enthusiastic sportsman, and would go all day to get a shot at a game bird.

Board of Education Will Not Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education which was to be held Monday has been postponed on account of the illness of some members of the Board and the absence of other members from the city. The date of the postponed meeting has not yet been fixed, but will be announced in the columns of The Press as soon as decided on.

Successful Field Day of the Pastime Athletic Club—All the Town Boys Interested in the Events, and the Best of Them Took Part—Many Prizes Distributed.

The Pastime Athletic Club held its first annual field day for boys under 17 years of age, yesterday. It was in every way a great success. About three hundred people were at the corner of Berckman street and South avenue, to see the sports. The bicycle races were ridden on South avenue, the running races were contested on Berckman street, and the jumping and shot-putting were done in a field near by.

The bicycle races were all won by Volney Green, a lad of 14, who started from scratch in every race. He also won the high jump and the prize for the greatest number of points.

Fred Shroder, a boy of 15, won all the foot races easily, and won the third prize for points. He ran in elegant form.

George Smith easily won the shot-putting contest, and the three standing broad jumps. He also won the second prize for points.

Tom Smith won the running broad jump, and the running hop step and jump.

There were 24 entries, as follows:

1. C. Thorn.	13. W. Cornwall.
2. W. Thorn.	14. B. Honeyman.
3. F. Shroder.	15. J. Keefe.
4. A. Crane.	16. W. Sebring.

7. N. Probasco.	19. T. Smith.
8. H. Martin.	20. S. Titsworth.

10. I. Smith.	22. J. LaBoyteaux.
11. E. Ovington.	23. B. Runyon.
12. H. Smith.	24. W. Kitchen.

Of these, numbers 1, 2, 8, 9, 10 and 18 took no part.

A few minutes past 2, the first event was started, and the others followed without much intermission. The results:

I. 100-yards dash—First, F. Shroder. Second, B. Honeyman. Third, N. Probasco. Time—12 seconds.

There were four starters.

II. Half-mile bicycle—First, V. Green. Second, G. Smith. Third, W. Kitchen. Time—1.31¼.

W. Kitchen fell from his wheel at the turn, but for which he would probably have been a winner. There were six starters.

III. Putting the shot—First, G. Smith, 26 feet. Second, N. Probasco, 22 feet, 10 inches. Third, B. Honeyman, 19 feet, 8 inches.

Smith won without an effort.

IV. Five-mile bicycle race, handicap.
1. V. Green, scratch. Time—15.31.
2. J. Keefe, 2½ min. Time—18.36.
3. E. Ovington, 1½ min. Time—17.35.
4. B. Runyon, 2 min. Time—18.20.

9. W. Cornwall, 1 min. Time—17.37.
10. H. Smith, 1½ min.
11. G. Smith, scratch.
12. W. Kitchen, scratch.
13. B. Honeyman, 2 min.

This was by far the best event of the day. Green outclassed every other starter, winning both the first and time prizes. B. Honeyman will receive a leather medal for being the last to finish.

V. Three standing broad jumps—First, G. Smith, 24 feet 11 inches. Second, N. Probasco, 23 feet 6 inches. Third, J. LaBoyteaux, 22 feet 11 inches.

VI. One mile bicycle—First, V. Green, scratch. Time—2.56. Second, A. Crane, scratch. Time—3.01. Third, W. Cornwall, 25 yards. Time—3.04.

The mile was measured again and found to be seventy-three yards short.

VII. Running hop, step and jump—First, T. Smith, 37 feet 1¾ inches. Second, J. LaBoyteaux. Third, B. Honeyman.

VIII. 440 yards run—First, F. Shroder, 5 yards, 61⅘ seconds. Second, J. LaBoyteaux. Third, B. Honeyman.

X. Two mile bicycle—First, V. Green, scratch. Time—6.03. Second, T. Smith, 20 seconds. Time—7.26.

No others finished. Green's right position was scratch with A. Crane, but the judges decided that he was much too fast company for him, and so Green was put back ten seconds, but was soon ahead of the whole field.

XI. Running broad jump—First, T. Smith, 12 feet 1½ inches. Second, J. LaBoyteaux, 14 feet 11½ inches. Third, G. Smith, 14 feet 7⅛ inches.

XII. Half mile run — First, F. Shroder, scratch. Time—2.50.

No other finishers.

The prizes were given out at 7 p. m., at A. B. Crane's house as follows:

V. GREEN.

Lantern, from Rogers, first five mile bicycle; spoon, from VanEmburgh & Son, time five mile bicycle; cane from Doane, first two mile bicycle; luggage carrier, from Mague & Co., first half-mile bicycle; suspenders, from Crane's, first high jump; napkinring, from Club, first one mile bicycle; sweater, from Club, for the most points.

SHRODER.

Catchers mit, from Harper's, first 440 yards run; one dozen ice-cream sodas, from Randolph's, first half-mile run; one dozen tooth powder, from Allen's, third prize for points; napkinring, from Club, first one hundred yards dash.

KEEFE.

Knife from Heideloff, second five-mile bicycle race.

White donated 7 doz. safety pins to pin on the numbers. Wm. Waters did all engraving on the prizes free. Doane gave the use of his store window. According to points the boys were in this order:

1. V. Green, 26.
2. G. Smith, 13.
3. F. Shroder, 9.
4. T. Smith, 8.
J. LaBoyteaux, 8.
5. N. Probasco, 5.
6. B. Honeyman, 4.
7. A. Crane, 2.
J. Keefe, 2.
8. E. Ovington, 1.
W. Cornwall, 1.
W. Kitchen, 1.

It will be seen that Green easily outclassed everyone else. He says that he surprised even himself. One of the riders remarked that if "Zimmie" had been there he would have met his Waterloo. The officers of the day were:

Starter—N. Titsworth.
Scorers—H. Drake, W. West, E. Serrell.
Judges—T. Cumming, S. C. Crane, C. Morse.
Timers—D. Stevens, D. C. Adams.

The Committee of Arrangements, A. Wagner and A. Crane, did most of the work, and in spite of the fact that they received little encouragement until a few days before the field day, they pushed faithfully on to happy culmination of their hopes.

DR. RIPLEY'S TRIBUTE.

What He Thought of His Friend and Neighbor, Warren Ackerman.

(From The Westfield Leader.)

Warren Ackerman, aged sixty-eight, and for more than thirty years a resident of Union county, died at his residence, Scotch Plains, on Saturday last, 26 inst., of paralysis. Mr. Ackerman was much esteemed in our community and most so by those who knew him most immediately. Retiring in his manner, a man of few words, always busy, he was known as well as the average man of affairs, considering the large interests he represented in Union county and elsewhere. He was observing in his contact with men and business. He was prudent and conservative. He was scrupulous, governed by high moral principles in all matters of business. He was to be found on the right side, as he understood the right.

Warren Ackerman was regarded as the largest land-owner in the county, possessed of about 3,000 acres at the time of his death. He was believed to be a millionaire and more. He was a useful member of society, aiding, in many ways, to promote the prosperity of this section of the country. He was early an advocate of improved public roads, and was one of those who built and maintained good roads at his own expense. He purchased many farms, often in a very poor state of cultivation and repair, and bettered their productiveness and appearance. He took in hand the Deserted Village of Feltville, and made it blossom like the rose. The loss of Mr. Ackerman will be felt more and more, as we consider what he was, and what he did.

CHAUNCEY B. RIPLEY.

"Hoss & Hoss" Pleased Everybody.

In Stillman Music Hall last evening "Hoss and Hoss" made a decided hit. As was proper at this time of year, the play was not deep in plot, but light and at times irresistibly funny.

Louise Allen Collier in her dreamy Ostrich Dance, won hearty applause. Sherman Wade as Lawyer Charlie Hoss was side-splitting. The only Willie Collier played the part of Judge Hoss with an exquisitely grave humor that proclaimed him a genius. His serious rendering of parodies of popular songs easily won the audience. The dancing and singing were excellent throughout the play. It was plainly evident to all present that Manager Demarest has this year engaged a high and costly class of attractions and that the house is assured of another successful season.

The audience last evening was a large one for so early in the year.

Gus Frazee's Change of Base.

Augustus M. Frazee, Plainfield's veteran expressman in the package express service, has changed his headquarters from the store of Druggist R. J. Shaw to Laire Bros' hardware house. Mr. Frazee has had his office in the store occupied by Mr. Shaw for fully forty years, having been there when the old drug firm of Gaston & Sutphen had possession, prior to 1869, in which year Mr. Shaw took the store.

Mr. Frazee deeply appreciates the uniform kindness and courtesy of Mr. Shaw, and the many favors shown him by that gentleman during their long stay under the same roof.

Plainfield's Handsome Sir Knights Were There.

A number of Sir Knights from Trinity Commandery, of Plainfield, yesterday went to Asbury Park to participate in the annual field day exercises of the Knights Templar of New Jersey.

The delegation passed a delightful day at the seashore, having a representative in the grand parade, which took place in the afternoon along Asbury avenue.

The gentlemen who comprised the delegation were W. H. Sebring, Asa Collier, T. H. Keller, John Ulrich, H. Woodland and H. Liefke.

Oh, But They'll Have a Happy Time!

The Grocers Picnic to Papiac, (Boynton Beach), Labor Day, promises to be the usual notable affair. Thousands of ears of green corn, immense numbers of clams for the clambake, and quantities of other provisions such as will surely tempt the palates of picnicers, will be contributed by the public-spirited tradesmen who are determined to make the picnic an unparalleled success.

The Great Billy Daley Comes to Town.

Manager Keller has secured Billy Daley of Poughkeepsie to play on the Crescents tomorrow and Monday. Daley is a great left-handed pitcher, a sharp infielder, and a heavy hitter. He and Keenan will alternate at pitching and covering second base.

It Cost Keeley $8.

Patrick Keeley, who before Judge Coddington in the City Court yesterday pleaded non vult to the charge of being drunk and disorderly at Thompson's stables, was this morning brought before the Judge and fined $8.

That Tie Race Next Week.

Coffin and Willis won't race off the Plainfield Lyceum tie tomorrow, but next week Saturday instead. The cause is that Coffin's wheel is still at the factory for repairs.

—The Credenda wheel, which Rogers sells, was the winner in yesterday's races.

—The Common Council will meet in special session Tuesday evening. No meeting will be held Monday night.

A MODERN EPISODE.

She Still Clung to the Doll She Had Taken Away With Her.

CHAPTER I.

"Nancy, there's only one thing to be done with this child!"

The voice of Mr. Licklaider had that strong, vibrant, masculine quality that frequently asserts itself when the official head of the family is addressing his wife.

"We must send her away to school," continued Mr. Licklaider. "A city like this is no place to bring up children."

"I don't see that Gussie is so very much worse than other children, Silas," piped Mrs. Licklaider.

"Oh, you don't!" retorted Silas. "You don't hear her whistling about the house a hundred times a day, don't you? You can't see that she talks in the dialect of the stockyards, walks with a John L. Sullivan swagger, spends the money we give her for Sunday school purposes in buying ice cream soda, and chews gum on the sly?"

"She's about like other girls of her age, Silas."

"Yes, about like other girls of her age in this town! That's what I said, madam. This is no place for children to grow up in."

"Where do want to send her?"

"To some first class eastern school for girls. I know of one."

CHAPTER II.

"I'll go, mamma," sobbed Gussie. "I'll go away off to that nasty, horrid school and I'll be a good girl if you'll only let me buy that nice, great big doll I saw in Hunker & Spatt's window down town this morning!"

"What do you want of that doll?"

"I want to take it along with me. I won't get so lonesome maybe. I'll dress it every morning just as careful! It'll seem like one of the family, and I shan't get homesick."

The doll was bought, packed in Gussie's trunk, and when the fateful day of her departure came 12-year-old Gussie, smiling through her tears, kissed mother, big brother and little sister goodby and went away with the paternal Licklaider on an east bound train.

CHAPTER III.

"How you have grown, Gussie! Have the three years been long ones, dear?"

"Awfully, mamma! You don't know how strict they are with us. Watch us like hawks. Never let us go anywhere without some of them being along to take care of us. Study, study, study—that's the way it is all the time."

"That's the way it ought to be," interposed Mr. Licklaider in the calm, assured manner of one whose judgment time has fully vindicated. "The way to train up a wild girl is to send her to some place where they know how to do that sort of thing."

"You soon got tired of that doll, didn't you, Gussie?"

"Tired of it? Indeed I didn't, mamma. I've got it yet. It's in my trunk. But it's old and all out of shape. I'll take it up stairs and put it away."

Hurriedly opening her trunk, she lifted out the precious doll. It slipped from her fingers and fell to the floor. Mr. Licklaider picked it up. Something in its appearance struck him as curious, and he proceeded to inspect. There was a flap on the back buttoned up. He unbuttoned it and examined the doll on the inside.

It was full of cigarettes.—Chicago Tribune.

FIXING THE BLAME.

Conflicting Testimony as to Who Is Responsible for the Long Island Railroad Wreck.

NEWTOWN, L. I., Sep. 1.—The inquest before coroner Brandon on the Long Island railroad accident at Berlia village on Saturday night was continued yesterday at the court house in New own village.

William Smith, of 78 Linden street, Brooklyn, who was visiting his father-in-law, Charles DeBevoise, whose houses is very close to the track and quite near where the accident happened, said that the fog on that night lay near the ground, and was not high enough to obscure the signal lights. He saw the Manhattan Beach train standing on the track and saw it start to go ahead. By the time two of the cars of the Manhattan Beach train had passed the signal tower the light turned to signify danger. He saw the Rockaway train coming. It was approaching at a great rate of speed. At the time the red light appeared the Rockaway train was about 1,000 feet from the place of the collision.

P. Finley, the conductor of the Rockaway train that ran into the Manhattan Beach train, testified that he asked his engineer how he did it. All the engineer replied that he never saw the train till just before he struck it. He showed on the diagram where the brakeman of the Manhattan Beach train should have been, but he was not there. Vacuum brakes were used on his train.

John C. Moll testified that he was the conductor on the Manhattan Beach train. When his train stopped at the place of the accident a brakeman went back in order to warn any other train. The man went back two or three hundred yards. When signal to go ahead the orders his head brakeman first to go back to the rear of the train and left the other brakeman behind.

HIGHER INTEREST.

Big Insurance Companies Advance the Rate on Mortgages.

NEW YORK, Sep. 1.—The large life insurance companies which have their head offices in this city have decided to advance the rate of interest on bond and mortgage loans to six per cent., beginning in most cases to day.

Two of them have already sent out notices to this effect to their debtors on bond and real estate security, and a third will do so before the close of this week. The first to take this action was the New York Life Insurance Company. The Mutual Life Company followed very little later. The Equitable Life has not so much out on bond and mortgages as the two former companies, but it was learned that a similar advance will be made by it within a few days.

Other smaller companies either have had their notices out or will send them before long, so that the interest on a total $100,000,000 of maturing loans will be increased about 1 per cent.

The rates of interest heretofore prevailing have varied from 4 1-2 to 5 and 5 1-2 per cent. with all the companies, according to the location of the property. At the office of one of the companies which has already adopted this course, it was said that the rate was raised simply because the demand for loans on bond and mortgage security had increased so greatly of late.

"FOUND WANTING."

Jeanne d'Arc lacked an education;
Pompadour lacked depth of mind;
Maintenon lacked toleration;
Esther might have been more kind.

Hebrew Sarah lacked humaneness;
Good Octavia wanted wit;
Greek Xantippe lacked urbaneness;
Eliot wasn't chic a bit.

Cleopatra lacked humility;
Ruth was minus worldly wealth;
Bess of England lacked civility;
Saint Thgresa lacked in health.

Marie's perfect, but, you see,
Lacks, in toto, love for me. —Vogue.

He Got There.

The diffident young man had wanted to propose to the girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to get about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance, he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied. She stuck out her pretty little boot with a smile, looked down at it, and he fell on his knees and tied the lace.

Then he walked on with her, and the shoe became untied again. Shoes do that with great persistency, it seems, especially these summer shoes. The third time it happened he was ready, as before.

"See if you can't tie a knot that will stick," she said as he worked away at it.

He looked up at her tenderly.

"If I can't, I know a man who can," he said.

"Do you want him to tie it?" she asked coquettishly.

"Yes," he replied.

She jerked her foot away.

He smiled to himself.

"It's the parson," he said, and he rose to his feet and finished the work.—Detroit Free Press.

Couldn't Trust Himself.

A young Richmond man who was traveling in Hanover a few days ago got a young negro to watch his horse, as there was an engine nearly ready to start. When in the store a few minutes, the boy came in.

"I can't watch yo' hoss no longer, boss," said he anxiously.

"Is that engine there yet?" asked the traveler.

"Yessir."

"Well, go and watch him. I'll be there in 15 minutes, and I'll give you a quarter."

"Deed I can't, boss," he insisted. "I'se got to go an go powahful quick."

"What's the matter?" he asked, considerably provoked.

"Well, you see, boss," said he earnestly, "it's dish yer way: A man drov up by yo' hoss wid a wagon load of ripe watermillions an ax me to watch 'em fer him while he go ter de blacksmith shop, an I done tole him I would, but I hain't got de strength to stan hit, boss, 'deed I hain't. I jis' got 'ligion las' week, an ef I stays roun whar dem millions is an nobody a-lookin sumpin's goin ter happen, sho', an dis chile doan' want ter be backslidin, fo' he's got a fair start, boss; 'deed he doan'. Yo' better get a pillar of de church, boss, to do dat watchin'ez long ez dem watermillions is in sight."—Richmond State.

Both Good.

Two reasons why a girl should not go in bathing.—Brooklyn Life.

Here and There.

"Did I understand ye to read that there was up'ards o' 240,000 folks at that Chicago show in one day, Ezry?" inquired Uncle Tobias Slocum of his son.

"Them was the figgers," responded Ezra solemnly.

"An there wa'n't no crowd, even then?" asked Uncle Tobias, after a pause.

"No crowd anywher's," said Ezra.

There was a long silence, broken only by the fluttering of the newspaper in Ezra's hand as the breeze flew in at the window.

"Well," said Uncle Tobias at last, "I ain't prepared to doubt the papers, an I know they've got a powerful lot o' land set apart fer that show, but it does appear to me that if 'tdben on hand along with them 240,000 folks I sh'd have calculated that there'd be here an there a man!"—Youth's Companion.

Why, Oh, Why—

My sisters, do you suffer so?
You have suffered so long you think there is no relief, yet relief is close at hand if you will only accept it with the faith that has saved thousands.

You may have displacement of the womb, or some form of ovarian trouble; small tumors may be forming in the uterus, or you may be approaching "the change of life."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound goes straight to the seat of trouble, dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus, removes backache, and invigorates the entire system.

"Under its influence I gained 53 pounds. I know its value, and proclaim it best in the world. It will cure you, for it cured me, and a number of my friends also." — Ida B. Butcher, Clearfield St., Phila.

DELAY IN THE SENATE

An Unsuccessful Effort to Expedite Legislation.

FURTHER INACTION IN THE HOUSE

The Banking and Currency Committee Think of Burying the Intercovertible Bond Bill—Proposed Attempt to Find an Elastic Currency.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—The House bill to repeal the purchasing clauses of the Sherman act got fairly under way yesterday in the Senate. It was taken up early in the morning hour in order to give an opportunity to Mr. Vance of North Carolina to make a speech against it. Mr. Vance is one of the Democratic minority members of the Finance Committee, and for an hour and forty minutes he kept his batteries of wit, humor and sarcasm playing upon the measure and upon the members of his own party who support and advocate it. When he got through his entertaining speech an effort was made to simplify the further parliamentary line of proceeding in the consideration of the bill by the committee's substitute adopted pro forma, so that all amendments to be offered to be amendments in the first degree, instead of in the second degree, which would tend to smooth and simplify matters.

That proposition did not, however, suit the ideas or plans of Mr. Cockrell (Dem., Mo.) who objected to it, and, as it required unanimous consent, it failed, of course, to be adopted.

From that point on to the point of going into executive session a confused rambling colloquy was carried on between Mr. Cockrell and some Republican Senators involving the question of adhesion or repudiation of the Chicago Democratic platform. The discussion was not ended when adjournment took place till to-day.

In executive session the Senate confirmed a large batch of nominations.

Nothing Done in the House.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—The rules which will govern the proceedings of the present House were again discussed yesterday without attracting much attention, although at times the House was on the verge of a partisan debate. But in each instance good humor took the place of bad blood and the clash of parties was averted. No change of importance was made in the new code, and without concluding its consideration the House at 5 o'clock adjourned.

An Elastic Currency.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—The House Banking and Currency Committee considered the intercovertible bond bill yesterday. Unless some form of currency can be devised which shall be used for exchange for bonds as proposed, and not for the purpose of attacking the gold reserve of the treasury, the probabilities are that the bill will not be reported from the committee. Some of the members of the committee are in favor of entering upon an exhaustive investigation into the needs of the country respecting an entire revision of its financial and banking systems. They have in view especially the preparation of some scheme to supplant or supplement the national bank currency when the basis of the present issue shall be narrowed too far for the demands of the country by the withdrawal or retirement of the Government bonds. These members will suggest at the proper time an inquiry by the aid of experts, which will enable the committee to rise to opportunities presented by the present financial situation of devising a policy or system that shall provide an elastic currency and thereby put an end to such panics as that through which the country has just passed.

BRIBERY AT THE FAIR.

Evidence that Money is on Deposit Awaiting Promised Awards.

CHICAGO, Sep. 2.—John Boyd Thatcher threw a little light yesterday on the charges of bribery and solicitation of bribes by judges of awards. He said that he had in his possession documentary evidence which tended to implicate H. E. Hardt, who styles himself a pleader. In a circular sent out ostensibly by this man the statement is made that he has had experience in connection with obtaining awards at previous expositions. His specialty is pleading before juries in any department for awards for certain exhibitors. A copy of this circular is in Chairman Thatcher's possession. He also says he has proof in the form of a letter that money has been placed in escrow in certain Chicago banks by exhibitors or their agents to be paid to Hardt if they received an award. This evidence has been gathered by secret service detectives and will be presented to the national commission for its use when it is complete.

RACINE, Wis., Sep. 2.—For the last few days anarchistic posters have been tacked on the dead walls about the city. Nearly 3,000 men are out of employment and several labor meetings have been addressed by Robert Schilling of Milwaukee. The posters were headed "Words from God," and told "Starving working people" to "dump the millionaire mayor, Jackson L. Case, into the lake with the rest of the millionaires" and "take their money and buy bread." Mayor Case has received several in his mail.

CHOLERA ON SHORE

A Case Officially Reported at Jersey City.

ORIGIN OF THE DISEASE UNKNOWN

The Patient Had Been Working on Sewers—Thorough Quarantine Established From the First and No Spread of the Disease Apprehended.

NEW YORK, Sep. 2.—The discovery of the spirillum of cholera in cultures made from the discharges of the dead and living patients in Jersey City was announced to the Board of Health yesterday by Prof. Biggs, the bacteriologist of the Health Department. A hint of what was to be revealed brought many sanitarians to Sanitary Headquarters. Among them were the Jersey City Health Board, Prof. Hunter of the New Jersey State Board of Health, Health Officer Jenkins, Dr. A. H. Doty, Sanitary Superintendent C. F. Roberts, and Commissioners Edson and Williams. In the afternoon a statement was given out that the case of Martin Crowe, who died at the City Hospital, Jersey City, after examination by Dr. Doty, Chief Inspector of contagious diseases, has been determined to be one of Asiatic cholera.

The case of Mrs. Rhoda Black is still under investigation.

Crowe, who was a man without any permanent home, had been working in Jersey City, and died Aug. 30. He had been in the hospital only two days when he died. The case excited suspicion and the New York experts were called. The result was that Dr. Biggs found the spirillum of cholera in the material furnished by Dr. Doty.

Dr. Jenkins was notified, and with Dr. Edson went to Jersey City. They went with the intention of tracing the origin of the disease. After working all night on the case Dr. Jenkins and Dr. Edson said yesterday that they were unable to account for the manner in which Crowe contracted cholera. Dr Edson remarked that the fact of his having worked in sewers was perhaps the only clew.

The Mrs. Rhoda Black, who lives at No. 83 Fiske avenue, Jersey City, mentioned in the statement given out by the Health officials, is a neighbor of the Lewis's in whose house Mrs. Ann Lewis died last week after eating crabs. Three others in the same neighborhood who had feasted on crabs in Mrs. Lewis's house died about the same time. She visited Mrs. Lewis's house, but according to her story did not eat any crabs. According to the opinion of Health Inspector Benjamin, it is hardly probable that she has cholera.

As soon as Crowe's case became suspicious in the hospital, he was quarantined and the health authorities feel confident that no secondary case will follow.

President Wilson and Dr. Jenkins would not say just what quarantine regulations had been decided upon.

An emergency hospital large enough to accommodate 100 patients has been established a mile out on the meadows. Dr. George Keeler and Jane Ferrol, a trained nurse, are in charge. The first patient was received there at seven o'clock last evening. He was Albert McParland, a tinsmith, 25 years old, who lives at 228 Slater street, Paterson. He came to look for work and was found sick in the street and was hustled off to the emergency hospital as a suspect. Later Dr. Keeler concluded it was beer and not cholera and McParland will probably be sent home today.

Surgeon General Wyman and Dr. P. H. Bailhache, of the service, and Chief Surgeon Joseph J. Kingoun, of Quarantine, have been for two days collecting data and statistics in connection with the cholera cases.

Health Officer Jenkins, of New York City, is in consultation with the local health authorities.

A conference was held at Jersey City police headquarters last evening to devise means for stamping out cholera. Acting Mayor Simpson said the city had a cholera fund of $30,000, left from last year, which it was ready to expend. It was also ready to cooperate with the Federal Government and the State of New York.

Surgeon General Wyman said the Government would do all it could to stamp out the disease and would furnish money. It was decided measurably to quarantine the city. General Wyman will have charge of the railroads and Dr. Jenkins of the water front.

Dr. Bond, of New York, will be put in charge of the city's sanitary work.

President Feeney said the case of William Norton, the first victim, had been traced to some fruit imported from Smyrna.

FABULOUS PROFITS.

Seventy Dollars a Share Paid on Chicago City Railway Stock.

CHICAGO, Sep. 2.—Directors of the Chicago City Railway Company, at their regular quarterly meeting, declared dividends on the stock which constitute an aggregate almost unparalleled in the history of dividend paying enterprises. They ordered the payment of a regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. and an extra dividend of 2 per cent., both of course, in cash. In addition they voted to distribute $4,500,000 in "Alley L" stock to stockholders and also to divide among them $3,000,000 of "Alley L" bonds. With "Alley L" stock figured on a basis of $70 a share, and the bonds of that company estimated at $88, the dividends declared amount to nearly $70 a share.

THE HOWLAND CASE.

No Signs of Murder and Suicide Uncertain.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sep. 2.—The autopsy on the body of Eben Howland, which was found in a marl pit at Poplar, about five miles from here, shows that the body was in an advanced state of decomposition. The remains had evidently been in the water four or five days. The wounds on the dead man's face had apparently been made by fish. In the course of the autopsy the skull was examined, but no wounds were discovered except a slight abrasion of the scalp, and the lungs were full of water, showing that Mr. Howland met his death by drowning. Rigor mortis had not set in. The body was so greatly swollen that it was impossible to identify it except by the clothing and articles found on it. The general opinion here is that Howland committed suicide during a fit of temporary aberation of mind. Dr. Brown, who performed the autopsy, was well acquainted with the dead man and says that the latter had shown signs of of senile dementia for some time. Howland, Dr. Brown believes, wandered toward Poplar, where his old homestead is situated, and fell into the marl bit and was drowned.

RUNNING BEHIND.

Uncle Sam's Expenses in Two Months Exceed His Income $17,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—The official comparative statement of the receipts and expenditures of the United States, issued in detail from the Treasury Department, show that the receipts for August were $7,000,000 less than for July, while the expenditures were $6,000,000 less. The expenditures for the two months of the present fiscal year exceeded the receipts $17,000,000. This excess had to be drawn from the Treasury available cash which was reduced of course, just that amount, or at the rate of $8,500,000 per month.

The statement shows one significant decrease in the item of pensions which were $4,000,000 less than were the payments under this head in July.

The bird was liberated on Saturday, Aug. 5, at 10:30 a. m., and has made the trip of 1,183 miles in 26 days, which is the world's record for a female bird. Johanna was bred by Mr. Bowers and is of the same stock as Darby and Joseph, his two male birds who hold the world's record, made over the same course.

THE H-O COMPANY, NEW YORK.

WRONG SIGNAL.

The Coroner's Jury Hold Towerman Robert Knott Responsible for the Long Island Wreck.

NEWTOWN, N. Y., Sep. 2.—The inquest on the Long Island railroad collision at Berlin Saturday night last was continued before Coroner Brandon and Railroad Commissioners Richards and Beardsley.

James McCormic said that he was the rear brakeman on the Manhattan Beach train that was run into. When they stopped he saw a red signal and went back 400 or 500 feet. He looked around and saw a white light in tower No. 5 and was then signalled by the engineer to return, and did so. He did not watch the tower light signal as he ran back and did not have time to go back far enough to place a torpedo on the track, according to the rules of the railroad company, before he was signalled to return to his train. After being called back, and after reaching his train, he heard the whistle of the Rockaway train. He then started to go back again and had got about six or seven car lengths from his train when the collision came.

T. Budden, brakeman of the Rockaway train at the time of the collision, said that if he went back and was signalled to return before he had gone three-fourths of a mile he would place a couple of torpedoes on the track on his own judgment, even if he had gone back only 100 feet when he was signalled to return.

Hugh O'Neill, night watchman at Harman's tin factory, testified that he did not see any brakeman go back from the Manhattan train and that he could not have gone back more than ten or fifteen feet or he would have seen him. His testimony was to the effect that little attention was paid to signals and incompetent were employed in the tower.

The man in the tower back of where the accident occurred, testified that he asked the towerman of the tower ahead three times if his block was clear and he answered back twice that it was not clear and the third time it was. "I signalled him that the Rockaway train had entered, which he answered by one bell. After the collision, and I heard a crash, the towerman in No. 5 gave me five bells that the track was not clear."

Knott, who is the towerman at tower No. 5, was instructed by Coroner Brandon as he had similarly instructed all the train hands under arrest, that he need not testify to anything that he thought would incriminate him and he declined to testify at all.

The jury considered the case over an hour and returned the following verdict: "We find that the 18 persons killed in the collision came to their death by shock caused by a collision between a Rockaway Beach train and a Manhattan Beach train on the night of August 26, 1893, at a point between signal blocks Nos. five and six of the Long Island Railroad, and we find that their death was due to the criminal negligence of Robert J. Knott, employed by the Long Island Railroad Company as a towerman at tower No. 5 on the night of the collision. We exonerate from all responsibility the train crews of both trains and also the towerman at tower No. 6. We censure the practice of the Long Island Railroad Company of recalling a brakeman, who had gone back from a train stopped for any cause upon a portion of the road where trains are run under a very short headway, the safety of which trains depends upon the watchfulness of a single towerman."

Knott is in jail.

LEHIGH HERSELF AGAIN.

Old Officers Back in Their Former Positions.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 3.—Negotiations that have been pending for some time between officials of the Reading and the Lehigh Valley railroads have about closed, and the latter will transfer its offices to the Reading's Market Street station in this city. This action disposes of all rumors about alliances with other roads and shows that the traffic arrangements between the two will remain undisturbed.

The position in the Board of Directors of the Lehigh Valley made vacant by the resignation of George C. Thomas has been tendered to General Traffic Manager John Taylor, and it is probable that he will accept it.

Mr. Taylor yesterday issued an order restoring all the Lehigh Valley officials to the positions and titles held by them before the alliance with the Reading. This is a formality, and makes only one change in title—that of J. Heckman, Assistant General Freight Agent, who will be General Freight Agent.

STRIKE IMPENDING.

Continued Dissatisfaction Among New York & New England Employes.

HARTFORD, Ct., Sept. 2.—It is reported from East Hartford that there is every indication that the New York & New England employes—trainmen, shopmen, clerks and telegraph operators—will go on strike. The feeling is intense that the cut of 10 per cent made by President McLeod is unnecessary, and the more the men consider it the more settled their determination appears to be.

The committee now in Boston to confer with President McLeod has full authority to decide the matter without reference to any board of arbitration. The men, in conversation, say that unless McLeod gives the committee some positive assurance as to when wages will be restored to the old figures they will not accept the cut, but will strike.

A Bloody Crime.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sep. 2.—August Fiago, of Elizabethport, attempted to kill his wife yesterday by cutting her on the head with a cleaver. He then cut his own throat with a butcher knife. The woman will recover, but Fiago will probably die. The couple quarrelled and the woman had made a complaint against her husband of non-support.

BABIES ARE SICK.

AN UNPRECEDENTED NUMBER OF DEATHS.

Prevalence of Diarrhoea and Cholera Infantum—Ignorance of Mothers the First Cause—Physicians Advise the Use of Lactated Food—Infants Thrive Best Upon It and It Is Easy To Get.

There was never a time for mothers to be more careful than now.

Nearly a third of the deaths in Chicago for a month past have been deaths of babies! Chicago is not an exception. Diarrhoea and cholera infantum are now more prevalent in every city in the country than ever before at this season.

The cause of this state of affairs is improper feeding.

Half the deaths in July, August and September every year are of children under five years old. Yet it was never intended; and the investigation of health societies everywhere has shown that there is no reason but the ignorance and carelessness of mothers, for such an abnormal loss of life in early years.

Mothers whose breast-milk is faulty should understand that lactated food is the food that is nearer mother's milk than any other. And they should never fail to use it in preference to any other. It has been shown in every investigation that babies fed upon lactated food live longer and thrive better than those brought up on other diet. Lactated food makes vigorous, well-nourished, active babies when other foods fail. It contains the very elements for easy, perfect nutrition. Long trial has shown it to be perfectly adapted to the age of growth when the digestive organs are making enormous demands to meet the needs of growth and development.

"For upwards of 8 years, I have been familiar with lactated food," says the well-known Boston physician, Dr. C. P. Thayer, "and my immediate professional friends and myself have it always at hand. One cause of the high esteem of the food among physicians lies in the known cleanliness, and scrupulous care used in its preparation.

In lactated food the combination of the necessary elements of pure, healthy mother's milk is accomplished. Using pure milk sugar as a basis, there is combined with it the richest elements of barley, wheat and oats which by long subjection to high steam heat under pressure have been perfectly cooked. Combined with the other elements of the food, the result is a homogeneous product that is easily assimilated by the feeblest stomach.

Infants thrive upon it; they grow plump strong, bright-eyed and clear-skinned.

The child who is puny, pale and sallow is likely to become an adult of inferior mental and physical powers. The child that is brought up on lactated food starts life with everything in favor of health. Physicians of all schools recommend lactated food; thousands of mothers who have used it praise it; babies like it; it is within the reach of simple homes.

GRAND ARMY.

One Hundred Thousand Veterans Will Meet Next Week in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sep. 2.—The extensive and elaborate arrangements for the meeting of the Grand Army National Encampment next week have been completed.

The attendance of members is estimated at from 75,000 to 100,000, and free quarters in temporary barracks and school buildings have been provided for 25,000. The railroads, as usual, have given lower rates for this than for any other event of the year, and it is probable that there will be 200,000 visitors in the city during the week.

The city has been within the past few days elaborately decorated, and the streets are fluttering wildernesses of bunting, flags and various emblems of the G. A. R. and kindred organizations.

The ceremonies begin Saturday morning, when the annual reunion of the Naval Veterans' Association takes place, and the model of the Kearsarge, which has been erected in the capitol grounds, is put in commission. The Grand Army people will arrive during Saturday night and Sunday.

BIG FAILURE.

Many Millions of Liabilities—Could Not Collect Interest on Loans.

NEW YORK, Sep. 2.—On the application of the New York Security & Trust Company in the United States Southern District Court, the Equitable Mortgage Company has been placed in the hands of receivers.

The capital is $2,100,000 and surplus $800,000.

No statement of the liabilities is made, but there have been issued $4,680,500 debentures.

The following is the only statement the officers of the company care to make for the present.

"Owing to the continued stringency in the money market, and our consequent inability to dispose of securities, or to collect interest and maturing loans, we have been compelled to suspend temporarily."

James E. Clifford, of New York city and Charles N. Fowler, president of the company, have been appointed receivers by the United States Circuit Court.

The company had offices at No. 10 Wall street. The company made a specialty of real estate mortgage business chiefly in New England, the Western and Southern States.

AN IDEAL COMMUNITY.

Bellamy's "Looking Backward" to Have a Practical Demonstration.

TOPEKA, Kas., Sep. 2.—The Bellamy Colony company, which proposes to found a co-operative town in the Cherokee Strip, has been chartered.

The company is having a number of apartment-houses built in sections. As soon as the Strip is opened they will be rushed in and put up in a hurry. Everything possible to demonstrate Bellamy's plan as outlined in "Looking Backward" will be done. No one will be permitted to buy property in the town without joining the company.

The food for all the people in the town will be cooked in one kitchen and it will be served in one monster dining room.

There are three hundred or four hundred persons in the company and they declare themselves Populists and propose to carry the banner of the People's party into their new territory.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

Merchants at Westwood, Bergen county, have united in refusing to take silver dollars for more than sixty-five cents. Merchants of Plainfield are glad to get them at full face value.

The United States Senate, viewing with esteem the service that James A. Demarest of Plainfield is doing the Government at Brockville, Ont., yesterday confirmed the President's appointment of him as Consul of that port.

It is pleasant to note that the weekly reviews of trade published today take a more hopeful view of the business situation. Since the bill repealing the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act passed the House of Representatives, a light has broken in the gloom that enveloped the mercantile world.

The philosophic editor of the Bound Brook Chronicle now sees in his disastrous fire of two years ago a blessing in disguise. He says that while the loss and inconvenience caused were great, the result has been to establish the business more firmly than ever before, in handsome and commodious quarters on Mountain avenue. And so he's happy.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN COURT-MASTER

That Thomas O. Bullock, one of whose wives was Miss Lydia Sutton of this city, is a gentleman of acuteness and a keen sense of humor, is proved by his expert handling of the latest legal complication in his case. It seems that Mr. Bullock was in fear of arrest at the instigation of a member of his harem, and was also doubtful about being able to secure a bondsman. So he enlisted the sympathy and service of a justice of the peace who is a crony of his, and the two locked themselves in Mr. Bullock's big lonely house, with four burly farmhands on guard, and waited.

When a constable clothed in the majesty of the law gained admission and was about to clutch his prisoner triumphantly, Mr. Bullock calmly produced his justice, and as the law permits a prisoner to insist on being taken before the nearest 'squire the constable had no alternative but to submit to his dictation. Straightway Mr. Bullock was freed from arrest on his own recognizance, and could afford to laugh at the discomfited officer.

This example teaches us the convenience and comfort of having one's own justice of the peace on tap, when legal trouble threatens.

CONVINCED HIS OPPONENT.

The speech of Congressman Dunn on the silver question has attracted wide attention for its eloquence and logic, and is being thoughtfully considered in the pages of The Congressional Record. It is especially noteworthy because it is the only speech of the whole two weeks debate in which the unconstitutionality of the Sherman law was presented. This was the text of Mr. Dunn's able and convincing address. He predicted that if the law could be taken into the United States Supreme Court, that body would declare it unconstitutional, first, because there is no grant of power in the Constitution to warrant the passage of such an act, and second, because it is antagonistic to the genius and intent of the Constitution, which is rigidly against the grant of special privileges or special immunities to individuals or corporations. Mr. Dunn's argument in elaborating these two points was very conclusive, indicating considerable research into the question, while the results of his inquiries were presented in vigorous language. He was particularly severe in his denunciation of the "silver kings", and had no sympathy with the gold bug cries or the assaults upon the banks which seemed to be the stock in trade of the silver men.

Mr. Dunn quoted with great effect a large number of statistics to uphold his argument, and was especially applauded when he said that as the purchase of silver affords only an unstable basis for the issuance of United States notes, this feature of the Sherman act ought to be instantly repealed. He referred, also, to the threats of the silver Democrats to leave the party and then added:

I want to say to those men here and now that I am a Democrat by nature, training, and instinct; that I believe the Democratic party will live while the Constitution of our country lives; that when the Democratic party dies, as an effective protector of the principles of our government will die with it; that the principles of our party are as indestructible as the eternal hills of God, and I would rather see it buried out of sight and sound of men forever by the forces of nature or revolution rather than that the party should abandon a single one of its principles under the threat of a private interest which seeks to dominate this House and overthrow all principles of right and justice to serve its own aims.

Mr. Dunn received numerous congratulations at the conclusion of his speech, which were as sincerely tendered as they were deserved by the recipient. Gen. Tracy, who is one of the anti-silver leaders on the floor, told Mr. Dunn that the argument which he had made was unanswerable.

HUMAN LIFE SACRIFICED TO ECONOMY.

The argument of The Press against the summer suspension of the Life-saving Service on the coast of the United States has been adopted by all progressive journals. These columns have already quoted the comments of other papers favoring the proposition, and editorials daily appear urging that the service be maintained with full equipment all the year round. The Press has already pointed out that much of the loss of life that occurs in the months of May, June, July and August, when the life-saving stations are closed and the life-savers engaged in other occupations, could be prevented if the service was continuous all the year round, and that is a good and sufficient reason why the service should never be suspended.

Following the line of thought suggested by these columns, the New York World of Thursday published a cartoon emphasizing the great need. The artist portrayed a life-saving station along the shore with a great bar and lock on it "closed until September for economy sake", while in front, in the angry billows, people from a wrecked vessel were endeavoring to make the shore on spars and pieces of wreckage. This is a realistic picture of the actual condition of the Life-saving Service, showing one of the most important branches of Government employ to be closed to save expenses while lives are lost in the raging, heartless sea. The High Bridge Monitor rightly says that this picture should be painted in colors, and hung before Congress, until, dazed by the awful spectacle, they pass a law providing for the maintenance of our Life-saving Service the year around.

The Newark Advertiser suggests a proper method of procedure, and its advice should be heeded promptly. The Advertiser says:

The propriety of a measure to accomplish this object being proposed by a member of Congress from New Jersey is too obvious to call for much demonstration. On the coast of this State probably more vessels meet with disaster than on any other in the United States, and, consequently a Congressman from New Jersey could find and advance more arguments in support of such a bill and with greater facility than a Congressman from a section that is not so deeply interested in the matter. The Congress is yet young, and a bill presented now would stand far more chance of becoming a law than one withheld until later on.

As the Life-saving Service is in the nature of a special benefit, being of advantage mainly to those who follow the sea, it might be well to consider the advisability of laying a small tax on all vessels of American registry in order to create the additional fund that would be required if the stations were kept open during the four months in which they are now closed. Ship-owners ought not to object to a reasonable assessment for this cause.

Perpetuate the Life-saving Service, and without delay!

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

A Special Meeting Called to Transact Regular Business.

By order of President Ginna a special meeting of the Common Council is called for Tuesday evening, Sept. 5.

The object for which such special meeting is called is to transact the business that regularly, but for the fact that Sept. 4 is a legal holiday, would come up for action at the regular September meeting; and more particularly to receive, audit and order paid claims against the city, to receive and act on reports of city officers and standing committees and special committees; to give third reading to the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to amend an ordinance entitled 'An ordinance relating to the morals, peace and good order of the City of Plainfield'", approved April 23, 1874, amended Jan. 4, 1875, Dec. 7, 1881, Sept. 15, 1883, Oct. 7, 1884, Nov. 3, 1891 and Dec. 8, 1891; to rescind resolution appointing time and place for meeting of Commissioners under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Madison avenue" and adopt new resolutions fixing time and place for Commissioners to meet; to give third reading to the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to amend an ordinance entitled 'An ordinance regulating sewerage and drainage in Peace street, North avenue and adjacent territory'", approved August 10, 1881, and to take such other action regarding the matters above enumerated or other matters that may come before the meeting as the Common Council may see fit.

The Boys' Club Reopened.

The reopening of the Boys' Club took place last evening in the club's new rooms on the second floor of the building at North and Park avenues, directly over Rockfellow's store. There were 36 boys present, which, considering the inclemency of the weather, was a goodly number.

The evening was spent in preliminary matters, chiefly in re-registering the boys, getting their new addresses, etc.

The little fellows expressed much admiration of the new quarters, which was quite a natural thing, as the rooms are much superior in every respect to those formerly occupied in the same building.

The new quarters reflect much credit on the managers of the club, and the organization should now have greater success in its work than ever before.

Councilman Fountain Sworn In.

The North Plainfield Borough Council had little to do last night. Mayor Saunders swore in Councilman Robert Fountain. It was reported that no pound had yet been found for dogs. The macadamizing of Chatham street and of the approach to the Elm place bridge was reported completed, at a cost of $641 to the borough and $250 to the subscribers Somerset street, it was stated, had been put in shape for the winter, but the appropriation had been exceeded by $300. Blanks for resolutions for borrowing money were ordered printed. $800 was ordered borrowed for the light account, $500 for general road account, $500 for fire department. $136 was reported paid in by subscribers for Duer street improvements. Mr. Fountain was made chairman of the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee. The meeting was harmonious and quiet.

Somebody Stole the Oil.

The firm of Davis & Atkinson, of Park avenue, keep several barrels of illuminating oil stored in a small building in the rear of their store. One night this week the door of the oil house was inadvertently left unlocked, and the following morning it was discovered that about 50 gallons of oil had been stolen from one of the barrels. The firm will hereafter take special care that the door of the oil house is not again left unlocked over night.

HER ABDUCTOR ARRESTED.

MARSHAL PANGBORN'S LONG CHASE AFTER BOROUGH ELOPERS.

The Man was Aged 40, and the Girl Only 14—He Was Employed by His Victim's Father.

Arthur Randolph, aged 40, of South Plainfield, has been working for Jacob Kliner, of Washington Valley, on his farm, until five weeks ago. During that time he became infatuated with Mr. Kliner's daughter, who will be 14 years old next February.

Last Monday night Randolph went to Kliner's place, and some time between the hours of 11 and 5 the next morning abducted the girl. He was assisted by Adam Stutts, who also lives at South Plainfield. Stutts provided the horse and wagon.

The girl's parents sought Marshal Pangborn, and implored him to take the matter in hand. He told them it was out of the jurisdiction of the borough, but that as they lived in the township he thought they deserved assistance.

Yesterday morning at 2:45 the Marshal went to South Plainfield, where he found Stutts, and demanded information in regard to the twain. Stutts said he would take him where they were, and the two started for Newark, where much time was spent in different saloons, which Stutts claimed they were likely to frequent.

All this time the marshal thought he was misguiding him, and finally brought Stutts to this city. They went over in North Plainfield, and the marshal locked him up. Thereupon a complete disclosure of the missing pair was obtained by the official, who immediately started to hunt them up. He learned that Monday night Randolph and the young girl slept in the churchyard at White House. From there they went to Glen Gardner, then to West Portal, a station on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, then to Bloomsbury, and lastly to Phillipsburg, where they were found in Hughes's Hotel, on Main street.

Marshal Pangborn brought them to this city, arriving here about 8 this morning. Randolph was locked up in the borough, and the girl was sent home.

HOW MUCH IS A NOTE WORTH?

Full Face Value, Or Only the Sum It Was Cashed For?

The case of Dreier against Mullen, which was tried before Justice Nash yesterday, involved an interesting point of law. Mr. Mullen, it appears, gave a promissory note for $100 to his mother, Mrs. Ellen Mullen, who in turn sold it to Samuel Dreier for considerably less than its face value. At maturity, Mr. Dreier brought suit against Mullen to recover the face value of the note.

Lawyer Ridley for the defense claimed that the purchaser of a promissory note cannot recover more than the amount that he paid for it, no matter what the face value of the note may be.

The lawyer quoted numerous decisions of New Jersey cases in support of his client's case.

Justice Nash reserved decision until Tuesday.

Caution.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. A Few Honest Suggestions Which Should Be Appreciated.
All tooth powders practically contain the same ingredients, namely, chalk, castile soap, etc., with some flavoring. We use in the manufacture of Royal Tooth Powder the best English prepared chalk, the finest English Castile soap, delicately flavored. Your dentist will tell you these substances are perfectly harmless and accomplish all that is to be expected from a tooth powder. A full 2-ounce package of this unexcelled article (same as is usually sold for 25c. under other names, but which we retail for 10c) will be given with each $1 purchase and upwards People of correct ideas will appreciate this offer but some will say, "We never use tooth powder." Those who do use it, however, can be distinguished from those who don't, as the rose can be distinguished from the dandelion. This will seem cruel to some, but duty compels us to speak plainly. The "Royal" is being received everywhere, and jobbers compliment us with their duplicate orders. A trial of Royal Tooth Powder will delight you. J. C. ALLEN, Plainfield, N. J.

MR. BULLOCK'S TROUBLES.

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN HIS DOMESTIC HISTORY.

The Much-Married Man Has His Third Wife Arrested for Bigamy and She in Turn Has Him Arrested for Threatening Her Life.

The domestic difficulties of Thomas O. Bullock, a wealthy rice importer of New York, who resides in a handsome summer villa, known as Arbor Vitæ Lodge, at Succasunna Plains, Morris county, have ended in the arrest of that gentleman. During his lifetime he has been married thrice. His first matrimonial venture was in Utah. After a brief term of married life he obtained a divorce from his first wife. Subsequently the divorced wife procured a divorce from Bullock on the grounds that he had procured an illegal divorce in Utah. As soon as all the legal proceedings had been settled Bullock married Lydia Sutton, a young woman living in Plainfield. All went well until a third woman made her appearance on the scene, and is now one of the leading characters in the domestic drama which the Morris County Court has been called on to settle. This woman was the cause of another divorce for Bullock.

Bullock's infatuation for her proved so great that about one year ago he installed her in Arbor Vitæ Lodge as Mrs. Bullock number three. During the brief time that she has been Mrs. Bullock she has prospered wonderfully, and all would have been serene had not Bullock learned from some source that previous to his marriage to her she bore the name of Sutherland and that her husband was a resident of Brooklyn. The couple for the past few months have quarrelled frequently, and their disputes have resulted in landing the wife in the Morris County Jail at Morristown on a charge of bigamy, and the arrest of Bullock, who is charged by his wife with threatening to shoot her.

Several months ago, and before Bullock learned of the facts which he avers classes his wife among bigamists, he transferred to her the property situated at Succasunna Plains. The deed is registered in County Clerk Mott's office at the Court House in Morristown, and shows that Bullock sold the property to A. K. Travers for $1 and that the latter transferred it to Mrs. Bullock for the same amount. Last Friday Mrs. Bullock, learning that her husband has caused Justice of the Peace Fancher, of Succasunna Plains, to issue a warrant for her arrest on a charge of bigamy, came to Morristown and, visiting Justice of the Peace Axtell, caused a warrant to be issued for Bullock's arrest, charging him with threatening her life. The warrant was given to Constable Pierson, who drove to Succasunna Plains Friday night. When he reached Bullock's residence he was confronted by four stalwart hired men, who refused him admission to the house, and said that their employer was not at home. The constable, however, declined to be bluffed, and replied that he would remain until Bullock returned.

As waiting proved to be monotonous, Constable Pierson decided to search the house, he being of the opinion that Bullock was home and had concealed himself. The four men on guard at first refused to unlock the door. Finally, upon being informed by the constable that if his request was not complied with he would force an entrance and then arrest the men, they unlocked the front door and allowed the officer to enter the house. To his surprise Constable Pierson found Bullock entertaining Justice of the Peace Fancher. When Bullock was placed under arrest he demanded to be arraigned before Squire Fancher. That official accepted Bullock's personal recognizance on a bail bond to keep the peace, and all that remained for Pierson to do was to return to Morristown.

While the above was being transacted Constable Bay, armed with a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Fancher, was riding around the country searching for Mrs. Bullock. He finally succeeded in arresting her and brought her to the Morris County Jail, where she was handed over to the care of Under Sheriff Munson. The latter locked his fair prisoner up in one of the rooms used as a hospital ward. Mrs. Bullock Saturday retained the legal services of ex-Postmaster Quayle. As Judge Cutler was out of town counsel for the prisoner could not secure her release on bail, but made the necessary application Monday morning.

It was said in Morristown Saturday night that Mrs. Bullock on Friday was seeking purchasers for the property at Succasunna Plains transferred to her by Bullock. The latter, hearing of the attempts being made to sell the property, instructed his legal representative to file papers with County Clerk Mott, restraining Mrs. Bullock from disposing of the property until the case can be settled in the courts.

It is understood that Mr. Bullock chartered some cars and has removed some of his farming machinery.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

WHAT HE THINKS OF THE "HELP" QUESTION.

He Wrestles With the Mighty Chestnut, and Presents a New Phase for Consideration.

"I wonder"—said The Man on the Cars the other night, as the train paused on the Long Bridge while a casual schooner lounged through the draw-way—"I wonder if half the men of means in Plainfield who employ servants and trust them in certain matters, have any notion of the extent to which they are constantly and systematically swindled by these same servants."

Everyone wanted to hear the rest of the story, and so someone played a few words into the orator's hand and he went on:

"A prominent Plainfield dealer in household commodities told me a while ago that hardly a day elapses that he is not approached by the servant of some prosperous citizen, who importunes thus: 'My employer requires so-and-so much of this and thus-and-thus of that; what is your bid?' The dealer names his lowest figure, and the menial continues: 'My master wants me to procure this material, and will buy it of whom I please; what commission do I get for giving you the order?' Of course, this leaves it entirely a question of the conscience of the dealer; and generally, as a simple business proposition, the scheming servant gets a percentage and the deal is closed, for the shopman well knows that if his terms are not made acceptable the order goes somewhere else. Stablemen, cooks, housekeepers, gardeners, chambermaids, valets, ladies' maids and nurses, all come in for their share of the spoils, and, while everyone is not doing this orchid and parasite act, the majority are culpable to a greater or less degree. The dealers cannot be expected to lose anything in the trade, and, in order to make, and pay commissions, they must square up by short weights, under-counts, and substitution of inferior goods. These items are religiously overlooked by the servants, who, if queried, misrepresent and prevaricate. The extent to which the thing is carried is absolutely beyond belief, and the implicit faith which people place in the ability of servants to conduct their finances and business for them is to me absurd. There is a fragment somewhere in the good book about an 'unjust steward', the probable meaning of which I have never satisfactorily grasped, but maybe it was intended to apply to this particular phase of the 'help' question. And half the time the shopkeepers tell me, employers cut their own throats right along by refusing to believe the faithlessness and irresponsibility of their hirelings. Funny how a man will keep two or three or more persons with no pretension to education or refinement about his own home and trust their words as he would a time-table, while the same man, in his New York office, employs ten or a dozen clerks, men of culture and modest claims to honor, and watches their every movement and effort with a jealous suspicion that is enough to drive anyone to crime. Oh, this is a queer world, I can tell you, and these respected employers are about the most inconsistent figures in it to me. I do n't altogether blame the servants that they take all they can get: perhaps their wages are not overwhelming; they have to live; and after all they are only human.

"Well, good-night"—he ended, rising and moving along toward the car door.—"I may be wrong in my general impressions, but I think not. There is only one antidote: pay your servants all they earn, and——watch them."

One Firm That Does Not Feel the General Depression in Business.

In the great depression in the general business of the country, it is good news to hear that the old-established clothing house of George Watson & Co. are able to keep all their workmen steadily employed.

They say the garments made by them are so fully up to custom work that many are avoiding the high prices of merchant tailors and really dressing better by buying their fine grades of clothing in which they always get the latest fashion plate cut.

Just now they are increasing their help for the fall trade, and would like to make an arrangement with a good custom tailor to take orders for their garments in this vicinity, as they are pushing their sales to keep their large force of skilled cutters and tailors steadily at work, and are making low prices for all their styles.

Pure Milk from Inspected Cattle.

One of the neatest stores in Plainfield is the DelMarvia Farms Dairy at 327 Watchung avenue, where the purest products of the dairy are sold. The milk is produced from the famous herd of registered Jersey cattle formerly owned by J. W. Johnson. The milk is absolutely pure. No beer grains nor unholesome food is fed. The cattle are examined monthly by a veternarian. Every care possible is given to make the milk the purest that can be produced. An inspection of the care and feed of the cattle and mode of taking care of the milk would convince the most skeptical that that the milk from this dairy is the purest that can be produced.

But He Did n't Pay the Bill.

Seargeant Kiely was called in to McVey's restaurant this afternoon at about 3.30 to assist in the ejection of a factious mealer who refused to pay for his meal and used much too much profane language. The unruly patron was quickly bounced by the strong arm of the policeman.

Enterprising Children Work for a Bell.

The new St. Peter's German church on Grove street will probably own a bell before the church is completed, judging from the way the children are collecting money from the people of the borough.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

THIRTY VACANT JOBS.

A Great Rush on the President and Secretary Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—There are at present between 25 and 30 vacancies in the position of Internal Revenue Collectors. These vacancies have been occasioned by the collectors' resignations being asked for. It is not yet known what action will be taken by the President in the matter of filling these places. It has been understood that no new appointments unless the good of the public service urgently demanded it, would be made until the financial legislation now pending in Congress was out of the way. This view of the situation is evidently not entertained by many Senators and Congressmen, who knowing of the President's return, crowded the rooms of Secretary Carlisle and Commissioner Miller yesterday urging them to recommend to the President their candidates for internal revenue collectorships.

CHESTER WRECK.

No Cause Discovered Why the Bridge Should Have Collapsed.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sep. 2.—No more deaths have yet occurred among the injured of the Chester wreck, but Ralph Deforest of Boston, the cook, who was so badly scalded, is failing rapidly and it is feared his injuries will prove fatal.

Supt. Gallup of the Boston & Albany railroad was seen by a reporter, but he said that he could not give much additional information to what had already been given. As to the cause of the wreck, Mr. Gallup said that he was at loss to know where to lay the blame. The civil engineer of the road has been working on on the matter, but as yet he has been unable to find any cause why the bridge should go down.

Where is the Alvo?

NEW YORK, Sep. 2.—Considerable anxiety is manifested regarding the Atlas steamer Alvo which left this port Aug. 16 for the West Indies. The Alvo carried 9 passengers, a crew of 60 persons, and a cargo valued at $400,000; the steamer is valued at $150,000.

There is no mystery here—all that we know, you may know if you'll listen. Our years of experience has taught us that the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumeller Pianos are the best to be had; each has its own peculiar features stamping it distinct from the others. Which one is best for you is a question. Any time you'll come in we will help you solve it.

IRISH HOME RULE BILL

It Passes Third Reading in the House of Commons.

GREAT EVENT IN ENGLISH HISTORY

Brilliant Speeches by Leaders on Both Sides—First Reading of the Bill in the House of Lords—Parliament Sessions After Midnight.

LONDON, Sep. 2.—The House of Commons yesterday suspended the 12 o'clock rule in order that the third reading of the Home Rule bill might be concluded before adjournment.

Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellites, said that although the bill did not have the pedantic character of finality, which its opponents contended any home rule measure must have, it contained finality in principle. When Ireland should get her National Parliament, it would include finality in the true sense of the term.

Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal Unionists, while disclaiming all intention of questioning Mr. McCarthy's sincerity, said that he could not forget how another leader of the Irish, after accepting a bill as a complete settlement of the demands of Ireland, recanted and declared that it was accepted only as a temporary installment.

"If the bill ever be passed," continued Mr. Chamberlain, "you will have the Irish coming to Parliament, demanding more and more and putting pressure on Ministry after Ministry, until at last some Minister will be found weak enough or base enough to buy the Irish vote by granting final separation. ("Hear! Hear!")

"The mischief that the government has done by introducing this policy is irreparable. It has made enormously more difficult the government of Ireland; it has postponed indefinitely the hope of the completion of a better settlement.

"The bill is now about to go to another place. We probably never shall see it again. (Cheers.) But whether we see it or not, I am convinced that the British people will give the policy embodied in it a death-blow at the first opportunity offered them."

John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, held that the opposition to the bill under discussion had been conducted in bad faith. If obstruction was patriotism, he said, cloture was patriotism. In regard to the argument that there was no finality about the bill, he had never claimed a finality for any solution of any deep-rooted political question. There was no such thing. In concluding Mr. Morley said that after seven and a half years of controversy this popular assembly, which was virtually supreme, was about to pass the Home Rule bill for Ireland. Whatever might be done elsewhere to delay, resist or obstruct the bill, this solemn declaration could never be cancelled or recalled.

The time having arrived for the third reading of the bill, the Speaker formally put the motion and ordered a division of the House. Mr. Gladstone was the first to record his vote and Mr. Morley was the last. Each was accorded an ovation, as was also Mr. Balfour. The division resulted:

For the motion, 301; Against, 267.

When the figures were announced the Irish members sprang to their feet and cheered wildly, waving hats, handkerchiefs and the like, while the opposition members raised counter-cheers and shouts of "Resign," "Resign." The House then adjourned.

Immediately afterward the sitting of the House of Lords was resumed and five minutes later the Home Rule bill passed the first reading.

SOUTHERN SUFFERING.

The War Department to be Asked to Furnish Tents and Rations for the Unfortunate.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sep. 2.—The tug Paulson that left Savannah Thursday morning to get the remainder of the passengers of the wrecked steamer City of Savannah arrived here yesterday afternoon with all the missing ones. They were heartily welcomed.

Reports of disasters and frightful loss of life all along the coast north of Tybee continue to arrive. The storm does not seem to have been severe south of Savannah. A number of wrecks are reported between Savannah and Brunswick, but mostly in exposed harbors.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 2.—Senator Butler has returned from the south but when he reached Washington he found a telegram from Port Royal informing him of the condition of affairs there and urging him to join with the other members from his State and see what could be done to relieve the people who are in distress. The Senator will call upon the Secretary of War and endeavor to secure some action by that department in the way of an order providing a supply of tents and rations for those who are homeless and without food. The Senator does not see any hopes of securing relief through legislative action, for Congress has always in the past declined to appropiate money for this sort of relief, holding that was the duty of the State. Mr. Butler will do everything in his power though to bring relief of some sort to those who are suffering.

LIFE SAVERS.

Over Forty Stations Reopened Along the Jersey Coast—Effort to Keep Them Open All the Year.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sep. 2.—The forty-odd life saving stations that dot the New Jersey coast from Sandy Hook to Cape May, which have been closed since June 1, by order of the United States Government, were reopened yesterday. Each station is manned by a keeper and seven men. The keeper is better known as Captain, and he alone is in the employ of the government the entire year. For this service the captain receives $800 a year. The crew of seven men receive $60 a month for the nine months that they do guard duty. The captain and crew furnish their own food, the government furnishing their house rent free.

Of late years there has been a marked improvement in these homes. In former years the stations were nothing more than a little shed, with a room partitioned off for sleeping quarters. These old time buildings have nearly all been done away with, and new and commodious ones erected in their places.

An effort will be made this winter to have Congress enact a law requiring all stations to be kept open the entire year, and also to increase the pay of the life-savers.

Triple Hanging.

LAURENS, S. C., Sep. 2.—John Ferguson, Wade Cannon and George Bowers, all colored, were hanged at 1 o'clock yesterday in an outbuilding of the country jail yard. They were all murderers.

Worsted Mill Burned.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sep. 2.—The Thornton Worsted Mill in Johnston was burned early this morning. It was a four-set mill and had 250 employes. It was owned by the Thornton Worsted Company.

STATE BANK CURRENCY

A Subject of Growing Interest at Washington.

STATESMEN EXPRESS THEIR VIEWS

The Uncertain Question is What Sort of Security Should be Required—Voorhees Thinks it Ought to be Gold and Silver Coin—State Bank Measures Now Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—The question of repealing the tax on State banks as called for in the Chicago platform is already before the Senate in the shape of a bill introduced some days ago. Also in the Butler amendment to the Voorhees bill offered yesterday and in the shape of another amendment to Mr. Voorhees' bill, providing for the extension of the circulation of national banks. The latter bill has been effectually side tracked and there appears to be little hope of resurrecting it, so that the last named amendment will go the way of all amendments to bills that have been killed by the process of slow strangulation.

It is predicted, however, that as soon as the repeal of the Sherman bill has been effected the proposition, should that ever be, to repeal the tax on State banks will come to the front at once, and when it does it is probable a discussion will be begun looking to a thorough revision of the financial legislation of the country. The idea of basing the circulating notes of State banks upon State or municipal bonds does not find favor in the Senate for the reason that such security is not looked upon as substantial enough to withstand the assaults of the stock markets and does not obtain that high place in the confidence of the people which bonds and evidences of the indebtedness of the Federal Government hold.

Senator Gray, speaking of this matter, thought the day was not far distant when this whole subject would have to be considered and acted upon by the Congress of the United States. He said the conditions to-day and those before the war, when the State banks were in vogue, were as widely different as possible.

There was no more danger now of wild-cat banking then there would be of attempting to enforce the fugitive slave law. He believed that the wisdom of Congress would evolve some plan upon which the the currency of the people could be based and given a stability that could never be questioned. Government bonds would soon cease to exist, and when the time came the security that now preserved the notes of national banks and made them as good as the government's obligation would pass away, and by the mere force of circumstances something would have to take their place. What that substitute should be was for Congress to say. Whatever it was, he believed it would be as firm and substantial as the system now in use. The substitution of State banks would add to the currency of the people and increase the circulation in small communities, where it was so often needed.

In the minds of other Senators the idea of issuing more bonds finds favor, while in those of others it is a nightmare that causes unrest and uneasiness. Whether such a proposition could carry is a mooted question. Some of the strong men of the Senate are on either side.

Senator Voorhees, is perhaps the most outspoken champion of the State banks on the floor of the Senate. What he means by a State bank is not the bank so commonly remembered and associated with ideas repugnant to good banking principles, but the chartered state banks which have a circulation based upon specie itself—gold or silver. Senator Voorhees said that when he made the statement in his speech a few days ago that no man had ever lost a dollar through a chartered State bank, he uttered a truth that had not to this day been denied and could never be. That is the sort of bank he contends for. He is not one of those who believes the security of the notes should be found in State or municipal bonds, but he holds that it should be based on the precious metals themselves. This means that there should be at all times in the vaults of the banks one third of the amount of its notes in gold and silver, an amount amply sufficient, from his point of view, to redeem any of the notes of the bank that might at any time be offered for redemption, and upon which to transact the business of the community in which the bank is located. His plan also contemplates governmental supervision and inspection, a combination which will, he believes, offer a solution to the problem now before the people and give them a system of banking as firm and reliable as any ever devised by man.

There is no gainsaying the fact that a bill with this end in view will be one of the first to be introduced when the House has adopted its rules, and Democrats in the Senate are thus early discussing the probability of its passage. In the Senate it is unlikely that the Democrats will have the assistance of the eastern Republicans as they now have in the attempt to repeal the Sherman act. Whatever may be the bill introduced, according to Mr. Voorhees, it will be carefully amended and guarded so that in no sense can it be charged against the Democratic party that it is seeking to return to the days of so-called wild-cat banking.

NO CURRENCY SCHEME.

The Administration Said to be Only Interested in Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—A cabinet officer is authority for the statement that the administration at this time is preparing no currency measure to be presented to Congress. It is interested only in the passage of the Repeal bill now before the Senate.

After that measure is passed, it is said that a general measure to carry out the Democratic platform as to currency relief will be considered.

Minister Blount.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—Minister Blount called on Secretary Gresham yesterday and had a short talk with him on the Hawaiian question in regard to fixing a date for having a conference on the subject with the President. Later Mr. Blount called at the White House in connection with the same matter but he failed to see Mr. Cleveland.

CHINA'S MINISTER.

Introduction of the Distinguished Celestial Who Will Take Up the Exclusion Act.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—Yesterday the conduct of the case of China in the negotiations over the Exclusion law was officially taken in charge by Yang Yu, the new Chinese Minister, whose rank in his own country is so high that it is only four degrees below that of the Emperor of the celestial kingdom himself. The Minister presented his credentials to the President and was formally recognized by the latter as the accredited diplomatic representative of China to the United States. Yang Yu with four attaches of his legation met Secretary Gresham at the State Department by appointment a few minutes before 3 o'clock and the party with the addition of assistant Secretary Adee were driven to the White House and ushered into the blue room. The Minister and his attaches were attired in silk robes, the blouses of black and the skirts of blue. Each wore a bit of red and black adorned with plumes of horse-hair. Strung around the waist of the Minister were insignia of the Order of the Eight Banners, while the other diplomatists wore minor decorations similarly appended.

When Secretary Gresham had made the presentations the Minister made a brief speech:

"Mr. President," he said, "I have the honor to deliver to your excellency the letter which my august sovereign, the Emperor of China, has addressed to you, accrediting me as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States.

"It became my duty to accept this important charge to which I was called, and I assume it with pleasure, feeling a greater degree of confidence that I may successfully accomplish the duties of my mission, because of your excellency's well-known high sense of justice and generous courtesy.

"Mr. President, it will be my constant aim to maintain and strengthen the amicable relations which now exist between China and the United States.

"Sir, I beg leave to offer to you my earnest wishes for your personal happiness, for the success of the government of which you are the distinguished chief, and for the prosperity of the people of the United States."

These remarks were interpreted to the President, who welcomed the Minister in appropriate words, and said: "The people of the United States, appreciating the many considerations which tend to draw the two countries into closer intercourse, cherish the confident hope that mutual good will and sound judgment will characterize their future relations."

SILVERY SPEECH.

Senatorial Talk on Free Coinage of Silver and Repeal of the Sherman Act.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—The Senate had a long and wearisome session yesterday with little of interest to enliven the proceedings. The House bill for the repeal of a portion of the Sherman act was kept steadily to the front after it was taken up, about 1 o'clock, and it was still before the Senate at the time of adjournment, 5:45 p. m. Speeches were made upon it by Senators Cullom, (Rep., Ill.,) Coke, (Dem., Tex.,) and Peffer, (Pop., Kas.) Mr. Cullom's speech was in favor of unconditional repeal. Mr. Coke's against it and for free coinage of silver (a parity to be established by reducing the weight of gold coin) and Mr. Peffer's for the restoration of the coinage act of 1837 and at the present ratio of 16 to 1.

Among the minor incidents of the session was the passage of the House joint resolution making the 16th of September, 1893, the hundredth anniversary of laying the corner stone of the capitol a holiday in the District of Columbia, and the defeat of a resolution (8 to 41) offered by Mr. Allen, (Pop., Neb.) for an adjournment of the Senate in recognition of Labor day.

The House will not be in session until Wednesday.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Sep. 5.—The country hereabouts is overrun with tramp hop pickers. Yesterday at Sprout Brook a number of them working for William L. Transue became riotous after being denied more pay and stoned the farmers and broke windows in the houses. At length a number of villagers armed themselves and drove the hop pickers from the locality.

Sloop Lost.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Sep. 5.—The Sloop Josephine, of this port, has been given up as lost. She sailed Aug. 21 from Woods Hull for Newport, and was probably swamped in the gale of that day. The crew were John Rich, Manuel Barnes and Charles Patterson. The last two belong here and leave widows.

SOBER SECOND THOUGHT

Fall River Operatives Hesitate to Strike.

CONFERENCE OF COMMITTEES

Dull Times Have Reduced Profits and Manufacturers Claim Mills Cannot Run Unless Wages Are Reduced—Conservative Employes Disposed to Accept the Situation.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sep. 5.—It now seems very probable that the city will be spared another strike of mill operatives. On Saturday Secretary Howard sent a letter to the Manufacturers' Association, asking for a conference between a committee of the spinners and a committee of the manufacturers. Yesterday Secretary Rounseville answered it, saying the manufacturers were willing to meet a representative delegation of their spinners next Wednesday. Yesterday a united excursion of weavers and spinners was held to Crescent Park, a point on Narragansett Bay. On the way down several leaders and members of the union were spoken to regarding their feelings about the situation. It is quite evident that the leaders of the union do not deem a strike wise or prudent at this time, but they are being urged along by members who have not been receiving any wages during the past four weeks.

There is another portion of the members of both the large unions who want to resist the manufacturers' ultimatum, because it was given out so quickly after the publication of statistics showing very large earnings in the mills during the quarter ending in July. These men, it is thought, can be made to comprehend the situation from the manufacturers standpoint. This view, as has been previously stated, shows that manufacturers were enjoying a profitable season, but now they cannot renew contracts at prices anything near as favorable as those of three months ago. An instance cited by Secretary Rounseville will illustrate this point. He says a large corporation, whose mills have been kept running, will have large contracts expiring next week. Offers of renewals have been made, but if they are accepted even on the basis of 2 3-4 cents for 64 x 64's with a reduction of 15 per cent in the present wage schedule the mills would still lose money by running. Whether they would lose most by running or remaining idle would be determined later, but as the figures now show, the mills would have hard scratching to come out whole by running. Consequently the Secretary of the manufacturers' association says it is a matter for the operatives to say whether they wish to bear a part of the burden of the unexpected and extraordinary times.

This view is held privately by the more conservative leaders, but they will have great difficulty in impressing it on the hot-headed members of the union. The weavers now evidence a disposition to act independently of the spinners in deciding to strike. It cannot be judged from conversations with members just what move will be made at their meeting to-night. It is quite certain that the rank and file of workers who have homes and property, want to join with business men in preventing a strike, which bids fair to be unsuccessful at this time. Whether their influence has had an effect on the spinners can only be speculated upon, but it is more than probable that the Wednesday meeting of the committees on conference will be called on to deal with matters never before asked by trades unionists in this city. It is generally conceded that the leaders will try to prevent the members from striking, provided the manufacturers will agree to make some concessions.

TWO BOYS SHOT.

A Long Island Farmer's Revenge on Annoying Youngsters.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sep 4.—William Barrett, a dairy farmer, shot and killed John Egan, ten years old, and probably fatally wounded David Crawford, 13 years old, at his farm in Blissville. He claims that a crowd of boys had been annoying him and that he fired both barrels of a shot gun into the air to frighten them away, and had no intention of shooting any of them. Spectators declare that he fired deliberately into the crowd of boys. Led by the dead boy's father a great crowd of neighbors caught Barrett, beat him almost into insensibility, and would have probably lynched him but for the arrival of Policeman Haggerty who rescued him and took him into custody. The Egan boy died fifteen minutes after being shot and 45 buckshot were taken from his chest by a doctor.

THE POPE'S BLESSING.

Apostolic Greeting to the Catholic Congress Now in Session at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sep. 5.—The Catholic Congress was opened with an eloquent address by Cardinal Gibbons. A letter to the Cardinal from the Pope conveying the Papal benediction to the Congress, was read at the close of the address. It is as follows:

LEO XIII., Pope:

To our beloved Son James, by the title of the Sancta Maria, in Trastevere, Cardinal Priest of the Holy Roman Church, Archbishop of Baltimore:

BELOVED SON—Health and apostolic benediction.

It has afforded us much satisfaction to be informed by you, that in the coming month of September, a large assembly of Catholic gentlemen will meet at Chicago, there to discuss matters of great interest and importance.

To you therefore, our beloved son, and to all who take part in the Congress aforesaid, and to the clergy and faithful committed to your care, we lovingly in the Lord impart our apostolic benediction.

Given at Rome, at St. Peter's, the seventh day of August in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and of our pontificate the sixteenth.

DOUBLE SECURITY.

Life Savers to Work With Marine Hospital Service in Preserving Quarantine on Infected Ships.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—Superintendent Kimball of the Life Saving Service has issued an important circular letter to all keepers of life saving stations on the Atlantic seaboard, and especially to those in and about New York.

The circular instructs the officials of the Life Saving Service to co-operate with the officers of the Marine Hospital Service in preserving a strict quarantine on infected ships. To this end the surfmen are instructed to keep a close lookout for all matter, such as bedding, clothes, vegetable matter, etc., which may wash ashore.

This matter they are directed to handle with rakes only, to dry and burn it. They are also instructed to see that no persons who may escape from ships detained at quarantine are permitted to land.

In a general way the Life Saving Service will assist all in its power to maintain rigid quarantine when it is established, so as to lessen the chances of infection to this country through the means of diseased household articles.

Big Works Resume Business at Homestead and Braddock.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 5.—Every department of the Carnegie steel plant at Homestead was started yesterday, giving employment to about 2,000 men. About 500 are yet idle. They will also be provided with work within a few days.

About 700 men were given employment in the Braddock Wire Works, which resumed operations yesterday. No wage reduction was offered, as had been anticipated.

Real Life Saving Exhibition.

WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO, Sep. 5.—There was a real life saving act on the waters of Lake Michigan yesterday afternoon. A yawl with seven men in it capsized off the battleship pier in sight of thousands. Capt. Easton, in charge of the German naptha boat, the fastest in the white city, was on that part of the lake and saw the accident. Two of the men were sinking for the last time when the captain and his crew reached them and used the boat hooks to good advantage. The other four men were clinging to the gunwale of the upturned boat and were easily rescued.

Rhode Island Mills Resuming.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sep. 5.—Nearly 300 looms in the Valley Falls mill were started yesterday. The rolling mill there will resume operations to-day. MYSTERIOUS MURDERS Ghastly Discovery on an Orange County Farm.

TWO WOMEN SEVERAL DAYS DEAD

The Victims Unknown but Supposed to be Summer Boarders from New York—The Owner of the Farm Missing and Believed to Have Been Also Murdered—His Wife Under Arrest.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sep. 5.—A discovery of what has all the appearance of a double murder and may prove to be a triple assassination, has just been made at Burlingham, at the foot of the Shawangunk mountains. The events leading up to the supposed murders date a little time back. Paul Holliday, a widower, who resided near Burlingham, recently married a young woman who had been working for him. Soon after the marriage Holliday's house and barn were burned and his crippled son was burned to death in the house. Mrs. Holliday was arrested for arson and held in the Orange county jail, where she showed evidences of insanity. She was sent to the State hospital and, subsequently being released, returned home.

The latter part of last week Holliday was missed. He had not been seen by his neighbors since last Thursday. A watch was set on Holliday's premises and Mrs. Holliday questioned as to her husband's whereabouts. She said he had gone to Bloomingburg to work as a mason, but an investigation proved her statements false. Mrs. Holliday made some inquiries as to what would remove blood stains, and her actions becoming mysterious, she was arrested. A searching party was made up to look for Holliday. In the barn at Holliday's place they found under a lot of hay the bodies of two women. One was that of a fleshy woman about 45 years of age and the other that of a young girl aged about nineteen years. In the body of the elder woman there were eight bullet wounds. Death had evidently taken place in both cases about four days ago. While the names of the dead women are unknown it is thought that they were summer boarders from New York city.

Coroner Roesch, of Westboro, has summoned a jury, and local physicians are making a postmortem examination. The inquest will be held this afternoon.

The search for Holliday continues.

NO AMALGAMATED MEN.

Two Large Steel Mills Start Work With Non-Union Forces.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 5.—The large plant of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company, Tenth street, Southside, and the new Hainesworth Steel Company, corner of 27th and Smallman streets, were placed in operation yesterday with non-union forces sufficient to operate every department. The refusal of the Olivers to sign the Amalgamated scale and their declared intention to operate the above-named plants independent of that organization were well know. To guard against any possible interference on the part of the old employes details of special officers were assigned to both mills. Large crowds of union workmen surrounded the mill entrance, but no serious disturbance occurred. At noon Mr. Oliver said that everything was moving smoothly; that they had four applicants for every job and expected no trouble.

Howe, Brown, & Company's mill in 18th street also started yesterday, giving employment to 200 men.

All of the party will take part in the Pennsylvania Day exercises at the World's Fair on Tuesday.

Raid of the Dalton Gang.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sep. 5.—The posse of officers in pursuit of the Dalton gang returned last night empty handed. Other officers brought in eight more citizens of Ingalls and lodged them in the United States jail on charge of aiding the outlaws. A doctor claims to have been forcibly escorted at night to the gang's camp and compelled to dress their wounds. He says two and possibly three will die.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair, Slight Changes in Temperature, Followed by Cooler Wednesday Evening; Southwesterly Winds.

One of the signs of the hard times is the way pocket pieces are getting into circulation. Men who have carried certain cherished coins for years find reason for spending them, and silver halves and quarters of old dates are quite often received in change. A few of the old-fashioned big copper coins have also reappeared, and small tradesmen do not hesitate to accept Canadian or Mexican coins at their face value.

The Press is pleased to note that in the New York Labor parades of yesterday good order reigned and the American spirit predominated. Flags were everywhere, and they all bore Uncle Sam's Stars and Stripes. It is reassuring when the great mass of Labor shows that it has no use for the red banner of anarchy, and The Press honors it for thus unmistakably displaying its good sense and patriotism. The mass of American workmen can be trusted to do the right thing on such an occasion as yesterday.

Widespread and deserved attention is being bestowed on Mayor Saunders by other influential men and newspapers. The Mayor's fearless course in handling public matters has won him admiration from all honest people. For instance, the Westfield Standard thus honors him:

The President of these United States, it is related, has presented to the Pope of Rome a bound volume of his official papers during a former administration. We beg to suggest that his honor the Mayor of North Plainfield, Hon. Wm. L. Saunders, prepare in similar form a volume of his official papers and furnish a copy to the Pope of Rome, the President of the United States, and to other potentates and powers of the world. Judging from the local press, his honor, the Mayor of North Plainfield, must already have accumulated a considerable number of valuable papers upon public topics, many of them most excellent.

The season now approaching its close has naturally been a bad one with the great summer hotels in the mountains and on the coast of New England, but the Boston Herald thinks there are other causes for this than the hard times and the World's Fair. It is of the opinion that the summer hotel business on a large scale has passed its climax in prosperity, and that in the best of times these great caravanseries will never again be as popular as they have been in the past. The main reason which it assigns is the growing disposition of people with large means, who make long sojourns and spend much money in the country during the summer, to have cottages of their own, rather than patronize even the best of the hotels. Vermont newspapers find confirmation of this theory in the rapid increase in the number of cottages along the shores of Lake Champlain during the past few years, and there is much other evidence to the same effect.

Plainfield Will Remember Him.

In return for courtesies shown in advance to the "Spider and Fly" company, passes for the performance of last night were issued by joint authority of Manager Demarest of Music Hall and of the advance agent for M. B. Leavitt, owner of the show. The list was exactly as customary, and as agreed on, but last night Mr. Leavitt declined to honor the passes. Those who favored Mr. Leavitt's show with the use of their windows, and those who accorded him other privileges, naturally resent his breach of contract, and will take care to avoid having any future dealings with him. Had an authorized representative of Manager Demarest of Music Hall been present at the performance, those holding passes would not have been permitted to suffer indignity at the hands of a conscienceless mountebank.

The Foolish Wheelman Overtaxes Himself.

Two young men from Brooklyn started at 5 Sunday morning on bicycles for a run to Philadelphia. One of them was not used to riding. They came by way of Orange, and reached here about 10, when the novice threw himself on the grass on West Fifth street, thoroughly exhausted. Rather than go back home and be "chaffed" by their friends, the fresher of the two took the weaker in tow by a rope from his wheel. They thus started off for Philadelphia.

An Ideal American.

[From The Westfield Standard.]

Warren Ackerman, an American of wealth, of simple habits, of quiet yet generous charities, steadfast in his friendships, of wide business interests yet preeminently a fireside companion, beloved in his home, honored by his fellow citizens, a leader in business circles, trusted and trustworthy in every relation of life, —the good and great Warren Ackerman is dead. He was an ideal American! What more need be said!

Caution.

Imitations have been put upon the market so closely resembling ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is however, in general appearance only that they compare with ALLCOCK'S, for they are worse than worthless, inasmuch as they contain deleterious ingredients which are apt to cause serious injury. Remember that ALLCOCK'S are the only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy ever produced; and when purchasing plasters do not only ask for but see that you get ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

SIMMONDS WINS THE CLUB CUP.

FOREGONE CONCLUSION OF THE TENNIS TOURNEY.

Two Interesting Surprises Were the Features of the Labor Day Play —Pleasant Doings at the Courts, and Enjoyment of the Hillside Tea.

The second annual tennis tournament for the championship of the Hillside Tennis Club took place on the club courts yesterday. Ten matches were played in all, taking from 9 in the morning until 5:30 in the afternoon. The entry list was swelled in numbers just before it closed, making it necessary to play a preliminary round.

All day the sides of the courts were lined with spectators, the new terrace on one side making it very much easier to see for those who had their chairs on its neatly boarded surface.

There were some surprises in the way the various players comported themselves, but taken as a whole the play was not brilliant. Once in a while there would be a few minutes of admirable tennis, which never failed to bring forth the deserved applause, but the quality of the game would sink soon again to the ordinary uninteresting level.

The surprises did not turn the tide of victory, but consisted mainly in the good fights that some of the players who were ranked as inferiors gave to the local cracks. The first was when J. P. Murray, who is very much out of practice, held the score of 3-1 against Simmonds in his first set and crawled ahead of him in a similar manner in the second. This did not affect the match, however, as Simmonds won, 6-4, 6-3. The second was the victory of F. K. Fish, Jr., over Henry West, in an interesting match of three sets, West taking the first, 6-1, and Fish the next two, 6-3, 6-2 Fish also made a very good fight in the first set of the finals, holding Simmonds 3-1 and then again 5-3, only to lose finally, 8-7.

It was a pity that A. B. Wadsworth was not able to be present, as he plays a rattling though erratic game, and would undoubtedly have made an interesting dark horse, and would have given any contestant all he wanted to do to handle him.

Simmonds's victory was expected, but his chances looked rather precarious at one or two places daring the tournament.

The play by rounds was as follows:

Preliminary round—F. K. Fish, Jr., beat J. H. P. Wharton, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1; H. D. West beat G. P. Mellick, 6-1, 6-0.

First round—A. P. Simmonds beat J. P. Murray, 6-4, 6-3; Archie Cox beat Sherwood West, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3; H. D. West beat R. H. Cahoone, 6-3, 6-0; F. K. Fish beat A. B. Wadsworth by default.

Semi-finals—A. P. Simmonds beat Archie Cox, 7-5, 6-4; F. K. Fish, Jr., beat H. D. West, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Finals—A. P. Simmonds beat F. K. Fish, Jr., 7-5, 6-1, 6-2.

The trophy is the club cup, which Simmonds will hold one year, and defend at the next annual club tournament.

SEPTEMBER TEA.

Folks Come Back to Town to Enjoy Hillside Tennis Hospitality.

The regular semi-monthly teas of the Hillside Tennis Club were resumed Saturday after a short interval during which no teas were given on account of the number of people out of town.

Mrs. Deuse M. VanVliet, of North Plainfield, received, assisted by Mrs. Louis G. Timpson, Mrs. John G. Foster, Miss Murphy, Miss Walz and Miss Guion.

Some interesting tennis was played during the afternoon, and many of the guests took advantage of the chairs arranged along the courts to watch the play.

The courts have recently been widened by carrying out the terrace about nine feet farther than originally, thus giving more room for side-line play, and making the two tournament courts as nearly perfect as possible. As the ground of the new terrace was soft, it was completely covered with boards, on which the chairs were placed.

Iced coffee and lemonade were served under the trees.

Considering the season the attendance was good. Among those present were Major and Mrs. Robert L. Burnett, Miss Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, Miss Mellick, Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Clinton Ivins, Mrs. Fox, Miss Depew, Miss Annie Opdyke, Miss Erskine, Miss Minnie Miller, Miss Carrie Miller, Mrs. Virginia B. Hart, Miss Lena Hart, Miss Florence Waring, Miss Helen White, Miss Talmadge, Miss Cortlee, Mr., and Mrs. Daniel T. Ginna, Miss Elizabeth Stewart, Miss Ellis, Miss Annie Ellis, Mrs. Martin, Miss Bushnell, Miss Winnie Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Anthony, Miss Edith Allen, Sherwood West, Harry West, A. P. "The Country Squire", Sept. 11.

Archie Boyd, who for the past four seasons has been playing and making popular the character of Joshua Whitcomb in "The Old Homestead", will produce his very worthy successor, "The Country Squire", in Music Hall Sept. 11, and no one can tell the great amount of imagination Mr. Boyd has, until seated in front of him at a performance. That calm, easy, dignified manner, assumed to represent the New England Squire, gives him the power to carry the audience with him. His strong and agreeable personality is in a measure the secret of his success, and one cannot but recognize in him something even greater than talent—real genius.

Charles Griggs, conductor of Car No. 3, will spend the week in Orange county, N. Y. On his return he will go to Norristown, where he has secured a profitable position under Superintendent Passmore, formerly of this city.

The Saturday Night of Toronto, Canada's leading society paper, says: "Mrs. James A. Demarest, wife of the U. S. Consul at Brockville, has arrived in that city, and will no doubt be a favorite in social circles, judging from her amiable disposition."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reinhart and family returned to their residence in Netherwood, Sunday morning, from New York, where they have been stopping a few days on their way from Massachusetts. They left again yesterday for Chicago and the World's Fair.

At the home of the bride on West Second street, Sunday evening at 6, took place the marriage of Miss Louise Mehl to B. Frederick Priemer. The Rev. F. Koechli performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Priemer will reside in Hoboken.

Moses H. French, of 36 Craig place, one of Plainfield's oldest residents, age 84, was stricken with paralysis while in his stable Saturday, and fell near his house. He was found insensible by his wife, and she and Mrs. J. H. Carney carried him to the house. Dr. J. H. Carman attended him, and restored him to consciousness. He is still confined to his bed, though the shock has partly left him.

—A regular meeting of Gazelle Engine Company, No. 1, will be held tonight.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Made and sold for fifteen years at

Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

A Few Honest Suggestions Which Should Be Appreciated.
All tooth powders practically contain the same ingredients, namely, chalk, castile soap, etc., with some flavoring. We use in the manufacture of Royal Tooth Powder the best English prepared chalk, the finest English Castile soap, delicately flavored. Your dentist will tell you these substances are perfectly harmless and accomplish all that is to be expected from a tooth powder. A full 2-ounce package of this unexcelled article (same as is usually sold for 25c. under other names but which we retail for 10c) will be given with each $1 purchase and upwards People of correct ideas will appreciate this offer but some will say, "We never use tooth powder." Those who do use it, however, can be distinguished from those who don't, as the rose can be distinguished from the dandelion. This will seem cruel to some, but duty compels us to speak plainly. The "Royal" is being received everywhere, and jobbers compliment us with their duplicate orders. A trial of Royal Tooth Powder will delight you. J. C. ALLEN, Plainfield, N. J.

ACCUSES HIS NEIGHBOR.

John Verrett Threatens His Erring Wife, and She Demands His Arrest.

John Verrett, proprietor of the Berkeley Heights brickyards, has accused his wife of unfaithfulness, and she in turn, alarmed at his threats, fled to Plainfield and had a warrant issued for the arrest of the angry husband, charging him with threatening to kill her. Verrett says that Gato Gambradello is the cause of all his trouble. Gambradello lives next door to Verrett and has a wife and four children.

Verrett alleges that last Wednesday he went to the brickyard after dinner. On his return he missed his wife. Gambradello was also missing. The following morning Verrett went to New York. He said he saw his wife on Houston street with Gambradello. They eluded him, however. Saturday he again visited New York in search of his wife. He discovered Gambradello and Mrs. Verrett in the Hoboken ferryhouse. Gambradello made his escape, but Mrs. Verrett accompanied her husband home.

Later, it is alleged, Mrs. Verrett took her four children and deserted her husband, and is now occupying apartments in the house where Gambradello's wife and family live. Mrs. Verrett came to Plainfield and swore out a warrant for the arrest of her husband, whom she claims threatened to kill her. In the meantime Gambradello has returned to his home. It is feared that there may be bloodshed before the case is settled, as the Italian blood has been thoroughly aroused.

WESTFIELD TOPICS.

The Press Correspondent Chats of Men and Measures in the Village —What Professor Francis Has Done.

WESTFIELD, Sept. 4.

Postmaster Whitaker leaves today for the World's Fair.

The Westfield public schools will reopen next Monday. The school buildings have been put in perfect condition, thanks to the liberality of the townspeople in the matter of voting appropriations for school purposes. All appropriations asked for by the school trustees have been at once voted them by the people, which action tends to show that Westfielders have confidence in the men placed in charge of the town's educational interests, and also that they properly appreciate the value of well-equipped schools.

Professor Francis enters this fall on his sixth year as principal of the public schools. It is easy to dispense praise that is indiscriminate and fulsome. This I do not wish to be guilty of; and it does not seem to me that I am, in saying that Mr. Francis has been a most efficient principal, and that he is scholarly and tactful, and has done much to elevate the standard of our schools.

Last year an advanced curriculum, including a college-preparatory course, was introduced in the Lincoln school. The work of arranging the numerous details of this course devolved upon the principal. As can readily be understood, this was a task involving considerable work, and requiring experience and good judgment in matters educational. Nevertheless, the result obtained by the professor was most satisfactory; and as a consequence the Westfield schools compare favorably in standards of scholarship with the schools of Plainfield and Elizabeth.

Students in the senior class of the high school have an incentive to hard work in an annual prize of twenty-five dollars, offered by a well-known citizen and called the Patton prize. It goes to the pupil who, all circumstances being considered, does the most conscientious work and makes the most advancement in studies during the senior year.

The last winner of the Patton prize was Lawrence Clark, a Westfield lad. He will pursue a course of study in Lehigh University. REESE.

Yesterday at 3, on the road between Westfield and Fanwood, the horses attached to the delivery wagon of Campbell's Newark tobacco house, took fright and ran away. The driver, Arthur VanBunard, was thrown out, and received a fracture of the leg. Dr. Endicott, of this city, happened shortly afterwards on the scene, and ordered the injured man to Muhlenberg Hospital, where his injured limb was properly cared for. Today the patient was reported by Dr. Endicott to be getting on nicely.

The base-ball game Saturday afternoon between the Plainfield Crescents and the New Jersey Athletic Club, on the North Plainfield grounds, was one of the most interesting ever seen in this city. The umpiring of Vanvalkenberg was a feature, from the fact that he does n't know how to umpire, and is only capable of managing a team, for which he is noted. But even bad umpiring could n't spoil that game, which the Crescents won.

Yesterday morning the Cuban Giants met the home team and for eight innings shut Plainfield out. In the meantime the Cubans had secured four runs. In the ninth inning, with two men out and three men on bases, Freddie Jones went to the plate and the first ball pitched he hit for three bases, scoring three runs. Keenan was retired as the next batter, and the game ended.

The many friends of "Wash" Berriman, who umpired, gave him a warm reception.

Yesterday afternoon the Crescents went to Elizabeth, where they played the Elizabeth Athletic Club, to a large crowd. It was an interesting contest, and the audience hugely enjoyed it. The Elizabeth boys could get only three hits off Keenan, and this probably accounts for their defeat. It is their first whitewash this season, and they were hard losers.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:

"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest effects. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health.

He Drew the Line.

"My answer is final, Mr. Whackster," haughtily replied the young woman. "The idea is absurd!"

"Haven't you any use for me, Miss Gertie?"

"None, sir! What have you ever seen in me that has led you to suppose I would listen to a proposal of marriage from you?"

"I don't know," answered the young man reflectively. "What have you seen in me that causes you to reject me so scornfully? I think I am not mistaken in the conclusion that you reject me with more or less scorn."

"You are not mistaken, Mr. Whackster, and I am perfectly willing that you should know the reason. You seem to have no worthy ambition, no definite purpose, no object in life. You are a drone in society. You have wasted in trivial amusement, the years that other young men in your station would have devoted to fitting themselves for a high and noble destiny. You have no conception of the joys that reward the man who consecrates himself to a lofty ideal. You know absolutely nothing of the pleasures of the thinker. Content to drift along on the surface of things, with no wish or ambition to control the course of events and leave your impress on the age in which you live, you are a man with whom no high minded, self respecting, intellectual woman could think of linking herself without a shudder!"

"Perhaps I am," rejoined the young man, reaching for his hat and confronting her as he rose to go with a look as proud and haughty as her own. "Perhaps I am, Miss Gertie Plunkitt, but I don't wear a pink shirt!"—Chicago Tribune.

"Jest Like Hanner."

"Hey, hey," he called in front of a Grand River avenue grocery the other day as he stopped his team.

A clerk went out to the edge of the walk to see what was wanted.

"What's aigs worth?'

"How many have you got?"

"Leven dozen."

"Bring 'em in, and I'll see."

The farmer turned around in his seat and looked the wagon box over, but there was nothing to be seen but a bridle, which needed mending.

"Bring 'em in," continued the clerk.

"Jerushy to Jackson! but I hain't got a blamed one!" exclaimed the farmer. "Here I've driv nine miles to sell 'leven dozen aigs, and the aigs is to home!"

"Forgot 'em, eh?"

"That's what I did! Hanner brought 'em out to the barn and sot 'em down on the fanning mill and hitched up and never looked to see if they was in the wagon! Jest like Hanner! She never knowed nuthin' to begin with, and she's knowed less every day since. Waal, if they hain't here they hain't, and I'll take a plug of tobacker and git my bridle fixed and jog back."—Detroit Free Press.

Afraid to Wake Up.

Little Johnny wasn't lazy, but he did hate to get up in the morning. One day Johnny came down very late, and his mother said to him:

"Johnny, why did you not rise earlier this morning?"

Johnny looked rather sheepish, but he was equal to the occasion.

"Mother," said the rogue, "I dreamed that I found $500, and me and Charley Smith were having such fun spending it that I was afraid to wake up until I had got rid of all the money."—American Traveler.

"That was a disgusting tramp I helped this morning," said old Mrs. Smythe of Bungtown Corners. "I gave him a pie and asked him to saw some wood, and about 10 minutes later he came in and asked me if I'd mind if he ate the wood and sawed the pie."—Harper's Bazar.

SOME STRANGE POISON.

Mystery surrounds the suicide of Dr. Graves Which It May Require Experts to Solve.

DENVER, Sep. 5.—The attorneys and personal friends of T. Thatcher Graves, the famous prisoner who killed himself in his cell in the county jail Sunday by taking some subtle poison, are opposing the effort to hold an autopsy and inquest. It is hinted that Dr. Graves ended his life with some mysterious drug or combination of drugs which could only have been prepared by an expert chemist, and those who believe him guilty of the murder of Mrs. Barnaby are said to be contemplating connecting the poison by which the doctor ended his own troubles with that contained in the mysterious bottle of whiskey sent to Mrs. Barnaby from "her friends in the woods." It is hinted that the strange poison was very likely the same in both cases. Two leading physicians, who were to have held an autopsy yesterday, have refused to do so until the county commissioners will guarantee a fee commensurate with the importance of the case.

Mrs. Graves, the doctor's widow, is stoutly opposed to the autopsy and inquest. She says that after the letters the doctor left there is no need of an official investigation. Her husband was persecuted to death, she says, and that is all there is to it. She is not yet satisfied that the doctor committed suicide, and does not believe that his letters were written while in a suicidal frame of mind. She thinks he simply had prepared them in anticipation of death from some sudden shock and she believes that he died from heart failure due to the publication of the last fusillade from the prosecution containing its promise of positive new evidence, etc.

The doctor's attorneys, Judge Macon & Son, will take legal steps to oppose an autopsy and inquest. Everybody except Mrs. Graves is satisfied as to the fact of suicide, but her friends will not attempt to change her opinion at present as they believe it would only be a useless blow to her.

EMIN'S TRAGIC FATE.

The Pasha's Head Deliberately Cut Off by an Arab and His Body Devoured by Natives.

LONDON, Sep. 5.—The Rev. Mr. Swann, a missionary who has just returned from Ujiji, on the east shore of Lake Tanganyika, says that it is impossible to doubt honestly that Emin Pasha is dead. "The most circumstantial reports reached us from four independent sources," said Mr. Swann, "and all agreed as to the details. The Arabs everywhere in Africa are rejoicing over his death."

According to the reports received by Mr. Swann, Emin had arrived at the residence of Seyd Bin Abed in the country of the Manyemas in the eastern part of the Congo state. A party of Arabs approached and asked Emin: "Where are you going?"

"To the coast," was Emin's reply. The leader of the Arabs, who was armed with a scimeter, then stepped up to Emin and said: "You are Emin Pasha who killed the Arabs at Victoria Nyanza."

Without waiting for an answer he struck off Emin's head with the scimitar. Emin's body was thrown to the Manyemas who ate it. Subsequently the Manyemas murdered Emin's Nubian followers and ate them.

Mr. Swann says that these details have been so often repeated that in Ujiji nobody has the slightest doubt as to their correctness.

LABOR DAY QUIET.

Celebrated Throughout the Country With No Disturbance.

NEW YORK, Sep. 5.—Labor Day was generally celebrated throughout the country, and notwithstanding the fact that thousands of working people are unemployed, not a disturbance of any kind is reported. There were numerous parades, but all were orderly. In New York 15,000 men were in line. All the big manufactories shut down, all wholesale establishments, business exchanges, down-town offices and most of the retail shops were closed. The wage earners of Brooklyn turned out 14,000 strong to take part Labor Day in the two principal labor processions. Besides these, probably a dozen trade unions paraded in numbers proportionate to their importance. The demonstration of the Central Labor union was the big one. Nine thousand men were said to be in line. The anarchists refused to take part in the first parade because no red flags were carried.

Old Ingham Closed.

LEROY, N. Y., Sep. 5.—The financial troubles of Ingham University have come to a climax at last, and the famous old school for girls has been ordered sold in proceedings brought to foreclose a mortgage for $30,000. It is estimated that over 8,000 girls have received instruction at the college since its establishment in 1835, at Attica, by the Misses Marietta and Emily Ingham. The removal to LeRoy took place in 1837.

The Alva Probably Lost.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sep. 5.—No tidings of the missing Atlas Line steamer Alva have been received at Fortune Key, one of the Bahama Islands, where she would put in, if disabled, or if she had met with severe stress of weather. News has been received from Gonaives, Hayti, where she was to call, but the steamer had not put in there. She has been given up as lost.

Hop Picking Machine.

TACOMA, Wash., Sep. 5.—George Roberts, the inventor of a hop sprayer in general use in the Washington hop fields, has now invented a machine for picking hops. The vines are shoved into a cylinder like a threshing machine and the leaves are separated from the hops by a breeze generated from the rapid revolution of the cylinder.

Ingalls a Candidate.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sep. 5.—From one of John J. Ingalls' closest friends comes the statement that he will be a candidate for the United States Senate in 1896, and that as a stepping stone to that place he proposes to become a candidate for Governor of Kansas at the next election.

TALK GETTING TIRESOME

Stewart's Exhaustive Speech in the Senate.

TWO SMALL VICTORIES FOR DELAY

An Executive Session to Give Stewart a Rest—Voorhees Wants the Senate to Begin Work an Hour Earlier—Proposed Department of Education.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 6.—If any particle of interest existed in the mind of any Senator in connection with the legislation of 1873 by which the silver dollar was dropped out of coinage, remaining out until the passage of the Bland-Allison act, he had an opportunity of learning from Mr. Stewart every incident bearing upon it before, since, and at the time of its enactment. Mr. Stewart's version of the old history differed from the version given by Mr. Sherman last week. Little attention was paid to Mr. Stewart's speech, and at one point of it he complained that the Senators were in the cloak rooms, and not in the chamber.

A call of the roll, however, quickly secured a quorum. At another point he declined to permit Mr. Hoar to interpose some remarks—designating them as "a lot of trash," and Mr. Aldrich met similar treatment, his interference being called "aggravating." Mr. Stewart occupied over three and a half hours delivering his speech from type-written sheets, not having finished when the Senate went into executive session, by a vote of 35 to 28.

A resolution changing the hour of meeting from noon to 11 a. m. was offered by Mr. Voorhees, and is to be called up for action to-day.

A concurrent resolution for a joint select Committee on Finance, seven Senators and seven Representatives, was introduced by Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) and is also to be called up by him to-day.

The most remarkable proposition of the day was a bill introduced (by request) by Mr. Peffer for a department of education, and for an appropiation (in aluminium coins) of eight hundred million dollars.

The executive session of the Senate was the result of a desire on the part of the friends of silver to give Mr. Stewart, who had been speaking three and a half hours, a rest, so that he might go on with his speech to-day refreshed. The vote was a triumph for the silver men. After the doors were closed the nomination of John J. S. Hassler, of Forest City, S. D., to be receiver of public moneys at Enid, Okla., whose confirmation has been objected to, was favorably acted upon. Then Mr. Morgan moved that the Senate adjourn. This was antagonized by the repeal forces, who stated that they thought Mr. Stewart should continue for another hour at least. The yeas and nays were taken, showing 30 votes for adjournment and 27 against. It was another victory for those fighting for time, and when the doors opened silver men emerged from the chamber smiling over the second victory they had scored within an hour.

There was no session of the House yesterday.

TRADE UNION TROUBLE.

An Ex-Member of the Engineers' Brotherhood Sues the Official Journal and Chief Arthur for Libel.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 6.—Attorney Carney has filed the papers in a suit for $20,000 damages for libel in the United States Circuit Court against P. M. Arthur of Cleveland, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. B. Youngson, Grand Assistant Chief; T. S. and D. Everett, Publishers of the Journal, the official organ of the order; J. G. Owston, Chief Engineer, and R. M. Rhodes and H. B. Scoafer, officers of the Keystone Lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Allegheny. The plaintiff is Jeremiah Evans, who is now employed as foreman in the Elba Iron Works.

Evans was formerly employed on the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne and Chicago railroad as an engineer and was a member of Keystone Lodge, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He withdrew from the organization to accept a position of foreman. When a strike was declared at the Elba Works it was declared closed to union men by the Amalgamated Association. Because Evans was there to work, the officers of Keystone Lodge caused to be published in the Journal a notice that Evans had been expelled for "scabbing." Evans claims that as he had withdrawn from the lodge, he could not be expelled, that for the reason that no labor organization makes a pretense of controlling the position or regulating wages of foreman, he could not be guilty of "scabbing." The case will itkely be tried at the next term of the Circuit Court and is of great importance to unions, nearly all of which publish notices of expulsion.

GRAVES' FAREWELL.

A Significant Letter From the Convicted Doctor to His Wife Intimating Suicide.

DENVER, Sep. 6.—Attorney Macon, representing the widow of T. Thacher Graves, the suicide, has asked the County Commissioners so ignore the dying request of Dr. Graves that the county pay his funeral expenses and Mrs. Graves' traveling expenses east. The idea is repulsive to the widow, who says that her brothers will pay all expenses.

The body is now being embalmed and the veins and arteries are full of poisonous fluid. An autopsy therefore now is impossible and it never can be known with what drug Graves ended his life. Notable passages in Dr. Graves' letter to his wife, first published yesterday, are as follows:

"You will soon find hosts of friends who will advise you when I am gone. I want to begin preparing for that course which I have fully determined on, if Stevens gets the money from the County Commissioners. It is no use, Kitty, for me to use up every cent we have fighting him. I must leave something for you and mother, Kitty dear. I do hope you will get all of the Barnaby legacy and make a good thing on the book. You will, if you will rush it through while the public are ready to buy it. Don't let any one prevent you for it will make you independent for life."

The above is the first direct intimation that the doctor contemplated suicide.

"My dear, precious, I have not the slightest fear or objection to passing away. All will be well, I trust, and I do it willingly and cheerfully, satisfied in my own mind it is the best course. You publish the book as soon as possible and work it for your advantage.

"Ask Judge Macon to please guard my name as much as possible and reply sharply to any newspaper articles that may assert, and they will, that I am afraid to meet a new trial. But this enough for to-day. How I hate to leave you, but it is the only way, for you must have the money.

"I propose to chat with you often and you can keep it. My only dearest love, God bless you; God keep you forever. Good bye for to-day.

QUARREL OVER POOL.

James White of Long Branch Stabs Bloomfield Drum.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sep. 6.—A stabbing affray, which may result in the death of Bloomfield Drum, took place here yesterday. James White did the cutting, and from the investigation made upon Drum's body by Dr. Bennett, White will no doubt be held for murder. White and Drum got into a fight over a game of pool, but came to a settlement. The men, with two others, started on a drive and when a short distance away Drum renewed the argument and a bitter quarrel arose. Drum ordered White out to settle affairs. White refused, and was then dragged out, thrown down, kicked about the face and body and otherwise pounded. White finally drew a knife and gave Drum some deep, long gashes in his scalp. White gave himself up to Chief Layton. Both men are well-known.

LARGE REVENUES.

New York's Income From Corporation and Inheritance Taxes.

ALBANY, Sep. 6.—The amount of revenue collected by the Comptroller of the State under the corporation tax laws and the inheritance tax laws for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1893, will exceed the amount estimated by Comptroller Campbell in making up the tax rate for this year by nearly $3,000,000. To thus increase these revenues the Comptroller caused to be examined the records of nearly every Surrogate's office in the State, in order to determine the amount of collateral inheritance taxes due; had examined some 300 different corporations during the year and added a large number of companies to the list of corporations subject to the corporation tax laws of the State.

Convention of Christian Prohibitionists to Consider the Relation of the Church to Their Cause.

NEW YORK, Sep. 6.—The following was issued yesterday: Recognizing in the legalized liquor traffic a foe to the general, moral, physical and financial well-being of the human race, a serious menace to the prosperity of the nation and undoubtedly the great impediment to the advancement and coming of Christ's Kingdom on earth; convinced that the denominational church of to-day is not discharging its full duty toward this evil; but on the contrary is, through the guilty silence of its pulpits, and the unrebuked political subserviency of the vast majority of its male members to this evil, practically in complicity with it; and, feeling assured that it is against the laws of ethics and common sense to hope for redress from this legalized "scourge of all time" until the organic church, the recognized human source of all earthly purity, shall either "come to the help of the Lord against the mighty" in this conflict, or cease to be recognized as the true church; We the undersigned, respectfully call upon the Christian prohibitionists who have—1st, a definite idea of what the attitude of the church should be towards this diabolical "traffic in human blood; 2d, a firm conviction that the church is not living up to that idea; and 3d, either a remedy to suggest for this attitude of the church, or a determination to find one—to meet in the City of New York on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sep. 19 and 20, 1893, to discuss this subject, and to organize for definite work as Divine Wisdom may dictate.

The call is signed by Rev. Charles Roads of Philadelphia, 886 North Nineteenth street, Chairman, and other members of the Committee appointed at the conference held in Philadelphia Jan. 5, 1893. The conference will be held in the Eighteenth Street M. E. Church, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, Rev. John A. B. Wilson, D. D., Pastor.

NO STRIKE ON NEW ENGLAND.

President McLeod to Restore Old Wages as Soon as Possible.

BOSTON, Sep. 6.—The statement that another conference of the committee of employes of the New York & New England Railroad was to be held, appears to have been authorized by either the members of the committee or the officials of the road, as all matters have been fully discussed.

The reduction of 10 per cent. in salaries which went into effect September 1, was explained by President McLeod to be a necessary move on the part of the management of the road, and, it is understood, the employes looked at it in that light.

President McLeod offered the committee access to the reports of the business of the road at any time, so that they can satisfy themselves of the necessity of the reduction.

A return to the old rates will be made as soon as possible.

VAGUE THREAT TO KILL

The Orange County Murder Still a Mystery.

MRS. HOLLIDAY SEEMS TO BE INSANE

A Former Threat That She Would Fix Two More People and Then be Ready to Swing—The Victims Buried Without Identification.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sep. 6.—The murders at Burlingham continues to be a mystery. Mrs. Holliday, suspected of killing the two women, has become so violent that handcuffs had to be applied. She tore her dress in strips and attempted to undress herself.

Her talk is incoherent and she is either insane or feigns insanity, as she did when in prison before. The identity of the victims remains unknown. When found their feet were tied and hands crossed and tied.

The post-mortem examination reveals eight bullets in the woman and seven in the girl, all in the region of the heart. The woman had been dead a week, but the girl not over 48 hours. The bodies have been given to Undertaker Van Twegen of Bloomingburgh, who will have the features photographed before burial.

Men who were detailed to watch the premises on Sunday night state that Mrs. Holliday was up all night washing. The terror of the neighbors was that she would fire the barn that night, but she knew she was being watched and did not leave the house.

When a wet rope was picked up she became indignant, and seizing it threw it in the road.

A bullet of 32 calibre was found under the bed, and the mark of its impress on the partition was observed. The pistol was was not found, but Mrs. Holliday said that her husband has it, and when they find him they will find the pistol.

Diligent search failed to discover his body or whereabouts. While some think he has run away, others scoff at such a rumor. He was a member of Company K 124th regiment and his comrades speak in the highest terms of him as a soldier. This Holliday woman is supposed to have been an emigrant from Ireland. She was secured by Holliday through an intelligence office and took her to his home. He fell in love with his new house keeper and they came to Middletown years ago and were married by Rev. R. H. Burch, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Soon thereafter she manifested a violent temper and the burning of their house with the crippled son of Holliday with it followed. Her arrest was not for that crime but for hiring a team from a liveryman at Newburgh and disposing of them. After laying in Goshen jail for some months, tearing her clothes and hair, and acting in a filthy manner, using abusive and obscene language, she was examined in proceedings in lunacy and committed to the Middletown State Hospital. Subsequently Sheriff Goodale took her to Auburn and from there she was sent to the asylum for criminals at Matteawan. She wrote Holliday that she was better and he secured her release last spring. She had behaved herself until recently, but her former statements that she would fix two others and then be ready to swing, coupled with Holliday's disappearance, lead the community to proceed to investigate the strange disappearance.

The coroner commenced an inquest yesterday afternoon on the bodies of the two women. Before adjourning Mrs. Holliday was taken to the court room where she raved and tore her clothing to shreds. Previously an attempt to photograph her was made but she prevented the photographer getting a negative of her by moving her head, arms and feet.

Crowds are gathering and threats of lynching are frequently heard.

AUSTRALIAN BALLOT.

A Case to Contest the Constitutionality of the Law.

BOSTON, Sep. 6.—A suit to test the constitutionality of the Australian Ballot law was heard yesterday by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

Rev. A. A. Miner, the petitioner, was nominated in May to the office of Senator in the Seventh Suffolk district, by a convention of the Prohibition party, which did not poll 3 per cent. of the vote for Governor at the last election. The certificate of his nomination, filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, did not show that in the caucusses which chose the delegates composing the convention 25 voters participated and voted. On account of this omission the Secretary refused to put Dr. Miner's name upon the official ballot. Thereupon Dr. Miner requested the Ballot Law Commissioners to consider the case. The Commission determined, for the same reason, that Dr. Miner's name could not be placed upon the ballot.

The court took the case under consideration.

WHY BABIES DIE.

DIFFICULTIES OF FEEDING AT THIS SEASON.

One Food That Meets the Tests of a Perfect Diet—What Science Has Done to Help Mothers—Lactated Food Fulfils all Requirements—September Is a Serious Month Where It Is Not Used.

Babies die, nine times out of ten, from improper feeding.

At this season indigestion, diarrhoea, and cholera infantum do their fearful mischief quickly.

Mothers, whose children have lived through August, too often think that the great peril is over, and often grow careless in attention to baby's diet. But this is a serious month for children, as the high death rate for September shows.

The mournful spectacle is presented of infants pining away and dying from cause which might be avoided if mothers knew more about the great advances of science in infant feeding.

Physicians and nurses who have had experience with sick children in cities and towns empasize the fact that homes where lactated food is used escape wasting disease in a most significant manner. Lactated food is prepared with the true scientific knowledge that nothing better can be done than to follow nature as closely as possible in the feeding of infants. Lactated food is most like mother's milk. It has saved the lives of thousands of little ones. It is within the reach of all. Use it.

ONLY FOUR MILLIONS.

Silver Lands in Mexico Claimed by a Western Travelling Man.

MINNELPOLIS, Minn., Sep. 6.—James W. Horner, traveling agent for a St. Paul wholesale house, finds himself one of four heirs to a Mexican estate now held by that government and valued at $4,500,000. The story he tells is that Thomas Boyd, a bachelor uncle who had lived in Mexico since his boyhood, died there a year ago, without leaving a will. There being no claimants to the estate, which consists of silver lands, it was taken in charge by the government, which at once advertised for heirs. Thus the matter had come to the attention of Mr. Horner. The other children are W. B. Horner, Winona; Mrs. Joseph Mills, Eau Claire, and Mrs. Lee Wilson, Union City, Pa. There is allowed them five years in which to make good their claim, but Mr. Horner thinks it will be satisfactorily settled in six months.

"ALL ROT."

Benedict Says the Report that Cleveland Has Bright's Disease is False.

NEW YORK, Sep. 6.—In an interview with a reporter regarding the reported operation on President Cleveland, aboard the steam yacht Oneida, on July 1, last, Banker E. C. Benedict, who was on board the vessel at the time, said yesterday that although he did not see the operation performed, he understood that in pulling one of the President's teeth a piece of the jaw bone came away and the second tooth had to be extracted. Mr. Benedict said that the President stood the ordeal well and even played cribbage with him the same evening. Mr. Benedict added:

"I want to say that the President never was in better health than he is to-day. The talk about his having Bright's disease, cancer and goodness knows what, is all rot."

Wicked Progressive Euchre.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sep. 6.—Judge Moon, in his charge to the grand jury yesterday, created a sensation by declaring that progressive euchre was gambling. They may not put down money, but they set an example for others to follow in playing for prizes and awards."

The Pope's Gift.

ROME, Sep. 6.—Father Frederick Rooker, who has left Rome for America with letters from the pope to Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons, was commissioned also to present to the Cardinal a portrait of His Holiness. The portrait is carved in stone, and is set in a frame of gold studded with precious stones. The whole work was done by the Vatican artificers and is a masterpiece of its kind.

BUT TEN DAYS IN JAIL.

The Octogenarian Chicken Thief Not Severely Dealt With.

Robert Hudspeth, Westfield's octogenarian chicken thief, was arraigned in the Union County Court yesterday, and pleaded guilty.

Judge McCormick said the prisoner was too old to be engaged in such business, and sentenced him to ten days in jail.

The old man said he guessed that was about right, and was led back smiling to his cell. He added that as he had n't very long to live it really did not make much difference anyhow where he spent his time.

Alice Robinson, charged with larceny from Sarah Osborn, of Plainfield, pleaded guilty. She was sentenced to the county jail for five days.

Mary Robinson, charged with stealing some clothing, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to the county jail for three months.

A CHANGE OF TUNE AT HOLY CROSS.

SAD LACK OF HARMONY OVER THE MUSIC QUESTION.

Choirmaster Miner Accused of Faults by the Rector, and Mr. Miner Says the Cause of the Trouble Can Be Traced Back to the Time He Discharged the Rector's Son.

In The Press of last Saturday appeared the following paragraph:

One of the prominent congregations of the town will be surprised tomorrow to find the music in charge of a new leader.

Further reference to the fact that the "resignation" of W. H. Miner as choirmaster of Holy Cross had been accepted, was withheld at the personal request of Rector Murphy, who said that he did not want facts published which would reflect on Mr. Miner.

Again yesterday Mr. Murphy repeated his request, and Mr. Miner also asked that publication be deferred, but during the day Mr. Murphy was interviewed by the New York Herald, to whom some kind friend had sent a clue of the story, and as a result the following appeared in The Herald of this morning:

The discordant note which has marred the harmony of the full choral service in the Church of the Holy Cross, at North Plainfield, N. J., during all the months since Easter morn is hushed.

Holy Cross has a new choirmaster, and henceforth its song of praise will be full-throated.

The discordant note grew out of an effort at musical progress which the vestry made two years ago. Choirmaster Charles W. Kellogg drifted away early in 1891, and was succeeded by William H. Miner, an energetic young man from New Haven, Conn.

Mr. Miner was a musician of marked attainments, and under his care the choir attracted widespread attention. And the choirmaster—he was organist as well—was vastly independent and told folks how he was beset by flattering offers from more prosperous churches.

LIKED HIM AND RAISED HIS SALARY.

The vestry was troubled by this, but they liked his work and increased his pay from time to time. So it went until the organist reached the limit. The vestry knew it. Organist Miner did n't. At Eastertide he was assailed by another flattering offer, and spoke about it to the rector, the Rev. T. Logan Murphy.

"Mr. Murphy,"—he said one day after the choir practice—"I'm going to leave Holy Cross."

"Ah!"—the rector replied with passive interest—"are you?"

"Yes:"—the organist replied, not at all abashed—"Had an offer from St. George's church, in Brooklyn."

The rector threw a well developed leg over his bicycle—they are all wheelmen in Plainfield except the wheelwomen—and grasped the handles of the "safety".

"You've settled it, have you?"—he asked.

"Yes:"—Mr. Miner replied—"I am to sign a contract on Saturday."

The clergyman rode away without comment. When he went to the church on Sunday morning Mr. Miner was there on hand.

"Well,"—the rector ventured—"did you sign that contract?"

"Oh, yes!"—The organist answered—"it's all settled."

PASTOR AND VESTRYMEN WAITED.

The rector and his vestrymen smiled and waited. Mr. Miner told the Rev. Mr. Murphy that he had decided to allow St. George's church to wobble along as best it could and stick by Holy Cross.

"But"—the rector exclaimed—"you've signed the contract, you know!"

"Oh, well,"—the organist said—"they won't hold me to it if they think I don't wish to keep it."

Mr. Miner remained at Holy Cross, but thereafter the singers seemed to fall under his displeasure with marked frequency. One after another he told them to hang up their robes and lay down their metaphorical harps. They obeyed, but there was mourning. It increased in proportion to the dismissals. The music was growing ragged.

The rector was in New York one day and met the Rev. Mr. Harris, of St. George's church, Brooklyn, from which Organist Miner had received his Eastertide offer.

"TOOK" A VACATION.

"Well,"—said the Rev. Mr. Murphy pleasantly—"you did n't get Mr. Miner."

"No:"—the Rev. Mr. Harris replied—"we never thought of him. His application was one among many. We never thought of him."

"Ah, indeed!"—gasped the North Plainfield rector, and then he was silent. His faith in human nature was slipping from his grasp, but the good man headed it off with an effort and returned to Plainfield.

The organist was accorded a week's vacation early in July. He granted himself five weeks more a little later without consulting any one. He hired Tenor Clarke to play the organ, left him with the few singers who had not been dismissed and went away, and where, no one knew.

Discipline might have saved the remnant of singers from utter rout. The organist's understanding was unequal to the task. The ranks thinned Sabbath by Sabbath. At last only a few of the boys, of whom there had been twenty originally, could be persuaded to enter the choir. They struggled weakly through another service or two and then gave it up. Holy Cross has fallen back upon congregational singing.

WANTED PROMPT PAYMENT.

That is how matters stood on August 16, when Rector Murphy received a letter from Organist Miner, in which the church treasurer was sharply arraigned because the organist had not been paid as promptly as he wished. Mr. Miner demanded a signed contract and said he would resign unless it were forthcoming.

The contract was not forthcoming, and instead the rector called a special meeting of the vestry at which Mr. Miner's resignation was accepted. No one knew exactly where Mr. Miner was, so the letter was sent to the General Post Office about ten days ago. The organist replied that he had not resigned. The vestry fell back upon its old policy—silence.

A new organist and choirmaster, Frederick H. Chesswright, of New York, was engaged, and on Sunday last he directed the choir, or rather its surviving members.

AND MR. MINER WAS OUT OF IT.

Mr. Miner appeared just before the service and asked the rector if he was expected, to play the organ. The rector replied that Mr. Chesswright had been engaged for that purpose. Then Mr. Miner suggested to the singers that they rise up and follow him. The others sang under the direction of Mr. Chesswright. The defection was not great enough to materially weaken the choir.

Organist Miner sat in the seat of the rebellious, with his little army of faithful choristers around him, and he listened and slowly the great organ filled the church with swelling harmony. The choir joined in and sang—the new organist says the selection was entirely accidental—"Am I a Soldier of the Cross?"

Mr. Murphy said this morning that the story in The Herald was substantially accurate, and further stated that the vestry had been glad of the chance to be rid of Mr. Miner, because of certain faults. Mr. Miner—he said—had misrepresented the church by telling Mr. Cutter, one of the singers, that he could n't pay his salary because the church had not paid him. Unfavorable reference was made to Mr. Miner's habits in camp. The rector said that while Mr. Miner was an excellent trainer he kept disorganizing the choir by discharging singers, in a fit of temper, just as fast as he trained them.

The Press sent a reporter to see the ex-choirmaster.

Mr. Miner stated that he wished to consult with his friends in the church before answering the article, but that he would say that the whole trouble began when he dismissed the rector's son from the choir while the rector was in Europe, which was done for the best interests of the choir. The previous choirmaster had had trouble over this same member of the choir, the rector having given the choirmaster to understand that his son was not to be treated like the rest of the boys.

Mr. Miner has many friends in town and in the church who are indignant at what they term his persecution. It is understood that the vestry will meet tonight and consider the case, and it is further asserted by members of the church that considerable trouble is likely to result.

BOLTED OUT.

Some one has put a bolt on the inside of the door which Mr. Miner has been using, so that he cannot enter.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

Old Rags Start a Blaze that Burns Two Horses and a Dog Alive.

Last night at 11:20 the barn and sheds adjoining, belonging to Egbert Scribner, 168 Duer street, were burned. They had been burning for some time before noticed, and then Mr. Scribner and his son had to be aroused from their sleep, as they were entirely ignorant of the fire, which was fast gaining headway and threatening the house near by.

In the meantime someone started for the North Plainfield electric light station to send in an alarm. Considerable time was lost, and when the alarm was given the buildings were enveloped in flames.

Warren Engine Company responded, however, as quickly as possible. The engine was not used. Instead the hose was attached to the hydrants in the vicinity, two lines of hose being laid.

In the barn were two blind horses, wagons, rags, coal and wood, and a dog, and all that was saved was one or two wagons; all the rest (including the animals) was consumed. The loss will be quite large.

Mr. Scribner thinks the place was set afire; but can give no reason why it should have been. Marshal Pangborn says the cause was undoubtedly spontaneous combustion, and this is doubtless correct. It was sometime after 12 before the fire was extinguished.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The horse of Charles M. Ulrich ran away on Front street this morning, and upset and slightly damaged the wagon.

—Madam Knight, formerly of Twenty-third street, New York, will open a millinery store on Front street, Sept. 20.

—Edmund Stevens was fined $3 in the City Court today, by Judge Coddington, for being drunk and disorderly.

—There is a need of better facilities for giving fire-alarms in the borough. The fire of last night demonstrated this fact.

—It is a fact worthy of note that in eleven years only three members of the Plainfield Council Royal Arcanum have died.

—A summons on contract was yesterday issued by Justice Nash in the case of Dreier against Scott, returnable September 11.

—Justice Nash yesterday issued a summons in the case of Meyers and others against Negley, returnable September 11.

—An old offender, tired of the Elizabeth jail, went over the brook last night, fired up on borough rum, and today was sent to Somerville jail for 20 days.

—A riding contest between American, Mexican and Indian cowboys will be an attraction in the Crescent Riding Academy, Saturday evening at 8:30.

—Tomorrow night the Women's Relief Corps will have a lawn party in the shape of a campfire, at Front and Church streets. A brass band will be in attendance.

—Tomorrow night at the Salvation Army a grand international meeting will be held in which France, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Canada, England and America will be represented.

—Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met in their rooms last evening and received and confirmed the report of the committee of three, in relation to the death of Frank H. Gardner. The report was sent to headquarters.

—The Vivarttas Crematory, which is represented by Seymour G. Smith of this city, has been adopted by Scranton, and approved by the Scranton Board of Health. As a successful method of disposing of garbage, Plainfield ought to have it.

—There were two reasons why the dance of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, Monday night, was so delightful a success: The committee managed it well, and Sam Frazee the famous fiddler furnished the music for the tripping of the light fantastic toe.

—In opening a manual training school in the Orthodox Friends' meeting-houses, 309 East Front street, John Dalziel announces that he will give a thorough course in freehand and mechanical drawing, the use of manual tools, modeling in clay, working in soft metals and such studies as geometry, geology and economic botany.

—Lauter's Musical and Home Journal for September has just been issued, and excels former numbers of that popular magazine. It is published by S. D. Lauter Co., proprietors of the pianoforte warerooms at 657 and 659 Broad street, Newark, and there can be obtained free on application. This issue of the magazine is made more attractive by the increase in popular song with music, besides the usual amount of waltz and promenade music and interesting complete stories and poems.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. MUSIC, MIRTH AND ELOCUTION.

Excellent Entertainment for the German Reformed Church Benefit.

The entertainment given in Reform Hall last evening for the benefit of the German Reformed church was most excellent, and attracted a good-sized audience. After an overture by the orchestra, the programme was opened with a farce in three acts, entitled "A Shop Girl's Victory". The parts were taken by Miss Amelia Kister, Mrs. William Chamberlin, F. G. Bach and Miss F. Sutterlin. It was very prettily acted, and was duly appreciated. An instrumental solo by Mrs. A. Reily was very well rendered, and following this Miss Clara Armstrong recited "Nobody's Child", in excellent style and taste.

The vocal selection, "Robert LeDiable", by Miss Josephine Shaffer, accompanied by Miss Louisa Demonet, was a feature of the evening. Her singing was hugely enjoyed, and she was recalled twice, giving the selection, "Maggie, the Cows are in the Corn" and tumultuous applause was given in response.

Miss Mabel and Miss Ella Benner then gave a pleasing piano duet.

J. T. Vegiard, in giving humorous selections, won the hearty applause of the audience. He recited "Humpty Dumpty on the Velocipede" and "Speaking his first piece in School". Mr. Vegiard's facial expressions are extremely funny, and the people roared with laughter.

Another farce, "The Too-Good-Looking Young Man; or, Bridget McCarty at the Photographer's", was an exceedingly comical one and showed how ridiculously one can act at the picture-taker's. Those taking part were F. G. Bach, A. P. Bach, C. Hummer, Mrs. W. Chamberlin and Miss F. Sutterlin.

A well-played piano solo by Miss Mabel Benner was well received, after which Miss Shaffer sang "Oh Luce De Quest Anima", in the same pleasing manner as previously mentioned.

A piano duet by Miss Mabel and Miss Ella Benner was followed by a jig dance by Mr. Wilson, whose intricate movements and skill brought the house down.

Miss Mabel Benner then gave another piano solo, and the entertainment was concluded by a farce, "Corbett Out-done", in two acts, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chamberlin and F. G. Bach taking the parts. The acting was very well done, and loudly applauded.

Altogether, the affair was a success, and reflected credit on those in charge. It was mighty cheap, for 15 cents.

Walter Leon, Boy Orator.

Since the opening of the season at the Eden Musee, New York, this popular resort has been crowded by the thousands of patrons who find pleasure, recreation and education within its halls. The greatest attraction of the stage performance at present is little Walter Leon, a lad of eight years, who is a born orator, and the manner in which he discusses "Woman and Marriage" is as amusing as it is unique. The Girards, two famous Parisian artists, have been specially engaged, and their entertainment is also original and novel in its way. Delprade, the illusionist, continues to mystify the audiences with startling illusions, while his "speaking hat" trick has been declared to be the cleverest trick ever put upon the stage. There are also other prominent artists too numerous to mention, for the stage performance lasts three hours. New wax groups are being constantly added to those now on exhibition, and every important event of the day is pictured in this educational institution. One of the greatest novelties now on exhibition in the Central Hall is a new patent race-track device where the horses gallop around the track as real as life. There is no telling which horse will win. The spectators go wild with enthusiasm. Danko Gabor and his celebrated Hungarian Gipsy Band are very popular with the patrons of the Musee, because their programmes combine both classic and popular selections, and are arranged to please everyone. Afternoon and evening concerts and stage performances are given every day at the Eden Musee.

Chic Ran Over a Dog.

"Chic" Demaresi, while on his bicycle this morning, accidentally ran over a small dog at Park and North avenue. The dog, which belonged to J. Stolmak, shoemaker, was running about soon afterwards, apparently none the worse for the rough treatment.

—Four tons of flower pots have arrived at Allen's.

All Sorts of Odd Gleanings from All Parts of North Plainfield Borough, with an Occasional Peep Over into the Promised Land Back of the Mountain.

SPENCER'S FRONT STOOP, NORTH PLAINFIELD, SEPT. 6.

Wm. Giddis, of Regent street, is able to ride out after his recent illness.

Ex-Borough Clerk H. H. Brokaw has gone on a business trip to Pennsylvania.

Harmony street (old Mud lane) has been "turnpiked" by the Street Commissioner.

"Pop" Westerfelt, of Somerset place, is one of the liveliest young old men in the borough.

A stray dog was killed in the borough yesterday. Pedigree—unknown. Breed—various.

The engagement is announced of a well-known borough official to a West Front street belle.

Borough Clerk Vetterlein will leave town in a few days on a business trip of a few weeks duration.

Bill Jackson, who sits on a flagstone so gracefully on Powers's stone-wagon, weighs 210 pounds. Who'd a-thought it?

Miss Emma Furman, of Upper Montclair, Essex county, has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in the borough.

Uncle Peter Wooden, who recently passed his 93d birthday, was yesterday piling up cordwood, and otherwise killing time in his backyard.

The handsome residence being built by Boss Carpenter Daniel Hulick for Chas Brett, on Mercer avenue, is being rapidly pushed to completion.

Joe Humble says that if any more poles are erected in front of his property he will be compelled to go around the block to get across the street.

The feminine day-nurses at Brookside Sanitarium pass their spare moments tossing a small rubber ball to one another on the lawn facing Somerset street.

George Egel, manager for Mrs. D. I. Smalley, says that there will be a plenty of grain-fed pork in market soon, and that the price of sausage will be low.

Sam Taynor, constable and teamster, is doing very satisfactory work for the borough at the lower end of Brook avenue. Sam is an artist at anything he undertakes.

Wm. F. Spencer, of Washington Valley, he who runs the cider mill, will open up for business in a few weeks. He says the apple crop is not a success this year in this locality.

Chestnut and wild-grape gatherers are to pluck a plenty "bymeby", from the looks of these crops. There never were so many of each as there will be this year, in this section.

The Cracker Barrel Club is deserted now. Recruits from another organization monopolize their chairs and soap boxes, while the keeper of recollections and seeds is absent on a pleasure trip.

Members of the Hit and Miss Lawn Tennis Club, which meets at McLaughlin's Somerset court, have been having numerous one-day excursions lately. They were at Washington Rock last week.

More than an abundant crop of peaches is being gathered up in Warren township this season, and the farmers are happy as they were successful with their berries also, and received good prices for each crop.

The Voehls of Somerset street returned last week from their cottages in the woods at Coontown, near Dog Watch Hollow, where the buttermilk weeds grow and the juniper berry thrives. They were absent all summer.

Only a few more ball matches (if any) can be played on the grounds just off Somerset street as the property must soon be cut up in building lots and put on the market. Where will the kranks do their screeching next year?

Abram Coriell, Greenbrook's most popular citizen, was about town the other day calling on friends and talking politics. He is a stanch Democrat, while his brother, Wm. McD. Coriell, of Evona, is just as fierce a Republican.

"Dense" Gavin, of the West End kindling-wood factory, who won the World's Fair ticket at the recent entertainment given by St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, expects to visit the Windy City the latter part of this month.

Jake Bergen, "the little hunchback", Den Sutphin's stepson, is reunited with his wife for the third or fourth time. Jake has sold the "hose" and is going to take in the next circus and will try to live happy in the alley while the door is open.

The wooday Washingtonville correspondent of The Press is indeed very fortunate in harvesting the largest peach crop in or about Union Village or along the muddy Passaic. He is as truly successful an agriculturist as he is a newspaper correspondent.

Vine street is soon to lose two of its charming female residents. Miss Shuck and Miss Wennas are both to be married when the leaves begin to turn. Thus one by one (two this time), our borough girls pass away into happy homes, which, if they do not make, they at least adorn.

The school trustees have the use of Saenger and Turner Hall on Somerset street for $30 per month. They will occupy the same at least two months. Of course this does n't include the vault for the trustees. 'Tis only for the hall to be used by the school children. The trustees are not "in it".

L. Heyniger, who has been conducting the flour, feed and grain business on Somerset street, formerly managed by the late L. B. Boice, has closed up shop, and Mr. Heyniger has gone with C. Frank French a few doors below his old stand. Mr. Heyniger has many warm friends who wish him the best of good luck in his new departure.

Spencer's beanery, opposite the downtown crossing of the electric railway, is ripe, and the weight of the pods and vines is breaking the bean poles. Some of his friends are talking of having a frolic and picking the beans by light of the nearby harvest moon. Aprons, baskets and spectacles will be furnished upon application at the store.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Morrison, of Duer street, have been enjoying life lately, driving through the country with a team and driver loaned to them by Harry Moore, of Grove street, whose wife is a relative of Mrs. Morrison. Mr. Morrison is a pedestrian, and a true lover of nature, who often has covered twenty miles on foot, between meals.

Jake Kleiner, the star route man who carries the mail three times a week between this city and Warrenville, and whose daughter went away with hired man Randolph the other day, is over six feet tall, and of a decidedly dark complexion, with the blackest kind of hair and eyes. He is a good-natured individual, whose only fault is that he is poor—a complaint that many others are compelled to pass through life with.

Moses H. French, for many years in the milling business at Washington Valley, just at the head of Somerset street, and who also conducted a grocery store in one end of his residence opposite, died today. Mr. French was 84 years of age, and had always led an active business life until a few years ago, when he retired and moved down into the borough, where he lived on Craig place. As told in The Press, while in the barn the other day he was stricken down and had to be carried to the house by neighbors.

Some time during the next century, when rank partisanship and bigotry are not so deeply seated as now in the borough, and when citizens of both parties (particularly the Republican) will have the best interests of the town at heart, there will be some liberal-minded person who will pass the hat for the purpose of taking up a collection to purchase new desks for the Borough Council chamber. The eight old-fashioned walnut desks now in use take up too much space, and are not ornamental. They're just ugly, and should be sent back to Michigan by fast freight and worked over. And then the Council could use cracker barrels from down stairs and have room aplenty inside that awfully cumbersome-looking four-rail fence that separates the wiseacres from the nobodys.

The recent death of Francis Bernard of Harmony street, widower of the famous fortune-teller, calls up a phase of life that is worth recording. The couple were aged, and almost helpless, with only a few years of life at best before them. They owned the property on Harmony and Race streets, which was worth about $2,000, on which they resided, and thought if they disposed of it the money might not hold them out the balance of their lives. They were therefore at a loss to know what to do, when a family applied for the use of a portion of the property whereon to erect a house for themselves, promising to take care of the aged couple. They were granted the privilege, and everything went along nicely until the death of the fortune-teller, who had built a house in the rear of the lot on Race street, and resided therein. The family consisted of husband, wife and five children, three of whom were by the wife's first husband. They became estranged two years ago, and separated, the husband going west, and the wife and children remaining on the property, taking the best of care of the old man and furnishing him with all he wished. The husband last year returned from the west, and became reconciled with his wife and prevailed on her to go housekeeping with him and their two children in another part of the borough, which they did, leaving the three children by the first husband, two boys and one girl, to take care of old man Bernard. That the aged traveler who has just crossed the Great Divide appreciated the kindness of these children, or at least one of them, is evident, for in his will he has left the property to the eldest son, who is a young man about 24 years of age, straightforward, honest as the day is long, and a faithful employe of A. M. Griffen. He's a plumber, and his name is George Saffron.

CARVED HIS WIFE.

Disgraceful Family Fight on Arlington Avenue.

Police Sergeant Kiely was summoned this morning to Arlington avenue, where Eugene Shaw and his wife were having a periodical family fracas. Mrs. Shaw was found by the officer lying on the sidewalk surrounded by neighbors, with bruises about her head and face, and a large gash cut in her wrist. Shaw was in the house.

On complaint of the neighbors, Officer Kiely arrested the pair, both of whom are old offenders.

In the City Court, before Judge Coddington, Mrs. Shaw accused her husband of being habitually drunk and abusive. Her wounds, she said, were inflicted by Shaw: the bruises with a poker, and the cut in her wrist with the family carving knife. Shaw in turn accused his wife of drunkenness and neglect of their child, aged 11. Neighbors sympathized with Mrs. Shaw.

The Judge sentenced Shaw to 60 days in jail, expressing regret that he could not make the sentence more severe. The woman was discharged with a sharp reprimand.

Just Like Old Times.

The Women's Relief Corps, No. 10, Auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., will hold a lawn sociable tomorrow evening at Front and Church streets. There will be a large tent, camp fire, and everything to represent the old camp-ground. The comrades will appear in uniform.

FANWOOD, Sept. 6.

The Watchung Club will have another Fortnightly this evening.

Mrs. and Miss TenBroeck leave September 9 for Chicago, where they expect to spend two weeks at the Fair.

Mrs. W. E. Gibbs has returned to Fanwood from Buzzard's Bay after an absence from home of about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Warren will leave for Chicago, the middle of the coming week, to enjoy the White City by the Lake.

Fanwood is well represented on the cruise of the Naval Reserve, by the Messrs. Anderson, and by Paul and Louis Tuzo.

Harry P. Robinson and family are back in Fanwood permanently, having purchased the residence formerly owned by George Bates.

Edward A. Urner, the popular treasurer of the Watchung Club, returned last week from his vacation at Buzzard's Bay, and is now in training again.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Anderson will return to The Homestead October 1, for the winter. They have been spending the summer at Bensonhurst by the Sea.

It is feared that the water and hydrant improvements for Scotch Plains are killed forever, on account of the high-handed action and broken agreement of the Union Water Company.

John P. Stevens has come out this season with a handsome span of horses and a brand-new drag, and is delighting his intimate friends by generous invitations to drives and suppers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Beeken are entertaining this week some friends from Brooklyn, Miss Jessie Jervis and Mr. Leawens. Miss Jervis is well-known in Brooklyn musical circles.

Judge Ashley has become an expert player of "Hearts". His friends are not at all surprised at his easy conquest of the principles of this game, for his play "on Hearts" is worthy of his gallantry and magnetism.

The Spring-Baylor musical specialists are rehearsing some new songs written especially for their serio-comic artists, and all the hits are of a local nature. Fanwood society people are looking forward to their concert with much interest.

The progressive euchre party at The Homestead Saturday evening was a very successful affair. Twenty-four contested for beautiful solid silver prizes. The first prize for the gentler sex was won by Miss TenBroeck, and the first prize for men went to George C. Miller. The reputation of the Misses Boucher for hospitality was fully sustained, and the refreshments following the game were in good taste and much enjoyed. The life of Fanwood seems to centre around and in The Homestead this summer, and from the present outlook its gaiety bids fair to go far into the winter months. Among those present at the party were the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. TenBroeck, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. TenBroeck, Miss TenBroeck, J. P. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Nourse, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. B. Urner, Mrs. T. F. Bainbridge, Mrs. W. C. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Warren, Miss Nicol, G. C. Miller, Judge Ashley and the Misses Boucher.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

The Skirts of Chance.

The glamour, fascination and temptation surrounding the stage are brilliantly delineated in "The Skirts of Chance" by Capt. Alfred Thompson, the prize novelette published in "Tales from Town Topics, No. 9". Leona Fabulo, the heroine, is a premiere danseuse of fascinating beauty and exceptional grace, and her struggles and triumphs and love for the Hon. Bertie Margorel—a cad of the first water—make one hundred and fifty pages of absorbing reading. Vivid pen pictures of London and Continental Europe abound in the story, and European life at high pressure is faithfully and unerringly described. The bright miscellaneous matter following the story is equal to that of any preceding issue of "Tales from Town Topics". Town Topics is published at 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

Arthur Van Bunard, the driver of a tobacco wagon who was thrown from his wagon near Fanwood, Monday, and received a broken leg, is reported today by Dr. Endicott of the Muhlenberg Hospital staff to be steadily improving in condition.

The Row Cost Them Each $8.

Charles McCann and James Matthews were arrested for fighting under Goff's saloon on the Boulevard Saturday afternoon. This morning in the City Court Judge Coddington fined them $8 each, with the alternative of 30 days in jail. The fines were paid.

Seized Horse and Wagon.

An execution was issued by Justice Nash on the property of Charles Burnet. John L. Blackford, assignee, made the application, and the execution was served by Constable Mattox, who seized a horse and wagon, the property of Burnet.

Another Argument for Muzzling.

Last Friday John Carney was bitten on the arm by a large dog, five teeth entering the flesh. The wound is very sore, but no serious results are anticipated.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

WANTS JOE ARRESTED.

Mary Won the Suit.

In the case of Mary VanRiper against Noah Pike to recover the value of a ring borrowed and pawned, Justice Mosher this afternoon awarded a judgment of $53 and costs to the plaintiff.

Miss Van Riper this afternoon swore out a warrant before Justice Mosher for the arrest of Joe Pike on the charge of grand larceny.

Lawyer George DeMeza represented Miss VanRiper.

Passed the Sewer Ordinance.

The special session of the Plainfield Common Council last night was largely occupied with discussing what might be considered at a special session. It was decided that it would be bad precedent to bring up any business not specified in the call.

F. A. Dunham's offer to furnish free, as an advertisement for the brick, vitrified brick of his furnishing, for the pavement in front of the Fire Department Headquarters, was referred to the proper committee with power.

$3,950 was ordered borrowed for the general fund, and $1,475 for the fire department.

The Sewer Committee reported progress in the matter of sewers and refused Charles Hand's application to connect with the North avenue sewer.

No action was taken on the Peace and Morals ordinance, nor on the Madison avenue ordinance.

The North Avenue Sewer Ordinance was unanimously adopted, after some discussion.

The Council will meet again Sept. 19, to consider the Assessor's books.

To Break Up The Bridge Gang.

Charles Kaeding, proprietor of the barber shop on the bridge, 25 Somerset street, headquarters of the notorious bridge gang, was arrested by Marshal Pangborn just before noon today charged with keeping a disorderly house. The Marshal is determined to break up this resort, and citizens of the borough who have been compelled to pass the place and hear disgusting talk and see disgusting actions of the crowd always hanging around the place, will feel grateful to the Marshal for his efforts.

Kaeding's trial will be Monday at 10 a. m.

Mistaken.

The Viscountess Sherbrooke, wife of Robert Lowe, the well known English statesman, was a woman of strong character, and she challenged criticism in that she was in the habit of saying whatever come into her mind at the moment.

She had sense and courage, a heart and a head, and she bore a large part in her husband's public life.

One repartee ascribed to her shows that she was at least ready with loyalty of speech. The French embassador one day said to her somewhat patronisingly: "You know England is said to be a land of shopkeepers. I had no idea of finding there such great military displays."

"Ah," she replied, "the people of different countries do not understand each other. Now, I have actually been under the impression that the French were a great military nation!"—Youth's Companion.

A Talented Agent.

Mrs. Homeseeker—Keep peace in the family?

Agent—Yes, mum—nothing like it. Whenever your husband drops his collar buttons he'll always know where to find 'em.—New York Weekly.

HOME RULE ON ICE

Cold Reception in the House of Lords.

FIVE TO ONE IN OPPOSITION

The Duke of Devonshire Declares That the Union of Ireland and Great Britain is a Decree of Nature Which Laws and Treaties Have Only Recorded.

LONDON, Sep. 6.—The House of Lords was filled yesterday with members and visitors eager to hear the debate on the Home Rule bill opened. Although the conservative whips will not master their full force before the evening of the final division, the opposition had in attendance yesterday five members to every one of the Liberal side. The galleries were filled with peeresses. The Stranger's gallery was packed to suffocation. A peculiar feature of the crowd was the conspicuousness of the clerical element.

Earl Spencer, first Lord of the Admiralty, moved the second reading of the Home Rule bill, making a tame speech, barren of original thought or expression. He claimed for the government all honesty of intentions in its work for the bill and credited the opposition with being equally conscientious. He reviewed at some length the history of Ireland since the union. All the so-called remedial measures of the successive governments, he said, had come too late to help the country, even had they not contained radical defects which would have rendered them useless early or late. His own personal experience satisfied him that Home Rule was the only possible solution of the Irish question. After dwelling upon the beneficent results to be expected from several provisions of the bill Earl Spencer closed with the declaration that the Gladstonian plan of Home Rule was calculated to satisfy all aspirations of Ireland to self government.

The Duke of Devonshire, Liberal Unionist, moved the rejection of the bill. The Duke of Devonshire contended that every class in Ireland except one was Unionist and was opposed to the measure under discussion. Did the government, he asked, believe that the manufacturers, merchants and traders of the country who opposed the Home Rule bill, mistook their position? The Union of Ireland and Great Britain, he said, had been a decree of nature, which laws and treaties had only recorded. The present bill was crude and unworkable and a violation of the Constitution.

Viscount Powerscourt, Liberal Unionist, was the next speaker, and the attendance dwindled while he enlarged upon the coming ruin of Ireland. Home rule would blight all industries, he said.

Baron Brassey, Liberal, spoke in support of the bill, and the Duke of Norfolk, Liberal-Conservative, spoke against it.

FARMERS AND LEGISLATION.

Protest Against Rich Men Making All the Laws.

ROUND LAKE, N. Y., Sep 6.—The State Grange, representing several counties in this part of the State, held a session here yesterday, about a thousand farmers and their families being present. Mr. T. W. Brigham of Ohio, the Grand Master of the National Grange, made the chief address. He said, among other things, that farmers must organize to avoid unjust taxation. The custom of rich men to manipulate legislation was denounced, and he gave as an instance the election of a rich New Yorker to be Senator from Ohio. In the whole Congress there were but 26 farmers, and on the Committee on Agriculture in the House one half were lawyers. He strongly urged greater organization all over the United States.

POOR ROSE BAUM.

Her Relatives Claim to be Unable to Help Her.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sep. 6.—Mrs. Sarah Summers, of Boston, sister to Mrs. Rose Baum, the pauper lunatic who was turned loose in New York City by the Boston authorities last Sunday, left this city yesterday for Boston accompanied by her husband. Mrs. Summers said it was impossible for her husband and herself to take care of her sister as they were in very poor circumstances themselves. Joseph Hemanthal of this city with whom Mrs. Summers was staying said that he considered the bringing of the insane woman to his store by the Boston authorities an outrage and that he could not and would not do anything for her.

ENGINES OF DEATH.

Huge Holzer Projectiles Show Unexpected Results.

NEW YORK, Sep. 6.—The first test of the Holzer projectiles of American manufacture took place at the Sandy Hook proving grounds yesterday with results even more favorable than were expected by the makers.

Two eight-inch shells were fired with a velocity of 1635 feet an second at a nine-inch rolled, oil tempered and annealed steel plate. Both shells went through the plate with out seriously cracking it. One of the shells after delicate measurements showed that it had been "upset" slightly.

The projectiles are superior to those of France or Russia.

A Political Canard.

PARIS, Sep. 6.—Reports that President Carnot was dead or dying were started last night by a group of tricky politicians who are trying to bring about his retirement from office. M. Carnot is not well, but he was strong enough in the morning to preside at a Cabinet Council in Fontainebleau and there is nothing to indicate that he will have difficulty in discharging all his State duties for an indefinite period.

Fatal Collision.

CINCINNATI, Sep. 6.—Through mistaken orders Big Four express train No. 10 collided with a freight this morning near Batesville, O., killing one man, believed to be Robert Stevenson, Cincinnati laborer, and injuring several others.

Grand Army Boys.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sep. 6.—The G. A. R. parade yesterday was not as successful as anticipated, there being only about 20,000 veterans in line while 50,000 were expected.

Mexican Border Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 5.—No definite arrangements for the withdrawal of United States and Mexican troops and the release of Mexican customs officers and the flock of 3,000 sheep at the Havana ranch on the Rio Grande, pending the settlement of the boundary dispute through diplomatic channels, has yet been made. Matters at the ranch appear to be even more complicated than ever.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 6.—For the District of Columbia, New England, Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina: Fair; slightly cooler in northern portion of New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania; southwest winds.

DETAILS OF THE MURDER

The Victims Enticed to Halliday's Farm.

PISTOL AND CHLOROFORM FOUND

The Victims Identified as Working Women From Newburgh—Mrs. Halladay Continues Apparently Insane—Suspicion That Halladay May Not be Dead.

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 7.—The double murder at Burlingham has been as thoroughly investigated as possible at this time. The victims are Margaret McQuillan, wife of Thomas McQuillan, and their daughter Sarah, all of the town of Newburgh, Orange county. Yesterday James McQuillan, a cousin of Joseph McQuillan of Newburgh, reached Bloomingburgh, accompanied by Adam Sloan, a friend. The body of the young woman was shown them and fully identified as that of the daughter of Joseph McQuillan. The body of the elder woman being buried a full description was given the men, and McQuillan left perfectly satisfied that the victims were his relatives. The identification is made more complete by certain articles of clothing and a description of the dead women given by Charles E. Baker, who helped remove the bodies. The rumors that Mrs. McQuillan had $400 with her when she left home are not thought to be true, but that the girl had a gold watch and two rings which are missing is known.

Mrs. Halliday the alleged murderess made three visits to the McQuillan home, the first of which was about ten days ago. She represented she came from a Mr. Smith of Newburgh and introduced herself as a Mrs. Smith. She said she lived at Walden, and was looking for some one to assist in house cleaning and would need them about two weeks. On Wednesday of last week Mrs. Halliday called again and offered $2 a day and board for help. The mother accepted the offer, and went away about 5 o'clock in the afternoon in a buckboard wagon with Mrs Halliday, who drove the horse.

On Saturday afternoon last, between 4 and 5 o'clock, Mrs. Halliday reappeared at the McQuillan home, with the same horse and wagon she had on her previous visit, and alone.

The daughter was not at home, but returned soon after Mrs. Halliday's arrival. The father was present when Mrs. Halliday told that the mother had been injured by falling from a stepladder, and that Mrs. Halliday wanted the daughter Sarah to go back with her to care for the injured mother. Sarah accompanied her, and the two drove away about 5 o'clock.

Two pistols were found in a vault in an outhouse on Justice Thayer's place where the suspected woman was first taken when arrested. The pistols are of 32 calibre. This calibre corresponds with the bullet found near the bed in the house and with the bullets in the murdered women.

In the same vault where the pistols were found later there was dug out an ounce vial without a label containing chloroform and two boxes of cartridges, one full and the other partially empty. Mrs. Halliday on her return from Bloomingburg with Constable Scott, on Monday, went to the outhouse while the party stopped at Justice Thayer's. It is thought she dropped the pistol and chloroform and cartridges while there.

The inquest was continued but nothing of interest was brought out. The suspected murderess is still in Constable Scott's care at his house. She continues to treat her callers to the same disconnected visionary speech and natural or assumed crazy actions. Many of the neighbors are inclined to believe that Paul Halliday the husband of woman under arrest, is not dead but decamped.

GIRLS IN CAPTIVITY.

Bloodhounds Scouring a Georgia County for a Brutal Negro.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sep. 7.—Great excitement is reported at Stokesville, on Seventeen Mile Creek, Coffee county. A large number of citizens armed are scouring the country for a brutal negro reported to have two white girls in captivity.

Yesterday one of them escaped and made her way to the house of a widow and told her story. She said she and her sister had been stolen from their parents by the negro and were forced to beg for him and submit to his indignities. The negro entered the widow's house, recaptured the girl, and after beating her cruelly, forced her to accompany him by threatening to kill her. Bloodhounds have been secured and every effort is being made to rescue the girls and capture the negro.

KAISER AND CLERGY.

Mutual Admiration by Emperor William and the Bishop of Metz.

METZ, Sep. 7.—An unexpected incident was the salutation of the Emperor by the Bishop of Metz as Kaiser. On behalf of his clergy and himself the bishop expressed joy that the Emperor had decided to reside in Lorraine. He begged the Emperor to judge them not by the reports of hostile newspapers, but by their actions. It was above all, he said, their endeavor to maintain among the people a religious spirit and respect for morality and to protect them from subversive doctrines which threatened the existence of society.

The Emperor replied in a long speech. He expressed heartfelt thanks and gratitude for the exertions of the clergy, a subject which, he said, formed one of the topics of his conversation with the Pope on his recent visit to Rome. The bishop, interposing, said that the Pope had informed him of the subject of the interview referred to by the Emperor, and added that he was delighted to find that the Emperor's views agreed with his own. The Emperor then referred to the improved health of the Pope. In departing he shook hands with the bishop, saying: "I am grateful to all who support me in this work."

RACING FOR A RAILROAD.

Proceedings Connected With the Evansville & Terre Haute Receivership.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sep. 7.—Director F. W. Cook, treasurer W. J. Lewis, and attorney Iglehart, of the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad Company, who went to Bloomfield, Ind. yesterday on a special train prepared to dissolve the receivership made at Sullivan, had not returned home at 10:30 last night and no definite information concerning the deal can be had. Bloomfield is an out-of-the-way place, with no telegraphic communication after 6 p. m. The announcement of the appointment of Captain Grammer as receiver created the greatest surprise here and it is the opinion in railroad circles that it is the result of misrepresentations. It is stated that Captain Grammer left here Tuesday for Sullivan with his bond as receiver in his pocket and said nothing about the affair to any of the officers.

NEW HAVEN REDS.

The Anarchistic Element in Control of Labor Organizations.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 7.—Trouble is brewing in local labor unions. The Socialist and Anarchistic elements have been growing unusually lively of late, aided by material encouragement from New York headquarters, and now whether the tail or the dog will do the wagging must be settled. The first time the new anarchistic socialistic combination showed its strength was in the preparations of the Labor day parade Monday. It put forward candidates for all the official tickets and in only a few cases failed to elect its candidates. The result was that over a hundred members of the various unions refused to parade. They are now active in organizing an active opposition to the successful combination and the question of supremacy in the labor unions will soon be settled.

STILL PUSHING REPEAL

Steadily Nearing a Vote in the Senate.

SOON A QUESTION OF ENDURANCE

Silver Men Vainly Fighting for Delay—All Other Legislation Must Give Way to the Repeal Bill—House Rules Adopted at Last and Business Begun.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7.—The indications in the Senate yesterday did not point to speedy action on the House bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. The first two hours were occupied by Mr. Morgan (Dem. Ala.,) in advocacy of the resolution which he had offered on Tuesday to provide for a joint select committee on finance and which, he avowed, was intended to supercede the Finance Committees of both the Senate and the House. There were ten minutes to spare, after he took his seat, before the repeal bill would come up as the "unfinished business" and that interval was occupied in a somewhat acrimonious colloquy between Senators and in a yea and nay vote on a motion to take up the repeal bill. The bill was taken up by a vote of 37 to 21, and Mr. Morgan's resolution went to the calendar, from which it can only be taken on a motion, and by a majority vote. The remainder of the day was consumed by Mr. Stewart (Rep. Nev.,) in a continuation of the speech on which he had spent four hours of the previous day's session.

House Rules Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7.—The House yesterday adopted the code of rules which will govern it during the Fifty-third Congress subject to the decision of the Committee on Rules, which under the rules has an almost absolute power to direct the business of the body. The rules vary but little from those that controlled the Fifty-second Congress. When first reported they contained one radical change and re-enacted the clause which permits 100 members to constitute a quorum in Committee of the Whole. This clause was borrowed from the rules of the Fifty-first Congress and although every member of the Committee on Rules was in favor of it, the pressure brought against it on the Democratic side proved too powerful and the committee gracefully yielding, surrendered their point, and the clause was stricken out.

After the adoption of the rules by the House Speaker Crisp announced that it would be in order for members to send bills and resolutions to the Speaker's desk for printing and reference and petitions to the box for reference only. Immediately every page on the floor was converted into a messenger and loaded with bills. Many members did not wait the services of a page, but themselves bore the precious load to the desk and delivered them. The clerks were almost overwhelmed by the mass, there being several hundred bills presented. The mere work of numbering them and sorting for reference will occupy the file clerk and his assistants for a day or two. Most of the bills of a general character have already been mentioned.

The House adjourned until Saturday.

Pushing Repeal Cautiously.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7.—Secretary Carlisle had quite a conference with some of the leaders of the House after which he went to the Senate and had a long talk with Chairman Voorhees of the Finance Committee. It was after Mr. Carlisle had conferred with a number of Senators that the conclusion was reached that it would be well not to push the resolution providing for the change of the hour of meeting to 11 o'clock, for the reason that such action might be construed as a desire on the part of those friendly to the repeal bill, to press it too hard.

It has been said that it was decided to bring the repeal bill to a vote on the 18th of the month, but Mr. Voorhees denies that there has been any discussion on that proposition or that any day has been suggested. It is known, however, that just as soon as the leaders on the administration side believe that legitimate debate has been exhausted and that discussion has degenerated into a species of oratorical filibustering, they will endeavor to force a vote by passing a resolution providing for continuous sessions of the Senate day and night until a vote is reached.

The silver men, however, meet this programme with one of their own which even thus early in the proceedings brings to the front the question of endurance. It is simply demanding a call from the Senate and the attendance of a quorum, whenever, during the debate on the part of the silver men it becomes apparent there is no quorum present in the chamber.

The action of the various committees, or rather their non-action, indicates that there is to be no general legislation until repeal has been acted upon. Every committee has before it important bills bearing upon every conceivable subject and yet, save a few bills for private relief, not a report has been made to the Senate. This is understood to be in accordance with the programme that nothing shall be permitted to get in the way of the measure the Senate is now debating.

CORRIGAN AT CHICAGO.

Tribute to the Religious Enthusiasm of Columbus and Isabella.

CHICAGO, Sep. 7.—Archbishop Corrigan of New York was the distinguished guest at the Catholic Congress yesterday, and was tendered a spontaneous ovation. He thanked his hearers for the hearty reception they had given him, and took occasion to say a few words on the sublime faith which upheld Columbus through all the trials that preceded his discovery of America. Columbus was a religious enthusiast of the best sort. It was this religious enthusiasm, he said, which enabled him to hold his own when all the world looked coldly on his great project, and it was this in the end which enabled him to triumph over every obstacle. He thought a well deserved tribute should also be paid to that great Queen, Isabella of Spain, whose religious zeal had in a large measure insured the success of the discoverer's enterprise. Although a woman, she parted with things a woman generally the most dearly prizes, her jewels, to further the schemes of the great explorer. The archbishop's brief address was listened to amid the profoundest stillness of the big audience, and it was liberally applauded at its conclusion.

EXPOSITION ORCHESTRA.

The Big Musical Company Disbanded as a White Elephant.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Sep. 7.—After to-day the aggregation of musicians known as the Exposition Orchestra will be heard no more within the gates of the White City. The 104 artists as an adjunct of the exposition will disband.

The World's Fair orchestral association have issued a letter saying that "it is not owing to the lack of patronage that this step has been taken, but on account of the enormous expense of the orchestra, the limited seating capacity of the Music Hall and the low price of admission. By reducing the orchestra from 100 to 60 men we could place the concerts on a paying basis but as we would thereby lower the standard and dignity of the organization, we choose the alternative of withdrawing."

No suits at law for alleged breach of contract will be brought against the Exposition by the musicians. Theodore Thomas says he does not intend to return to New York, but will lead the orchestra again at the auditorium in the fall.

GRAND ARMY.

Ex-President Harrison Honored by His Old Regiment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sep. 7.—The Grand Army gave the pension question considerable attention yesterday, and a report from the Pension Committee is expected to-day. Harrison's old regiment, the 70th, with brigade associates, held a meeting and elected Harrison president. In returning thanks he made a brief speech, in the course of which he said: "When the powers of evil seem to lift themselves; when men throw out the red flag instead of the starry banner that represents law and liberty; when riots break out upon the streets of our great cities, do not be discouraged; do not forget, for I tell you when the appeal comes to the great body of the American people—when it comes to the farms and shops, to those who are the sons of the soldiers of 1861, no other flag will be permitted to stay for one moment in the air but the starry banner."

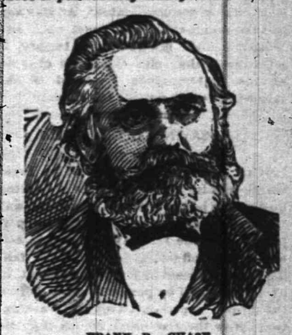
A BRAVE OHIO VETERAN.

Frank P. Chase of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Sandusky.

SANDUSKY, O., Sept. 6—In view of the extraordinary interest in the grand army encampment at Indianapolis this week, the following letter from Frank P. Chase of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home here is particularly timely. He writes:



FRANK P. CHASE.

"I have taken six bottles of Paine's celery compound, and it has done me more good than all other medicines that I have ever used, and I have spent hundreds of dollars for them. When I commenced to use the compound I could not write my name, was in pain all the time, and would have to get up and walk the floor in agony; now, I have scarcely any pain."

Paine's celery compound permanently cures nervous debility, exhaustion and kindred diseases: neuralgia, hysteria, headache, nervous dyspepsia, rheumatism and kidney troubles. Try it.

INDIAN SMUGGLERS.

The Red Man an Apt Pupil in White Civilization.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7.—The difficulty of guarding effectually the vast frontier of the United States on the north and south, has been frequently made apparent. Chinese come in from Mexico and Canada; alien contract laborers, too, cross our frontiers, and now it is discovered that the original American is engaged in eluding the vigilance of Uncle Sam's customs officers. A case has just been brought to the attention of Assistant Secretary Hamlin. An Indian is reported as having crossed over from Canada into the United States in North Dakota, with $2,000 worth of Indian goods in his possession. By law Indians in their migrations on the northern border go to and return from Canada at will and are allowed to carry their "effects" with them and enter this country with them, duty free.

The noble red man, it is asserted by a special Treasury agent, reporting the case, has evidently learned some "tricks" from his pale-faced neighbor, and is bringing into this country as his personal "effects" goods subject to duty. In this case the Indian swore that the goods were his, but it is since learned that he is a runner for a Canadian manufacturer, and that they are sold to Indians in the United States on our northen border without paying the duty the law requires.

An investigation of the matter has been ordered as it is asserted the collector of customs at the port of entry has not exercised due vigilance in the matter. How extensive this practice has been or how long it has been going on, is not known.

CLEVER COUNTERFEITS.

Bad $5 Silver Certificates Circulated in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep 7.—Counterfeiters have taken advantage of the prevailing scarcity of currency to float a large number of spurious $2 and $5 silver certificates. The $5 bills are very numerous. The small scalloped seal is excellent both in color and execution. The colored Treasury number is also good, but the figures are irregular. The portrait of Gen. Grant is poorly engraved and has a moth-eaten appearance.

The police have succeeded in catching a part of the gang who have been circulating the counterfeit certificates. Yesterday two Italians made small purchases of an Italian peanut vender, paying him with a $5 bill. A policeman appeared and they started to run, dropping a roll of bills. The men were caught and arrested. Eleven counterfeit $5 certificates, such as have been found in the banks and stores about town, were in the roll. At the police station they gave their names as Victor Ferrelli and Geroes Ciieti. From papers found in their pockets it is believed that they are a part of an organized gang of counterfeiters, having headquarters in Mulberry street, New York. A tintype picture of the two men in company with two others was taken from one of the Italians.

FOSTER'S AFFAIRS.

The Ex-Secretary's Finances Make a Pretty Good Showing.

BUCYRUS, O., Sep. 7.—The statement of the personal affairs of Hon. Charles Foster, twice Governor of Ohio, and ex-Secretary of the Treasury, is filed by the assignee, J. B. Gormley. The report shows the bills and accounts receivable to aggregate $157,393.68, appraised at $106,200.71; stock $376,181.93, appraised $118; real estate $82,123.60, appraised at par; personal property $2,950.40, appraised at par; life insurance policies $4,209, appraised at par. Total net assets $642,849.61; total appraisements $314,359.71. The liabilities are, bills payable, $75,830, and overdrafts on Foster & Company's bank, $135,000. Of the stocks held by the Governor nearly all are in Fostoria.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Unsettled Weather and Rain; Southeast, Shifting to Southwest Winds.

The Chicago papers announce that with the end of August the paid admissions to the Fair amounted to $10,000,000. A steady increase has been shown month by month.

There seems likely to be considerable rivalry for the Republican Assembly nomination in this district. C. H. Codding, of Westfield, is supported by many influential men in the district. The opposition to him seems to come from Rahway, which has seven candidates. As Rahway had the nomination six years ago, and Westfield has not had it in twenty, it would seem that Mr. Codding's chances are the better, since Westfield is the largest township outside the cities.

LIFE-SAVING LEGISLATION.

With much gratification The Press learns that its agitation of the life-saving question is bearing fruit. The Press was the first newspaper to plead for the perpetuation of the Life-Saving Service, and while other influential journals were falling in line presented strong argument in its columns and by personal letter before the proper representatives at Washington. Now the glad news comes that its recommendations are to be adopted. A Washington despatch of yesterday says:

It is expected that bills will be introduced in both houses before the end of the week to open the life-saving stations for the summer months. The recent wrecks along the Jersey coast and the loss of life within sight of four life-saving stations, which were closed under the law, have aroused feeling for an earlier opening of the stations. Governor Sayers, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said today: "I will cheerfully pledge myself to pass through the House any appropriation however large that will increase the efficiency of the life-saving service. Last week's story of disaster along the Atlantic coast is too eloquent to require any comment. I will say the same of the lighthouse service and of the quarantine service."

SHORT OF SUGAR.

A curious state of affairs, and one in which Plainfield housewives will be interested at this canning season, was a granulated-sugar "famine" in St. Paul one day last week. Not a pound of this commodity could be bought at any of the leading grocery stores. The shortage was only in granulated, there being plenty of cut loaf and Louisiana sugar. The granulated, however, is in greater demand among housekeepers than the other grades, and the inconvenience to which they were put, although temporary, was no trifling matter. "The sugar famine"—said a large dealer—"is primarily traceable to the financial conditions which have restricted the trade so seriously within the last sixty days. These conditions have caused a falling off in the demand of jobbers upon refiners, and the refiners conformed their output to the reduced demand of the jobbers. This, however, is the preserving season; and the stocks of the jobbers, being very low, were soon exhausted by the sudden and heavy demand of the retailers. The demand on the jobbers caused them to make a corresponding demand on the refiners—a demand in excess of their ability to respond to, and for two weeks the orders taken by the refiners were for shipment as soon as possible. The result has been that jobbers' orders have been filled from one to two weeks after reaching the refineries, and now the supply is temporarily exhausted."

A CHANCE FOR SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT.

The abolition in the Cleveland public schools of examinations and the substitution of a monthly ranking system based on actual work are attracting wide attention. Utica took a step in the same direction last spring, when public examinations were omitted in the ward schools. The Observer of that city recommends that the Cleveland system be adopted by its own trustees. "This bold move"—it says—"would seem to be in the nature of a reform that may well be extended to every school in the land. The old system of school examinations long ago outlived its usefulness, and there is nothing to be gained by continuing it. In the first place, it consumes a deal of time that might better be devoted to the every-day study of lessons. It is often the case that weeks are spent by teachers in preparing their pupils for examination at the end of a term or school year, and when these examinations are held, what do they really amount to? They merely display the ability of pupils to answer test questions as to which they have been drilled and rehearsed. As in China the student stands highest who can answer the greatest number of conundrums propounded by the examiner, so false values have been put upon the learning of our boys and girls possessing a certain bright tact that might be termed the gift to answer questions. The desired end will be attained when terms of school begin and end without any claptrap and when the card of standing given the pupil at the end of the term is based on his every-day recitals."

This is a most acceptable move in the line of progress, and the Plainfield School System, which prides itself on leading the times, should hasten to adopt the reform.

AN ECHO OF OUR LAST-YEAR WAR.

Secretary Herbert has turned a particularly illuminating ray of light upon the "Chilian war" episode of the Harrison Administration in his letter to the Senate regarding the unpaid duty on a consignment of European shells for the navy, which has been lying in the Custom-house for a year or more. He shows that these shells, comprising 96 ten-inch Firth armor-piercing shells, 60 twelve-inch Holtzer armor-piercing shells, 200 six-inch and 200 eight-inch Holtzer armor-piercing shells, and 550 ten-inch Hadfield common shells, were ordered by cable by the Navy Department in January, 1892, the emergency being so great that the mails were too slow to meet it. January, 1892, was a great month for the Harrison Administration. The news from Washington began with the first days of the month to be saturated with war rumors of the most stirring kind. All the navy-yards were said to be in a perfect fever of war preparations, the Navy Department was full of bustle and war talk, heavy shipments of powder and ammunition were reported as starting from San Francisco for Washington, and large consignments of gun-cotton were discovered on the way from Newport. War was in the air, and the number of warriors who were determined to "blow Chili out of existence" was on the increase hourly.

Viewed now, in the light thrown upon the episode by this cable order for shells, there can be no doubt now that the President was really preparing for a war upon Chili, and was actually collecting ammunition to begin the fight.

All this was serious business, but there seems to have been an amusing aspect to the affair. The New York Evening Post is laughing editorially because when President Harrison's shipload of European shells arrived, he could not get them out of the Custom-house without paying duty, and the Navy Department had no funds at its disposal which could be drawn on for the purpose. "If"—says The Post—"the President had been a little more ferocious, or if Chili had been a little less prompt and manly in sending her answer to our 'ultimatum', our Presbyterian President would have had to start his war-ships for Chili, to 'blow her out of existence', with no more powerful shells than our American manufacturers were able to invent, or he would have been compelled to ask Congress, as Secretary Herbert asks it now, to pass a resolution remitting the duty. Mr. Herbert makes the request as an 'enemy of the protective-tariff system', but President Harrison would have been obliged to make it as a friend of the system in distress. The spectacle of Uncle Sam, brought to a standstill at the beginning of a war of his own provocation because he had not the money in one pocket to transfer to the other to enable him to pay duty on his foreign ammunition, would have been a rare one. We do not think that Congress ought to remit the duty. To do that would be to cast reflection upon the protective-tariff system. The bill ought to be sent to Benjamin Harrison, at Indianapolis, Ind., and he ought to use the shells as object lessons in international courtesy and Christian civilization in his lectures on international law before the students of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University."

HER 105TH BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. VanNostrand Attributes Her Longevity to Not Wearing Corsets.

There was a line of vehicles hitched to the fence in front of the VanNostrand house in Millstone, Somerset county, during the whole of yesterday. Few of the villagers passed through the street on which the house faces without stopping to congratulate Mrs. Sarah Farley VanNostrand. Seated in a rocking chair in the hall Mrs. VanNostrand had a cheery word for everyone who entered. It was the old lady's 105th birthday. These anniversaries in Millstone have now attained the dignity of a local holiday.

Less than a mile distant from the house in which she now lives, Mrs. VanNostrand was born in 1788, and her long life has been passed entirely within the neighborhood of Millstone.

Save a slight deafness, Mrs. VanNostrand's faculties are unimpaired. Her memory was never better, and she recognised readily all who called yesterday.

Mrs. VanNostrand has twelve grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. The last is two years old. She has five children living, and her age with them aggregates 461 years.

Mrs. VanNostrand has never lived on any particular principle of diet or dress, but she has her opinion in the matter of corsets. She has never worn them, and believes that lots of other women would live to her age if they would only leave corsets alone.

HE NEVER CAME BACK.

And Captain Martin Is Mourning the Loss of a Wheel.

A man sleek of tongue giving the name of Arthur Graham of Paterson called at noon yesterday at Frank L. C. Martin's bicycle establishment and hired a wheel for two hours saying that he should have reduced rates as he was staying for a week at the Dr. Paul place on Park avenue and would hire a wheel every day during his stay in Plainfield. He glided away on Liberty Road Racer No 6649, and has not yet returned. That is why F. L. C. Martin is now offering a reward for the return of the wheel. At the Dr. Paul place it was learned that the thief came there only yesterday. He had one meal at the house for which he did not settle.

Is There Any Partiality?

Word was received from the Board of Education this year by the teachers in charge, that all pupils promoted from the Washington school, and living on the west side of Liberty street, should go to the Irving scoool.

Now it appears that some are permitted to attend the Franklin building, while others are compelled to go to the Irving.

Several parents are anxious to know if there is any partiality shown in the matter.

In Hard Luck All Around.

Eugene Shaw, who was yesterday sentenced by Judge Coddington to 60 days in jail, was also committed by Justice Nash for two years delinquent poll tax. He will remain in jail until the tax is paid.

I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with disagreeing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured.—E. C. Warner, Sunland, Vt.

Will Plead Guilty.

The two colored men in whose possession was found property stolen in July from Mrs. Mary Morris, of East Third street, were yesterday taken to Elizabeth by Chief of Police Grant. The real names of the men are Eddie Henry and William King. Henry was formerly employed as a bootblack in Eugene Laine's barber shop. The prisoners were committed to jail in default of $200 bail apiece.

They will probably plead guilty before the Court of Special Sessions next Wednesday.

Woolley—VanMiddlesworth.

A pretty wedding took place last evening, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, 111 Elmwood place, when Miss Estelle VanMiddlesworth became the wife of Lindsey Woolley of Westfield.

Forty guests were present, being the immediate relatives and friends.

At 7:15, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, and attended by Miss Madeline Bridge as maid of honor and Miss Emma Woolley as bridesmaid, entered the parlor from a rear room, while through another room came the groom with Charles VanMiddlesworth as best man.

The bridal party were met by the Rev. Dr. C. B. Barnes, of the First M. E. church, who performed the marriage ceremony, assisted by Benjamin Hand.

Congratulations were immediately showered on the happy couple.

The bride was becomingly attired in a goblin-blue costume, while the groom wore a suit of black diagonal.

After the ceremony the evening was spent in pleasant conversation, during which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolley left on the 8:49 train for New York, amid showers of rice and good-luck shoes. They will visit Albany and Saratoga, returning the latter part of the week.

Next Monday evening they will be given a reception at their new home on Elmer street, Westfield. The young people received many handsome and useful presents from their friends. All join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Woolley a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Better Look After This Tree.

A fine old elm tree on East Second street directly back of Noah Pike's place is going to destruction in a rather curious manner. The tree about a month ago received a break at the top of the trunk and the split has gradually extended downward, dividing the immense trunk, the parts of which are slowly separating, leaving between them a widening gap, and threatening to fall at any time and injure passersby. In New York some years ago a large tree was injured in a similar manner, and received much attention in the newspapers. Before the tree could be removed one half of it fell into the street, striking a passing carriage and injuring the occupants. The Street Commissioner should give this matter his immediate attention. If the parts cannot be bound together and the tree saved, it should be removed at once, and not be allowed to remain in its present state, a menace to life and limb.

Sequel to "The Old Homestead".

Archie Boyd, the celebrated interpreter of good old Uncle Josh Whitcomb, will be welcomed back to Plainfield next Monday night in his new play, entitled "The Country Squire". This is a domestic drama in four acts, American in its characteristics, story and locality, and a child of the same spirit as "The Old Homestead", though entirely different in plot and in the individuality of its characters. It is not a mere series of family pictures, but a connected whole, bound together by a thread of incidents and vicissitudes of life, simple and interesting, moving among real people in the real and respectable middle classes of society. The noiseless struggles, longings, sympathies and errors of the every-day life of those who live by labor of hand or brain, are stirringly depicted. It is quite refreshing to hear that another play of the "Old Homestead" nature has been added to the present meagre list, and those whose better tastes prefer a healthy stimulant are to be congratulated on this new acquisition.

"The Country Squire" is coming to Plainfield under the most favorable auspices, by the well-known and popular manager, Harry J. Clapham, with an efficient company, a superior quartette, and a chorus of excellent singers, as well as a full complement of beautiful scenery painted by Seavey of New York. "The Country Squire", like its famous forerunner, is sure to be a brilliant success.

He Loved, But Was Left Behind.

A colored native of the West Indies, was visiting in Plainfield last night with a female friend. When the 3:37 a. m. train for New York pulled up to the station, the woman boarded the train while her escort went to buy tickets. The train pulled out quickly, and Mr. Man was left behind. The girl was dropped at Netherwood to await the coming of her knight.

JOE HOCKED MARY'S DIAMOND RING.

THEN BORROWED GOOD HARD CASH OF HER, BESIDES.

The Gilded Youth's Father Promised to Settle with Miss VanRiper, but Didn't, and That's Why She Sued Papa Pike for $52 After Joe Skipped—Lots of Letters Were Read in Court—Mary Won the Suit.

The case of Mary VanRiper against Noah W. Pike was tried yesterday afternoon by Justice Mosher, with the result as exclusively told in last night's Press. The suit was brought to recover $52, the amount which it cost Mary to get from pawn a diamond ring which Mr. Pike's festive son Joe borrowed from her two years ago, and subsequently pawned.

As the case promised to be an unusually interesting one, the court-room was crowded by 2, the hour set for the trial. Lawyer George DeMeza appeared for the plaintiff, and Lawer Winfield Angleman for the defense. A stack of letters were produced and read as evidence by both sides.

The plaintiff is a decidedly handsome young woman, about 22, of medium height, and fine figure, with large snappy blue eyes, brown hair, and clear, regular features. She was fashionably dressed in a tailor-made gown of black serge with white bodice. Her conduct throughout the trial made a most favorable impression, especially when it was realized by all present that she was placed in a most trying position. Miss VanRiper was accompanied by her uncle, Judge Frank VanCleef, of Paterson, a shrewd lawyer and a most valuable adviser for Attorney DeMeza. The story that came out in the trial is a decidedly interesting one.

Joseph Pike in the summer of 1891 met Mary VanRiper at the Hotel Pierrepont in Asbury Park; and the acquaintance there begun was continued through the next winter, Joe frequently calling on Mary at her home. Joe spent money rather freely; and Miss VanRiper, it seems, thought that he was a millionaire's son, and encouraged his advances accordingly. Indeed, Joe had himself put in the Asbury Park papers as heir to a noble fortune, and swelled around the hotels with the biggest strut of any man in town. In January, 1892, the gilded youth borrowed a diamond ring worth $100 of Mary, as young men sometimes do of foolish maidens, saying he wished to wear it. What he really did was to hock it at once for $40. The next spring, in answer to a letter from Mary inquiring for her ring, Joe called at her home, made a plausible explanation about it, and borrowed five dollars of her. He then discontinued his visits to Mary, and remained beautifully silent. Mary again and again wrote to Joe, saying, "Bring back the ring I loaned thee."

Joe kept on saying nothing. The elder Pike then came upon the scene. He one day wrote to Miss VanRiper stating that it had come to his knowledge that his son had pawned a ring belonging to her, that he might relieve a friend who was embarrassed.

Either in this letter or in a subsequent one—for he wrote several—the elder Pike sent the pawn ticket for the ring, and said that he wished to reimburse Mary for her loss as soon as his limited means would allow, promising to pay the amount in monthly installments of $10, if she would be patient, and not disgrace Joe and the family by making the unfortunate matter public. Mary expressed satisfaction at this proposal, redeemed her ring at a cost to herself of $52, and awaited the promised remittances from Pike. None came, however, and at last having lost all patience she recently laid the matter before her uncle, Judge Frank Van Cleef. Young Pike in the meanwhile had skipped; and is now enlisted in the United States regular army.

After an unsatisfactory and rather stormy interview between Judge VanCleef and the elder Pike, suit was brought to recover Miss Van Riper's fifty-two dollars.

In the court-room yesterday Judge VanCleef showed himself an able lawyer and a fluent and impressive speaker. He told how he had called on Noah Pike in Plainfield and had heard from the defendant's own lips an admission that he never intended to repay Mary Van Riper the money she had lost, and that his conciliatory letters to her had been written solely to gain time in which Joe could get out of the State and beyond the reach of the criminal law.

The Judge then made a sensation in the court-room. He turned suddenly toward Noah Pike, and looking him full in the eye said slowly and distinctly: "I then said, Your Honor, that this man had played us a soapy trick; and I must confess that it was the most contemptible piece of work that I ever heard of."

It was hard, hard English—the kind that hurts—and the two men gazed grimly at each other across the court-room, while the clock ticked audibly as if it feared something dreadful was about to happen.

In the cross-examination Pike proved an expert at evading Lawyer DeMeza's questions. It is not putting the matter too strongly to say that he made a decidedly clever witness. He was perfectly composed throughout the trial, and denied having admitted that he deceived the young woman in order to gain time to send his son out of the law's reach.

After patiently hearing all the evidence, Justice Mosher rendered a verdict of $52 and costs for the plaintiff. The case has been appealed.

Lawyer Angleman for the defence moved at the beginning that the trial be dismissed on the ground that the summons specified no particular place for the defendant to appear. It was a summons to appear at "137 or 143 North avenue". The defense also objected to the continuance of the trial on the ground that previous to the institution of the suit attorney for the plaintiff exhibited to the court letters which were made the basis of the action, and that the court had expressed an opinion that the defendant was liable for the claim sued for.

Before the case was moved, Lawyer Angleman demanded a jury, but the demand was refused by Justice Mosher, on the ground that the application was not made soon enough. Mr. Angleman claims that the justice in taking this action sets himself up as a superior to the Constitution of the State and of the United States, which give to every man the right of a trial by jury.

Made 'Em Long for Plainfield's Monument.

The third annual reunion of the 30th Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Association was held yesterday at Flemington. There were a number present from Plainfield representing Companies A, I and H. Among them were Letter-carrier Peter V. Weaver, ex-Borough Councilman David R. Weaver, Samuel Moore and T. J. Carey. The Plainfielders express great admiration for Flemington's soldiers monument, erected by the citizens of that town. The question that naturally arose in their minds as they gazed upon it was, What has happened to the project to erect a soldiers monument in Plainfield, which was set on foot five years ago? Is it dead or only sleeping?

But Joe Has Probably Skipped.

Constable Mattox is looking for Joe Pike with a warrant sworn out by Mary Van Riper, charging Joe with grand larceny.

Young Pike has been in town recently on a furlough. His counsel says that he cannot be arrested; and if the thing is attempted, serious trouble will result for somebody, as Joe is a member of the United States Army, and therefore amenable only to martial law, and because in any event the claim against him was satisfied when the judgment of $52 was obtained by Mary Van Riper against Noah Pike, making good the loss she had sustained at the hands of Joe.

Freight Wreck Near Bound Brook.

The fast freight train which passes through Plainfield at 1 a. m., drawn by Engine 362, this morning crashed into a coal train at Middle Brook, near the Bound Brook station. A caboose and twelve loaded coal cars were demolished and the coal scattered over the tracks. Traffic was delayed for some hours, until a track could be laid around the wreck. At 10 the freight engine went on its way to Jersey City. None was seriously hurt.

It is possible to obey the last of these injunctions by keeping on the table and making daily use of, a volume like the Phillips Brooks Year Book.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:

"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest effects. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health.

TWICE OVER THE BORDER

A Ranch Goes to Mexico and Comes Back Again.

FREAKS OF THE RIO GRANDE.

Origin of Recent Boundary Troubles—How Changes in the Course of a River Are Decided by International Law—A Commission Required.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7.—The trouble over the boundary line between Mexico and the United States, which has caused both countries involved to send troops to the Havana Ranch and has brought about the arrest of Mexican customs officials, will probably result in the appointment of a commission to determine all such disputes that have arisen within recent years, principally through changes in the channel of the Rio Grande. This commission is already provided for in a treaty between the United States and Mexico agreed to nine years ago, but its provisions have remained in statu quo. The State Department and the War Department are now endeavoring to determine the ownership of the sheep seized, and whether the land on which they were grazing is in Mexico or in this country. From the meagre reports of the present dispute received at the War Department, it appears that years ago a "cut-off" caused by the sudden changing in the channel of the Rio Grande, left certain Texas land on the Mexican side of the river, but recently the river changed back to its old channel. During all this time the owner of the land, an American citizen, continued to allow his sheep to graze on it. The owner of the adjacent land in Mexico, whose ranch is now separated from the disputed piece by the channel of the Rio Grande, claimed that the "cut-off" was Mexican soil and reverted to him. Complaint made to the Mexican authorities resulted in the seizure of the sheep by Mexican custom house officials on the ground that the flock was unlawfully grazing on Mexican soil, and the arrest of the Mexican officers by United States troops followed.

According to international law, alluvial matters, gradually washed from one side of a stream forming an international boundary, and deposited on the opposite side so as to increase the size of the land there, perhaps to the amount of several hundred feet into the river, becomes the property of the country to whose bank it adheres and the country on the other side of the stream suffers a consequent loss. In such an instance the channel of the stream becomes the boundary between the two countries. But if the boundary stream change suddenly by freshet or otherwise so as to leave a large "cut-off" on the banks of the new-formed channel opposite to its original position, the old channel remains the boundary.

The question to be settled is whether the contested land is the result of a "cut-off" or merely of the gradual deposit of alluvial matter from one side of the stream to the other, and it is believed that the consideration which the President and Secretary Gresham are giving to the question will result in the appointment of the commission provided by the treaty.

AMERICAN LINE AHEAD.

The Steamship New York Wins the Mail Race.

LONDON, Sep. 7.—The mail race between the American Line Steamship New York and the White Star Line Steamship Teutonic ended yesterday. The New York won by more than three hours. The New York's 600 bags of mail arrived in London at 9:23 in the morning and the mail was delivered in the city at 11:15. The Teutonic's forty bags arrived in London at 12:52 in the afternoon and the mail was delivered in the city at 3 o'clock. As the New York cleared Sandy Hook Bar one hour and ten minutes ahead of the Teutonic on Aug. 30, her net gain over the Teutonic as regards the delivery of the mails was two hours and thirty-five minutes.

This is the first time the American Line has scored such an eastward victory since its steamships began docking at Southampton.

PENNSYLVANIA WRECK.

Two Trains Collide and Injure a Number of Employes.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 7.—A coal train ran into the rear of a freight train loaded with dressed beef at Radner station on the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday. John Bletz of Columbia, conductor of the coal train, was seriously crushed, and Engineer John G. Gibboss, and Fireman Elias Leidy were picked up near the tracks unconscious. Gibbons was injured about the head and body and suffered from the shock. Leidy was dangerously injured internally.

Labor's Recommendations.

MONTREAL, Sep. 7.—The Labor Congress in session here adopted resolutions recommending among other things the establishment of free public libraries, a two cent rate on all railroads, manhood suffrage, and the discontinuance of the system of bonusing immigration, owing to the overcrowded condition of the labor market.

Chinese Merchants.

NEW YORK, Sep. 7.—Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court decided that five Chinamen who recently arrived from Havana, but who have been detained by the immigration officers, are entitled to land. The Chinamen claim to be merchants.

Russia to Show Off.

LONDON, Sep. 7.—The Vienna correspondent for the Daily Chronicle says that the Czar has directed that military manœuvers on a large scale be held in the autumn near the Austrian frontier.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sep. 7.—The American Curled Hair Company at Central Falls resumed work with a general cut down of 10 per cent.

CIRCUS TRAIN WRECKED.

Horses Overbalance a Box Car and Cause Derailment.

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., Sep. 7.—The narrow guage train conveying Sells & Renfrew's circus was wrecked. Two men were killed and half a dozen were injured. The train was proceeding slowly around a curve when the horses in a box car overbalanced the car, derailing the train.

The killed are Andrew Hirst of Colfax, aged 17, taking a free ride, and Hank Jones, a circus property man. The wounded are Joseph Jones, canvasman; Al Croswell, groom; Bill Stevens, cook; Tom Russell; Dan Coghlan, engineer, and Joseph Duffy, fireman. The escape of the engineer and fireman was miraculous, as their engine was turned upside down and they themselves were thrown out.

AN ATTRACTIVE CHILD

The Unfortunate Occurrence of Her Life

AND HOW IT CAME NEAR MAKING HER EXISTENCE UNHAPPY.

Her Mother Tells a Story Which Will Greatly Interest All.

Stories of children are always interesting. Parents often vie with each other in seeing which can tell the best story or most interesting anecdote about their children.

But here is a story told by one mother which, while it may awake echoes of sadness in the minds and hearts of some parents, will be to others a message fraught with hope and joy.

The child whose short history of mingled sorrow and gladness is here given is the daughter of the well-known Mrs. J Learmonth, who resides at 776 Broadway, South Boston, Mass.

"At ten years of age," said Mrs. Learmonth, "my daughter became affected with a nervous condition which soon developed into St. Vitus' dance. It was pronounced by the attending physician to be a very severe attack.

"The mouth would be drawn spasmodically far to one side, the hands and arms were restless and constantly twitching. Her limbs also were weak; her ankles bent under her so that it was almost impossible to walk.

CORA LEARMONTH.

"She was so nervous that she would scream almost like a maniac and then have fits of crying. After two months' treatment without a cure, I concluded to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"Three bottlefuls entirely cured her. She is now 13 years old and has been well ever since and today is a picture of health

Children are prone to have weak nerves and delicate health. Neglect of a nervous condition, a pale look, a disordered digestion or a general lack of health and vigor in a child may result in fits, St. Vitus' dance or some other serious nervous disease.

Give your infants and children this glorious children's remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the beginning of the disease, when you see them nervous, restless, wakeful, pale, spiritless without appetite or with appetite irregular and bowels constipated. It will make their nerves strong, their blood pure, their sleep sound, natural and refreshing. In fact it will make them well and strong.

It is purely vegetable and harmless and all druggists sell it for $1. It is the discovery and prescription of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, well-known as the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Good Cooking

is essential to

Good Digestion—

in pastry you cannot have either without a good shortening. Lard has always had very objectionable features, causing indigestion and many other dietetic troubles. Science has come to the assistance of the cook, and of weak stomachs, with the new shortening,

Cottolene

It is composed of the choicest beef suet and highly refined vegetable oil, in many respects as good as the finest imported olive oil. Physicians endorse it, cooking experts recommend it, and thousands are now using it in preference to any other shortening. Refuse all substitutes.

Send three cents in stamps to N. K. Fairbank & Co., Chicago, for handsome Cottolene Cook Book, containing six hundred recipes, prepared by nine eminent authorities on cooking. Cottolene is sold by all grocers.

Made only by

A RAILWAY SLAUGHTER

Twelve People Killed in a Western Wreck.

ORDERS WRONG OR MISUNDERSTOOD

A Long List of Injured, Many of Whom May Die—Mangled Victims Suffer an Hour on a Desolate Prairie Before Help is Secured.

CHICAGO, Sep. 8.—A head-on collision between a milk train of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railway and an east-bound passenger train on the Pan Handle, or Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway, killed 12 persons and injured as many more. The collision occurred in the "L" running from the main line just south of Colehour to East Hammond, Ind., at the joint of a curve in a sparely settled locality. The baggage car of the east-bound passenger train was ground into pieces and from this most of the killed and injured were taken. The removal of the scene of the wreck from immediate police and surgical aid made the calamity a most distressing one, and it was more than an hour before the first one of those rescued, maimed and bleeding, could be carried to houses in Colehour and South Chicago for treatment. Physicians were summoned from the latter place and engines were hastily prepared and rushed to the scene of the wreck.

Dead.

Anson Temple, Manager of Schiller Theatre, Chicago, on his way to English Lake, shooting. Head crushed to a mass.

Unknown man, with Manager Temple; probably an actor.

William Rigney, travelling passenger agent of Wisconsin Central Railroad.

G. A. Hines, Vincennes, Ind.

William Sponicker, New Albany, Ind.

William Richardson, 2117 State street, Chicago.

R. D. Adams, Fairfield, Ill.

E. A. Barnard, Terre Haute, Ind.

Four unknown men.

Injured.

Charles Lichte, Knox county; hurt about the head and internally.

Michael Ball, 1623 Jackson street, Louisville, Ky., internal injuries.

Paul Serber, newsboy, Gasport, Ind., right foot crushed.

James Ickenberry, Camden, O., hurt about chest.

Joseph Ball, 525 Sampson street, Louisville, Ky., left leg crushed, hip dislocated and internal injuries.

Wm. Richter, West Forks, Ind., internal injuries.

W. J. Turner, 730 West Lake street, Chicago, hurt about head.

Joseph Dillingslea, Clyde, O., legs badly crushed and internal injuries.

Messenger, Panhandle train, internal injuries.

Who Is to Blame?

There will certainly be an examination to fix the blame for the terrible loss of life. At present there is a dispute between the operator at Colehour and the central office of the road in the city as to what the train orders were, each trying to fasten the blame on the other. The operator at Colehour is A. R. Kennedy. Railroad men at the scene of the wreck said that Kennedy's orders were to hold train No. 12, the wrecked Louisville train, until train No. 49, the milk train, had passed. A brakeman on the Panhandle train said the train left the city on time and stopped at Colehour for orders, and none being received it started without instructions.

Fireman Keeler, of the milk train, who escaped with Engineer Hart by jumping, remained at the scene of the accident. He said: "As we rounded the curve I saw the Panhandle train ahead of us. A collision seemed unavoidable. I called to Engineer Hart to put on the brakes and open the sand-box. He threw open the lever and the train jumped up and down under the attempt at checking the speed. We had too much headway, however, to avoid a collision, and as we neared the passenger train Hart and I jumped. We escaped without injury.

CURRENCY OUTSTANDING.

Over a Billion Dollars in Notes from $1 to $10,000.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8.—An official statement prepared by the Treasury Department shows the total of United States notes, Treasury notes, National bank notes, gold and silver certificates and currency certificates outstanding to be $1,113,091,198, including all denominations from $1 to $10,000.

Schooners High and Dry.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sep. 8.—Wreckers from this city succeeded in hauling the schooners Laura Thompson and T. C. Peckett out of the sand at East Marion, Long Island, where they had been imbedded, 500 feet from high water mark since the heavy gale of a fortnight ago. They were towed to this port and hauled out for repairs.

The Colonia Wins.

SANDY HOOK, N. Y., Sep. 8.—The first of the trial races between the cup defenders was sailed in a stiff wind and heavy sea off Sandy Hook yesterday and resulted in a victory for the Colonia by six seconds over the Vigilant, the Pilgrim and the Jubilee both having been disabled and withdrawn at the start.

Four Prisoners Dig Out.

TROY, N. Y., Sep. 8—Four prisoners escaped from the Washington county jail at Salem by digging a hole in the floor and lowering themselves into a closet which connected the outer world by wooden doors.

HORRORS OF THE SEA.

A Shipwrecked Crew Live for Days on Barnacles and Seaweed.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 8.—The schooner Jonathan May, Capt. George M. Cook, from Charleston August 23 for New York with a cargo of lumber, capsized during the gale of August 27, 60 miles south of Frying Pan lightship. The mast and rigging were cut away and the vessel righted. On the 28th the vessel went to pieces and early Tuesday morning all hands took to a raft, as the boats were lost. On Sept. 2, at midnight, the crew of seven were picked up by the schooner Ann E. Valentine from Darien, Aug. 26, for St. John, N. B. They were subsequently transferred to the tug Pilot off the Delaware Capes and brought to Philadelphia.

Shortly after taking to the raft, which was a portion of the deck 40 feet long and eight feet wide, the seamen saw a wrecked crew being transferred to a vessel three miles away. Three handkerchiefs were fastened to a pole and waved frantically, but the signal was not seen.

The sufferings of the crew while on the raft were great. A ship was seen every day, but their signals were either not seen or not heeded. They were without water until the day they were rescued, then some rain water was caught. A flying fish, which weighed a pound, fell onto the raft after several days of hunger had been experienced and was ravenously devoured. This, with some barnacles taken from a drifting plank and berries of seaweed, was all the substance the crew had. The Valentine was a mile to the leeward when sighted and Capt. Cook and his men shouted until Capt. Alban Morris of the rescuing vessel heard them. The distressed crew were taken aboard and fed and clothed, and several who were hurt had their wounds dressed.

MAKING WAR.

Riotous English Miners Take Possession of a Yorkshire Town.

LONDON, Sep. 8.—The striking miners in Yorkshire, who have been skirmishing with the police and troops in several districts since Monday, have begun a campaign of open violence. They have wrecked the offices of Lord Masham's colliery at Featherstone, have driven off the officials and are now in sole possession of the town. The police, who tried to hold back the rioters, were attacked with clubs and stones and were put to flight. Troops have been sent to Featherstone to restore order.

More than 5,000 strikers have marched over into the Llanelly district, and they have seized the offices of several collieries. Many of the buildings have been wrecked, and those left whole have been occupied by the strikers. The mine officials have been expelled. More than 500 cottages of non-unionist miners have been torn down and an attempt was made to blow up a manager's house.

Dragoons are out scouting for the rioters and have dispersed many incipient mobs. The miners fought back and not a few have been injured in the encounters with the troops. Many miners have been arrested.

QUINCY IN THE FIELD.

Official Announcement That He Has Quit the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8—Josiah Quincy, of Massachusetts, has resigned the office of Assistant Secretary of State, to which he was appointed by President Cleveland. This action has for some time been anticipated, Mr. Quincy having accepted the position with the expectation of relinquishing it after a short service. Since the Massachusetts State Democratic Convention was held, it has been apparent that there will be an imperative demand for Mr. Quincy to assume charge of the approaching campaign. His resignation as a consequence, creates no surprise. It has been understood that active political work is much more congenial to Mr. Quincy than departmental routine.

A MATTER OF $7,000,000

Cost of Sending Unregistered Chinese Back Home.

ONLY $15,000 FOR THE PURPOSE

An Unexpected Condition Confronts the Country as a Result of the Geary Law—Clever Trick of the Celestials to Neglect to Register.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8.—Secretary Carlisle, Attorney General Olney, Assistant Secretary Hamlin, Senator White of California and Congressman Geary of California, have been in consultation during the past few days as to what means are at the disposal of the Government to carry out the Geary law as to the deportation of Chinese in the United States who failed to comply with the provisions of the Geary law as to registration. No formal conclusion was arrived at, but it is understood that the Government in view of the decision of the United States Supreme Court and the decisions rendered in conformity thereto, especially the one rendered by Judge Ross of California, has decided to execute the law as far as the means at hand will permit. The Treasury Department had at the beginning of the present fiscal year $50,000 for carrying out the various Chinese laws, pay of inspectors, etc. Of this sum it is said that not more than $15,000 is available for deportation purposes. The official registration of Chinese, made by internal revenue collectors, as provided by the Geary law, was 13,000. Geary's estimate is that there are 106,000 unregistered Chinese in the United States and all of these are subject to deportation for not having complied with the law. The regulation price of transporting Chinese from San Francisco to China is $35 per head in lots of five. In large numbers the steamship companies, it is thought, would lower the price per head. The Treasury Department estimates that it will cost on an average an additional $35 for each Chinaman deported in cost of court, etc, and other expenses of arrest and conviction, or $70 per head for each Chinaman deported. This would bring up the total cost, in case all the unregistered Chinese are deported, to about $7,000,0000. An official reply to an inquiry on this subject introduced in the Senate by Mr. White, of California, is now being prepared. In the meantime Chinese will be deported as long as the $15,000 lasts.

PUTTING ON THE TAX.

Uncle Sam Wants Ten Per Cent on Deposit Certificates Used as Money.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8.—The Treasury Department has issued a circular which in its far reaching effect is "loaded to the muzzle." It reads:

"Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 7. 1893.

"To Collectors of Internal Revenue and Revenue Agents:

"It has come to the knowledge of this office, through published news items, by correspondence and otherwise, that banks are issuing certificates of deposit payable in the money or currency of the United States and that these obligations of the banks, negotiable notes, carrying title in their circulation from hand to hand, are paid out and used for circulation in lieu of the money of the United States.

"Such issues are taxable, and you will inquire as to the amount of such issues, and report them to this office for assessment of the taxes incurred.

"JOSEPH S. MILLER, Commissioner."

The taxable rate of such issues as described in the circular is ten per cent. on the dollar. The number now in circulation is believed to be very heavy as they have taken the place, during the financial stringency, of currency or money. Whether the issues include clearing house certificates, is a question Treasury officials declined to discuss, intimating that the question is a legal one that may call for a judicial decision from the courts.

WINDING UP THE TRUST.

The Standard Oil Monopoly to Undergo a Technical Change.

NEW YORK, Sep. 8.—H. M. Flagler, secretary of the Standard Oil Trust, has issued a call for a meeting of the holders of trust certificates on September 13 at No. 26 Broadway. The purpose of this meeting is to wind up the trust. Sixty per cent of the certificates have already been handed in and cancelled since March 21, 1892. In 1890 a quo warranto was issued in Ohio, and the court decided that the trust had forfeited its charter. Solicitor S. C. T. Dodd, one of the chief trust magnates, says that the direction of the companies in the trust will rest in the same hands as heretofore.

PORT JERVIS DEVASTATED.

A Storm of Wind and Rain Works Havoc in Five Minutes.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sep. 8.—Port Jervis was devastated by a storm of wind and rain last night of unprecedented violence. It struck this village at 5:39 p. m. and was of brief duration, lasting only about five minutes. The destruction wrought in this brief time was great. The tall steeple of the Methodist church was blown over and it crashed through the roof, wrecking the interior of the building and filling it with debris. The streets of the village lying in the path of the storm are filled with broken limbs and branches of trees. Some of the streets are impassable. Many houses have been unroofed by the violence of the wind and nearly all the electric light, telegraph and telephone wires are down, and the town was in darkness. The roof of the shirt factory was lifted off and deposited in the middle of Pike street. Two young ladies, passing at the time were injured, but not seriously.

No fatal casualities are reported. The delivery wagon of Porter's grocery was blown over on Pike street and the driver, Samuel Carmer, had his right arm broken.

A brick building belonging to Mr. John P. Layton, on Seward avenue, was unroofed. Other casualities of a minor nature are reported.

The cyclone was immediately followed by a heavy down pour of rain and a violent electric storm.

The Reformed church was partially unroofed, but the steeple was uninjured. The house occupied by Edward Starr, on Franklin street, was also unroofed, and the inmates were compelled to take refuge in the house of a neighbor.

The path of the storm seems to have been a narrow one, not exceeding half a mile in width. In this village the centre was in the vicinity of the village square around which are clustered three churches.

Halladay's Dead Body Found—The Accused Woman Now Suspected of Other Murders—A Band of Gypsies Try Get Away.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sep. 8.—The chief event of yesterday was the finding of Paul Halliday's body beneath the floor of the house where the two Newburgh women, Margaret McQuillan and her daughter Sarah, were murdered. This makes three persons Mrs. Halliday stands charged with murdering within four days. Constable Scott reports that Mrs. Halliday tore her garter loose, broke it and twisted it around her neck, and pulled on both ends with all her strength. He removed it from her as soon as he discovered what she was attempting to do but her face was badly flushed and she was panting for breath. She has been watched very closely ever since.

A band of gypsies were encamped near Burlingham last summer who recently passed over the mountain. Wednesday night several of the band were in McCune's store at Wurtsboro, discussing the murders. One was overheard to remark: "If we get the woman, we must get her tomorrow night."

Yesterday morning the band had moved and during the forenoon passed through Bloomingburgh in the direction of Burlingham. For some reason they divided into two parties, the women going by one road, the men by another. At two o'clock word came to Burlingham from the Halliday house that a band of gypsies had arrived there and that they declared that they were going to have the woman.

When found Halliday's body was badly decomposed. Conductor Mabie of the Pinebush road is sure he saw Halliday Thursday. Neighbors have also said he and his wife went to Pinebush that day. It is evident from this that Halliday met his death on Thursday night soon before or soon after the McQuillan woman, as both bodies were about in the same condition. About two years ago a boy named George Kline, who lived in a house next to the Hallidays, disappeared. It was supposed at the time he had stolen a horse and wagon which had been missed and gone off with it. Search was made for the boy, but nothing was ever seen or heard of him. Afterward, however, the horse was found. It is now thought that he may have in some way incurred the displeasure of Mrs. Halliday, who put him out of the way. In fact, it is the general belief that more bodies may be found about the locality of the Halliday house.

An autopsy developed three bullet wounds in Halliday's body. He had also been struck on the head, causing a contusion of the left temple. The left eye had been knocked out. Medical experts say the man has been dead a week or longer. The G. A. R. Post will bury their old comrade.

There was great fear that a mob would form and lynch Mrs. Halliday last night.

TIME TO FIGHT THE RACE-TRACK EVIL.

It is to be hoped that the indignation expressed so generally throughout New Jersey last spring over the passage of the race-track gambling bills has not died out. If it has not, it will soon be able to take a practical form, because nominations for the Senate and Assembly must be made within the next few weeks, and the place to fight the race-track gamblers while this work is going on will be in the primary meetings and conventions. Eight counties—Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem, Somerset, Union, and Warren—will each elect a State Senator to serve for three years, and there will also be elected a full House of Assembly. Annexed are the names of the men in the Senate and Assembly who voted for the race-track bills last spring. Only three of the Senators whose places are to be filled voted yea, namely, Terhune of Monmouth, Butcher of Salem, and Cornish of Warren. As Cornish had already been elected to Congress, he was in a position to defy public opinion. In some counties, as Bergen, where the Assemblymen voted to please the gamblers, their names are not even mentioned in connection with a re-nomination; but in many other places allies of the gamblers will be returned to Trenton unless the same public opinion which protested against the passage of these bills when it was too late protests against the re-nomination of the gamblers' friends. One county especially which ought to purge itself of its record of last spring is Passaic, which is having a local illustration of the effects of the gamblers' legislation. The decent people of every community should stir themselves and begin a systematic work at the primaries and the polls, against the race-track evil. Both Democrats and Republicans should endeavor to nominate candidates pledged to fight this monstrous curse.

THE CUP DEFENDERS.

The four boats which yesterday engaged in the first of the trial races for the honor of contesting with Valkyrie for the America Cup, represent the expenditure of more money, more architectural skill and more thought than were ever before bestowed upon sailing craft intended to maintain the superiority of American designers, builders and sailors. The Colonia, Vigilant, Jubilee and Pilgrim are unique specimens of marine architecture, and, compared with the saucy craft which heretofore have maintained the repute of Yankee designers and sailors, are marvels of progress in the science of initial stability.

The four new yachts represent the most advanced idea of the fin keel. In this respect they simply vary in degree in the quality of uniqueness. From a practical standpoint, these boats offer nothing in the way of substantiality in marine architecture, an end which should be the chief aim in the building of vessels designed to attain stability with speed.

The four yachts whose performances yesterday engaged such a large part of the attention of the people of the United States, as well as of the public of Great Britain and the yachting fraternity the world over, are splendid examples of skill in the direction of the development of racing machines. They are so constructed that they will carry the greatest area of sail consistent with safety, and are so cunningly shaped as to give promise of riding the sea, before a breeze however stiff, with grace, steadiness and flying speed.

With the hand of a Yankee skipper on the wheel of the best of these sprites of the sea, and with a Yankee crew to haul in the sheets, and with a stiff breeze and a choppy sea, he would be a timid prophet who should hesitate to foretell the outcome of the final race with the Valkyrie. The Newark News truly says that that splendid specimen of British yacht is not to be discounted too much, but the defeat which awaits her is almost certain.

PEACHES AND CREAM.

Luscious Time Among the Grace M. E. Church People.

A person to enjoy himself should attend one of the entertainments that are given from time to time in Grace M. E. church, in the borough. Last evening a peach festival was the attraction, and it is safe to say that those present never had a better time.

It was to have been given on the lawn adjoining the church, but the rain prevented, so all went inside of the church, where a most pleasing sight greeted the eye. The rooms were very prettily arranged with tables and booths, and were indeed tempting. In the centre of the main room was a large tent filled with "gypsy girls", and so well were they disguised that it was hard to tell them from originals.

At the candy table were Mrs. Winckler, Mrs. W. Lunger, the Misses Alice and Grace Carroll, who made things very pleasant for those wanting to buy sweets, strictly home-made.

Mrs. W. H Griffen, who had charge of the lemonade booth, assisted by Miss Polhemus, had no trouble in selling tempting glasses of this favorite beverage to a thirsty lot of people.

One of the most attractive tables was that laden with fruit and cake, in charge of Mrs. L. A. Hummer, assisted by Miss Drew and Miss Lunger. It was most tastefully decorated.

The flower booth, in charge of Miss Lillian Steiner, assisted by the Misses Martha and Gussie Perrine, did a thriving business, selling pretty bouquets of the choicest cut flowers.

The following young ladies were to be found in the gypsy tent: Miss Humble, Miss May McDonald, Miss Schroxder, Miss L. Springer and Miss Lydia Pangborn.

A charming bevy of young women waited on the tables serving ice-cream, cake and peaches. They were the Misses May Conroy, Annie Derringer, Mineola Force and Nellie McGinnis.

A. A. Taft who had arranged the affair kept his eye on things in general, while Dr. H. K. Carroll, John Valiant, Charles French, Ezra Loomis and Elmer E. Winkler formed his corps of able assistants.

The festival will be continued this evening.

All Sang One Hymn in Different Tongues.

A large audience was present at Salvation Hall last evening, attending the international meeting of the army.

Eight different countries were represented, and all joined in having a grand hallelujah time.

Plenty of good music enlivened the occasion and excellent talks were given by the visiting officers and comrades.

The different countries and those representing them were:

France—Captain Grosclaude.
Sweden—Lieut. Merck.
Denmark—Sister Christophsen.
Germany — Brother Agney and Sister Schneider.
Norway—Comrades from Perth Amboy.
England—Captain Bull and Lieut. Watson.
America—Comrades from Plainfield and Perth Amboy.

Blanch Sharkey was the Goddess of Liberty, which part she acted very sweetly. The representatives of each country sang music in their own language very effectively. Captain Grosclaude rendered several pretty selections on the guitar and auto-harp in a touching manner.

It was certainly one of the happiest of memorable gatherings of the army.

It's a Sumptuous Success.

Dunellen and New Market.

[From The Dunellen Call.]

Frank D. Covey has rented a flat on Park avenue, in Plainfield, and intends moving there today.

The sermon for next Sunday evening in the New Market Baptist church will be "The Use and Abuse of Amusements".

A. J. Whitney, the new Dunellen principal, arrived in town Tuesday afternoon and spent the evening with the Rev. A. I. Martine. He will make his home with Mr. Nailor until the arrival of Mrs. Whitney.

The New Market public school has again opened, and there is no doubt that it will rank high with the schools in this county under the direction of Miss Maud Titsworth, principal, and Miss Hannah Larkin, teacher of the primary department.

Miss Sarah Rogers's property on Church street and New Market road, extending through to Prospect avenue, has been sold by E. Runyon, real estate agent, to Lewis Lane, of Jersey City, who will move into it in a few days and expects to improve and beautify it.

Pierre V. Hallett formerly of New Market won a gold medal and fifty dollars last Monday in a one-mile swimming match at College Point, L. I. The race was under the auspices of a social club, of New York city, and as the prize was valuable ten good swimmers besides Mr. Hallett entered. The exercise and practice he had had in the New Market lake in the past made him feel he might at least stand a chance of winning. During the race he made the other contestants feel that his early training was not in vain.

Last night at 9 at the residence of Josiah Maitland, by the Rev. Frank Fletcher, Elmer E. Shattle, of Grant avenue, and Miss Lettie H. Maitland were united in marriage. Miss Eva Nelson was the only one present outside of the relatives. Frank J. Shattle, the brother of the groom, acted as best man, while Miss Mellie M. Maitland, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. After the congratulations supper was served and at 10:30 the newly married couple took their departure for Grant avenue. The presents were numerous and useful.

Hunting's an Elegant Show.

Concerning the big show that is coming to Plainfield next week Thursday, the Newark Advertiser says:

The performances of Hunting's Great Railroad Circus, Museum and Menagerie were greeted yesterday by packed houses, and the extraordinary performances of this unrivaled aggregation of first-class female equestriennes and male riders, singing and grotesque clowns, acrobatic and ariel exhibitions of strength and agility, and last though not least the wonderful performances of the highly educated horses, ponies, mules, goats and dogs, were received with shouts of laughter and applause. To say that the show gave universal satisfaction, would be only to repeat what has been said of it by our exchanges throughout the country during the past season. The management are to be congratulated upon their thorough efficiency in looking after their legion of patrons, more particularly in the absence of all the rough element, of card sharpers and swindling devices so common with the many shows that infest the country during the tenting season. In addition to this feature and the gentlemanly manner of all connected with the show, we bespeak for it the immense business they are bound to receive.

Why He Didn't Grant a Jury.

Justice Mosher informs The Press in reference to the VanBiper and Pike case that he has entered upon his docket that "after the hearing had commenced the defendant's attorney called for a jury, but tendered no fees". The justice also states that no money was filed by the defendant on the appeal bond in the case and that hence he did not accept the bond. He says he understands that the case will not be appealed.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Made and sold for fifteen years at

Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

SOMERSET COUNTY RATABLES.

The County Board of Assessors was in session at the Court House on Tuesday. Joel Coddington, of Warren, acted as Chairman, and Charles L. Voorhees as Secretary. The result is given below. It shows very little change from last year in the footings. The debt has decreased about $10,000 in the various townships, and the taxable valuation has increased about $300,000. The most noticeable increase is in the polls in Bridgewater, from 2,053 to 2,478. Bedminster's polls have increased from 451 to 496, and Bound Brook Borough from 428 to 503. The total runs up from 6,923 to 7,490. There is a decrease of nearly $5,000 in the school tax. The table follows, showing the apportionment of taxes to each township:

Wild West in Plainfield.

The triple equine contest announced in another column to take place in the Riding Academy tomorrow evening, for a purse of $250, will be an event which promises to be well worth seeing, being educational, interesting and exciting, to the fullest extent.

The contest is to decide the better man in the art of lassoing, subduing animals to the will of man, and then riding the wild broncho. The man doing this in the best manner, as shall be decided by three or five judges (selected from Plainfield horsemen) is to be declared the champion.

The horses to be used are at present on the cars, from the ranch in Montana. They have never had a bit in their mouth, nor a strap on their backs.

The daring and wonderful feats of horsemanship developed on this occasion will be indeed marvelous, and like all arts has produced its champion in different countries, and as the three competitors—Dandy Dick the American, Marquis Pacho the Mexican, and Johnny Brureheart the Indian—all claim the title, and as the three nations have never before met to decide the championship, Plainfielders who have so suddenly awakened to equestrianism have a rare and novel treat.

The Indian War Dance, and all the features of cowboy life, will be represented, with fun in the camp by riding a bucking bull.

"The Old Homestead's" Successor.

The production of "The Country Squire" in Music Hall next Monday night will be under the management of Harry J. Clapham, one of the best known and most experienced managers, who has been successful in all his undertakings, whose reputation for efficiency and integrity are so well established that they require no comment. The following list of sterling actors and actresses have been selected for "The Country Squire": Archie Boyd, Charles A. Krone, D. F. Fox, Louis Shea, Allen A. Hall, F. C. Moynihan, Henry Stirk, Daniel Regan, Fred Rycroft, Sam Chadwick, Meyer Cohn, W. I. Corns, Mrs. Ida Stombler, Mildred Conner, Miss Lina John, and a quartette of excellent singers who will render the choicest glees and ballads of the day. The scenery, representing home, farm and landscape views, is from the studio of Mr. Seavey, one of the most widely known and competent artists of New York. No pains or expense have been spared by the management to render every detail complete in this most interesting drama, and to make it an artistic and financial success.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Charles French will lead the Christian Endeavor prayer meeting this evening in the First Baptist church.

—It is understood that the Rev. F. G. Warnick, pastor of the Mt. Olive church, will resign his pastorate in the near future.

—The next road race of the Hudson County Wheelmen will be held over the Fanwood-Scotch Plains course, it is rumored.

—Ira F. Riker is about to open a handsome wareroom at 325 Park avenue, and will be prepared to direct funerals in faultless style.

—The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the rooms, 347 Watchung avenue, Monday, Sept. 11, at 10 a. m.

—The fierce electric storm of last night disabled the telephone service for a time. The lightning burned out sixty fuses on instruments about town.

—Moterman Martin, of car No. 4, is off duty. He cut the forefinger of his right hand with a piece of glass, and it thought that the finger is poisoned.

—At 4:15 p. m. yesterday a wagon loaded with apples broke down at Front street and Central avenue, blocking the street car tracks for a time.

—Proprietor A. H. King of Hotel Albion is gratified at the way the hotel is filling with guests. The prospects are bright for a large fall and winter business.

—The electric lights were out at the lower of Duer street, North Plainfield, last night, which made it very difficult for pedestrians to see where they were walking.

—John Wilson of Rahway was before Judge Coddington this morning charged with drunkenness. As it was the prisoner's first offense the judge suspended sentence.

—The Crescent Wheelmen's Credenda racer which is to be awarded October 28 is on exhibition at J. Hervey Doane's store on Park avenue, where tickets may be purchased.

—By leaving your order at the Del Marvia Farm Dairy, 327 Watchung avenue, you can have pure Jersey milk from the dairy's own herd of registered Jerseys delivered at your door.

—A meeting was held in the Y. M. C. L. club-house last evening to settle the dispute in regard to the race between Coffin and Willis. It was decided to wait until Coffin was heard from before making a decision.

—Tomorrow will be opening day at the store of the Pacific Mail Tea and Grocery Company, 106 East Front street is the location, and H. T. Williams is to be manager. The bargains that will be offered are sure to attract an army of buyers. Among thrifty housewives this store is bound to lead.

—Last evening in the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Pastor Warnick gave an exhibition of the World's Fair. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not as large as expected and the exhibition will be repeated tonight. Refreshments will be served at the close. Admission is 25 cents.

—A full assortment of B. Priestly & Co's world-renowned black silk-warp henriettas are advertised at Edsall's, and he says he will guarantee the prices just as low as they are sold for in New York. He also keeps a great variety of other makes of black goods in plain and fancy weave. Do n't go to New York for these goods when you can buy them to just as good advantage at Edsall's.

—The most delightful of autumnal excursions will be the Jersey Central special trip to Mauch Chunk tomorrow. The train will leave Plainfield at 9:27 a. m., and the fare for the round trip will be only $1.75. This will probably be the last chance this season, and all lovers of a delightful time should avail themselves of it. The excursion will be managed in the Jersey Central's usual faultless style.

—Chief Doane, and Driver Townley of Alert Hose Company, visited Newark yesterday and inspected the wonderful fire-alarm improvements being made in that city. Among the features the Chief decided should be adopted in Plainfield's new Fire Headquarters is a simple but effective electrical contrivance for throwing open the doors at an alarm. This is cheaper than and superior to the contrivance by weights which Plainfield uses now.

The electric light connection has been made and all is ready, at a given signal, to turn on the water and electric light. Frank Bergen will make the opening speech, followed by Wm. T. West. The Roselle Band will render an appropriate programme. This fountain has been erected by subscription, and will be an attractive structure for the county road.

Too Wet for the Vets.

The lawn sociable of the Women's Relief Corps, which was to have opened last evening, was postponed on account of the rain, and will take place this evening instead. A most happy time is anticipated by all interested. Among other things worth seeing will be a campfire scene, at which the Grand Army veterans will appear in uniform. The sociable will be on the grounds at the corner of Front and Church streets.

Hard Luck.

A couple of dark faced foreigners were passing up Hastings street with a dancing bear when an old colored man came out of an alley driving a limpy old horse before a load of ashes. The horse no sooner saw the bear than he made a shy and a jump, turned the wagon over into the mud, and after a few kicks broke loose and ran off. The driver was hurled into the mud and buried under the ashes, but he soon dug himself out and reached the sidewalk to demand of a pedestrian:

"Now, den, who dun run into dat off wheel an upsot me?"

"No one. Your horse was afraid of that bear."

"My old hoss afeared?"

"Yes."

"Did he rare up on his hind legs?"

"Yes."

"An shy an snort?"

"Yes."

"An tip de wagon ober an broke loose?"

"Yes."

"But whar is he now?"

"He ran away."

"Run'd away! Fo' de Lawd! But you dun doan' mean it!"

"But I do."

"Wall, wall! Luck has shorely changed fur dis ole man! If dat ole hoss dun all dat, den I'll put his value up $50 mo' an sot right down in de house an not do another stroke of work fur fo' weeks!"—Detroit Free Press.

Made Him Tired.

Uncle Zeb—I'm out of all patience with that there princess, the way she's abusing her beautiful eyes. She doesn't deserve to have none.

Aunt Amanda—What's she been doing now?

Uncle Zeb—I was readin about her being out to the fair, and it said that the first thing she did was to throw her eyes up the ceiling and then let them drop on the floor; then she darted them down a long corridor and rested them on the cool waters of the lagoon; then she must have hanled them back somehow, for it says she bathed them in sad, salt tears, wiped them, and swept them with long lashes. Once she was fool enough to rivet them on the doom, and when I left off she was fixing them on a mantel.—Westfield Standard.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharge was cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

TALK OF COMPROMISE

Is the Silver Question About to be Settled?

CIRCUMSTANCES POINT THAT WAY

A Suggestion That Voorhees' Bi-Metallic Policy be Given the Form and Force of Law—Senator Stewart Brings His Speech to an Unexpected End.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8.—Rumors of an impending and indispensible compromise on the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act are current in the lobbies and on the floor of the Senate.

The speech made by Mr. Walthall, (Dem., Miss.) to whom Mr. Stewart had yielded the floor in the spirit of an accommodation, may have been an indication of the character and direction of such compromise. He declared himself willing to co-operate with the chairman of the Finance Committee in having speedy action on the bill—on condition that the bi-metallic policy in Mr. Voorhees's substitute, be clothed in the forms, and given the force of law. He could see no reason why that should not be done; and if it were done the bill could be passed in half the time that it would otherwise take. The spirit of compromise is prevalent in the Senate and is evinced in several instances. In the first place no obstacle was interposed in the way of taking up the repeal bill an hour and a half before the time when it should come up as the unfinished business. Then Mr. Morgan, (Dem., Ala.) intimated that after some conference with the chairman of the Finance Committee he would not make a motion, which he intended to make, to take up his resolution for the appointment of a joint select Committee on Finance. Mr. Stewart's courtesy to the Senator of Mississippi was a third instance.

After Mr. Walthall closed his speech the Nevada Senator resumed the floor, and discoursed on the subject of silver up to a quarter past four, when he announced that, although there were several other branches of the subject, which he desired to discuss, he would close his speech then.

The most significant incident of the day's session took place at the close when Mr. Daniel, (Dem., Va.) having given notice that he would address the Senate next Thursday, Mr. Platt, (Rep., Conn.) suggested an earlier day, as Senators hoped to vote on the bill before Thursday.

TROUBLE IN BRAZIL.

Revolt at Rio Janeiro by the Brazilian Fleet.

NEW YORK, Sep. 8.—Later advices confirm the first reports concerning the revolt at Rio Janeiro. James A. Scrymser, president of the Mexican Telegraph Cable company, received a dispatch from Buenos Ayres yesterday saying that the morning paper of that city reported that there had been a revolt against the Government at Rio Janeiro on the part of the Brazilian naval fleet stationed there, but that the Montevideo papers declared that reports lacked confirmation. Private advices to Mr. Scrymser, however, from correspondents whom he regards as well informed, confirmed the report of the revolt. From the agent of the company at Galveston information was received that despatches to any part of Brazil, except Rio Janeiro, would be admitted by the Governor. Mr. Scrymser inferred from this that the trouble was thus far confined to Rio. He said he had no fears for the company's property in Brazil, and that, as for the revolutionary troubles, they rather helped than hindered business.

The Coffee Exchange has asked the government for protection through Minister Thompson against interference with commerce by cutting off telegraphic facilities.

BUENOS AYRES, Sep. 8.—News has been received here that a revolution has broken out in the Province of Tucuman, in consequence of alleged frauds in connection with the election recently held there for Governor. The insurgents attacked the barracks in the capital and seized a quantity of munitions of war. The Governor has entrenched himself at Catillo and is actively engaged in making preparations to resist further attacks by the insurgents.

The Steamship Atlanta Scandal.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 8.—The scandal brought to the attention of the Navy Department through the report of a board of inquiry convened last month at Norfolk, to investigate a fire on board the United States steamship Atlanta and the general condition of the vessel had its culmination yesterday in the issuance of a general order by Secretary Herbert, reprimanding officers responsible for the cruiser's condition.

Hailstones an Inch Through.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sep. 8.—A terrific hail storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, visited Bath, yesterday, and did much damage to buildings and crops. Hundreds of panes of glass were broken in the Soldiers' Home. Some of the hailstones were an inch in diameter. The storm extended to Corning, destroying crops in the Cheming and Conocton Valley.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 8.—Part of the factory of the Candee Rubber Company commenced work after three weeks idleness. More rooms will open to-day and the rest Saturday on full time and with a full force. This concern employs over 2,000 hands and is one of the largest in the country.

Storm in New Jersey.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sep. 8.—A violent rain storm, accompanied by wind of great velocity and lightning, visited this portion of New Jersey last night. Many trees were uprooted and a number of barns were struck by lightning north of here.

EMIN SURELY DEAD.

Letters Confirming the Report of His Murder.

LONDON, Sep. 8.—Letters just received in England from an officer of Emin Pasha's expedition confirm the report of the murder of Emin and announce the finding of a box of Emin's dispatches, written just before he was murdered. This box is now on the way to England. The letters describe in detail the capture of Nyangusi, which was stormed on March 4th. The Arabs lost 800 men, while only two Europeans were killed.

Wentworth Indicted.

NEW YORK, Sep. 8.—The grand jury this morning completed their examination of the facts in the case of William P. Wentworth, the absconding cashier of the Victoria hotel, who is under arrest in Jersey City, awaiting extradition. Wentworth represented the interests of Mrs. Florentine Stanfield in the hotel property. He is charged with the embezzlement of $28,000 of the hotel money.

NYE ON THE NEW ERA

ONE OF GOOD FEELING, TAKEN OFTEN, IS EARNESTLY ADVOCATED.

He Meets a Porter on the Train Who Intelligently Discusses Human Nature and the World's Fair—Strange People Going to the Fair.

[Copyright, 1893, by Edgar W. Nye.]

SPOTTSWOOD CENTER, S. C., August.

The new law regarding the sale of liquor, by which Governor Tillman assumes the duties of bartender, state comptroller of jags and purifier of cuspidors, has driven a great many town people to the country, where the laws are less severely executed and where detectives are expected to watch a whole county apiece.

AN ERA OF GOOD FEELING.

Already the governor has been required to use a cash register, and even his friends regard this as an indication that the state treasurer will have to sit up nights when business is good and watch the governor.

Ten cases of apollinaris were received here yesterday, and it was noticed that when opened they did not pop. There has been an era of good feeling ever since. Northern and southern guests have shaken hands and even hugged each other in some instances while talking over the late war.

Some said they were glad of it. One South Carolinian said it turned out just as he knew it would from the start. "Oh, no," said a man from Massachusetts, trying to sit on the mantelpiece, "the north could have been whipped 40 times in so many weeks if the south had read the papers, and I am sorry it was not done, for we never had such fun before the war as we are having now."

"We were wrong from the start," said the southern man. "We should have taken the niggers back to where we got them and paid Africa $30 per month for their time. I saw that all the while. Then there would have been an era of good feeling. I like an era of good feeling, don't you?"

"Yes," said the Massachusetts man, "and we might have had it 40 years ago if I could have had my way. My theory was for the abolitionists to buy out the slaves and take them north, where we would treat them so well that they would gradually die off of gout. But, no; nothing would do but fight, fight, fight. I hate to fight, and I hate to see people fight just because the politicians need the excitement. Don't you? You fought because the brass mounted orators with alligator lungs told you there was a principle involved, and so did we, when in fact there wasn't a blamed principle in the whole business. It was just suffer and die and make the papers spicy for four years and then take all the next 50 years to pay for it."

"That's my idea. You see how few eras of good feeling we have had in the last 35 years! Well, my idea would be to have one every night. No north, no south, no east, no west; just have eras of good feeling on Thursdays and Fridays anyhow, and oftener if possible. Who was benefited by the war? Why, nobody but people who escaped the draft and spoke pieces at home. I'm a man 58 years old, and I can safely say that, though I was a soldier and slept in my clothes as long as they lasted and ate field corn most of the time, there was not a moment when I would not have gladly gone to some quiet place with a northern man like you and opened an era of good feeling with him."

"That's it exactly. The war is over, and who's got the nigger? You have. He entitles you to a whole lot of congressmen and lets you pick out the congressmen. How much are we ahead on the war? We have 39 middle aged single women to one man where we ought to have homes and taxpayers. You've got the niggers to feed, clothe and execute, and we have most of our best men buried in your cotton fields. That's the result of the war. Who brought on the war? Show me the man, and I'll show you a man who did not enlist. He remained at home and cussed because the papers in their lists of dead did not print the names of his wife's relatives correctly. Here's to Tillman. In this pure element we pledge fidelity to our era of good feeling. I'll bet a dollar Tillman brought on the war, if we could get at the facts."

"Yes, Tillman would bring on a war if he could get it out of the freight office when it arrived, but he couldn't. He is the kind of man to bring on a war and let some other man fight it. If we could have got fanatics like him into Vicksburg and blown them up and put quicklime on the place, we'd have been 50 years ahead of what we are now. There ought to be a fanatic pruner in the cabinet with nothing to do but go around over the United States and fertilize the country with fanatics.

"War is only a good thing for sutlers and bad women.

"I say, dog on the war."

"That's it. Dog on the war. Each town has got a nice soldiers' monument with the terrible cost mark on it. That's all. God save us from another!

"War makes an advance on mourning goods, that's all.

"Let advanced thinkers like Tillman and naked savages in a light uniform of cocoanut oil have wars and fight in them. I'm for peace and an era of good feeling with soda on the side."

This meeting was one long to be remembered, and following as it did the meeting between Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Davis will, I am sure, do much to fraternize the two sections and bring many southern capitalists north to live.

On the train the past week I got to talking with a porter on the palace car Asphyxia.

"Is travel generally good for this season?" I asked.

"Yes, we call it fair, sah, just fair."

"World's fair?" said I, poking him in the ribs with my eight pound cane.

"Not exactly," he said, with a look of pain. "We have some World's fair people, but not many. They didn't start at all till lately, and now some of them would make you sad to look at them.

"They are a good many of them that before the wah was called white trash by us colored people. They didn't call theirselves no way up to us. They was mos' generally po', sah, and had no family. They lived in the mountains and shot possums and made crooked whisky and wore yellow pants dyed with copperas and faded with perspiration, sah; yaas, sah, perspiration that they had started up chasin a possum or a revenue officah, sah."

"Do you mean that any of that class are on the way to the World's fair?"

"Oh, yes, we see 'em every little while, folks that has sort of braced up since the wah; folks, you know, that never had slaves. The wah give them a chance to start in square with the aristocracy so fur as money goes, and they're ahead now, some of 'em, in a money way. They begun to work and hustle and dress better, and, by doggy, now you'd be surprised to see 'em break loose and ride on the cars.

"Some of 'em don't know the wah is ovah, sah. Some is knittin socks for the soldiers yet."

"Are they afraid of the cars?"

"Oh, yes; lots of 'em was never on bode a cyar, sah. One woman comes to me Thursday and says, 'Look heah, boy, I want you to look out fer me; I never was on this plaguy thing befo'.' She was wild as a hawk and mos' jumped out the window two times, but I ketched her. She rode on the woodbox most of the way. Puferred it sort of. One of 'em put her trunk on the engine the other day. She didn't know about the check system. She was like a hyena, and her husband threatened to kill the engineer for throwing her trunk off his machine. She dodged every time we passed a telegraph pole."

"How do the men act?"

"Well, some lays low and watches the other men till they find out; but you ought to be a porter a year or so to see things. Captain Chase, the conductor, he'll tell you I ain't lyin about these folks. One woman got on at Sandy Bottom, and we called 'Skyland' a mile or so outside the place, because Skyland you have to watch pretty close or you won't see it in time to stop, for it's only a little enlargement of the wagon road from Asheville to Hendersonville. But, great king! the minute the brakeman said 'Skyland' she jumped off the train and went down the 'bankment like the evil one beatin tanbark."

"Was she killed?"

"W'y, no; not exactly. She sort of frappayed her skull, the doctor said, and she was off her head for a week or two and mos' died, and we ain't had no travel from Sandy Bottom since."

"How about the men?"

"Well, they travel better'n what the women does. But on the sleepin cyars they seem sort of rattled. One of 'em 'tween here and Cincinnati got a tin cup out of his basket and filled it with water and made his toilet on the platform. Then he wiped his face and hands with his bandanner and came back in the car and looked proud. Mostly they wear sort of red whiskers faded to a clay bank and chew tobacco, aiming to spit out the winder, but if the glass is fairly clear they 'casionally forgit it's there.

THE CAR PORTER REPLIES.

"Papers sometimes pokes fun at the northern farmer, but they wouldn't if they could see a poor white that had become prosperous."

"What stock do they come from?"

"I couldn't say, sah. Mostly they don't feel right sure theirselves, I guess. I see one of 'em at a hotel in Charlotte eat a whole watermelon and then soup afterward and wipe his whiskers on a camel's hair shawl that belonged to one of the loveliest women in North Carolina.

"I'd like to see some of these chaps when they strike Chicago and the wicked confidence man gets hold of 'em. I can sort o' fancy that towheaded man over there, 6 feet 8 in his bare feet, totin a 2-year-old child full of lemonade all over the grounds and tryin to make change for a $100 bill with a cultivated gent from Cat alley, New York city."

The fair will call out stranger people from the mountain country of east Tennessee and western North Carolina than Dahomey or the wilds of Dewdad can furnish forth.

Mrs. S. W. White

Tells of a family blessing.

Thus she writes to Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for 10 years with female complaints of the worst form, accompanied by severe spinal trouble, causing incessant backache, weakness of the stomach, and nervousness.

MRS. S. W. WHITE

"I gave up all hope of ever being well again. Just then I began to take:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I followed your directions and treatment until I am now a perfectly well woman.

"I gave it to my two daughters, aged 14 and 16 years, and they are fine, healthy girls.

"It is surely a blessing to our family."—816 Holly St., West Philadelphia, Pa.

A BI-METALLIC REPEAL

What Seems to be Wanted by Silver Senators.

FEDERAL ELECTION LAWS NEXT

Democrats Want Something on Which They Can All Unite—Several Bills to Get Rid of United States Supervisors and Marshals at Congressional Elections.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—Speeches from Democratic Senators yesterday on the repeal bill were made by Mr. Faulkner of West Virginia, Mr. Turpie of Indiana and Mr. Jones of Arkansas. All of them were in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act but coupled with the condition that silver should be restored to the position which it occupied prior to the demonetization.

After Mr. Jones, the last speaker, had taken his seat there was an awkward pause. No Senator rose to continue the discussion, although it had been arranged that Mr. Teller, (Rep. Colo.) was to be the next speaker.

Then, as a suggestion was made to proceed to executive business, Mr. Hale, (Rep. Maine) made a short speech in which he suggested that Mr. Voorhees should not consent to so early an adjournment (it was then 3:40) but should require Senators to go on with the discussion until a reasonable hour of adjournment.

This speech aroused the indignation of the Indiana Senator. He regarded it in the light of an impertinent lecture, and resented it in strong and incisive language.

Mr. Hale protested that he had spoken only in the interest of Mr. Voorhees (whose fidelity and earnestness he recognized) and of the public.

Senator Dubois, Idaho, and Teller had also something to say taking sides with Mr. Voorhees and against Mr. Hale.

After that incident, the Senate proceeded to executive business and at 4:50 adjourned.

Federal Election Laws.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—A meeting of the Committee on Election of President and Vice-President and Representatives in Congress has been called for to-day by Chairman Fitch. There were a number of bills introduced last Wednesday and referred to this committee providing for the repeal to a greater or less extent of what are known as the Federal Election laws, which will be ready for consideration to-day. Bills are on the docket from Representatives Fitch, McRae, Oates, Talbot of Maryland, Wise, Page, Wheeler of Alabama, Tucker and more are promised. These bills vary in their phraseology greatly, but the end sought is the same in all, viz: the repeal of the laws relating to the employment of supervisors and marshals at elections of Representatives in Congress.

A bill upon the same subject introduced by Mr. Culberson of Texas was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, of which he is chairman, so a conflict of jurisdiction may arise.

An effort will be made to bring the subject of the repeal of the election laws before the House at as early a day as possible. If Mr. Fitch can get the necessary order from his committee he will present his report to the House at its first session to-day; but it is hardly probable that such speed will be made. The minority members will doubtless demand more time for discussing the bills on the committee docket. The reason why the effort will be made to bring the matter before the House as soon as possible is said to be a desire on the part of the Democratic leaders to provide the majority with a subject for discussion upon which all Democrats can unite. Speaker Crisp is said to favor the plan.

A BOOM TOWN.

Cherokee Indians Pool Their Land Allotments in a Grand Speculation.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sep. 9.—Positive instructions have been received from Washington to allow no settlers to enter the Cherokee Strip on the east line. The Cherokees who have received allotments about Willow Springs on the Santa Fe have pooled their issues and will start a big town there as they have deeds from the government for their land. They can issue deeds in advance of the opening and are sure of a good town.

William's Good Graces.

METZ, Sep. 9.—Emperor William has ordered that, in view of the loyalty manifested by the people of Alsace and Lorraine during his visit, all the exceptional laws enforced in the two provinces since the war shall be abolished. After the announcement of the order Chancellor von Caprivi and Prince von Hohenlohe, Governor of Alsace and Lorraine, held a long conference, presumably as to the details of its execution.

A Lunatic Escapes.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sep. 6.—Owing to the crowded condition of the Danville Insane Asylum, 19 patients from this district were removed to the Laurytown Almshouse by a special train a few days ago. The accomodations at Laurytown are poor and Mary Siddons, who is violently insane, broke the bars of her cell and escaped.

Brakeman Killed.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sep. 9.—Frank Keyser, aged 22, a brakeman on the Boston & Albany road, fell from a train at Hinsdale and was killed, his head being cut off and his legs and arms crushed. His father is an engineer on the New York Central.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

REPORT ON CHOLERA.

Surgeon-General Wyman on the Situation at Home and Abroad.

NEW YORK, Sep. 9.—Health Officer Jenkins has just been furnished with a copy of the report of Surgeon-General Wyman of the Marine Hospital Service, giving a detailed account of the operations of the Marine Hospital Service under the new quarantine regulations. Dr. Wyman's report speaks in praiseworthy terms of the efficiency of Health Officer Jenkins in carrying out the quarantine rules.

Surgeon-General Wyman also reports upon the present sanitary condition of the various European centers. He declares Hamburg absolutely free from all contagious diseases, and says it is the only European port that is not infected. Surgeon Wyman's report of Hamburg's condition confirms the letter sent to the State Department by United States Consul Robertson, in which he says Hamburg is now one of the healthiest cities in Europe.

In speaking of the immigrants carried by the various steamship companies, Surgeon-General Wyman says that the poorer class of Russian Jews, who come from the cholera infected districts, are brought here from Glasgow by the Allan-State line. He attributes this to the fact that the Continental lines refuse to carry them.

PEACEFUL INVASION.

First Armed English Troops Since Burgoyne's Campaign.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sep. 9.—A special train of three baggage cars, five special cars for horses, and seven passenger coaches passed here yesterday from Montreal to Albany bearing 200 English soldiers with 100 horses, arms, accoutrements, etc., under the command of captain C. W. Gordon, of the Royal Artillery. At Albany they were to take the People's line boat for New York and are en route home. They are the first armed English soldiers who have crossed this ground in peace from Montreal to Albany since the war of the revolution when Sir John Burgoyne was stopped at Saratoga and Sir George Prevost turned back at Plattsburg when they attempted a forcible march down from Canada.

PRESS PRIVILEGES.

Correspondents Admitted to the House Lobby Provided They Get Out Promptly.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—The rules adopted for the 53d Congress authorize the Speaker to admit, under such regulations as he may deem proper, newspaper men to the members' lobby in the rear of the Speaker's chair. An order covering the case was drafted by Speaker Crisp and sent to the doorkeeper. It provides that any correspondent who has the entree to the press gallery may be admitted to the lobby upon the request of a member, provided that he shall not enter the hall of the House, and retire from the lobby upon the termination of his interview with the member who introduced him to the apartment.

FAIR LILLIAN'S TROUBLES.

Miss Russell Wants Her Marriage to Solomon Annulled.

NEW YORK, Sep. 9.—Lillian Russell obtained from Judge McAdam of the Superior Court an order for the service of a summons by publication on Edward Solomon in an action for an annulment of her marriage to him on the ground of his prior marriage to the actress, Lillie Grey. Miss Russell says that she was deceived by Solomon, who represented that there was no pediment to his marriage, and that she learned afterward that he had been married to Jane Isaacs, a London concert hall singer, whose stage name was Lillie Grey.

RED CROSS.

President Barton Offers Her Services for the Southern Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—Clara Barton, the widely known president of the American Red Cross Society, had a conference with Senator Butler in which she offered her services in connection with the storm sufferers on the South Carolina islands. Senator Butler telegraphed Gov. Tillman of the offer and the Governor replied there was no need of them now, but if the services of the Red Cross should be needed he would be glad to avail himself of the offer of Miss Barton.

Old Hands at Robbery.

DENVER, Col., Sep. 9.—Ex-Chief of Police Harley believes that the Delta bank robbers are the famous McCartys who have been operating in Oregon for a year past. It will be remembered that Tom McCarthy robbed David H. Moffett, of the First National bank of Denver, of $20,000 in a very sensational manner. Numerous attempts have been made to capture the band but without success.

Work and Trouble Together.

ANDERSON, Ind., Sep. 9.—The Pennsylvania Glass Company has resumed operations at one of its factories here, and at the same time a fight is begun with the local American flint glass workers' union, which insists on unionizing the Pennsylvania concern. The Madison County Federation of Labor has taken a hand in the matter and war is on.

You hear a great deal about oatmeals as good as H-O. Do you ever hear that H-O is as good as some others?

DAWN OF PROSPERITY

Bradstreets' Report of Business Improvement.

BANK DEPOSITS SHOW CONFIDENCE

Money Easier and Volume of Trade Increased—Mills and Factories Resuming. Number of Failures Materially Less—A Demand for Commercial Paper.

NEW YORK, Sep. 9.—Bradstreet's today says: The third successive week of improving financial conditions, followed by a stimulation of demand for staple articles at many points, has practically satisfied the commercial and industrial communities that the change for the better is a result of improved conditions, and that the movement will prove continuous. The last of the premium on currency has finally disappeared, and the tendency of bank deposits to increase, pointed out a week ago, has become general and pronounced. At nearly all the larger financial centers funds are more easily obtainable, though in only a few instances at lower rates of interest or discount. The fall in rates of domestic exchange is widespread, and very little that is abnormal remains. A careful examination of detailed telegraphic reports of the state of trade to Bradstreet's makes it plain that easier money, present or prospective, has stimulated confidence in an increased volume of trade this fall and next winter, but the improvement in the financial situation has been relatively greater than in commercial lines. Industrially the gain is noteworthy, so many mills and factories have started up within two weeks.

Evidences of reviving trade are apparent in increased demand from western and eastern jobbers of dry goods and hardware. Western holders of pig iron are said to be asking an advance, but this is offset by lowest prices on record at other points. The fear that funds might not be available to move the cotton and grain crops has been finally dissipated by the offers of the New York banks, yet cotton and wheat receipts continue very slow. Advices from all directions report very slow mercantile collections. Relatively the most rapid gains in distribution of merchandise are found along the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys. For the first time on record American as well as European and American wheat stocks decreased during August.

Business failures continue checked, this being the first instance of small totals reported two weeks in succession since the panic began. The week's total is 379, against 366 last week, 146 one year ago, 138 in 1891, and 162 in 1890. High-water mark in the matter of failures this year was reached in July, with a total of about 2,000, and nearly $88,000,009 liabilities, as compared with nearly 800 failures and $8,200,000 liabilities in July, 1893. The financial situation at New York continues to show gradually improving tendencies, money coming from the interior, while the decrease of apprehension unlocks considerable local supplies of funds. Money is again offered on time and for the purchase of commercial paper, although rates are not relaxed. About $500,000 clearing-house loan certificates have been redeemed, and larger amounts will be retired shortly.

HOT FOR NON-UNIONISTS.

Women Lead a Mob Against a Man Who Took a Striker's Place.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 9.—As Joseph Laughren, a non-union roller in Oliver's South Side mill, was returning home, he was followed by a large crowd of strikers, women and children. But for the timely arrival of the police, beyond doubt he would have suffered severe treatment. Mary Reagan, Annie Stock and Mary Volker were arrested as leaders of the mob, charged with inciting riot. Several additional arrests were made. Thirty informations have been lodged against others who participated. They will be arrested as fast as they can be located.

Lynched.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sep. 9.—A special to the Commercial from Quincy, Miss., 137 miles east of Memphis, says that Ben Jackson, colored, was hanged there last night. The crime for which Jackson was lynched was that of throwing three packages of "rough on rats" in the well of Thomas Woodruff, causing the death of two of Mr. Woodruff's children.

Canadian Stock Speculation.

MONTREAL, Que., Sep. 9.—For the first time since the financial crisis, bankers have notified stock brokers that call loans will be six and one half per cent. This is expected to boom stock speculating.

Rebuilding the Hartford.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—The famous old warship Hartford, now lying at San Francisco, is to be entirely rebuilt and Secretary Herbert has authorized the use of $456,244 for this purpose.

Full Time and Full Wages.

NASHUA, N. H., Sep. 9.—The Vale Mills, which have been stopped for two weeks, received orders to start Monday on full time, without reduction of wages.

For Southern Sufferers.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 9.—The Citizens' Permanent Relief Committee appropiated $5,000 for the benefit of the hurricane sufferers in the south.

Farmer Barrett Held.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sep. 9.—Farmer Barrett, who shot two boys that annoyed him, is held for the grand jury without bail.

Philadelphia's Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—The Senate has confirmed the nomination of William W. Carr to be postmaster at Philadelphia.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Attempt to Incorporate a Belligerent Body in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kas., Sep. 9.—Application was made to the Secretary of State for a charter for the "Protective Association of the State of Kansas." The principal place of business of the association is in Kansas City, Kas., and the directors, the Rev. Edwin E. Lock, W. H. Ryus, John W. Enoch, Thos. Vickroy and F. H. Baker, all of Wyandotte county. The life of the association is fixed at 25 years, and its object is stated "to protect our county and its free institutions against the secret intolerant and aggressive efforts that are persistently being set by certain religious political organizations to control the government of the United States and destroy our blood-bought civil and religious liberty, to maintain our free public school system and oppose the union of State and church." It is probable that a charter may not be granted, at least Secretary of State Osborne announces that he will not authorize the existence of such an incorporation until he is compelled by the courts to do so or by proper legal authority. He said yesterday morning that he did not believe there was a law authorizing the incorporation of such an association. Further than that he declined to give his reasons for refusing to issue a charter. It is a common report in the State House that the Populists regard the application as as a scheme to involve them in religious controversy.

HALLIDAY'S FUNERAL.

Excitement Over the Triple Murder Dying Out.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sep. 9.—Paul Halliday was buried beside his first wife in the little cemetery in Walker Valley with the ritual of the G. A. R. yesterday and the excitement over the triple murder is subsiding somewhat.

Every inch of the ground under the Halliday house and barn has been dug over and all parts of the premises carefully scrutinized but no fresh discoveries were made. The leaving of Constables Scott and Nickerson with Mrs. Halliday for the Monticello jail has helped greatly to restore quiet.

Late in the day it was rumored here that a skeleton of a boy had been found on the Halliday premises, but as nothing definite can be learned the report is not generally credited.

After the funeral of Paul Halliday two of his sons, James and Robert, came to Middletown to consult a lawyer regarding the disposition of their father's property.

FINANCIAL CLOUD BROKEN.

Uncle Sam's Business Shows a Big Increase and Treasury Officials Rejoice.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—Much encouragement is felt at the Treasury Department over the receipts for the past two days. They have been very large, yesterday's receipts being $1,630,000, making total receipts for the month to date $2,630,000. Large receipts together with other evidences of returning prosperity are looked to to show that the financial cloud has broken and will gradually disappear. The Treasury is a financial thermometer and feels the revival of business as quickly as it does its depression.

WORK FOR 20,000.

Grand Resumption of New England Boot and Shoe Factories.

BOSTON, Sep. 9.—All the large rubber boot and shoe factories will start up on Monday, Sept. 11, after their usual summer vacation.

They are crowded with orders, which will necessitate their running for the balance of the season to their full capacity.

This will give employment to about 20,000 hands.

The principal factories are at Malden, Woonsocket, New Haven, Cambridge, New Brunswick, N. J.; Williamsport, Pa., and Naugatuck, Conn.

No News of Major Schreiner.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—The only information the Postoffice Department officials have of the reported disappearance of Major Schreiner, who is in charge of the department exhibit at Chicago, is contained in a press telegram from Chicago. No particular uneasiness is felt, as it is confidently expected that Major Schreiner will put in an appearance within a short time.

Philadelphia Broker Fails.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 9.—The failure of William P. Cambles was announced on the floor of the Stock Exchange yesterday. Until recently he operated successfully on the short side of the market, his profits having been estimated as high as $100,000.

Cut or Close.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sep. 9—The Henry R. Worthington Company will either reduce the wages of their foundry men ten per cent. next week, or will close the foundry three days a week. They have given the employes their choice.

Suicide for Love.

LYNN, Mass., Sep. 9.—Frank A. Durgin, a 17-year-old drug clerk, committed suicide yesterday by taking arsenic in a fit of despondency over a school boy love affair. He attempted suicide the same way last week.

The Colehour Collision.

CHICAGO, Sep. 9.—The list of casualties from the Colehour accident is twelve dead, one fatally hurt, two so seriously injured that they may die, twelve more or less badly hurt and five slightly injured.

BUENOS AYRES, Sep. 9.—It is reported that the rebel men-of-war have left Rio Janeiro to seize Santos and join the rebels in Rio Grande do Sul.

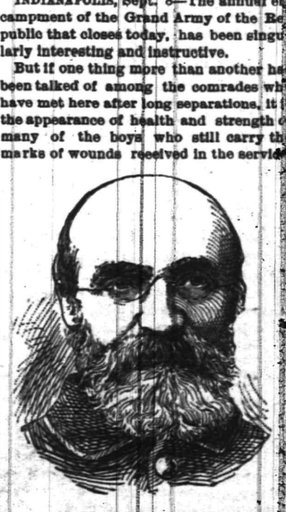
ADDRESSED TO VETERANS.

Comrade C. R. Louch's Words Should Be Read By Every Citizen.

SOLDIERS' HOME AT DAYTON.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8—The annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic that closes today, has been singularly interesting and instructive.

But if one thing more than another has been talked of among the comrades who have met here after long separations, it is the appearance of health and strength of many of the boys who still carry the marks of wounds received in the service.



CHARLES R. LOUCH.

Among the brave men who served from Minnesota and who still live, none wore braver than Comrade Charles R. Louch, recently an inmate of the great national soldiers's home at Dayton, Ohio.

"I served for 3 years," narrates Mr. Louch, "in Co. B, 8th Regiment, Minn. Vols. I participated in the two campaigns against the Sioux Indians, 1863–4; served in Tennessee during Hood's advance on Nashville in the fall of 1864; was wounded near that city Dec. 3, 1864, our regiment having been assigned to the 23d army corps, Maj. Gen. Schofield commanding; was taken prisoner, block house No. 3, N. & M. R. R., on same date.

"I contracted a chronic illness from exposure during confinement. My suffering was intense for over twenty years and interfered materially with my worldly advancement. The first real relief that I have experienced in all these years was from Paine's celery compound."

The following statement from Comrade Louch tells the story:

"Not being a physician, it would be impossible for me to give a correct diagnosis of my condition before taking Paine's celery compound. I can judge only by my feelings of relief, increase of physical strength, improvement in nervous force, healthful appearance of my skin and from other things plainly apparent, that the celery compound has been of the utmost value to me.

"It has relieved me almost entirely of painful sensations. In unfavorable weather I occasionally feel a slight twinge, so light as to be barely perceptible, that is all, merely a reminder. My digestion has greatly improved; the painful oppression or choking sensation experienced if I happened to turn on my left side while sleeping, has disappeared. It has cured or checked my rheumatism, and I can walk and move about without difficulty. I realy enjoy my food, a condition of affairs unknown to me for years.

"When first admitted to the Leavenworth Branch in 1889 I had no hopes of seeing the grass grow or the flowers bloom again, but I used five bottles of Paine's celery compound and received more benefit than I had ever expected.

"I know that it is a remedy for chronic rheumatism, lumbago, indigestion and especially valuable in nervous diseases, and in that indescribable jumping and thumping of the heart, which makes a fellow believe his time has come.

J. A. Crowser, Co. A, 2d Va. Cavalry, also of the Home at Dayton, has used six bottles of Paine's celery compound and highly recommends it for indigestion and heart trouble.

Paine's celery compound has made many veterans well at Dayton.

Comrade Edward Schott, late first sergeant, Co. C, 32d Indiana, writes from Dayton.

"I have been suffering from chronic backache for over five years, that is to say, since I became a member of the Home. I tried different remedies to get rid of it, but without success. I was recommended by a member of the Home to try Paine's celery compound; I tried a bottle in regular doses before meals, and I found my system was undergoing a change for the better. A comrade has provided me with a second bottle."

Paine's celery compound never fails to give relief to the sick. It makes people well.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Generally Fair, Followed By Showers; Easterly Winds.

The case of young Pike should teach tender and trustful maidens the folly of entrusting jewelry to giddy youths of chance summer acquaintance. But perhaps the beautiful belle of Paterson was testing the depth of Joseph's affection and the strength of Joseph's integrity. In that case, her experiment got her well rid of a fellow whose attributes as an accepted suitor would have become distasteful to her when it was perhaps too late. As a forerunner of the trusting of hearts, the trusting of jewelry may in this case be considered a success.

THE THINNING OF THE RANKS.

A thought for the Sabbath, a little self-teaching sermon for the morrow, is the heaviness with which the hand of death has been laid upon the hearts of Plainfield people these recent days. Households in every walk of life have been visited, and the mourners going about the streets may ponder well on the fleetness of human breath. The serious-minded contemplation of one's fitness for the Beyond would be profitable Sabbath reflection for everyone tomorrow.

WARREN ACKERMAN'S WILL.

Criticism is being made by thoughtless persons because nothing of Warren Ackerman's immense fortune was left to charity. The will, which has just been admitted to probate, retains everything in the family. The estate, including personal property, stocks and cash, is estimated to be worth $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. He bequeaths to his wife all his real estate and household effects, paintings, works of art, books, etc., for her lifetime; to his nephew, Ernest R. Ackerman $100,000 in cash and all his shares of stock in the Lawrence Cement Company of New York; to his nephew, Marion S. Ackerman, he gave $50,000 in cash and his stock in the Cumberland Hydraulic Cement and Manufacturing Company of Maryland.

To gossiping critics The Press would say that Mr. Ackerman has bequeathed his property wisely and well. His good wife and his good nephews can safely be trusted to use for no selfish ends the wealth left in their control, but to continue wisely, judiciously, faithfully, the bestowal of all such bounties as delighted the heart of the dead millionaire, and to administer abundant charities in all deserving quarters within their province.

THE VAN DEVENTER FAILURE.

Alarmists and partisan fanatics will doubtless herald the VanDeventer failure as a result of the change of Administration. But Mr. VanDeventer himself says that Democratic rule has nothing to do with his misfortune. Instead, he traces his downfall back to the time of Harrison's presidency, when he began to lose money and to argue among his friends in favor of Free Trade. Free Trade, he held, would be a great benefit to his own business, and the Tariff Reform of Democracy of incalculable help to all American industries.

But while the VanDeventer failure cannot be truthfully used as a political object-lesson by opponents of the Democracy, it does speak impressively of the mutations of fortune, the uncertainty of riches. It seems but a little while ago that Augustus Van Deventer was counted one of the wealthiest men in Plainfield. Today he is without a dollar to his name.

And this is through no fault of his own. The Creston Carpet Mills was a good stand, and Mr. VanDeventer knew his business. But losses came, and losses grew. Mr. VanDeventer found himself each year becoming deeper and deeper involved, and when the hard times of this summer were struck he was producing goods at a loss, on borrowed capital, with current expenses heavy, losses of the past to meet, and no money in the market. So he shut down his mills. Ordinarily when a man closes his factory he begins to make money, for his expenses stop and collections come in. But in this case he found himself unable to secure payments from his customers for goods that had been produced at a loss, there was therefore no hope of his collections tiding him over the dull times till brisk business could be resumed. There was simply no present income, and no hope of future profit.

It's a bad failure, but the Administration cannot be blamed.

THE SEWER CRISIS IN PLAINFIELD.

The ordinance by which the city withdraws from partnership in the North Avenue sewer business has received the Mayor's signature and is now a law. Henceforth, until the city provides relief by a correct system of public sewers, those using the North avenue outlet are at the mercy of the long-suffering residents of North Plainfield whose noses are daily assailed by the vile odors of the obnoxious nuisance. They are also at the mercy of Chas. H. Hand. When that Napoleon of real estate owned the Elkwood building on West Second street, he forced the Council to grant him connection with the North Avenue sewer by the threat that if he could n't connect no one else should. He carried his point. Now the Council has refused him connection from his Crescent building, and has refused further sanction of present users of the sewer. It is true that Councilman See said "Oh, we won't hurry about severing connections; we only want to set the city right so that it shall not be a party to the violation of the State law against the contamination of streams; we don't want to force disconnection till a public sewer system is provided". But the good intentions of Councilmen won't save the North avenue people from the consequences of the Councilmen's act. Any citizen can now complain of the North avenue nuisance, and put users of the sewer to much trouble and expense. Charles Hand, for instance, may fall back on his old policy of "You shan't if I can't", and have every North Avenue sewer connection severed forthwith, or the property-holders arrested for their violation of the law. It is to be sincerely hoped that no one will exercise this power against the unfortunates who have no room for cesspools and no sewer but an illegal one; but has n't the city made a mistake in adopting such a measure before relief is provided?

To hurry up those sewers is the especial duty of every good citizen at this time.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A large American flag is flying over the North Plainfield public school grounds, although the building is not yet completed. The flagpole has been repainted and erected. There can be no doubt of the borough's patriotism, when it is shown in this unmistakable manner.

—Charles Schlitz has returned from Pittsburg and Philadelphia after an absence of seven years from Plainfield, and is prepared to fill all orders for high-grade upholstering. He is one of the best workmen in his line in the country, and should be given the fullest support of Plainfield people.

The Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, announces the following series of World's Fair sermons, Sunday evenings at 7:45:

September 10—The City of a Year.

The Mighty Pen.

It has been estimated that the world consumes 4,000,000 steel pens daily. There are pens being made now, however, that will last a man a lifetime, and a small investment at Collier's will secure one of these wonderful evidences of ingenuity and convenience.

Plainfield's Eternal Springtime.

Ex-Councilman John B. Brown of Park avenue has on his grounds an apple tree that is now bearing both fruit and blossoms. A twig broken from the tree and sent to the Press office, has the unusual curiosity of an apple from whose stem a pretty pink blossom is growing.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:

"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest effects. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health.

ROUND THE OLD CAMP FIRE.

VETERANS GROW JOLLY AT THE RELIEF CORPS SOCIABLE.

The Camp Ground at Front and Church Streets a Scene to Be Remembered—Coffee in Tin Cups—Waitresses in Red, White and Blue—As the Women Managed It Was a Big Success.

On the grounds at Front and Church streets, beneath old elms that showed their tracery against the stars, the Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., last evening held their postponed lawn sociable.

The scene was a picturesque representation of an old camp ground, with the harsh lines that make up the picture of war softened by beauty and good cheer.

At the entrance to the grounds hung two mammoth American flags, fit ornaments for such a scene. As the visitor passed beneath these he was greeted with a burst of light from row upon row of myriad-tinted Japanese lanterns, beneath which laughing groups and couples walked and talked.

Here and there a face would occasionally come full into the light of a lantern and be etched upon the memory, only to vanish quickly, and be replaced by another.

As one moved on to the big tent in the centre of the grounds, which was draped about with the Stars and Stripes, there was unfolded a vision of tables spread snow-white and heaped high with dainties. Waitresses attired in red, white and blue lent the scene additional charm.

The candy table was in charge of Mrs. S. Summers and Mrs. W. C. Smith, the cake table was supervised by Mrs. Andrew Cox and Miss Howlett, the soda water was dispensed by Mrs. Westphal and Mrs. I. L. McVoy, the ice-cream was served by Mrs. Charles Badin and Mrs. John Angleman, the coffee came from the hands of Mrs. S. Mattox and Mrs. J. Huntington, assisted by Raymond McVoy. Mrs. Isaac Brokaw and Mrs. F. M. Whiteley managed the apron sale.

The object of the sociable is to raise money to pay for the Post's new piano. The affair was therefore conceived and carried out by the Piano Committee, of which Mrs. M. C. Dobbins is chairman, Mrs. Emma K. Cox, treasurer, and Mrs. W. C. Smith, secretary.

Among the ladies present whose faces the Press representative recognized in the swiftly moving throng were: Mrs. Corwin, Miss May Howlett, Miss Sarah Smith, the Misses Nash, Miss Carrie J. Drake, Miss Maggie Summers and Miss Badin. Capt. Hand was there also. He sat on the ground in the tent playing "Mumblety peg" with some ladies and small boy. He was the centre of an admiring group.

Near the entrance to the tent, a little removed from the glare of the lanterns, crackled the camp fire. The heavy logs sputtered and wheezed; the flames leaped up and clutched with sinuous fingers at the great camp kettle in which the coffee boiled.

The light fell about and showed distinctly the faces of the comrades gathered round. The boys of '61 were living over in imagination their days and nights on the battlefield, and it seemed to the beholder as if war really meant something again.

Among the comrades gathered round were: Commander M. C. Dobbins, Past Commander W. C. Smith, Wm. Alpaugh, C. Bechtel, Henry C. Drake, Abram King, James Huntington, I. McVoy, V. W. Nash, Chas. Stephens, Wm. Stites, Sam'l Terry, Chas. Westphal and F. M. Whitely of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73; and William Boe and Benj. S. Braider of Major Anderson Post, No. 109.

The arrangements were all well made and reflected much credit on the women of the Relief Corps. The sociable last night was so successful that it was decided to continue it tonight, when Guttmann's Band will furnish additional music.

FUNERAL OF MOSES FRENCH.

The Life of a Faithful Saint Appeals to Those Left Behind.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Moses H. French took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, 36 Craig place.

There was an unusually large number of friends present who had known the deceased over a half century. His personal qualities were of a high standard, and those who knew him were pleased to be counted acquaintances.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham conducted the service and spoke in high terms of Mr. French. His text was taken from the words "Being dead, he yet speaketh". His remarks were, in part, as follows:

"The above words are true of our brother who has passed away. Though being dead he speaks to us today through his past life. The fact of our being dead is insignificant; it is the details of their living that impresses us, and what we remember of their deeds in life, that causes us to mourn their departure from earth."

Dr. Ketcham paid a loving tribute to his aged father who is 83 years old, and though advanced in life he is still very active in Christian work, in fact, always has been.

Continuing, he said: "Mr. French's life will speak to those left for years to come, and his godly example will be a source of much strength to those who knew him. If he could talk today he would tell us not to mourn, for heaven is better than earth, and he is a great deal happier. If we mourn it should be for ourselves.

"There are great lessons to learn from the death of the deceased, and may we take heed to them and follow divine instructions."

A closing prayer was made by the doctor, after which an opportunity was given those present to view the remains.

It was a noticeable fact that a number of those attending the funeral were persons well advanced in years. One in particular was Peter Wooden, who looked exceptionally well.

Interment was made in Hillside Cemetery.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Made and sold for fifteen years at Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

MR. HONEYMAN TALKS.

DISCUSSING BOROUGH HEALTH.

Provisions That the North Plainfield Board Have Made for Disposing of the Garbage Nuisance.

The North Plainfield Board of Health recently passed an ordinance that any person wishing to collect garbage in the borough must first obtain a license from the board, permitting him to do so.

This action has occasioned considerable comment, and much inquiry, and yesterday a Press representative called to interview the Rev. W. E. Honeyman, a member of the board, in reference to the matter.

Mr. Honeyman was in his library, and received the Press man cordially.

"Take a seat"—he said.—"I am glad that you called. The Board of Health has been misrepresented in this matter, I think, by a certain newspaper which tried to make it appear that we were by means of the license ordinance forcing upon the people certain men as garbage collectors, who would not otherwise receive the work. This is a mistake. The truth of the matter is, that all last summer it was wellnigh impossible for citizens of the borough to get rid of their garbage. All the collecting that was done was done by one man, who would call for your garbage today and possibly would not be be seen or heard from again for a month. He was an autocrat, coming when he pleased; and when he did not please, staying away and leaving you to dispose of the garbage as best you could. I myself have often been compelled to burn and bury garbage, after waiting in vain to have it carted away. Complaints about this were frequently made to the board, and with good reason. At length the board became impatient at the State of affairs, and in the meeting of August 2 passed an ordinance requiring garbage collectors to obtain a license."

"Is the fee charged a heavy one, Mr. Honeyman?"

"The fee is only a nominal one—a few dollars;—and the object of the ordinance is simply to enable the board to bind the collectors to do their work with regularity, to charge only reasonable fees, and to work in territory that is exclusively their own, and not too large to be well covered. With this ordinance, you see, we can prevent any man who is incompetent or untrustworthy from collecting garbage, by simply refusing to grant him a license.

"How this works can be seen in the case of the man Drake who was last week arrested for collecting without a license. A man named Willis is licensed to collect in the borough, west of Somerset street. License was not refused to Willis: he simply refused to apply for it. After warning Drake several times to obtain a license, Health Inspector Frank Whitely swore out a warrant for the offender and he was taken before a justice and fined ten dollars.

"Drake has since obtained a license to collect to the last of Somerset street, so that we now have two good men collecting in the borough, whose territories do not conflict. If they should prove inefficient or overcharge the people their licenses will be revoked. If the two men cannot cover so much ground satisfactorily, the districts will be subdivided and more licenses will be granted."

"What is the charge for collecting garbage?"—inquired the Press man.

"The charge for collecting is not to exceed ten cents a week for each family. If any family cannot pay this, the collector will not refuse to take their garbage.

"I hope"—Mr. Honeyman continued—"that I have made this matter clear to you and that you will set us right before the people. I believe that North Plainfield has a most competent health board; and I believe that the interests of the people in health matters are being well looked after. Eternal vigilance is the price of safety in health matters. Not long since the health inspector detected a man slaughtering calves on the sly. The man was warned not to repeat the offense. There has also been more or less sewering in the brook. This has been stopped, too, and all sewage connections from the houses to the brook have been cut off."

"Is that all you wish to say, Mr. Honeyman?"

"I believe it is, thank you. I might simply add as a matter of justice to Frank Whitely, that he has made a most efficient health inspector, and that it is owing in part to his thorough house inspection that the board has been able to do some of its best work."

Dr. Ripley's Prize Jerseys.

Four prizes were awarded to Jersey cattle in Westfield by the Columbian Exposition. A message from T. S. Cooper now in Chicago informed Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley, last night, that three prizes had been awarded to his bull, Pedro's Royal Marjoram, and also a prize to the daughter, Infanta Pedro Marjoram, both belonging to the herd of Dr. Ripley.

Mr. Cooper also exhibited Pedro, the sire, and Marjoram, II, (2d) the dam of Dr. Ripley's bull, both of which took prizes. Pedro, now nearly seventeen years old, a son of Eurotas, so long owned by A. B. Darling, proprietor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, has been adjudged by the present exposition the most illustrious Jersey sire in the world.

He Had on Too Heavy a Load.

A wagon belonging to Daniel McCarthy was passing the corner of Front street and Park avenue at noon, heavily laden with crushed stone, when the left front wheel suddenly collapsed. Every spoke was snapped off at the hub; and the wagon had to remain in the street until the demolished wagon could be replaced with a new one, which was accomplished this afternoon.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

SATURDAY-NIGHT TALES

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

What He Has to Say About the Graceland Hero, the Tough Sunday Conductors, and the Hearses That Pass for Cars.

"Talk about curiosity:"—said The Man on the Cars the other night as the six o'clock train pulled out of Westfield—"if you want to see an interesting, wholesale exhibition of it just look out of the window when we slow up at Graceland, and observe the anxious faces protruded from every car in the train when that solitary Graceland commuter gets off and starts for home. Here we are now; push up the sash and take it in. You see they don't stop the cars—merely slack speed and let him jump. Ah, there he is, with his usual bundles and packages—he's the only man in this 'ideal spot', I presume. But look at the inquisitiveness of the other passengers—five or ten heads stuck out of each car to look at him, and they've seen him time and again before. Funny what a freak that lonely man is, and I always admire the nonchalant way in which he endures it. Probably I should be quite as much of a curio as he if I lived in a place like Graceland.

"Mercy, how this old car creaks and rattles! I don't understand why steady patrons like ourselves, and a thousand others, have to tolerate such prehistoric hearses as this all through the sea-shore season while the nice new cars are given to the fickle patrons of the Long Branch division, most of whom are used to New York "L" cars and cannot appreciate a suburban service as we could. But it maybe they are a more aristocratic lot than we, and there, perhaps, is the rub. The method at any rate is too obvious to be entirely madness.

"And, speaking of madness, did you ever observe the peculiar behavior of our Sunday conductors? It is queer that men who seem civil and clever enough all the work-days should metamorphose so completely on Sunday, but the fact remains that those in charge of the trains are terribly ungallant on the first day of the week. Of course, a holiday crowd is harder to handle, and conscientious scruples and the Fourth Commandment may tend to make Sunday work unpalatable, but even these are not sufficient excuse for the absurd irascibility of the Sunday conductor. Next time you have occasion to use the railroad instead of going to church just watch the man with the punch and I'll warrant you will find him in a frame of mind as tranquil as a Spanish bull-fight in full cry, or the yolk of an egg when the beater is getting in its work, but be circumspect and lay low or he may throw you off the train, for the Sunday conductor, like the larger share of his passengers, is as Mr. Dickens has made old Joe Bagstock put it, 'tough, de-vilish tough'."

THE CAPTAIN AND THE COLONEL.

They Heal the Breach, and Tell a Terrapin Story.

"Now see here, Colonel,"—calmly observed the Captain,—"you missed our last week's little smoke together, and the newspaper men tell me you stated to them that you were here, and sent a report, by a hack-boy, for delivery, for publication, of your military tale. That, I could not believe, knowing your absolute veracity; but do you know, sir, I pay little attention to false reports of my utterances, and lately my reminiscences having been truly set forth I must ask you, how it occured." "My Dear Captain,"—suavely replied the Colonel,—"these are the facts: when we met last week, you had been dining out, and were naturally a little wearied, so I considerately related my little experience, as you requested, in a modulated tone. On its completion I was grieved that you did not bid me adieu, and noticing your somnolent condition am not now surprised that you did not even remember my presence afterward."

"Colonel, forgive me. Apology is accepted, and I have on my mind a tale that is not at all remarkable to to those who sailed the South Pacific sixty years ago.

"You must know, sir, that the Galapagos group of Islands comprises about a dozen small isles situated about seventy miles from the main land. Those islands were naturally of different shapes, no two alike. The charts in those days though as a rule crude were sufficiently correct to give the shape and dimensions of the isles if not the accurate depth of water. Now the natives from the main land, knowing these islands to be overrun with terrapin, would come over in their canoes and gather them in great numbers, some being so large as to require the strength of four men to lift them. There was little butter made in those latitudes at the time and those rascals used to try out the terrapin fat and use it as we do butter at the present day, and preserve the edible part for a 'rainy day.'

"Well one voyage we had to put in at these islands, being short of food as well as water. By the way, the water found is at a great distance inland and held in basins, as it were, naturally formed in the rock. After filling the water-butts the crew commenced to 'turn-turtle'—that is rolling them over on their backs till the vessel's boats could come and take them aboard. On this voyage we loaded over 700 terrapin and placed them in the hold alive for food. As you know, sir, these terrapin only drink once a year, so we did not fear they would die until despatched by ourselves for sustenance. Before leaving we observed that the shape of the terrapin taken from the several islands differed and upon consulting the chart noticed that the shape of the shell exactly conformed to the coast line of the isle where it was found, so that upon again visiting those waters and finding a terrapin an experienced mariner could at once tell his location without taking an observation."

With a visible yawn the Colonel said—"there was nothing remarkable about that."

"Hold on, sir!—I have not told you what these terrapin had for food—nothing less than a cabbage tree with a trunk 14 to 16 inches in diameter, (formed precisely like our cabbage stalks), and from 20 to 30 feet high with the cabbage of course above."

"Those terrapin must have been good climbers, Captain"—quietly remarked the Colonel.

"There was no climbing about it; they would simply 'circle' that tree with their teeth until it was almost eaten through when it would topple over and they could eat the fruit at their leisure."

"Good-Night, Colonel."

"Good-Night, Captain."

Larry Controls the Road.

As a wagon loaded with crushed stone was trying to pull off the railway track on Front street, corner of Park avenue, about noon today, one of the forward wheels collapsed, and delayed Car No. 2 about fifteen minutes. Finally the load, with the help of Police Sergeant Riely, was run around the corner into Park avenue. "What are you doing there, Larry?"—said the motorman to the wagon driver. "Controllin' the road"—said Larry.

A Reliable Agent Wanted.

In consequence of the great depression in business we are compelled to make unusual efforts to push the sale of our garments, in order to keep our large force of skilled workmen employed, and would like to employ a first-class man (Merchannt Tailor preferred) to represent our goods in this locality. Geo. Watson & Co., the Broad and Market street clothiers, Newark.

A Sensible Way of Meeting Hard Times.

ONE FIRM WHO WILL KEEP THEIR HELP BUSY IF THEY HAVE TO SELL GOODS AT COST.

At this time, when we hear so much about mills closing, factories shutting up and workmen being discharged all over the country, it is good news to learn that we have one firm in the city who are not only keeping their workmen busy, but are actually increasing their force by hiring many extra good men who have left other houses.

We refer to the old established firm of Geo. Watson & Co., the Broad and Market Street Clothiers, who have lately added to their force Mr. Edwin B. Ennis as manager of their new Custom Department, Mr. William A. Marcell, late of the firm of Zehnder, Marcell & Co., and are ready to make further editions to their large force when men of talent apply.

Pushing the business by way of superior garments and low prices will be the way that Watson & Co. propose to meet the business troubles caused by tariff and currency changes, and you may now expect to find their new fall stock full of the choicest garments that can be produced at the lowest prices ever known—and see the finest custom goods in the forty-foot window of their new custom department, Nos. 166 and 168 Market street, entrance through their Broad street building, which is completely filled with new fall suits cut and made right up to the lines of the fashion plate, at $10, $12 and $15, and all styles of overcoats in light, medium and heavy-weight, from $10 up to the highest cost satin lined garments, any of which will certainly improve your dress appearance and most of which you cannot find elsewhere.—Newark Item.

The matter was settled quietly by the company, and Silverstein escaped arrest.

HOME RULE REJECTED

The House of Lords Ten to One Against the Bill.

EARLY CLOSE OF THE DEBATE

All the Bishops Go With the Majority—A Large Attendance of Interested Spectators—Unionist Demonstrations and Protests From Home Rulers.

LONDON, Sep. 9.—Debate on Home Rule was shorter than anticipated in the House of Lords, and the bill was rejected by a vote of 419 to 41. During the discussion the peeresses', strangers' and diplomatic galleries showed few vacant seats. Conspicuously occupying a portion of the area of the House were twenty-two bishops attired in their capacious robes with lawn sleeves. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Oxford and every notable church dignitary were present. Members of the House of Commons crowded the accesses and standing room around the throne. The lobbies held so many people that they were impassable until the police received orders to clear them.

Outside of the Parliament Houses organized bands from Conservative workingmen's clubs, specially formed to incite a jubilant demonstration on the rejection of the Home Rule bill, began to assemble at ten o'clock. Some hint of their intention having reached the Radical workingmen's clubs and Irish societies, small detachments of these soon appeared on the scene. As a brawl was feared, the police, having been reinforced, broke up the different groups and kept them moving.

The principal speech was made by Lord Salisbury, who bitterly attacked the bill and spoke in sarcastic terms of its supporters. He spoke for an hour and a quarter. His conclusion was marked by quiet eloquence.

The Earl of Kimberly, Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, briefly replied to Lord Salisbury.

The Lord Chancellor then put the motion for the second reading of the bill. He caused some merriment by crying, "I think the 'Contents have it.'" Very loud and determined was the rival cry, "The Non-contents have it."

The House divided at midnight and the result was the rejection of the motion by a vote of 419 to 41.

The Marquis of Waterford voted sitting, and the Earl of Calloway voted while lying at full length on a bench. Lord Headley returned from a hunting expedition on the Zambesi river in order to be able to vote. All the Bishops went with the majority.

The announcement of the result was received with laughter and some cheering. The House was then cleared of spectators and adjourned immediately.

At midnight a distinctly Unionist demonstation was held. A few home rulers protested but there was no disorder.

Must Climb the Grade.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 9.—A great pressure has been brought to bear on the Interior Department officials by the Rock Island Railroad Company to secure a change of the town site of Enid in the Cherokee outlet. A RUMOR SETTLED.

Some Said That It Could Not Be Done.

ALL WAITED WITH DEEP INTEREST AND BREATHLESS ANXIETY.

Proved a Mighty and Invincible Conqueror At Last.

A rumor had gained circulation that the well-known Edward T. Feron, Esq., of 507 East 81 st., New York city, was utterly broken down in health, had become unable to attend to his duties and was really in a condition beyond cure.

Over twenty doctors had examined and treated his case, and all were forced to give up and acknowledge that his case was beyond their skill.

Then the remark was made that here was a test case for the great and popular medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is of course a widely known fact that this wonderful remedy rarely if ever fails to cure, but could even its marvellous curative powers restore health in this most serious case?

The Nervura was used and everybody watched its effects with deep interest and almost breathless anxiety.

We will give Mr. Feron's own version of the affair.

"For five years," he said, "I have been running down, gradually losing my healt and strength; at last I got very bad and was troubled with pains in my back and around my heart.

MR. EDWARD T. FERON.

"I could not sleep at night. I grew so weak that I was obliged to stop work.

"I had tried more than twenty doctors, but they could do me no good, so I gave it up as a bad job.

"Then the great medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, was suggested to me, and I took a bottle of it. It made me feel so good that I tried one more, and now, after having taken four bottles I am well and strong again, I sleep soundly every night and can work every day.

"I feel so strong that I can do any hard work without feeling any weariness or pain in my back or side.

"I am at a loss to find words to express my thankfulness and gratitude for this wonderful discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I have told my many friends about its wonderful curative powers, and I would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. I advise people to use it if they want to be cured."

You can get it at any drug store for $1. It is purely vegetable and harmless and it surely cures. It should be used by all who are ailing, who are weak, tired, nervous, sleepless and run down. It is the best medicine possible to take. It was discovered by Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the most successful specialist in curing chronic and nervous diseases, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

"I do not Eat Pastry."

How often you hear this expression, and the explanation that usually follows: "I am troubled with dyspepsia." The explanation is not far to seek. In the past Lard has been used as the principal shortening in all pastry, the result—dyspepsia. The dyspeptic need no longer be troubled, providing

AGONY LONG DRAWN OUT

Thirty-Three More Speeches Announced on Silver.

NO VOTE EXPECTED THIS WEEK

House Waiting on the Senate—No Action Yet Outlined by the Leaders—Modification of the Chinese Law One of the Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 11.—The repeal bill will continue to be the absorbing topic of interest before Congress this week. Notice of speeches to come have already been given, sufficient to fill in the greater part of the week and others are known to be in course of preparation, so that in the absence of an agreement of some kind there is no reason to believe that a vote on the bill can be reached this week.

Speculation is rife as to the length of the debate now progressing. Thirty-three Senators are said to have arranged to speak on the subject beside which ten or a dozen more may address the Senate before the close of the debate. Even if a compromise shall ultimately be agreed upon, the final vote will not be taken earlier than about the first week in October.

In the present unsettled condition of affairs it is impossible to foretell what will be the programme of the House of Representatives for a week ahead. The fact is no course of action has been laid out by the leaders, and they are satisfied to let each session of the body take care of itself. This state of things is likely to continue until either the Senate acts upon the repeal bill pending before it or the time comes when the Committees on Appropriations and Ways and Means have some proposed legislation formulated for the consideration of the House.

It is expected that to-day the report of the Committee on Accounts will be called up for discussion. There is in this the material for a debate that shall last several days, for the minority recommend a considerable reduction in the number of committees to which clerks shall be allowed, and further that all clerks except those who are made annual by statute, shall be paid for the session only. It is hardly probable, however, that there will be much of a contest over the matter or that the radical change recommended by the minority will be adopted in the end. Such a course would amount almost to a revolution, for the undeviating tendency of years past has been to increase and not diminish the number of committee clerks and of clerks who are changed from the session to the annual list.

Later in the week if it is possible for the Committee on Election of President and Vice-President and Representatives in Congress, to report the measure to the House, one of the bills providing for the repeal of the Federal election laws, may come up for consideration, but the probabilities are against it.

So, too, the bill introduced on Saturday by Mr. Everett of Massachusetts to modify the Geary law by extending the time for registration from the 5th of May, 1893, to Sep. 1, 1894, and in various other ways alleviating the severity of the provisions of that measure. This bill is understood to be an administration measure, and early action is said to be desired. The committee on Foreign Affairs to which it has been referred, does not meet until Thursday, so that unless a special meeting is called, a report upon it cannot be looked for until the latter end of the week.

It is likely that after disposing of the report of the Committee on Accounts, the House will take a three day recess while waiting for some matter to be put in shape for action.

NEW BEDFORD WEAVERS.

They Go to Work Conditionally and Under Protest.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sep. 11.—At a largely attended mass meeting of the weavers of this city, held yesterday, it was decided to go to work to-day under protest and unless notices are posted in the various mills in regard to the cut down to come out at the noon hour. The weavers consider that they have not been treated right by the manufacturers. They have been kept in the dark as to the amount of the reduction and the manufacturers have not recognized their committee appointed for a conference. The weavers will hold a meeting to-morrow to hear reports about the matter.

MECHANICS' TOUR.

French Workingmen Come Over to See America and the Fair.

NEW YORK, Sep. 11.—Fifty-two French mechanics landed with the other 450 passengers of the French liner La Gascogne. They represent many branches of industry and will travel on Wednesday to Philadelphia, and then to Pittsburg, St. Louis and Chicago. After taking in the World's Fair they will proceed to Niagara, Montreal and then down to Providence and Boston. Among them are engineers, electricians, moulders of porcelain, painters of china, clock makers, wood carvers and mechanics of various special lines.

English Miners Quiet.

LONDON, Sep. 11.—Sunday passed in the colliery districts without serious disturbance, although crowds of miners and workingmen gathered to discuss the situation, and armed police and troops continued to patrol the disturbed localities. Hundreds of the strikers attended the funeral of one of their number killed in the encounter at Pontefract. The proceedings were orderly. There is much terrorism and highway robberies are frequent in Derbyshire. Police patrols have been established.

Five Children Burned.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sep. 11.—T. W. Whitley, residing near Silver Hill, Ark., with the elder members of his family attended church some distance from home last night, leaving five of his children, ranging in ages from 6 to 13, in care of the house. After the services were over he returned to find the house had been burned to the ground and all five of his children cremated.

JERSEY RAILWAY WAR.

Trouble at Newark Between the Traction and Lackawanna Companies.

NEWARK, N. J., Sep. 11.—There was excitement last night at Clifton avenue and Orange street where the tracks of the Consolidated Traction Company cross the tracks of the Morris and Essex division of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad. The former company had swung a trolley over the latter's road and officials of the steam railroad company cut the trolley. Officials of the two companies got into an altercation and about 2,000 people gathered.

The consolidated Traction Company put up their trolley in pursuance of a decision in court by which the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad's injunction against it was dissolved. The traction company were preparing to operate their cross town road on Clifton avenue by electricity when the railroad officials got a drill engine and ran it across the tracks, severing the trolley.

The people who have been impatient for rapid transit and who have had to see it defeated by a long pending suit, were loud in their denunciations of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad and its alleged arbitrary action. Alderman Wagner, Commissioner Harlan and other officials were on hand to prevent another attack of the railroad company.

HOME RULE.

An Intimation That Gladstone Will Appeal to the Country.

LONDON, Sep. 11.—The Queen is known to have awaited with unwonted anxiety Mr. Gladstone's decision as to his course after the rejection of the bill by the Lords. The royal idea is that Mr. Gladstone should appeal at once to the country, and the determination which is understood to have been expressed by Mr. Gladstone in his special despatch to hold on indefinitely will not suit her Majesty at all.

According to constitutional precedents the Queen certainly had some reason to expect that, after the overwhelming majority of Lords, spiritual and temporal, had condemned him, the aged Premier would resign or ask the electors again to justify his policy. It is surmised that Mr. Gladstone intimated in the despatch carried to Balmoral to-day the readiness of the Cabinet to submit to the Queen's prerogative to dismiss her present Ministers.

THE AMERICAN DEFENDER.

Saturday's Victory Places the Vigilant Far in the Lead.

NEW YORK, Sep. 11.—Although a rough weather test is still needed to decide which yacht is most worthy to defend the cup against the English Valkyrie, yet there is little doubt that the Vigilant, from her fine performances of Saturday and Thursday, will be the boat selected by the committee. By Saturday's work she clearly demonstrated even to the most enthusiastic advocates of rival yachts that she is superior to them sailing through placid seas with light winds. She vanquished the Jubilee over a course of thirty miles, reaching and running, by 4 minutes and 33 seconds; she defeated the Pilgrim by 8 minutes and 9 seconds, and she left the keel New York syndicate yacht Colonia 12 minutes and 24 seconds astern.

NOTHING UNPATRIOTIC.

Gov. Lewelling Angry at Comments on His "Secession" Scheme.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sep. 11.—Gov. Lewelling, of Kansas, is very much exercised by the sensational dispatches which Topeka correspondents have been sending concerning the so-called "secession" movement and other unpatriotic schemes attributed to the Populist State Government.

The Governor declared that there was no hidden scheme in the so-called "secession" movement, and that the story, and all others of a like character, were the creations of imaginative correspondents under the control of corporations who were turned down when the Republicans were defeated at the polls in 1892.

WHERE GUITEAU LIES

Weird Story of His Secret Burial.

UNDER THE JAIL AT WASHINGTON

Why the Assassin Willed His Body to Dr. Hicks—Museum Managers Wanted It for Exhibition—What Sort of Service Was Held.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 11.—The general impression that the skeleton of Guiteau, President Garfield's assassin, is on exhibition in the Medical Museum, which has been in existence ever since his death, has been removed by the statement of Deputy Warden Russ, of the District jail. He says: "For a long time prior to the execution strenuous efforts were made to ascertain where Guiteau was to be buried. Persons acting in the interest of the resurrectionists, both those who wanted the body for dissecting, as well as some enterprising dime museum proprietors who much desired to secure it for exhibition purposes, industriously questioned every one whom it was thought possessed the slightest knowledge. In fact, one proprietor of a dime museum made an offer to Guiteau to pay his relatives a large sum of money provided he would will him his body. This seemed to tickle the vanity of the assassin for he was inordinately vain, and had he been permitted to have his own way would have doubtless accepted the offer. But as the day for his execution advanced Guiteau began to realize the seriousness of his position, and began to exhibit great fear lest his body should be mutilated after his death if it were placed in any ordinary cemetery.

"Finally, in discussing this matter with Rev. Dr. Hicks and myself I asked him to leave the matter to us, and we would take sufficient precautions to prevent the body being stolen, and at a subsequent conference with Dr. Hicks, the following mode of procedure was agreed upon: In order to obviate whatever legal difficulties that might arise, and to forestall any claim the sister or brother of the murderer might make, it was decided that he should make a will bequeathing his body to Dr. Hicks, and it will probably be remembered that the will when published created some curiosity by the wording of it, giving, as it did, the body to be disposed of as the beneficiary saw fit.

"After going over the whole matter, and realizing it would be impossible to properly protect the remains, it was decided to bury it in the jail. Consent was readily obtained. The night of the hanging, after the autopsy, the body remained in the cheap coffin, in the chapel of the jail.

"Upon my arrival at the jail early on the Saturday morning following the execution I secured a couple of 'trusties' and taking them with me, proceeded to the laundry room. It is a little room, just to the east of the engine room, dimly lighted by a small barred grating, and made almost an ideal tomb. The two amateur grave diggers went to work, and quickly removing the flooring, dug a grave sufficiently deep. By the time the body had been brought down from the chapel and the grave finished, Dr. Hicks arrived to conduct the funeral services. There was only a small party that stood about that open grave and listened to the solemn reading of the burial service. General Crocker, who was the warden, was present, and, I believe, Charlie Reed, the lawyer who assisted in Guiteau's defense, besides several of the guards and the two prisoners who dug the grave. It was a weird scene and one I shall never forget. A burial in such a somber place was particularly nerve trying, and I think we all felt relieved when Dr. Hicks concluded and the darkies began to cover up the coffin. This did not consume much time, and it was not long before the grave was filled up and the flooring restored to its normal position.

"There was no particular compact made as to secrecy among us, but it seemed to be generally understood that we would maintain silence, especially as there was considerable excitement at the time. The story that the body had been secretly removed to the medical museum was permitted to go uncontradicted, just as I state, because we did not believe it concerned any one. What became of the brains and other organs of the assassin, which were removed at the autopsy held immediately after the execution, I do not know, except that the spleen is on exhibition at the museum. Whatever else is left of the man who murdered President Garfield, lies beneath the floor of the laundry room of the jail."

ANARCHY IN SPAIN.

Rioters Sack Buildings in a Prominent City.

MADRID, Sep. 11.—A riot broke out in Santander on Saturday during a fire in a populous quarter. A mob forcibly entered the municipal buildings and, after destroying the furniture, threw everything out of the windows. The residences of the Mayor and the leading Councillor were treated in the same way. The mob was finally dispersed by troops. The riot was ostensibly caused by a deficiency of water, but it is only another evidence of the wave of anarchism passing over Spain.

Ex-Senator Matches Insane.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Sep. 11.—Ex-United States Senator Willis B. Matchen, of Eddyville, was adjudged insane yesterday and was confined in the Western Lunatic Asylum. He is 84 years old and has been ill for several years.

Bismarck's Health.

BERLIN, Sep. 11.—Prince Bismarck will return to Freidrichsruh in about two weeks. He had intended to go to Varzin, but his physician, Dr. Schweninger, has decided that he is not well enough for the extra journey.

OUTRAGES ON CHINESE.

Wandering Ruffians in California Attack Vineyard Employes.

NEW YORK, Sep. 11.—A special to the Sun from Fresno, Cal., says: About midnight a mob went to the vineyard of P. H. Metzler, an Englishman, living six miles east of here, and surrounding the bunk house shouted to the Chinese cowering inside a peremptory order to get out.

The frightened coolies made no answer. Then the raiders began to pump bullets into the flimsy structure. Failing to dislodge the Chinese, the mob tore down the wall of the bunk house, and dragging out the Chinese, beat and kicked them savagely. They drove the Chinese toward town for nearly four miles leaving them finally in an exhausted condition near Butler's place two and a half miles east. Three of the Chinese were seriously injured.

This news caused much excitement in Fresno, which was increased by reports that reached the sheriff a little later to the effect that Smith's vineyard, northeast of Fresno, had been mobbed. Forces of deputies and citizens were at once sent out to hunt for the raiders.

The men composing these mobs are mostly wandering ruffians who drift up and down the valley through the railroad towns. Many of them have criminal records.

There is talk of a vigilance committee being appointed.

THE BRAZILIAN WAR.

Naval Chiefs on Shore Support the Government.

NEW YORK, Sep. 11.—A Herald special from Buenos Ayres says that the chiefs of the navy who are ashore met and publicly declared their firm adhesion to the government of President Peixoto.

The captains of the Bahia, a one thousand ton ironclad, and the Tiradentes, eight hundred tons, both of whom remain loyal, had a conference with the Brazilian Minister and have sailed for Asuncion.

Their object is to impede any movement which ships on the Paraguay river, off the Brazilian province of Motto Grasso, might make in case their crews should show signs of joining the revolt.

The United States man-of-war Yorktown sailed past Montevideo for the Pacific without communicating with the shore.

The latest advices from Rio say that the rebel squadron has changed its original intention of sailing out of the bay there, as the insurgents fear to pass the forts which command the mouth of the bay.

These forts are manned by garrisons of artillerymen who are loyal to Peixoto and have orders to open fire on the rebels the moment they come within range.

The revolters are confidently expected to surrender before long.

CANADIAN DEFENSES.

Fortifications Along Both Ocean Coasts and the Great Lakes.

NEW YORK, Sep. 11.—A World special from Ottawa, Ont., says: Word has reached here from England that in addition to strengthening the military defences at Esquimalt, B. C., and Halifax, the British government is obtaining information with a view to further adding to the coast defenses of the Dominion on both the Atlantic and Pacific, while the Dominion government will be called upon to perfect the lake fortifications and frontier point along the international border.

The Dominion parliament will be asked at the coming session to largely increase the annual appropriation for military service. At the time of the confederation of the British North American provinces the Dominion government agreed to spend at least $1,000,000 a year for defensive purposes, which agreement has not been carried out. Britain now insists that the money shall be expended and that Canada shall do her part in putting her fortifications, as well as her military organization, in an efficient state.

The British government will shortly dispatch two additional regiments to Halifax.

THE NEW BABY.

Mother and Daughter Spent a Quiet Sunday and Are Doing Well.

WSHINGTON, Sep. 11.—The weather was misty and muggy yesterday and the Sunday quiet about the White House was even more intense than usual. There were a number of callers to inquire after the health of Mrs. Cleveland and the baby and they were all informed that mother and daughter were doing well. Dr. Bryant remained at the house all day, but declined to see any one or to make any statement regarding his patient other than the general one given to inquirers at the door by the attendants in charge. Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother, arrived in Washington yesterday morning and was at once driven to the White House. She will probably remain several weeks.

Pope Leo and Satolli.

ROME, Sep. 11.—Dr. Mayor, of Hartford, who was among the Americans received by the Pope, said that he found His Holiness and many high prelates at the Vatican thoroughly informed in American Church affairs. Reports from the best sources agree that however much the Pope may regret the opposition to Mgr. Satolli, Papal Delegate, he is determined to hold firmly to his present policy toward the Catholic Church in the United States.

Grand Dedication.

CHICAGO, Sep. 11.—St. Pius Church on Ashland avenue and 19th street was dedicated yesterday with grand and impressive ceremonies. A large number of the dignitaries and prelates of the Catholic faith were present, including Mgr. Satolli, Archbishop Feehan, Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco and the venerable Archbishop Elder of Cincinnati.

Too Much Money.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 11.—The bill introduced by Representative Coombs, of New York, providing for an increase of currency, by the issue of notes upon warehouse receipts covering pig iron, cotton and wheat, he explains, was introduced by request of a constituent, and so marked. Upon a further examination of the bill, he has withdrawn it from the files.

Counterfeiting Silver.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sep. 11.—A gang of 23 counterfeiters operating in Clark and neighboring counties have been arrested. They melted Britannia metal and made a good imitation of silver coin. Large quantities are in circulation.

Dull Sunday at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sep. 11.—Sunday comes to the White City like the first day of Lent after a season of social gayety. It was dull and unattractive yesterday.

A MANIA FOR MURDER

Mrs. Halliday Also Killed a Former Husband.

HORRORS OF INSANE DEPRAVITY

The Murderess Tells Halliday of His Predecessor's Fate, But in His Dilsa Infatuation He Merely Calls Her the Most Wonderful Woman in the World.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sep. 11.—It is now believed that Mrs. Halliday had a husband before she married the aged Sullivan county farmer, whom she murdered in like manner. She is said to have told Halliday the circumstances of her first husbands taking off and threatened Halliday himself with like fate. The latter told his sons of the matter, but apparently did not believe it or in any event apprehended no danger to himself.

The Coroner's jury late Saturday evening rendered the following verdict:

"We do say upon our oath that Margaret J. McQuillan and Sarah J. McQuillan came to their death from bullets fired from a pistol in the hands of Lizzie Halliday; the balls, entering the heart were the immediate cause of death; that said Margaret was killed on or about August 30, and Sarah J. McQuillan on or about September 2."

Inquest in the case of Paul Halliday was adjourned over until this week.

When the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Halliday, charged with the murder of her husband, Paul Halliday, and the McQuillen women, mother and daughter, is called in the courts of Sullivan county, the defense will present a startling theory to account for the commission of the crime. It relates to the motive for the triple murder. Robert Halliday, the eldest son of the murdered man, has made this statement:

"My father told me that this woman came from his native country, Ireland; that soon after his marriage she told him that he was not her first husband, but that she had been married in Ireland. She did not like her first husband, and one night when he was asleep she killed him with a big stone and afterward mutilated his body.

"She also told my father that she could commit any crime or crimes she cared to and that she could always escape detection. She had never been suspected of the murder of her first husband and she would never be apprehended in any other crime which she chose to commit.

"She boasted to him of having deceived the physicians at the Middletown asylum, and added that she could fool the best doctor by playing off insane.

"It was soon after this that the burning of the house, barn and stable occurred. When the stable was burned my youngest brother perished and we all knew that she had set the place on fire. Then came her escapade at Newburg, when she hired a horse and sold it, for which she was tried but escaped conviction on the ground of insanity.

"Speaking of those crime, my father told me that when Lizzie, his wife, committed them she was in a condition peculiar to married women. Shortly after she got rid of the physical cause of her spells of insanity and resumed her normal condition of life.

"It was a knowledge of the fact that my father's wife was again in an interesting condition, as he informed me, that led me to make a search for the old gentleman when it was reported that he had not been seen for several days. The result was the finding of the three bodies."

"When your father knew all this why did he not leave the woman?"

"He was infatuated with her. We tried to get him to leave her, but he refused. He said she was the most wonderful woman he had ever met."

This is the latest sensational feature of the Halliday murders. It was further believed by persons who have studied the woman and her actions that she is afflicted with a mania that is not unknown, though rare, in criminal jurisprudence. This murderous principle always occurs to her when she is approaching motherhood. She is believed to be in that condition now.

SHOT PAST THE SIGNALS.

A Western Engineer Outwits a Gang of Robbers.

VAN BUREN, Ark., Sep. 11.—An unsuccessful attempt at train robbery was made Saturday on the northern bound 'Frisco passenger train at Lillie by four men. The conductor was warned by the crew of a north-bound freight that a red and two white lanterns were stolen off their train at Lillie. When the passenger train arrived at Lillie the two white and one red lanterns were waved, but the engineer opened the throttle and went through as he had never done before.

Democratic Factions.

PEN YAN, N. Y., Sep. 11.—The struggle between the two Democratic factions in Yates county culminated Saturday. The Hill forces have led by Deputy Comptroller Calvin J. Hudson. M. A. Leary has directed the Cleveland forces. The supreme effort was make in caucus of the leaders in this town on Saturday. The result was a victory for the Clevelandites who have also captured a majority of the uncontested towns of the county and will most probably control the county convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sep. 11.—Receiver Failey was allowed $10,000 on July 12 for services in the Iron Hall receivership, the order being the last act of Judge Taylor, deceased. The order has been kept quiet until now. Failey reports $721,928.63 on hand and says his attorneys advised him not to make a final report until a final decree is ordered.

Bold Bigamy.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 11.—Isaac Goldenstein, a wealthy real estate owner of this city, and his wife Ernesto Goldenstein, were arrested for bigamy. It is claimed that Goldenstein married another woman in 1869, and about eight years ago deserted her for his present wife, who was cognizant of his former marriage.

Horrible Accident at Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sep. 11.—The steamer Empress of China, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's line, brings the news of a boiler explosion on the steamship Wago Maru on Aug. 24, while the latter was on the way to Anamizu. The vessel sank and eighty passengers are missing.

The McCarthys Did It.

DELTA, Col., Sep. 11.—P. H. Condee, Sheriff of Parker county, Oregon, positively identifies the two dead bank robbers as Fred and Tom McCarthy and the escaped robber as Billy McCarthy.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair, Followed By Rain; Easterly Winds, Increasing.

If the President will pardon a suggestion, shall it not be Ruth and Naomi?

There's some satisfaction in living in North Plainfield, these hard times. Dr. Cooley, North Plainfield Assessor, has figured up the borough tax rate, and it is $1.86 on each $100.

"Not enough gold to do the business of the world"—continues to be the cry of the silver Senators. And the New York Evening Post epigrammatically remarks: "What is it to us whether there is enough gold to do the business of the world? There is enough to do our business."

Editor Pearsall's ever-refreshing Standard is booming a centennial celebration to take place in the spring when Westfield township is 100 years old. In the course of his columns the Luminary of Ripley Hill remarks that in the old days Westfield township took in Cranford, Garwood, Branch Mills, Locust Grove, Willow Grove, Scotch Plains, Netherwood, Fanwood and Plainfield. Goodness me, Bro'r Pearsall, how you has shrunk!

Scientists who are trying to solve the puzzle of what becomes of Jersey sands as the coastline creeps steadily inland, should reflect that everyone of the multitude visiting the beach carts into the interior vast quantities of the tiny granules. When so many thousands of people daily fill their hair and clothes—and especially their shoes—with the sand that sticketh closer than a brother, and transfer it elsewhere, it is no wonder Asbury Bradley is beginning to worry about where his real estate is at.

Henry M. Stanley, who has descended to a back number since he turned his back on America which made him, is running for Parliament again, with prospect of another defeat. The price of retired eggs and decrepit vegetables has advanced rapidly in consequence of his candidacy. Stanley is an example of what a man may become through snobbishness. He is a deplorable sacrifice to feminine ambition. His career was spoiled when he married the daughter of his mother-in-law.

Plainfield parents who are continually quoting cute sayings of their children will relish the anecdote related by the Boston Budget of little Bobby, who had promised his father to 'take good care of mamma" while the head of the house was away. When night came, Bobby went to bed full of a sense of great responsibility. But first he prayed:

"O Lord, please protect papa, and brother Dick, and sister Alice, and Aunt Mary, and all the little Jones boys, and Bobby. But you need'n't trouble about mamma, for I'm going to look after her myself."

With the closing of the Creston Carpet Mills, misfortune though it is, Plainfield housewives are rid of a domestic bugbear. The vexed servant-girl question used to be augmented by the fact that girls could get better pay and be more independent by working in the carpet factory than by household employment, and it was said by complaining housewives that all the good girls were either in the Creston Works or trying to get there.

The financial depression, however, is bringing relief in the "help" problem. A practical effect of the hard times is to make household servants abundant, by reason of the number of women thrown out of work. Women are being driven to seek domestic employment who formerly scorned it. Now is the opportunity for thrifty housekeepers to take their pick.

It is highly proper to call attention at this time to the disgraceful spectacle which North Plainfield presents in allowing her barrooms to remain open nightly until long past midnight. This state of affairs ought not to exist. In Plainfield all barrooms close at 11; and those in the borough, also, should be closed at that time. At least let this be done Saturday nights, so that these places cannot turn a disgraceful crowd loose on the streets Sunday mornings. The Sunday quiet of Plainfield was disturbed and two policemen assaulted yesterday morning, by ruffians from these barrooms. The streets could have been clear of this disgraceful element long before that time if drinking places had been closed at a reasonable hour. Immediate steps should be taken in this matter by the authorities. Close the borough barrooms at 11.

A correspondent writing about the orators in the United States Senate says that the only one of the old school left is Daniel of Virginia, who affects the style of Henry Clay, arranging his rhetorical climaxes and developing exordiums and perorations with elaborately balanced sentences. Gorman, Gray, and White on the Democratic side are listened to with the most attention, Gorman talking common sense in a well-modulated voice, Gray being impressive because of his profound legal knowledge, and White because of his good voice, fine presence, and pertinent figures of speech. On the Republican side of the chamber Wolcott of Colorado is always sure of an audience, his breezy unconventional remarks and brilliant and cutting wit being a novelty in the Senate. Sherman is effective, but largely because of his mentality, for he has a curious impediment of speech, which is remotely suggestive of a lisp, and he halts and stumbles over his sentences sometimes. Senator Hoar's weakness of voice perhaps prevents him from being the most redoubtable speaker in the Senate, for his remarks are always to the point and expressed in English that it is a delight to listen to. Harris of Tennessee and Pasco of Florida both make occasional slips of grammar.

NOT DUE TO FRIGHT.

Mrs. Chamberlain's Sad Death Was the Result of Malarial Fever.

The funeral of Harriet Ada, wife of James S. Chamberlain, of the Potter Press Works, took place yesterday afternoon at 2, from her late residence, 663 West Third street. The Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel, officiated. Interment was in the Baptist cemetery.

Mrs. Chamberlain leaves behind her a husband and three small children, aged respectively 9, 6 and 2, and the sad bereavement arouses the sympathy of all.

It was rumored that Mrs. Chamberlain's death was the result of a fright caused by the blowing down of a tent in which she was staying, in Ocean Grove, during the severe wind storm of two weeks ago. To a Press representative who called at the house in reference to this rumor, it was stated that Mrs. Chamberlain's death was caused by malarial fever, and that while her nerves had received a shock in the Ocean Grove storm, the tent was not blown down at the time, and her death was probably not at all hastened by the incident.

ASSAULTED MARSHAL PANGBORN.

Jail Bird Williams Rescues a Comrade from Arrest—The Police are Looking Sharply for Him.

As Marshal Pangborn was about to arrest Gus VanAngleman, colored, for disorderly conduct on Somerset street in the borough, Saturday night, Aleck Williams, also colored, came to the rescue of VanAngleman. He struck the policeman an ugly blow on the jaw with a heavy bottle, inflicting a flesh wound. Both men then fled. Policeman Cooney was attracted to the scene by two shots fired after Williams by the Marshal. Williams, who is an old jail bird, cooly dodged the club which the second policeman flung at his head and, slipping in between French's Mills and the carriage factory, threw his pursuers off the track. Today a sharp lookout is being kept for the fugitives. Marshal Pangborn is able to go about his duties, though still suffering somewhat from his wound.

WAS IT M'ALLISTER?

Mr. Taggart Denies the Authorship of the Herald Story.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In justice to myself and those of your readers who may not see another local paper I beg to ask that you will publish the following which I have addressed

TO THE EDITOR OF THE COURIER:—An article in the Courier of last Wednesday quoting a story in the New York Herald of the same day reflecting upon William H. Miner, and, incidentally, the Church of the Holy Cross, has been brought to my attention. In your introductory remarks it is implied that the writer of the Herald story was one of the Four Leaf Clover and a resident of Washington Park conversant with the facts in the case. This statement, of course, has been construed to ascribe the authorship to me. For the information of everyone interested you will do me the justice to print this letter, and allow me to say that I did not write that Herald story. While I may be often guilty of exceedingly bad English, I deeply regret that anyone should have supposed me culpable in such a degree as this.

Very Sincerely Yours,
GEORGE TAGGART.

Hard Luck and Good Luck.

Three more men were laid off at the Pond Machine Tool Works, Saturday, and a number of others were cut down in time.

The Potter Press Works have just received an order from The Chicago Herald for six large web presses. The foundry will resume full time at once, and the machine shop will also resume full time as soon as the castings for the big presses are ready.

He's Going to Take the Pledge.

Henry Haberman was yesterday arrested by Policeman Lynch for being intoxicated, using profane language and assaulting his wife, on South Second street.

At the request of the prisoner's wife, Judge Coddington in the City Court this morning suspended sentence on the promise of Haberman that he would take the total abstinence pledge for a year and would treat his wife kindly.

Paid to Save Himself from Jail.

William Meyers was arrested by Chief of Police Grant Saturday night, for using indecent and profane language on Third and Fourth streets, and otherwise disturbing the peace. In the City Court this morning the prisoner pleaded guilty, and was sentenced by Judge Coddington to pay a fine of $5, with the alternative of 30 days in jail. The fine was paid.

Carried Concealed Weapons.

Police Officer Lynch yesterday arrested Peter Hanguesky and John Feddes for trespassing on the railroad and carrying on their persons concealed weapons. In the City Court this morning Judge Coddington suspended sentence on condition that the prisoners leave Plainfield at once. This they promised to do, and went away rejoicing.

He'll Never Do So Again.

The oldest son of Aaron Brower, who lives back of Evona, yesterday jumped barefoot from a horse's back so suddenly that his right foot was broken open at the instep, from the force of the fall. Several stitches were taken in the wound by a physician, and no serious results are now feared from the accident.

—Charles Kaeding, proprietor of the barber shop on the bridge, 25 Somerset street, headquarters of the notorious bridge gang, who was arrested by Marshal Pangborn charged with keeping a disorderly house, will have his trial tonight.

SHALL IT BE A NEW PASTOR?

THAT'S THE PRESENT QUESTION OF THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Good Dr. Yerkes Has Labored So Long and Faithfully That Many Are Urging that He Be Granted a Rest and Honorable Pension—Rev. D. A. MacMurray of New York Favored as a Newcomer.

The First Baptist congregation is divided over the question of a new pastor.

The Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes has labored faithfully in this vineyard nearly 30 years. He is ripe in years, and while his mentality and vigor are still undimmed yet many of his people feel that he has earned a rest, and they recommend that he be retired on a pension.

The Rev. D. A. MacMurray, of New York, who has been preaching acceptably in the church the last two Sundays, has found much favor in the eyes of the Baptists, and as he is a candidate he will doubtless be called to the pastorate either as Dr. Yerkes's assistant or as his successor.

There is a host who will regret the proposition to have the good Dr. Yerkes withdraw from the pulpit, and none will be more sorry than The Press.

NOTES.

Martin was unable to play Saturday at Orange owing to the injury to his finger Ben Ellis, an infielder from the Pennsylvania League, filled the vacancy.

The audiences at Orange are appreciative, and visitors are well treated. The Crescents captivated them by their clever work, as they do wherever they go.

Captain Leo Smith's work in Saturday's game was simply perfection. Several of his chances were of the hardest sort, but he accepted everything that came his way, and was loudly applauded.

A Bad Man from Fanwood.

Frank Cemino, twenty-seven years old, an Italian laborer of Fanwood, attempted to shoot Michael Bullio of 35 Crosby street, New York, Friday night, near Broome and Crosby streets. Policeman Dolan of the Mulberry Street Squad arrested him, and found the revolver, which was fully loaded, hidden under his coat. In the Tombs Police Court Justice Meade held Cemino in $1,000 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Made and sold for fifteen years at

Reynolds's Pharmacy, Corner Park and North Avenues.

NANCY BAKER'S HUNDRED YEARS.

THEY HAVE ALL BEEN SPENT IN AND ABOUT PLAINFIELD.

She Was Born in the Time of the First President—Has Had Seven Children, Eighteen Grandchildren, and Fourteen Great-Grandchildren—Eats and Drinks What She Likes, and Is Good for a Number of Years Yet.

In a cosey little cottage embowered by honeysuckle and old-fashioned roses, situated on a pleasant knoll on the mountain road just off the Westfield road and near Locust Grove, lives a woman who is peacefully rounding out a life which stretches from away back in the first year of the administration of the first President of the United States down to the present time. These columns have spoken of this hale centenarian several times before, but fresh news of the good old neighbor is always welcomed by her Plainfield friends.

Mrs. Nancy Baker—or Mills, for she is better known by the latter name—was born in Springfield March 17, 1790. This makes Mrs. Baker's present age 103 years and six months. Her maiden name was Williams. Her parents died during her early infancy, and she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. John Roll, of Springfield. In that village her childhood was passed. There she attended the village school and church.

March 26, 1807, at the age of seventeen years, she was married to Stuart Mills, a farmer, some two years her senior. As a result of this union seven children were born—Anna, Phœbe, Charles, Mary, Samuel, Joseph and Electa. Charles, Mary and Samuel are dead. Joseph Mills went west and finally settled in Illinois, where he has become wealthy. Phœbe is now Mrs. Fowler and lives with her family in Plainfield. Mrs. Anna Williams lives near her old home. Electa married Charles Lyons and now lives with and cares for her aged mother. Mrs. Lyons, who is the youngest of the family, is now fifty-eight. Then there are eighteen grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Baker's first husband, Stuart Mills, died August 1, 1872, being at that time eighty-four years of age. This was a great blow to Mrs. Mills. For sixty-five years the couple had lived happily together. She found solitude unbearable, however, and, after waiting the traditional year and a day, on August 2, 1873, astonished the neighbors by marrying William Baker. Mr. Baker died in 1879.

Mrs Baker has lived in her present home sixty-seven years, Stuart Mills having purchased the farm in 1826. At the time Mrs. Baker came into the place there were several other families of the same name as her husband, and the locality was known by the name of Millstown. But all the rest of the Millses are either dead or have moved away, and the place has lost its name.

Mrs. Baker's present condition of health is excellent, in fact she has never known what illness was, with the exception of about two years ago, when she had an attack of grip. This shook her rugged constitution somewhat, and she has not been quite as strong as she was previous to that time. She is slightly deaf, but her eyesight is remarkable for one of her years. She reads and writes without difficulty. Her memory is sometimes hazy or erratic, more particularly as regards events of comparatively recent occurrence. Dates she remembers readily.

Mrs. Baker converses pleasantly and enjoys company, which is a fortunate thing, as the number of visitors—most of them coming from a distance, and drawn by a desire to converse with one whose life connects the most interesting period of the Nation's history with the present—is constantly increasing. The number of callers varies from twenty-five to fifty a week, and everyone is sure of a cheery greeting. Sometimes, she says, she overtalks herself. Then she takes a nap. So fond of company is she, however, that she does not want callers to leave without her seeing them, and her instructions are that she shall be called.

Unlike most centenarians Mrs. Baker has no cranks or foibles with regard to food or drink to which she attributes her extreme longevity. She eats and drinks whatever she fancies, and her appetite is invariably good.

Probably the one cause more than another which has enabled Mrs. Baker to enjoy such uniform good health for so extraordinary a term of years is her love of outdoor exercise. Ever since she and her husband took possession of their farm, and down to six years ago, she took personal care of a large vegetable and flower garden. Here she would toil from morning till night, not alone for the profit brought, but from affection for her plants and shrubs, in which she took great pride, always having the first and best of everything in the line of garden produce.

A great number of the old Revolutionary heroes Mrs. Baker remembers having seen in her girlhood days, and can clearly recall the "training day" exercises. She also has a vivid recollection of the stirring incidents connected with the war of 1812.

The facts of the Baltus Roll murder, one of Jersey's many unravelled mysterious crimes, are fresh in her memory. Roll was a well-to-do farmer. One winter's night he was called to his door by a gang of men who bound, gagged and beat him to death in an endeavor to force him to disclose the hiding place in which he was supposed to have stored away a large sum of money. His wife escaped across the country and gave an alarm. Mrs. Baker lived in the next house to Baltus Roll at that time and heard the murderers pass her door in going to and from Roll's house. One of Roll's neighbors was tried for the offence, but was acquitted.

Mrs. Baker's personal life has been singularly eventful. She has, she says, had few cares or troubles and very little excitement. Her life has been peaceful and happy.

"I hardly know what sickness is;"—she said,—"Not even a headache; and as long as I am comfortable like this I think it nice to live, even"—and she looked at the reporter quizzically—"if I am so old that people come to look at me. But if I suffered I should like to go."

Up to two years ago Mrs. Baker could do fine sewing. Since her attack of grip she has not been able to handle a needle.

Two weeks ago she came to Plainfield in a wagon with her son-in-law. She recently attended a family reunion at George A. Moore's home on East Front street. She has always been a church member, going to service at Westfield, but of late years has not gone, as she could not hear the pastor's voice clearly.

The children of the Sunday-school do not forget her, however, and every Christmas they make a pilgrimage to Grandma Baker and bring her little gifts, and of this she is quite proud.

In speaking of the recent storm, she said: "Ah, that was a blow, but I've seen many a good blow. Well I remember forty years ago when we had a tremendous storm. Houses, barns, trees, all were thrown about like feathers. It swept a whole row of trees out of our orchard. They used to call it Smoky Hollow just below here then."

Then the aged woman dropped into a reminiscent mood and spoke of old-time customs. "We girls did n't think of dress like they do nowadays. A girl who had a nice clean print frock for best was content. And we were happy. Just as much so as the young ladies who have a dozen trunks of dresses to take away on a summer trip are now. We had no excursions or summer vacations then. But he had lots of framings and quiltings and paring-bees and such like."

Then, as she sank back contentedly in her chair: "It all seems like a dream to me—my whole life—a pleasant, happy dream. And the dream will come to an end, and I shall awake—where ?"—and there was a slight quiver in her voice as she ceased talking, and she closed her eyes wearily, but brightened up and shook hands heartily as leave was taken.

Conscientiously Commended.

The Trenton Gazette speaks admiringly of Hunting's great show which is coming to Plainfield Thursday:

Did you go to the circus? Well, if you did n't you missed it, as it was a good all round show. Mr. Hunting does n't profess to conduct the greatest show on earth, but just the same it is a good old-fashioned affair. The riding, tumbling and trapeze work was far above the average, while the menagerie is not to be sneezed at. And there is one thing about Hunting's show which the bigger institutions might well emulate. All the attaches are courteous, obliging and gentlemanly and seem to realize that it is their duty to look after the comfort of the audience. Mr. Hunting is a gentleman, and will retain no one in his employ who does not aim to come up to the standard of excellence. There is an entire absence of the element and sharpers, so that the smallest child is safe under Hunting's tent. A good-sized audience was present in the afternoon, and in the evening the seats were all occupied. We can conscientiously commend Mr. Hunting to the brethren of the press, and assure them that they will meet a gentleman from the ground up.

Pastor Hand to Take Part.

The Fourth Church of Christ of New York city, commonly known as the Disciples Union church, 119th street, near Lenox avenue, held their first services in their new white stone church yesterday. James Millard Philpott is pastor, and his wife is organist and chorister. The church will seat about 700. A more formal opening will be given Sunday, October 1, when B. W. Hand, of this city, and other ministers, will be asked to take part. Mr. Philpott says he desires to exchange pulpits with Mr. Hand soon. The visitors from here yesterday were J. Holmes and H. VanMiddlesworth. The latter was entertained pleasantly at Mr. Philpott's home on West 127th street.

Assaulted a Policeman.

August Arnold was drunk and disorderly at Somerset and Front streets, yesterday, and when Policeman Frederickson attempted to arrest him Arnold used profane language, struck the officer, and in other ways resisted arrest. In the City Court this morning Judge Coddington sentenced the prisoner to pay a fine of $15 or spend forty days in jail. The fine was paid.

Girls Recovered This Bicycle.

Liberty Road Racer 6649, stolen from F. L. C. Martin, last Wednesday, has at last been heard from. Miss Keys and Miss Brandon, of 4072 Seventh avenue, New York, have wired Capt. Martin that they are holding the bicycle. How they came into possession of it is not yet known here. Mr. Martin's bookkeeper has gone to New York for to bring back the bicycle.

A Great Trio, This.

The sixth tournament of the Manufacturers' Trap-Shooting Association that takes place at Allentown, Pa., tomorrow and Wednesday will be attended by Charles Smith, Neaf Apgar and T. H. Keller, of this city. Mr. Keller will represent the United States Cartridge Company, and will sing the praises of Climax shells and United States ammunition in general.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1236 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. L. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

POISONED BY ONE TOADSTOOL.

D. B. VAN ORDEN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

He Partook But Sparingly of His Poisoned Dish of Mushrooms—Two Cats Ate of the Rest, and Died—Dr. Adams Saved the Man.

D. B. VanOrden, whose home is on the Rock road, just off the Valley road back of the First Mountain, owes his life to the good ministrations of Dr. D. C. Adams of Grove street, North Plainfield.

VanOrden gathered some mushrooms Friday, and ate slightly of them Friday night. Saturday morning he was taken with violent vomiting and purging, and had convulsions of the limbs. Dr. Adams was called immediately, and by strenuous efforts saved him from death. By Saturday night the patient was out of danger, but very weak and sore.

The mushrooms were found to have been contaminated by one toadstool. The residue was thrown out, and two cats ate of it and died. They must have eaten all the balance of the poisonous part, as a dog that ate after them survived.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Everyone is going to see "The Country Squire" tonight.

—The advance sale of seats for "The Country Squire" tonight has been very large.

—The first stove fire of the season was in Manager Schermerhorn's telegraph office today.

—Something is likely to drop, in the Choirmaster Miner matter, before the week is ended.

—The stores of many Hebrews in Plainfield are closed today, this being the Jewish New Year.

—"The Country Squire", companion play to "The Old Homestead", is the attraction in Music Hall tonight.

—The young ladies of Monroe Avenue chapel will hold a peach and ice-cream festival tomorrow evening. No admission will be charged.

—The triple riding contest, which excited so much admiration in the Crescent Riding Academy Saturday night, will be continued tomorrow and Wednesday nights.

—The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church have prepared a treat for their friends for tonight, when Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bond, missionaries in Macedonia, will speak at their meeting. The Bonds will also speak in the language of the natives of that country. Visitors are cordially invited.

—A wild bucking bull ridden by an Indian will be a feature of the wild west show in the Crescent Riding Academy tomorrow night. Saturday night's contest was undecided, on the grounds that the American had the worst bucking horse in the rough riding and could not make his horse work in the fancy riding. The judges were unable to render their decision, and it has been decided to let each man ride each of the bucking horses to enable the judges to render their decision.

Who Owns These Goods?

Justice Nash today issued a venire in the case of Fosher against Seguine, to decide the ownership of some property in the possession of Seguine, which was served by Constable Mattox to satisfy a judgment held by Fosher. The goods were to be sold Friday; but Andrew Seguine, Jr., now claims that the property belongs to him.

The ownership of the property will be decided by a jury in Justice Nash's Court tomorrow.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:

"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest effects. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained 3 pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and wornout parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

An Inevitable Conclusion.

"So you are going to make a flying trip to Chicago?" said one young man to another.

"I think I shall have to."

"You'll visit the World's fair, won't you?"

"Of course. She lives there."—Washington Star.

Far Better.

Willis—Did you have a seat on the street car?

Wallace—No; I had to stand on my feet.

NANCY BAKER'S HUNDRED YEARS.

THEY HAVE ALL BEEN SPENT IN AND ABOUT PLAINFIELD.

She Was Born in the Time of the First President—Has Had Seven Children, Eighteen Grandchildren, and Fourteen Great-Grandchildren—Eats and Drinks What She Likes, and Is Good for a Number of Years Yet.

In a cosey little cottage embowered by honeysuckle and old-fashioned roses, situated on a pleasant knoll on the mountain road just off the Westfield road and near Locust Grove, lives a woman who is peacefully rounding out a life which stretches from away back in the first year of the administration of the first President of the United States down to the present time. These columns have spoken of this hale centenarian several times before, but fresh news of the good old neighbor is always welcomed by her Plainfield friends.

Mrs. Nancy Baker—or Mills, for she is better known by the latter name—was born in Springfield March 17, 1790. This makes Mrs. Baker's present age 103 years and six months. Her maiden name was Williams. Her parents died during her early infancy, and she was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. John Roll, of Springfield. In that village her childhood was passed. There she attended the village school and church.

March 26, 1807, at the age of seventeen years, she was married to Stuart Mills, a farmer, some two years her senior. As a result of this union seven children were born—Anna, Phœbe, Charles, Mary, Samuel, Joseph and Electa. Charles, Mary and Samuel are dead. Joseph Mills went west and finally settled in Illinois, where he has become wealthy. Phœbe is now Mrs. Fowler and lives with her family in Plainfield. Mrs. Anna Williams lives near her old home. Electa married Charles Lyons and now lives with and cares for her aged mother. Mrs. Lyons, who is the youngest of the family, is now fifty-eight. Then there are eighteen grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Baker's first husband, Stuart Mills, died August 1, 1872, being at that time eighty-four years of age. This was a great blow to Mrs. Mills. For sixty-five years the couple had lived happily together. She found solitude unbearable, however, and, after waiting the traditional year and a day, on August 2, 1873, astonished the neighbors by marrying William Baker. Mr. Baker died in 1879.

Mrs Baker has lived in her present home sixty-seven years, Stuart Mills having purchased the farm in 1826. At the time Mrs. Baker came into the place there were several other families of the same name as her husband, and the locality was known by the name of Millstown. But all the rest of the Millses are either dead or have moved away, and the place has lost its name.

Mrs. Baker's present condition of health is excellent, in fact she has never known what illness was, with the exception of about two years ago, when she had an attack of grip. This shook her rugged constitution somewhat, and she has not been quite as strong as she was previous to that time. She is slightly deaf, but her eyesight is remarkable for one of her years. She reads and writes without difficulty. Her memory is sometimes hazy or erratic, more particularly as regards events of comparatively recent occurrence. Dates she remembers readily.

Mrs. Baker converses pleasantly and enjoys company, which is a fortunate thing, as the number of visitors—most of them coming from a distance, and drawn by a desire to converse with one whose life connects the most interesting period of the Nation's history with the present—is constantly increasing. The number of callers varies from twenty-five to fifty a week, and everyone is sure of a cheery greeting. Sometimes, she says, she overtalks herself. Then she takes a nap. So fond of company is she, however, that she does not want callers to leave without her seeing them, and her instructions are that she shall be called.

Unlike most centenarians Mrs. Baker has no cranks or foibles with regard to food or drink to which she attributes her extreme longevity. She eats and drinks whatever she fancies, and her appetite is invariably good.

Probably the one cause more than another which has enabled Mrs. Baker to enjoy such uniform good health for so extraordinary a term of years is her love of outdoor exercise. Ever since she and her husband took possession of their farm, and down to six years ago, she took personal care of a large vegetable and flower garden. Here she would toil from morning till night, not alone for the profit brought, but from affection for her plants and shrubs, in which she took great pride, always having the first and best of everything in the line of garden produce.

A great number of the old Revolutionary heroes Mrs. Baker remembers having seen in her girlhood days, and can clearly recall the "training day" exercises. She also has a vivid recollection of the stirring incidents connected with the war of 1812.

The facts of the Baltus Roll murder, one of Jersey's many unravelled mysterious crimes, are fresh in her memory. Roll was a well-to-do farmer. One winter's night he was called to his door by a gang of men who bound, gagged and beat him to death in an endeavor to force him to disclose the hiding place in which he was supposed to have stored away a large sum of money. His wife escaped across the country and gave an alarm. Mrs. Baker lived in the next house to Baltus Roll at that time and heard the murderers pass her door in going to and from Roll's house. One of Roll's neighbors was tried for the offence, but was acquitted.

Mrs. Baker's personal life has been singularly eventful. She has, she says, had few cares or troubles and very little excitement. Her life has been peaceful and happy.

"I hardly know what sickness is;"—she said,—"Not even a headache; and as long as I am comfortable like this I think it nice to live, even"—and she looked at the reporter quizzically—"if I am so old that people come to look at me. But if I suffered I should like to go."

Up to two years ago Mrs. Baker could do fine sewing. Since her attack of grip she has not been able to handle a needle.

Two weeks ago she came to Plainfield in a wagon with her son-in-law. She recently attended a family reunion at George A. Moore's home on East Front street. She has always been a church member, going to service at Westfield, but of late years has not gone, as she could not hear the pastor's voice clearly.

The children of the Sunday-school do not forget her, however, and every Christmas they make a pilgrimage to Grandma Baker and bring her little gifts, and of this she is quite proud.

In speaking of the recent storm, she said: "Ah, that was a blow, but I've seen many a good blow. Well I remember forty years ago when we had a tremendous storm. Houses, barns, trees, all were thrown about like feathers. It swept a whole row of trees out of our orchard. They used to call it Smoky Hollow just below here then."

Then the aged woman dropped into a reminiscent mood and spoke of old-time customs. "We girls did n't think of dress like they do nowadays. A girl who had a nice clean print frock for best was content. And we were happy. Just as much so as the young ladies who have a dozen trunks of dresses to take away on a summer trip are now. We had no excursions or summer vacations then. But he had lots of framings and quiltings and paring-bees and such like."

Then, as she sank back contentedly in her chair: "It all seems like a dream to me—my whole life—a pleasant, happy dream. And the dream will come to an end, and I shall awake—where ?"—and there was a slight quiver in her voice as she ceased talking, and she closed her eyes wearily, but brightened up and shook hands heartily as leave was taken.

Conscientiously Commended.

The Trenton Gazette speaks admiringly of Hunting's great show which is coming to Plainfield Thursday:

Did you go to the circus? Well, if you did n't you missed it, as it was a good all round show. Mr. Hunting does n't profess to conduct the greatest show on earth, but just the same it is a good old-fashioned affair. The riding, tumbling and trapeze work was far above the average, while the menagerie is not to be sneezed at. And there is one thing about Hunting's show which the bigger institutions might well emulate. All the attaches are courteous, obliging and gentlemanly and seem to realize that it is their duty to look after the comfort of the audience. Mr. Hunting is a gentleman, and will retain no one in his employ who does not aim to come up to the standard of excellence. There is an entire absence of the element and sharpers, so that the smallest child is safe under Hunting's tent. A good-sized audience was present in the afternoon, and in the evening the seats were all occupied. We can conscientiously commend Mr. Hunting to the brethren of the press, and assure them that they will meet a gentleman from the ground up.

Pastor Hand to Take Part.

The Fourth Church of Christ of New York city, commonly known as the Disciples Union church, 119th street, near Lenox avenue, held their first services in their new white stone church yesterday. James Millard Philpott is pastor, and his wife is organist and chorister. The church will seat about 700. A more formal opening will be given Sunday, October 1, when B. W. Hand, of this city, and other ministers, will be asked to take part. Mr. Philpott says he desires to exchange pulpits with Mr. Hand soon. The visitors from here yesterday were J. Holmes and H. VanMiddlesworth. The latter was entertained pleasantly at Mr. Philpott's home on West 127th street.

Assaulted a Policeman.

August Arnold was drunk and disorderly at Somerset and Front streets, yesterday, and when Policeman Frederickson attempted to arrest him Arnold used profane language, struck the officer, and in other ways resisted arrest. In the City Court this morning Judge Coddington sentenced the prisoner to pay a fine of $15 or spend forty days in jail. The fine was paid.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1536 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. L. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

POISONED BY ONE TOADSTOOL.

D. B. VAN ORDEN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

He Partook But Sparingly of His Poisoned Dish of Mushrooms—Two Cats Ate of the Rest, and Died—Dr. Adams Saved the Man.

D. B. VanOrden, whose home is on the Rock road, just off the Valley road back of the First Mountain, owes his life to the good ministrations of Dr. D. C. Adams of Grove street, North Plainfield.

VanOrden gathered some mushrooms Friday, and ate slightly of them Friday night. Saturday morning he was taken with violent vomiting and purging, and had convulsions of the limbs. Dr. Adams was called immediately, and by strenuous efforts saved him from death. By Saturday night the patient was out of danger, but very weak and sore.

The mushrooms were found to have been contaminated by one toadstool. The residue was thrown out, and two cats ate of it and died. They must have eaten all the balance of the poisonous part, as a dog that ate after them survived.

—A wild bucking bull ridden by an Indian will be a feature of the wild west show in the Crescent Riding Academy tomorrow night. Saturday night's contest was undecided, on the grounds that the American had the worst bucking horse in the rough riding and could not make his horse work in the fancy riding. The judges were unable to render their decision, and it has been decided to let each man ride each of the bucking horses to enable the judges to render their decision.

Who Owns These Goods?

Justice Nash today issued a venire in the case of Fosher against Seguine, to decide the ownership of some property in the possession of Seguine, which was served by Constable Mattox to satisfy a judgment held by Fosher. The goods were to be sold Friday; but Andrew Seguine, Jr., now claims that the property belongs to him.

The ownership of the property will be decided by a jury in Justice Nash's Court tomorrow.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Senator James F. Pierce, of New York, writes:

"For the past two years I have suffered very much from an aggravated form of nervous dyspepsia. I have resorted to various remedial agents, deriving but little benefit. A few months since a friend of mine suggested the trial of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. Following the suggestion, I have been using the same with the happiest effects. To those similarly afflicted let me suggest the manner of their use. I place one over my stomach, one over the hepatic region and one on my back. The effect is excellent. From the day I commenced their use have been slowly but surely improving, and am quite confident that by continuing I shall again be restored to my accustomed health.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 37th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained 3 pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and wornout parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

An Inevitable Conclusion.

Her Residence.

"So you are going to make a flying trip to Chicago?" said one young man to another.

"I think I shall have to."

"You'll visit the World's fair, won't you?"

"Of course. She lives there."—Washington Star.

Far Better.

Willis—Did you have a seat on the street car?

Wallace—No; I had to stand on my feet.

"Did you? Well, that's better than sitting down and letting somebody else stand on them."—Brooklyn Life.

An Even Thing.

TO TALK ETERNALLY

Senator Pugh Tells What May be Expected.

QUESTION OF BRUTE STRENGTH

Hill Opposes a Resolution as to Whether Senators Own Stock in National Banks—The Federal Election Laws—A Tariff Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The senior Senator from New York broke off yesterday from his imputed alliance with the extreme wing of the silver Senators. Mr. Stewart of Nevada offered a resolution for an inquiry into the fact of Senators being stockholders in national banks. Mr. Hill opposed the resolution in a strong speech as being unnecessary, unprecedented, and a gross reflection on the Senate. The resolution went over until to day, when it will come up in the regular business.

The bill for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law was taken up and Mr. Pugh, (Dem., Ala.) a member of the Finance Committee, made a two and a half hours' speech against it, declaring at the close, that it was the determined and unalterable purpose of the opponents of repeal to oppose it until their physical strength was exhausted, and their power of speech gone.

The remainder of the session was occupied in a continuation of Mr. Teller's speech against the bill. He did not conclude, but said he would take up another phase of the question on some other day.

House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The session of the House yesterday was brief. It was expected that a report from the Committee on Accounts announcing the committees that were entitled to clerks might lead to an acrimonious debate, but owing to the absence of Mr. Ruck, the report was not brought in. The colored Representative from South Carolina, Mr. Murray, attempted to get consideration for a joint resolution appropiating $200,000 for the relief of the cyclone sufferers in the south, but Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, objecting, the resolution was referred.

Federal Election Laws.

A Tariff Resolution.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—As one measure of relief from the present deplorable condition of the business of the country, Representative Grosvenor of Ohio introduced a joint resolution reciting that "it is not the intention of the Fifty-third Congress to make radical or important changes in the principles of tariff taxation, and it is hereby solemnly declared that Congress will not undertake a sweeping revision of the tariff laws, nor will it remove from American products, either from the farm, the mine, or the shop, that protection which now stands between the American producer and the foreign producer; and especially is it hereby declared that Congress will not remove from products of agricultural industries the full measure of protection now afforded by law, to the end that wages may be maintained at the present rates and the producer be rewarded for his labor and capital by adequate prices." The resolution was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

WORKERS IN IRON.

The Amalgamated Association Trying to Arrange With Manufacturers.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 12.—The executive committee of the Amalgamated Association has issued a circular to all of the subordinate lodges in the country asking for power to reconvene the conference committee of the association for the purpose of effecting a settlement with the iron and steel manufacturers. The circular has by this time reached every lodge in the country, several having already voted upon the question. If the conference committees of workers and manufacturers can again be brought together, it is thought that the differences which prevented 75 per cent. of the members of the Amalgamated Association from resuming work, and also entailing heavy losses to the manufacturers, can be adjusted. The result of the vote will be made known on the 15th inst. It is said by those in position to know that the Amalgamated Association will agree to accept the 10 per cent. reduction in guide and bar mills demanded by the manufacturers at the July conference and which caused the disagreement.

IRISH HOME RULE.

Justin McCarthy Describes the Struggle With the Lords.

NEW YORK, Sep. 12.—The Irish National Federation of America has received the following cable dispatch from Justin McCarthy:

"The rejection of the Home Rule bill by the House of Lords opens a new chapter in the struggle for Irish liberty. On the one side are the elected representatives of the people, the sympathies of the British democracy, and the unconquerable spirit of the Irish race; on the other side is a hereditary and irresponsible chamber concentrating in its ranks all that is worst in England—prejudice, wealth and arrogance. The result is not doubtful. The House of Lords have made a similar stand against every great reform sent up to them by the House of Commons. In the long run progress and the people's will have invariably triumphed, and the insolence of the privileged classes has been chastised. But the struggle will be a bittter one. We have to fight against an unexampled combination of wealthy aristocrats desperately struggling for their privileges by appeals to every weapon of defamation, bigotry and corruption. We have to look to our faithful countrymen in America for the means of sustaining our party through the incessant sacrifice imposed upon them and of carrying on an active campaign in the English constituencies against the insolent enemies of Irish liberty. There never was a time when Irish-American assistance was more urgently needed, or when it could produce more splendid results in securing to our country the great measure of Irish national self-government which sprung from the genius of Gladstone and which the House of Commons has once for all solemnly pledged itself to carry into law."

THE WHITE HOUSE BABY.

Congratulations Continue to Pour in Upon the Clevelands.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The White House baby is doing well and so is Mrs. Cleveland. Mrs. Perrine is now with her daughter and will remain until she is able to be up and about. The President pursued his regular routine in his office yesterday. According to his custom on Mondays he saw no visitors except some Cabinet officers, but devoted himself to almost uninterrupted work at his desk. Telegrams and letters are still being delivered at the White House from people in all parts of the country congratulating the President and Mrs. Cleveland on the new accession to their family. No messages from foreign countries have yet come to hand, but several are expected by mail in due course of time. Bunches of flowers from intimate friends of the Cleveland family have been received at the White House in great numbers and many people of prominence, particularly those in diplomatic circles, have left their cards.

EMIN PASHA'S MURDER.

Robbery of His Caravan the Probable Motive.

BRUSSELS, Sep. 12.—A dispatch from St. Paul de Loando says advices have been received from Stanley Falls to the effect that a Belgian officer has recovered Dr. Emin's scientific collection and his diary. Both collection and diary are said to have been found very near the spot where Emin was murdered last October. The dispatch from St. Paul de Loando adds that Emin was within four days' march of Stanley Falls when he was murdered. His caravan was carrying 20 tons of ivory. The desire of the Arabs to rob the caravan is reported to have been the main reason for killing Emin.

SHEEP GRAZE IN PEACE.

Hostile Border Troubles Give Way to Diplomacy.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The hostile feature of the Mexican boundary trouble has been removed and the matter will proceed to settlement on a diplomatic basis. At the request of the State Department the Adjutant-General of the army sent a dispatch to Major Keyes, commanding the United States troops at the Havana Ranch, where the Mexican customs officers are being held prisoners on the charge of making an unlawful seizure in the United States, directing that the prisoners be released. The State Department did this upon the promise of the Mexican government that if the officers and sheep were released Mexico would not interfere with the sheep grazing on the disputed land, pending the settlement of the matter through diplomatic channels. The matter will be allowed to proceed in statute quo on the Havana Ranch, and until it is settled whether the disputed ground is in Mexico or the United States the 3,000 sheep belonging to Salinas, an American citizen, will be allowed to graze there in peace.

JOHN NEEDN'T HURRY

No Effort to Enforce the Geary Law.

YANG YU INTERVIEWS GRESHAM

The Chinese Minister is Officially Informed of the President's Decision to Await Further Action of Congress—An Important Amendment Proposed.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—Yang Yu, the new Chinese Minister, had a very satisfactory interview with Secretary Gresham yesterday on the matter of enforcing the Chinese Exclusion law. The Secretary communicated to the Minister the decision of the President that the law should not be enforced pending further action by Congress and furthermore that the recent order for the departure of Chinese from the Pacific coast had been suspended for the present.

In the meantime public attention centres upon the bill introduced in the House on Saturday by Representative Everett of Massachusetts. It is now fully admitted that this is an administration bill and represents an administration policy. Its full text is as follows:

"Be it enacted, etc., that section six of an act entitled 'An Act to Prohibit the Coming of Chinese Persons into the United States,' approved May 5, 1892, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 6.—And it shall be the duty of all Chinese laborers within the limits of the United States at the time of the passage of this act, and who are entitled to remain in the United States, to apply to the collector of internal revenue of their respective districts, on or before the first day of September eighteen hundred and ninety-four, for a certificate of residence, and any Chinese laborer within the limits of the United States who shall neglect, fail, or refuse to comply with the provision of this act, or who, after said first day of September, eighteen hundred and ninety-four, shall be found within the jurisdiction of the United States without such certificate of residence, shall be deemed and adjudged to be unlawfully within the United States, and may be arrested by any United States customs official, collector of internal revenue or his deputies, United States marshal or his deputies and taken before a United States judge whose duty it shall be to order that he be deported from the United States, as hereinbefore provided, unless he shall establish clearly to the satisfaction of said judge that by reason of accident, sickness or other unavoidable cause he has been unable to procure his certificate, and to the satisfaction of the court, and by at least one credible white witness, that he was a resident of the United States at the time of the passage of this act; and if upon the hearing it shall appear that he is so entitled to a certificate, it shall be granted upon his paying the cost. Should it appear that said Chinaman had procured a certificate which has been lost or destroyed, he shall be detained and judgment suspended a reasonable time to enable him to procure a duplicate from the officer granting it, and in such case the cost of said arrest and trial shall be in the discretion of the court. And any Chinese person other than a Chinese laborer, having a right to be and remain in the United States, desiring such certificate as evidence of such right, may apply for and receive the same without charge.

"Section 2.—That no proceeding for a violation of the provisions of said section six of said act of May fifth, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, as originally enacted, shall hereafter be instituted and all the proceedings for violation now pending are hereby discontinued."

HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS.

The President Has Made Up His Mind But Says Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The President has practically completed his consideration of the Hawaiian question and action may be expected within a very short period, probably within three weeks. Ex-Minister Blount, who has imparted all the information on the subject secured by him while in Hawaii and has had frequent conferences with the President and Secretary of State in which he outlined his views in the matter, has made his official adieu and left for his home in Georgia. His connection with the Hawaiian question both officially and unofficially, has ended.

Unprofitable Conspiracy.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 12.—Allan Seaman, of Ferry street, a wholesale provision dealer, has transferred a portion of his business, valued at $5,000, to Sperry & Barnes, wholesale pork packers of this city, to remunerate them for losses they sustained by a conspiracy in which Seaman was the chief. Seaman's method was to buy stock from two dishonest shipping clerks in Sperry & Barnes' establishment. The clerks stole the stock and sold it to him at reduced prices. Seaman is prominent in church and society circles.

AS ONLY A BABY CAN.

Consoles One for All Sorrows Save Those It Brings—The Attention of Mothers Awakened to the Need of Better Diet.

A baby is a despot in long clothes.

The mother's tenderness and her marvelous intuition for doing the right thing accomplishes much; but it often happens with all her solicitude, that ignorance of infant needs endangers baby's health and life.

fant asylum, "I find that in over 400 cases the most common exciting cause was improper feeding."

Because it is the most nourishing, most palatable, most digestible, purest of foods physicians and experienced nurses recommend and use lactated food.

Lactated food has saved thousands of infants from cholera infantum and fatal diarrhoea. It more closely resembles mother's milk than any other food known. Its basis is sugar of milk, which is the basis of mother's milk. With it is combined the nutritive parts of wheat, barley and oats in such proportions as best meet the requirements of the growing child.

"Our little Cassandra," writes Mrs. T. W. Wallace of Oberlin, O., "has been using lactated food, and has never seen a sick day."

THE HALLIDAY CASE.

The Prisoner Eats Little and Refuses to Talk to a Priest.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 12.—Yesterday Mrs. Halliday, who visited in jail, talked in a rambling, incoherent way. She was told that her mother in Ireland had been sent for and was coming to her. When this news was told her her face assumed a saddened aspect for a moment, and then she told of her coming from Belfast, Ireland. When in conversation Mrs. Halliday avoids looking a visitor in the face.

District Attorney D. S. Hill visited Mrs. Halliday, but could not engage her in conversation. The district attorney is busy preparing to present her case to the grand jury, which meets next week. He stated that he did not think the case would be tried until the May term of court.

Lawyer S. B. Fullerton of Port Jervis was handed an envelope containing $100, and will conduct the defense. It was impossible to learn more than that the money was raised by friends of Mrs. Halliday near her home at Burlingham.

Mrs. Halliday was examined by Dr. S. A. McWilliams, health officer of Sullivan county. After an examination of two hours he stated that she was in perfect physical health, but would not commit himself in regard to her sanity.

Since her imprisonment Mrs. Halliday has refused to eat more than one meal a day. Fearing that this course would result in serious illness to the prisoner, Sheriff Berehr procured the services of a physician, who, assisted by the sheriff and District Attorney Hill, administered nourishment forcibly. Hundreds of people are daily visiting Monticello in the hope of seeing the prisoner. Rev. J. F. McLaughlin, the priest in charge of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, called upon Mrs. Halliday and endeavored to engage her in conversation, but the woman would not speak to him. It is said that extra efforts will be made to have the prisoner tried at this term of court before Judge Fursman.

NEW BEDFORD MILL TROUBLES.

Some Employes Cut More Than the Agreed Rate.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sep. 12.—There is much excitement among weavers in this city in regard to the cut down in the several cotton mills. Nearly all the mills are running, but it is claimed that in some of them, while the spinners received only the agreed upon 10 per cent. cut, the weavers, doffers and back boys' cut will average much more; in some instances the cut of these operatives being as high as 18 or 20 per cent. The exception to this is at the Howland, Botch and New Bedford manufacturing company's mills, where the operatives say that the cut is but 10 per cent. straight for all. At the Acushnet mill the back boys and doffers inaugurated a strike, and it would take but little to precipitate one among the help outside the spinners in all the mills except the Howland, Botch and New Bedford manufacturing companies. The weavers claim the reason the cut of the spinners is but 10 per cent. is because their union is well organized and powerful.

Didn't Know He Was Murdered.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Showers; East or Northeast Winds.

The very name Vigilant sounds like a winner.

The despatch published on the next page is in line with the Press idea.

Alas, poor Somerville! John Harkins was once her joy and pride, but he and his base-ball team have sunk to low depths indeed when little Roselle can beat them.

Emma Goldmann has been indicted for inciting foolish people to crime by her anarchistic speeches, and is held under $2,000 bail. This is as it should be. Our country is large; but there is no room in it for enemies of law and order.

The old men do n't seem to stand much show in the churches nowadays. Young blood is cried for. There is n't much satisfaction in a young man going into the ministry if he feels he's going to be turned down when silver hairs come.

The Elizabeth Journal is continually expressing admiration for Senator McPherson, and now says that one thing it likes about him is that he is a decent politician, and another is that he has always "got there" when the proper time came.

The most powerful sermons come not from pulpits, but from little incidents in everyday life. Thomas Bohn, once an industrious husband and father, shot himself in Central Park in a fit of remorse over wasted prospects. He left a note for his poor wife in Chicago. It was brief and impressive: "Drink has done it".

Now that toadstool poisoning is getting so near home, it is well to know how to avoid it. The mushroom expert can readily tell mushrooms from toadstools by sight and smell. The inexperienced would better cook an onion or a silver spoon among the fungi. Mushrooms will leave the spoon clean and bright, and the onion its natural color. Toadstools will turn them black. Salt will turn toadstools black. Mushrooms are unaffected by salt. Mushrooms peel easily. The peeling of toadstools is almost impossible.

How blessed is the memory of those who live for humanity and die in the Lord! Good old Mother Martine, as everyone loved to know her, has passed into the happy rest and perfect peace of her heavenly reward. Her long life was spent in deeds of lovingkindness. Was there sickness among neighbors, or trouble among friends, it was Mother Martine's hand that soothed, Mother Martine's word which comforted. Was the hand of death heavy on a household, Mother Martine was a ministering angel. She was one of Plainfield's oldest residents, and everyone respected and loved her. She did all the good she possibly could in life, and now wears the crown of her Lord for her faithfulness. What more beautiful spectacle has there ever been in the community than the picture of her life, radiant with kindly deeds, and of her happy home life, surrounded by the family of children who had never left her rooftree. While sincerest sorrow pervades the community, to them the affliction is heartrending. Their comfort is in the memory of her lovely attributes, her noble life. The highest tribute that mortal words could ever bestow in endearment of a departed mother, is that she was a devoted Christian woman: and that was Mother Martine.

The art of reading between lines is possible of practice in the perusal of Church Clerk Leonard's letter. He says that no "official" authority exists for the news published yesterday, and speaks of Dr. Yerkes not being succeeded "at present". The Press is a particular admirer and friend of Dr. Yerkes, and hopes that his forcible and eloquent preaching is to continue from the Baptist pulpit for years to come; but when one reflects on the strange things that have happened late years among Plainfield's pastorates, and ponders on the disaffection expressed in so many quarters, he is prepared for disappointments and disagreeable developments. As was stated yesterday, Dr. Yerkes has lost none of his powers of eloquence or oratory; he is today an impressive figure in local religious circles; we are proud to look up to his straight and manly form, crowned with locks which nearly a half-century of faithful service for the Master have whitened, and we delight in his superb physical vigor and stalwart mentality. His sermons refresh, invigorate, inspire; and the good Baptists would make a grievous mistake if they permitted him to be supplanted until he himself asked for the rest and retirement which the disaffected clamoring for younger blood are urging. The youth of the young in years is admirable for its ardor and ambition; but there is a youth more sublime than that—the youth of old age. And by right living and holy deeds good Dr. Yerkes has come into possession of that prize.

The Woolleys' Home Coming.

Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Woolley, on Elmer street, Westfield, a reception was given by many friends from Somerville, Plainfield and elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolley did not return from their wedding trip until 9 in the evening, and on reaching home found the friends gathered there. The evening was pleasantly spent in a social way, and later dancing was indulged in by the young people.

Refreshments were served, and in the early hours of the morning the merry company dispersed.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 115 Front st., New York.

THE BAPTIST PASTOR QUESTION.

NOT A RETIREMENT, SAYS CHURCH CLERK LEONARD.

The New Clergyman to Come in as an Assistant.

The news published exclusively in these columns yesterday concerning the proposition to appoint either a successor to or assistant of Dr. Yerkes, was on authority of various members of the church. Some of these stated positively that Dr. MacMurray was to be the new pastor, and among those making this assertion was a prominent and eminently trustworthy official of the church.

It is now stated by members that the proposition to elect a new pastor was made at a recent meeting of the church deacons, and that Dr. Yerkes protested and insisted that the time for his retirement had not yet come. The Press has interviewed leading members of the congregation, and feeling among them is divided just as was stated yesterday. But The Press sincerely trusts that the warm and earnest friends of good Dr. Yerkes are by far in the majority. It seems certain, however, that an assistant pastor is to be appointed, and according to what influential members say he will assume all of the heavy duties, lighten Dr. Yerkes's cares, and eventually succeed him.

Concerning the matter, the Church Clerk writes:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Please have the kindness to correct the erroneous statements made in yesterday's issue of The Daily Press concerning "a new pastor for the First Baptist Church" of this city. There is no such question before this people at present, and has not been; neither is there any known division among the congregation over existing relations.

Two years ago the pastor and deacons urged upon the church the propriety of encouraging one of its members, Chas. B. Brown, in evangelistic work, and for about a year and a half his labors were continued and recognized as helpful to the pastor and beneficial to the younger members, particularly to young men. So impressed was the church with this work that in the spring unanimous decision was expressed to enlarge and extend the lines of usefulness in this direction. It was agreed by the church that if possible a trained assistant should be secured; an ordained minister who could in many ways relieve the pastor of numerous duties necessarily overtaxing him in such a large parish.

This is the whole purport of the movement, and not the least official authority exists for the intimation made that our pastor is to be "retired on a pension" or that anyone is to succeed him at present in the pastorate.

Regretting that any such indiscreet rumors should have found way into print, I trust you will, in justice to the church and its pastor, rectify the erroneous statements referred to.

For this purpose you are at liberty to publish this official explanation by

OLIVER B. LEONARD,
Church Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 12, 1893.

ANOTHER EXPLANATION.

The following was received in a late mail:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The statement in your paper of Monday evening concerning the relations of Rev. Dr. Yerkes to the First Baptist Church is liable to mislead and to leave a wrong impression.

Rev. D. A. MacMurray has preached simply as a supply during part of Dr. Yerkes' vacation.

The action of the church has simply been the appointment of a committee to enquire and report concerning an assistant, in view of Dr. Yerkes' arduous duties. There is no such question as a new pastor, and it is the furthest from the desire of the church for Dr. Yerkes to withdraw from the pastorate.

In behalf of the committee,

LEMUEL W. SERRELL.

Lucky It Wasn't Worse.

I. D. Titsworth, a director of the First National Bank, living between New Market and Dunellen, was alighting from his carriage in front of the bank building this morning, when the horses started, throwing him headlong and bruising his forehead on the curb.

Mr. Titsworth was helped into Miller's drug store and received the proper attention, after which he attended the directors meeting in the bank, feeling not much the worse, apparently, for his shaking up.

There'll Be a Team Next Year.

It is not likely that the Crescents will play any more games at home this season. Manager Keller will arrange a game this Saturday away from home, and on the following Saturday his team will play the N. J. A. C. team at Bergen Point. The Crescents will then disband for the season.

Mr. Keller promises the friends of baseball that there will be a team in this city next year.

Michael Noonan, employed at Mercier & Ulrich's brick yards, in the borough, was arrested Sunday by Marshal Pangborn on a charge of disorderly conduct. Yesterday before Borough Magistrate Crosley the charge was withdrawn, and this morning the marshal escorted Noonan to the railway station and placed him aboard the 9:32 train for New York. Noonan promised to go to his relatives in Connecticut.

Sampled Pop's Peaches.

On invitation of Captain J. Haynes, of the Crescent Wheelmen, fifteen of their number journeyed last Sunday to the home of "Pop" Cramer, of Annandale, where his choicest peaches were sampled by the hungry wheelmen. The ride was much enjoyed by the Plainfielders.

EXCELLENT WORK OF CHRISTIAN PEOPLE.

A MISSION FEAST AFFORDED BY MR. AND MRS. BOND.

The Young People of Trinity Reformed Church Listen to Interesting Speakers From Macedonia.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Trinity Reformed church met last night and listened to most interesting addresses from the Rev. and Mrs. Lewis Bond, returned missionaries from Macedonia.

The lecture room of the church was filled. Miss Mary Berkaw, Chairman of the Missionary Committee, presided. After the usual singing of hymns, Scripture and prayer, the leader introduced Mr. Bond, who gave an interesting synopsis of the missionary work in Macedonia. He and his good wife have labored fifteen years in that country; and previous to that they labored nine years in Thrace and Bulgaria. Hence they are veterans in missionary work.

Vital Christianity, the speaker said, was wholly unknown in the countries where he had gone. In the so-called Christian churches, picture worship prevailed, and the name of Christ stood for nothing tangible or helpful.

The church which the missionaries have established now has over 1,000 communicants, and has sent out eight native preachers. Mr. Bond told of an interesting instance of Turkish governmental interference. A message was sent by him on some special occasion to a sister church in Bulgaria, "We greet you in the name of the Lord". The message never reached its destination; but a policeman called on Mr. Bond some days later and demanded an explanation of its meaning. The missionary, with the aid of his Bible, explained as best he could to the policeman, who "the Lord" was that he had reference to.

The caller left, apparently satisfied, but soon returned saying that his superior wished a written explanation of the term "Lord". The authorities evidently feared that some insurrection was being planned by an English lord, who desired to topple over the Sultan's throne.

When Mr. Bond had finished speaking he and his wife chanted the Lord's prayer in Bulgarian.

Mrs. Bond then spoke until 9, and wished to stop; but a motion was passed that she be given all the time necessary to continue her most interesting description of social customs and home life of the people among whom she has labored. She caused the young people much enjoyment by her many humorous anecdotes of mission life.

A doll was exhibited dressed in the costume of the native Bulgarian woman, and a specimen of her weaving and needle work.

After Mrs. Bond had ceased speaking, the pastor, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, arose, and, after expressing his appreciation in a few well-chosen words, moved that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered Mr. and Mrs. Bond. The pastor's motion was unanimously carried.

The people then sang "Victory Through Grace", and received the benediction from the missionary.

Mr. Bond will remain in Plainfield more or less during the winter. He is a brother of Miss Kate L. Bond and Theophilus Bond, of East Front street.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONFERENCE.

Elaborate Preparations for the Coming Event in Plainfield.

The Fall Conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will be held in this city Friday evening, September 22. The address of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. L. E. Dyott, of the First Methodist Protestant church of Newark. The District Secretary, Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, will speak on junior work. There will be short reports from delegates to the Montreal convention, and the singing will be led by a large choir, selected from various societies in the county.

This Is a Delightful Drama.

The next attraction in Music Hall will be Walter Sanford's elaborate production of William Haworth's sterling and successful play "A Flag of Truce".

A play coming from the author of the glorious naval drama "The Ensign" (a play which holds a place in the war literature of the stage, side by side with "Shenandoah" and "Held by the Enemy") is undoubtedly an event of no ordinary occurrence in the history of the American drama.

The story of "A Flag of Truce" is one of love and war, the former phase elaborated, the latter merely suggested; the actual presence of the grim god of battle is done awaw with, and the murky smoke of musketry and cannon forms but a martial frame for the prettier domestic picture of the quaint New England home where the action of the play is laid.

Kept a Disorderly House.

Charles Kaeding, proprietor of the barber shop on the bridge, 25 Somerset street, was placed on trial last night before Borough Magistrate Crosley, charged with keeping a disorderly house, headquarters of the Bridge Gang. After the prisoner had been adjudged guilty, Corporation Counsel Reed made a plea in his behalf, that the sentence of the court be a light one. Kaeding was fined $5.

Paid For His Fun.

Thomas McGrath was arrested today by Policeman McCue for being drunk and disorderly and tearing pickets off a fence, Saturday night, on New street. In the City Court, Judge Coddington fined McGrath $5.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. WHAT IS DOING OVER THE BROOK.

BIG BATCH OF NOTES BY THE STROLLER.

He Gossips of North Plainfield People and Affairs.

Special Marshal Samuel Moore is occasionally on duty.

Frank Blatz is becoming a most proficient flute player.

Chris. Pope and Lew Smalley are assisting in "pintin'" up the streets.

Dr. J. H. Cooley has left the borough for the World's Fair, for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, of Grove street, are home from their long vacation.

Johnston Drive—that cost so much to build—should be looked after, for it needs attention badly.

Millionaire Charles Hyde contemplates many improvements round about Quality Hill next spring.

The borough bank has gone up—five cents on a load—and the masons and builders are kicking.

Cornelius Ackerman, Jr., is another old resident returned to us again. He has a flat on Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, of Craig place and Duer street, are home from a few days spent at Long Branch.

The household goods of Architect Jacques were moved to Lakewood in the Pines by Jas. E. Bailey last Saturday.

J. Y. Wilson says he will soon have the ledge of rock that projects out on Somerset street near Wetumpka Falls removed.

A canary was found on Manning avenue the other day, and left in the house occupied by the Carys until its owner could be found.

R. A. Pope and family have moved from Dunellen and taken up their residence in the borough on Somerset street opposite Emily.

Poor old "Vic"! How he misses his master! Were it not for the fleas keeping him busy scratching, some folks say he would die of a broken heart.

The Carsons over on Belmont avenue are a very industrious set. They have recently erected a large hothouse, and are making decided improvements up that way.

The old Greenbrook road, down where the staid Quakers reside, has been macadamized and put in a good condition under the direction of Committeeman A. P. Voorhees.

Charley Willis and David Drake, the licensed garbage-gatherers of the borough, will race from one end of Johnston Drive to the other on Thanksgiving Day for a small stake—or chop.

The katy-dids are chasing the tree-toads, and the toadstools are running the mushrooms, while the little rabbit and the nimble wee chipmunk are in clover or in a cornstack. Summer's gone.

Duer street will soon be macadamized. This will be the last macadamizing done this year, for the balance of the road appropriation will be kept for emergencies—such as cyclones and snowdrifts.

James Stewart, of Brook avenue, a special marshal, glides gracefully along our macadam roads on a tricycle. He's a dandy rider, and is open to all comers for a five-mile race over the John Stine course.

"Winnie" Philpitt, the electric light engineer over in the city, has apple trees so loaded down with fruit that the limbs are almost breaking from the weight. He lives on Mountain avenue, corner Westervelt.

Town Committeeman Elias Allen extends a cordial invitation to his young friends to come up to his farm and help husk corn and chase gray squirrels. Feed and ammunition are free—but don't stay too long.

The Somerset House has been taxed to its utmost limit the past season with summer boarders. They come and go and they are always sure to return the next season. Landlord Boyce keeps a model hotel.

The "founder", the "original" and the first Mayor of Bull Frog City, Edward Kennedy, is spending a few days in that mushroom and ozone-laden mountain-side part of the borough, just "furninst" the brickyard.

Letters received from Collector H. N. Spencer tell that he is enjoying himself hugely, and say that he never knew the world was as big as it is. He will be home in time to register and vote the straight Republican ticket.

All the old settlers and natives are dusting their shoes and clothes preparatory to visiting the county fair and having a "shake" with the politicians and judges and a stroll around among the cattle and pumpkin exhibits. Come along.

The colored boy who has been winding the clock and practising shadow dancing in the old building next to the electric light station will soon return to Albemarle county, Virginia, to finish his education. He says he "dun like this part of the country for nuthin', sah!"

Rutgers V. Cadmus, of the Greenbrook road, our old bachelor friend, visited the west before railroads were built, by easy stages, and from his experience then obtained he says Jersey has been good enough for him ever since, and therefore declines an invitation to visit the World's Fair.

Several parties were fishing down at Watchung Lake last week from the borough, and partaking of the hospitality of ex-Councilman Sebring's apple orchard and the free use of his boats. This is the longest lake in this section of the State, and the largest sheet of water of any round about here.

The left-handed pump now in use in Warren Engine house has a rattlety-bang suction attachment, and is daily giving those who are compelled to use the same palpitation of the heart. Why did not those who gave away the water right franchise compel the recipients to place free water in the engine house, and a fountain or two about the borough? They could easily have procured that much from this now gigantic rubber-cork-three-ply-souled corporation.

Amos R. Vail, of Greenbrook, has been very successful this season with his crops.

Adam Fritz, of upper Somerset street, has lately erected a number of neat cottages on Fritz avenue.

David Lowrie, of the western end of the township, is troubled with rheumatism. He is a brother to the editor of the Dunellen Call.

"Why should the spirit of mortal be proud" when you can buy peaches for 30 cents per basket, and great big juicy onions so cheap!

Frank DeCamp's little daughter of Linden avenue has been visiting at Cobbtown, just over the line in Middlesex county beyond Sebring's Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. "Wilse" Fulper, with their friend Miss Smith, were fishing yesterday in the pond at Glenside. They caught only a few sunfish, a slight sunburn, and armfuls of autumn leaves and golden-rod.

Ed Conshay, the genial clerk at the Arlington Hotel, is soon to give his friends in the profession a reception. "Con" says it is to be the best the market affords, and some other side dishes that are new around here will be at the spread.

Frank Linke, the beer king, contemplates a trip to the "faderland". He has been very attentive and successful in business and wants to see the old folks and home once more. He'll spend the holidays with his parents near Heidelberg in Germany.

That part of our population who cannot spare the money for a trip to the World's Fair have the consolation of attending, if they desire, the one and the only Somerset County Fair that has its gates now open just above the pottery fields, alongside the Pluckamin road, and just back of Somerville.

The small boys of the borough held a one-cent circus in the rear of old man Powlison's second-hand place on Somerset street, yesterday. The Beckers, the Schucks, the Hansens, the Kollers, the Voehls, with Lew. McCann and young "Amber" Carney and John Doud, were some of the performers. The goat that was down for a trick act balked, but the old cat with the kittens did her part nobly.

A prominent person who takes an interest in borough affairs about the macadamizing of its streets, advanced the argument—and it is not a bad one—that Mountain avenue should be put in first-class condition, as it is the only outlet we have to Newark without going down through Plainfield and Scotch Plains and coming almost back to where you started from to commence over again. That's not just what he said—but from Somerset street, Mountain avenue is a direct route to Springfield, and if the same was in condition teamsters could save a few miles by taking that course.

Progressing Steadily in Its Great Career.

An interesting and encouraging report of the work of the Y. M. C. A. was presented at the meeting of the Board of Directors held last evening. The interest in the young men's meeting for the month of August was shown not only by an average weekly attendance of 70, but also by requests for prayer and the interest in the after-meeting.

To Build on the Mountain at Last.

J. T. Vail sold to a New York gentleman this morning Mrs. Carmon Parse's one-half interest in a beautiful building lot on Johnston's Drive, near Vail's Spring. If the owner of the other one-half interest in said lot can be prevailed on to dispose of his interest, the gentleman will build a fine home on the property next spring.

Christian Temperance Women Have an Interesting All-Day Meeting.

The annual all-day meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in their rooms on Watchung avenue, yesterday, beginning at 10:30 a. m.

Officers were elected, and other business of importance transacted.

Mrs. Tomlinson, President of the Union, occupied the chair.

The morning session opened with a devotional service, after which the reports of the Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and Superintendent of Creche, were read, and showed marked advancement, especially the last. Faithful work has been done with the children, and those in charge deserve much credit.

Following this came the reports of the Superintendents. These were:

Social Purity—Mrs. Aaron Powell.
Kitchen Garden—Miss May Tomlinson.
Creche—Mrs. S. Cahoone.
Mothers' Meeting—Mrs. J. C. Fernald.
German Work—Mrs. Voehl.

After these interesting branches of the work had been fully explained in well-written papers, Mrs. Bourne, the State Superintendent, gave a most excellent and helpful Bible reading, which was a rare treat.

At the close of this a recess was taken for dinner. Each member brought her own lunch, and a most inviting spread was the result.

The afternoon session convened at 2, with a devotional service which was followed with a report of the Evangelistic Committee, Miss C. B. Yates, Chairman. The report set forth the objects of the Union, and just what work was being accomplished, in a most complete and yet concise manner.

A very interesting paper discussing "Unfermented Wine" was read by Mrs. John Coard. The subject was treated pro and con, and the discussion exceedingly helpful. Then came the election of officers for the ensuing year.

As was to be expected, no one could be found willing to succeed so capable a President as Mrs. Tomlinson. Everyone declined, until finally it was decided to leave the matter in charge of the Nominating Committee. The following other officers were elected:

Honorary Vice-President—Mrs. J. W. Yates.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Emma French.
Corresponding Secretary — Miss Mineola Tomlinson.
Treasurer—Mrs. R. K. Case.

The vice-presidents, who are representatives from the various churches, remain the same as last year.

An interesting part of the day's proceedings was that in relation to each member bringing in a dollar, which had to be earned or saved by the giver. The following will tell how the dollars came in: Shampooing a friend's head, saving car fare by walking, knitting baby socks, darning stockings, peeling fruit, picking cherries, good behavior, making and selling crab apple jelly, being patient while confined by illness, collecting bad debts, sewing for the poor people, keeping house for a man, self-denial.

Thirty-nine dollars in all came in, with five more promised.

It was nearly 6, when a motion was made to adjourn.

Neumann Bros. very kindly sent a choice basket of pears at the noon hour, and another party sent some peaches; the donor in this case was not known.

During the day a very able and forcible address was made by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, the President, reviewing the past year's work and giving an outlook for the future. It was much enjoyed by those present, who regret that this worthy woman will not accept a reelection.

AT REST.

Anna M. Martine.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna M. Martine, mother of the Hon. James E. Martine, took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence on Watchung avenue. The Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and the Rev. S. P. Simpson, of the Church of Our Saviour, Netherwood, officiated. The singing was by a selected quartette, the members of which were Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mrs. Henry Manning, E. E. Runyon, and Alfred Holmes. The pall-bearers were Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom, William McDowell Coriell, Stephen A. Ginna, Otto Arens, Isaac P. Brown and James Ritchie. The floral pieces were numerous and elaborate. Hosts of relatives and friends attended the funeral.

Mrs. Martine passed away from earth at 10 p. m. Friday. The immediate cause of death was heart failure. She was in her seventy-seventh year.

Interment was in the North Plainfield cemetery.

The sympathies of an unusually large number of friends are with the stricken family in their bereavement; and Plainfield mourns the loss of one of its most estimable women.

Mrs. Martine leaves six children, all of whom lived with her: James, William, Miss Kate, Miss Etta, Miss Mary, and Mrs. Hattie Myers, whose husband William is a brother of Lawrence and J. Kirtland. Mrs. Martine was a devout member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Merits Approbation.

Concerning Hunting's great show, which comes to Plainfield Thursday, the Meadville, Pa., Tribune and Republican says:

Hunting's railroad circus, museum, and menagerie are highly entertaining; they were the centre of attention on Monday last, and attracted two immense audiences, absolutely filling the large tents. The superior splendor of this really first-class organization reflects much credit upon its progenitor, Mr. Hunting, and amuses, entrances, edifies and educates the vast multitudes who daily crowd its tented temples. The numerous features are of a very superior order, and meet with the approbation of all, as the route of this very popular show throughout the State has been one vast series of multitudes. The entertainment is first-class, and fully deserving of the immense good will which seems to follow in its footsteps.

CAPT. MARTIN GETS HIS WHEEL.

Curious Complication Resulting from Its Sale by the Thief.

A curious complication has resulted from F. I. C. Martin's attempt to recover a bicycle stolen from him last Wednesday. The bicycle, it appears, was taken to New York by the thief and sold to a dealer for $35. The thief took the check which he received in payment for the wheel and had it certified at the bank. He then went to a firm in 125th street and purchased a bill of goods, in payment for which he tendered the certified check. The check was accepted, and the thief left the store saying that he would call later on for the goods. He evidently became frightened, for he never returned for the goods or the check. The dealer who purchased the bicycle had in the meanwhile learned that the wheel was a stolen one, and stopped payment of the check at the bank. As can be readily understood, a rather amusing complication ensues. The goods which were left at the merchants are really not his own, because he was paid for them with a certified check. He wants the cash for his check. The dealers who bought the stolen wheel do not wish to pay the money on their check, as they must give up the wheel to Capt. Martin.

Two things seem assured, however, that the thief will get nothing for his pains, and that Capt. Martin will recover his wheel.

A GREAT JURY, THIS.

Would That All Had So Excellent a Composition.

The man who would not be willing to be tried by the struck jury selected yesterday in the case of Vail against the C. R. R. of N. J., would be hard to suit. If such men could always be obtained for juries the jury system would be well nigh perfect. The case is over a railroad accident. Craig A. Marsh represents the plaintiff, and B. V. Lindabury and J. L. Conover represents the defendant:

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Dogcatcher and chicken-fancier Frisbie has entered seven silver-spangled Hamburg chickens at the Somerville Fair.

—Mailinson, at 205 North avenue, has added to his stock of directories one for Jersey City, and will keep Appleton's Railway Guide fresh.

—Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, will hold a public meeting this evening in their rooms. A happy time is anticipated by the members.

—The case of Meyers and others against Negley to recover the amount of a bill, which was to have come before Justice Nash yesterday, has been postponed until Sept. 18.

—Peter G. Emmons last week found a coupon for a silver watch in a paper of tobacco purchased in the store of Vincent W. Nash. Yesterday he received the watch by mail from the firm, whose headquarters are in New York.

—Justice Moeher yesterday issued a summons on contract in the case of Arnold, Constable & Co., of New York, against Mme. Emilie Getti, the East Fifth street milliner, to recover $95.24, the amount of a bill of goods said to have been purchased by the defendant.

—Superintendent Adleman is desirous of pleasing the patrons of the street railway, and when he learns that smoking on the cars is becoming objectionable, especially to women, he will remedy the evil without delay. Several complaints have already been heard in regard to this matter.

—A quarryman engaged on the big Jersey City tunnel, during a recent engagement of a "Flag of Truce" which appears in Music Hall Saturday night, became so interested during the quarry scene that when the whistle announced the dinner hour he bawled out, "Where is my feed pail?"

—The manual training school to be opened Sept. 18, at 309 East Front street, by John Dalziel, promises to be the success it deserves. The school room is a nice high apartment, well lighted, well ventilated and well heated. It is just the place, and Mr. Dalziel is just the man, to bring out what is best in a boy.

—Saturday evening Music Hall will produce Walter Sanford's sterling play, "It is a play"—says the New York Sun—"which seems to improve on acquaintance. Its stirring plot and magnificent scenic effects, together with its sensational stone-quarry scene, have placed it in the front rank of recent successes."

He'll Support Her, Now.

A Bill for Keeping the Life Saving Stations Open Ten Months.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—Mr. Dixon, of Rhode Island, has introduced into the Senate a very short bill that will go a very long way in remedying the disastrous results that have followed the short-sighted policy of economy in regard to the Life Saving service. This bill amends the laws governing the Life Saving stations by providing that hereafter the stations on the sea and gulf at which crews are employed shall be manned and the stations opened for active service on the first day of August and so continued until the first day of June succeeding, and upon the lake coasts from the close of navigation except such stations as in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury are not necessary to be manned during the full period specified, and the crews shall reside at the stations during such periods. Under this bill the term of the service of the life-saving crews will be lengthened one month each at the beginning and end of the season.

TEN PER CENT. ALL ROUND.

Reduction in Rhode Island Cotton Mill Wages.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sep. 12.—The cut in the wages of Rhode Island cotton mill operatives, made inevitable by the action of the Massachusetts mill men, was announced yesterday by the Lonsdale Company and the firm of B. B. & R. Knight posting notices in their mills that a 10 per cent. reduction would go into effect Sept. 25. As the action of the firms mentioned decides that of the smaller corporations in this State they will all doubtless take similar action and the reduction will be general on the date mentioned.

BICYCLES PERSONAL EFFECTS.

This is the Latest Decision of Government Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—Bicycles are personal effects and entitled to free entry into this country as such when necessary to the comfort and convenience of the owner, is the gist of the decision recently rendered by Acting Attorney General Whitney. The Treasury Department has decided to follow this construction of the law, although it will reverse its former practice and be in direct opposition to the Board of General Appraisers, whose decision as to bicycles it discards.

Indians Must Not Smuggle.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 12.—The Treasury Department has instructed the Collect or of Customs at Detroit, Mich., to refuse free entry to goods in a greater amount than $100, in the possession of Indians passing to the United States from Canada. This action is taken to prevent smuggling goods for merchants and others.

THE VIGILANT SELECTED

She Will Meet the Crack Yacht of England.

WINNER IN ALL SORTS OF WEATHER

Yesterday's Race Through High Seas the Greatest of the Trial Contests—Nothing Heard from the Valkyrie Since She Left Great Britain.

NEW YORK, Sep. 12.—In a piping breeze and through seas which washed the forward decks and sent spray flying into the rigging, the four crack sloops sailed the third trial race yesterday, and again, as on Saturday, the Vigilant demonstrated her fitness to stand as America's representative in the International races. She outsailed the other three sloops and behaved magnificently in what an Englishman would call "channel weather." Her victory on Saturday had been attributed by admirers of the Boston boats to the light winds which prevailed on that day, and early yesterday the talent who claimed that all the Jubilee and Pilgrim wanted was wind and plenty of wind were happy. They said the day had been cut out for the Boston boats and neither Vigilant or Colonia would be in it. They are sadder and wiser men, for with the wind at 25 miles an hour off Sandy Hook the Morgan-Iselin center boarder, a true type of American yachts, beat the new fangled fin racing machines which the down-easters had invented for the occasion. She also led the keel boat Colonia from start to finish. The Jubilee was handicapped by a series of accidents, however, and what she would have done had everything held is only conjecture. The jaws of her gaff gave way just before the starting gun, but General Paine pluckily said "Go ahead," and she started seven minutes and six seconds late, with her gaff poking several feet beyond her mast, and her mainsail sagging at the peak. Later she had trouble with her jib and staysail halyards and ran with one foresail for some time. She would not give up the race, and crippled though she was she finished a good third. The Pilgrim whose captain had been shouting for more wind in every previous race, was the first to house her topmast and prepare for heavy weather. She proved no better in heavy than in light winds and was far in the rear at the finish. The Colonia was well handled, had no accidents and sailed a good race, but that she was no match for the Vigilant was plain. The result of the race gives the Vigilant two of the trial races, the Colonia one, and the Jubilee and Pilgrim none. The members of American Cup Committee are pleased at the performance of the Vigilant.

At the meeting of the America's Cup Committee held on board the flagship May, at Bay Ridge, after the race, it was formally decided that the Vigilant should defend the America's cup against the Valkyrie.

No protest of any kind was received from General Paine, but the Jubilee's misfortune was generally discussed.

The committee has received no tidings of the Valkyrie and the general arrangements remain unchanged, pending her arrival. There is some anxiety manifested as to her fate in view of late reports of heavy storms in her path.

A LADY BARBER.

The Gentler Sex the Finest Tonsorial Artists.

THE BEST REPRESENTATIVE OF THE ART IN THIS COUNTRY.

Some Things She Has To Say Which Make Interesting Reading.

If there is anything which a woman is calculated to do better than a man, it is in the care of and attention to the hair. Her natural skill and taste make her pre-eminently man's superior. This explains the great popularity of Mrs. C. V. Wentworth who stands easily the foremost tonsorial artist in this country.

Seen at her tonsorial parlors, at 5 Main street, Waterville, Maine, she said:

"I am well and strong again now. For the past two years my health has been so poor I could not do my work, could not walk across the house, in fact; I got so feeble that the best doctors in this city said if I went to sleep on my left side I would never wake again.

"I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and thought I would try it, and when I had taken one bottle I was very much better. I have taken four bottles of this remarkable medicine and it has done me more good than any medicine I ever took.

"I am now able to do my work and have gained twenty-five pounds in weight. I cannot say enough in its praise."

MRS. C. V. WENTWORTH.

The singular thing is that all the doctors in the city gave Mrs. Wentworth up as incurable, saying that she could not possibly live. Now that they have seen the wonders performed by this great and valuable medicine, there is no doubt that they are prescribing and giving Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for every disease. It certainly cures more diseases than any other remedy ever discovered and physicians and druggists are recommending it all over the country as the best of all medicines—the ideal remedy, in fact, to invigorate the blood, strengthen the nerves and start up a healthy action of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Use this remedy now and it will make you strong and well—in fact put you in perfect health again. It is purely vegetable and harmless and druggists keep it for $1. It is the prescription and discovery of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases and he can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY

Masked Bandits Hold Up a Lake Shore Express.

BORDER CRIME IN CIVILIZATION

Engineer Shot and Express Car Looted—Train Men and Passengers Kept Quiet by Winchester Rifles—Systematic Efforts to Catch the Robbers.

CHICAGO, Sep. 13.—Train robbers stopped the Atlantic express train on the Lake Shore Road at Kessler, Ind., early yesterday morning, shot the engineer, James Knapp, wounding him severely, broke into the express car, blew open the United States Company's safe, and took its contents, consisting of four packages. The express officials are reticent on the question of the amount of money secured by the robbers but it can positively be stated that the total value was $19,104.60. Two bars of gold valued at $16,000 were overlooked. The express messenger saved the company $4,000 in cash by secreting the money before the entrance to the car was effected.

The number of highwaymen was estimated by some of the trainmen at twenty, but there were probably not half so many. The passengers on the train were not molested.

After the robbery the thieves fled into the thick timber surrounding the place where the robbery was done. The train proceeded on its way. The railroad and express officials at once notified the police in all cities from Chicago to Cleveland and the citizens of the vicinity of the robbery formed posses to hunt down the bandits.

Kessler, near where the robbery took place, is a small station on the Lake Shore road about 140 miles from Chicago. Just this side of the stopping place is a sharp curve in the line and the train here passes through a timbered district. As the train was approaching this district, the engineer, James E. Knapp, of Toledo, O., saw the switchlight showing red, indicating that the switch was open. He brought the train to a standstill and at that moment men leaped from the darkness, levelled rifles at the heads of himself and his fireman and ordered them to throw up their hands. The fireman obeyed, but Knapp showed fight, and a shot was fired at him, the bullet tearing through his shoulder. The robbers, having control of the engine proceeded to the work of looting the express car. It was found afterwards that the switch had not been turned, but the light only had been changed. If the train had not stopped it would have passed on uninjured.

The most vigorous measures were at once instituted to capture the bandits. The sheriff of Noble county organized a posse of 100 men and began a systematic search of the surrounding country. Every town and hamlet for miles was notified to watch for the thieves.

The robbery is considered one of the most daring perpetrated east of the Mississippi. The stories told by the messenger and fireman show that two men held the engine crew while three others attended to the express car. Some of the Chicago police officers are of the opinion that the job was done by professional safe blowers and an ex-convict who is known to have been for some time in that part of Indiana is suspected of having had a hand in the crime, if he was not the instigator and leader of it. The fact that only the express car was attacked and that a train carrying an unusually large sum was selected, argues superior knowledge of the express business or rare good luck on the part of the robbers.

At the offices of General Manager C. H. Crosby, some information was imparted about the work done in the way of pursuit. Within two hours of the commission of the crime Capt. Byrne was on his way to the scene with a detachment of detectives from his Buffalo district. The first trains out of Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis carried squads of detectives in the employ of the United States Express company and the Confederated companies. The Lake Shore threw a force of men on the work from its Cleveland office, so that in the opinion of Secretary Henry not less than 100 trained detectives are already on the trail of the robbers. He did not believe any gang of crooks could escape the force put after them.

Milton M. Weiss, the express messenger who was in charge of the car at the time of the attack said:

"The first I knew of the attack was after the train had stopped when I heard two shots on the outside fired in rapid succession. My helper B. B. Hamlin then yelled to me that one of the shots came through the door. It came near hitting him. A moment later the car was almost lifted from the track by a terrific explosion and at the same instant Hamlin and myself were knocked violently to the floor on our backs. I was stunned for a moment and could scarcely realize what had occurred. When I regained my senses I found myself under a large heap of baggage and shattered woodwork, and two men wearing masks stood close by, one having a Winchester aimed at my head, and the other fellow covering my helper in a similar manner.

"One of the men spoke, telling us not to move or they would blow the brains out of us. That is about all I can remember that was said.

"There was not much killing done. One of the robbers at once proceeded to drill the safe. It took him over half an hour to do the job. During the time that the fellow was working at the safe, there were several of his pals outside at the door of the car also armed with Winchesters.

"Some of them kept their guns pointed at us while others kept shooting occasionally. When the safe was finally bursted open, the robbers at once began rifling it of its contents, and carrying the package of money to the door, where he handed it to his pal.

"No help arrived on the scene until the robbers had made their escape. I could not see whether they had horses or not, but suppose they had.

"The explosion that knocked us down blew the door off the car and would undoubtedly have killed us only for the baggage and cases piled up just inside the door. As it was, we were knocked down very heavily, and I can scarcely hear even now.

"The robbers used dynamite in forcing open the door. They fastened it in some way on a board, and, nailing the board to the door, exploded it. The glass was broken in all the windows of the car, and you can see for yourself what a hole it blew in the floor under the door."

PEACEFUL ARBITRATION.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—Senor Zeballos, in presenting his credentials to the President as the new Argentine Minister, spoke as follows: "But I furthermore bear another letter of credence which, with lively satisfaction I deliver to you in the name of the President of the Argentine Republic. This letter charges me with the mission of presenting to you the arguments of my country in the international boundary dispute which for a century and a half has been maintained, in succession, between Spain and Portugal and between the Republics of Argentina and Brazil, as the heirs of their mother countries in the dominion of the vast territories of South America.

"These two republics furnish a high example of good sense and reciprocal friendship in submitting to your wise judgment the settlement of their vexatious differences, thus protecting in the name of humanity and civilization the manifold social interests which demand the preservation of peace between nations."

President Cleveland in his reply said: "The submission to the President of the United States of the dispute so long pending between your country and her great northern neighbor, Brazil, while a proof of gratifying confidence, is also a convincing demonstration of the advance of modern sentiment in favor of peaceful and honorable arbitration for the settlement of a class of international differences heretofore too often submitted to the cruel and disastrous tribunal of arms."

DIPLOMATIC NEGLECT.

No Arrangement to Extradite Deserters from Men of War.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—A curious fact has developed in connection with the arrest in New York, at the request of the Navy Department, on the arrival of the American line steamship Berlin, of American sailors charged with desertion from the United States cruiser Chicago in England, but the State Department ascertained that while the extradition laws included deserters from merchant vessels, it did not avail in the case of deserters from men of war and the Navy Department was compelled to keep the men under surreptitious surveillance in the hope that they would return to America. The inquiry of the State Department into the extradition laws in connection with deserters, developed the fact that the feeling over one of the causes of the war of 1812, the seizure of American seamen for service in the British Navy, had served to prevent until this day, a diplomatic arrangement between Great Britain and the United States for the mutual apprehension and extradition of sailors from the navy of one country who deserted in the possessions of the other country.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sep. 13.—Collector of Internal Revenue John I. Hutchison with deputy Parmalee of New London and Deputy United States Marshal Barrows of Norwich went to West Ashford yesterday and seized the distillery of D. W. Surtleff for irregularities, falsifying returns, making illicit brandy, etc. On Friday the place was visited by Internal Revenue Agents Brooks and Alexander of New York who seized seven barrels of illicit brandy. In all 19 packages containing 700 gallons of brandy have been found. The proprietor is liable to confiscation of the entire distillery property and a fine equal to double the value of the liquor seized.

It increased over 600 in the 12 months ending May 1 of this year.

TWISTING THE SCREWS

Democratic Senators Getting Tired of Delay.

HOW TO STOP THE SILVER TALK

Scheme to Force the Senate into Continuous Session Until the Silver Question is Decided—The House to be Let Alone in Considering the Federal Election Laws.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—An important conference of Democratic Senators was held yesterday. There were present Senators Gorman, Voorhees, Faulkner, Gray and several of the other leaders of the Senate and friends of the administration measure. The results of that meeting will probably manifest themselves in the Senate to-day. The main point to which the Senators are said to have addressed themselves was the possibility of bringing the silver question to a vote. A canvass was made of the names of those who intended speaking on the subject and this disclosed the fact that the limit of legitimate debate would not be exhausted until this week had ended and possibly not until one or two days of the next had been consumed. It was agreed that after that speechmaking would be equivalent to fillibustering and that every speech made would be for the certain purpose of consuming time and postponing the day for final action. How to prevent this is the question Senators desirous of securing a vote are seeking to answer. Cloture is impossible, for as one of the members of this conference said, cloture had no more chance of passing the Senate than would a measure for the repudiation of the national debt. The mere attempt, it was argued, would be hailed with delight by those opposing repeal because it would give them an opportunity to talk upon something else and thereby consume more time.

The vote will be reached, if reached at all, by the test of physical endurance and with that end in view the test will be made as soon as possible. Early next week a motion will be made—unless it is made sooner to take effect on a day certain—providing for night sessions and these sessions will be made continuous so that a quorum of the Senate will be required every hour of the twenty-four. In this way, coupled with the powerful influence of the business interests of the country now demanding repeal, the repealers think they can force the silver men to come to terms and consent to the taking of the vote. It looks very much as if this programme would be inaugurated next week.

The probable action of the House in taking up the bill for the repeal of the Federal Election laws also came in for its share of this discussion and various opinions as to the effect of such action by the House were expressed. A division of sentiment as to this policy was manifested. Some of the committee thought it extremely unwise to plunge the House into a bitter partisan discussion just at this time when the Republicans of the Senate were working with the Democrats for the repeal of the law for which purpose the President alone had called the Congress together. Others met this line of argument with the statement that Senators were not to be deterred from doing what they conceived to be their duty in this matter, by any agitation that might arise in the other body; still it was suggested by some that final action might at least be postponed even if no further harm came from it, and nothing would be lost by the Democrats from refraining in this matter until after the repeal of the Sherman act had become an accomplished fact. On the other hand there were Senators who urged it was imperative for the good of the party that this bill should be taken up now and disposed of. It was pointed out that the campaign in Virginia had begun and Congress had been in session now for six weeks without a single pledge made to the people having been redeemed. It was important that something should be done that would have a quieting effect in Virginia and it was said that this pledge was one upon which the party was united and there was no reason why the bill should not be passed speedily without an acrimonious debate. The general opinion is that nothing will be put in the way of the House doing as it thinks best in acting upon the bill which will be reported to-morrow.

Talk in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—Senator Mitchell of Oregon occupied the attention of the Senate for three hours in an elaborate argument against the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. After he got through there sprung up between Senators Teller of Colorado and Hawley of Connecticut quite a spirited discussion, into which, finally, Mr. Stewart of Nevada entered. Then, as the hour was late, and Senators were weary of the day's debate, a motion to proceed to executive business was welcomed on all sides, and after a short executive session the Senate adjourned.

House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—Again the House held an utterly unimportant session. Mr. Morse of Massachusetts expressed his regard for newspaper men—that regard having been questioned by a portion of the press.

Mr. Hepburn of Iowa vainly endeavored to secure the passage of a resolution, though he effected its reference, calling for information relative to the transportation of goods between United States ports over Canadian territory, and Mr. Richardson of Tennessee reported, for re-committal only, a bill having for its purpose a reduction of expenditure in the way of public printing and building.

FOR UNCONDITIONAL REPEAL.

The Convention of Boards of Trade Against the Sherman Law.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—The convention of Boards of Trade, after a day of talk on the financial question, adopted the following resolutions by a vote of 185 to 5:

Resolved, That we heartily commend and indorse the President's message, and the decisive action of the House of Representatives in passing an act in accordance with his recommendation; we earnestly urge upon the Senate of the United States the necessity of speedily and unconditionally concurring in said action.

Resolved further, That it is the conviction of the business organizations, represented by this convention, that any considerable delay on the part of the Senate, or any failure by it to repeal the purchasing clause of said law, will plunge the business interests of the country into a more serious crisis than that from which they are now beginning to emerge.

Resolved further, That it is the opinion of this convention that the only action in regard to this matter which it is desirable for Congress to take at this time is the repeal of the purchasing clause of the said law, leaving for future consideration any further effort at financial legislation, so that it may proceed with the caution and deliberation which is demanded by the vital importance of the subject to the welfare of the country, and to this end this convention recommends the appointment of an expert, non-partisan commission to suggest the needed legislation."

LIZZIE HALLIDAY'S LATEST SCHEME

Trying to Fasten Her Crimes Upon Two Unknown Men.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 13.—It is believed by many that Mrs. Halliday is trying to throw the mantle of guilt from her shoulders to that of two men whose identity she will not disclose, but one of whom she says is an Irishman. Each day brings a little more of her story from her lips. She has said that two men came to the house and also a woman. One man endeavored to get her to leave the house with him, but she refused, and he threw her on the bed, hit her over the head and chloroformed her. One of the men had a pocket bag, she said, which may refer to the shoplifters' bag found on herself. She is endeavoring to give her hearers the idea that she is menaced with evil spirits in the shape of men who threatened her with terrible evils if she tells her story. When she eats she appears to see a large woman with a big mouth who is trying to harm her. The fear of her uncanny visitors grows less day by day and she adds more to her story. Sheriff Bucher has no difficulty now in getting her to eat. She cannot be made to touch bread or potatoes. No visitors have been allowed to gaze on the prisoner but on several occasions when she heard the sound of footsteps or voices she cried out "Take them away."

MUST GO BUT NEED NOT

Diplomatic Explanation of the Chinese Question.

THE LAW MUST BE OBEYED

Nobody Has Authorized the Non-Enforcement of the Exclusion Act, But Neither the Law Nor the Chinese Are Expected to Go Until Further Notice.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 13.—Official and semi-official statements as to the enforcement or non-enforcement of the Geary Chinese Exclusion law continue to conflict in many material points. The broad facts which seem established are: That the deportation clause of the Geary law will not be enforced by any general action on the part of the United States until Congress by supplemental legislation directs that this shall be done and provides adequate means to do it.

2. That the United States Government is not disposed to acquiesce in Judge Ross' interpretation of existing laws as authorizing private citizens to take proceedings against Chinese and to call upon the United States to provide means for their deportation.

3. That there is a diplomatic end to the matter and that the question of treaty obligations has been pointedly brought to the attention of the State Department by the new Chinese Minister and his American counsel with some practical results.

The Attorney-General has made the following official contribution to the public history of the case: "The statement that any action has been recently taken by the President or Secretary of State relative to the non-enforcement of the sixth section of the so-called Geary act, is without foundation. All that has been done since the original instructions given concurrently to revenue officers and to marshals and their deputies by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Department of Justice, has been done by this department. It having been held by Judge Ross of California that warrants could issue for violation of said sixth section on the complaint of a private individual, and complaints having been in fact made and warrants issued in various instances, marshals and their deputies have been instructed that the warrants issued by the court must be served, and that any orders for deportations subsequently made in such cases must be put into execution to the extent of any funds available for that purpose. Deportations have not actually been made, however, for this reason. In all cases of warrants issued, as before stated, writs of habeas corpus have been applied for, and being denied appeals have been taken from such denial. In that state of things rule 34 of the United States Supreme Court—especially authorized by statute—forbids any change of custody pending appeal. The language is 'pending an appeal from the final decision of any court or judge declining to grant writ of habeas corpus the custody of the prisoner shall not be disturbed.' The result is that in all cases of the kind referred to the parties in the custody of the marshal, or his deputies, at the times when appeals are taken from orders refusing writs of habeas corpus must continue in such custody pending such appeal and can be deported, if at all, only after judgments upon such appeals in favor of the government."

Another Chinese bill is now in course of preparation by Mr. McCreary, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House, who recognizes the necessity for some prompt action by Congress.

The government has suspended the enforcement of the Geary law by declining to make further arrests. In any city of California 500 Chinamen could be arrested within an hour for being in this country in violation of the Geary law. But United States officers are instructed not to disturb them for the present. In the Los Angeles case, where private citizens made complaint to United States Judge Ross that certain Chinamen were in the United States in violation of the Geary law, Judge Ross held that Chinamen could be arrested and deported on the complaint of a private citizen, and that the United States government must deport such Chinamen found here. In doing this he construed that the law of September, 1888, was in force.

Acting under a decision of the Solicitor of the Treasury, rendered Oct. 16, 1888, the Treasury Department in a circular letter of instruction held that "the Chinese act of Sept. 13, 1888, never went into operation and is of no binding force, for the reason that it is dependent on the ratification of a treaty with China which never was ratified."

Various interpretations have been put on this act by various United States judges sitting in various sections of the country. If the construction of the Treasury be held then it will follow that private citizens cannot force the government to execute a law which it may think it wise for the time to suspend.

THE DAILY PRESS.

A. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Unsettled But Generally Fair Weather; Easterly Shifting to Southerly Winds.

Commenting on the suggestion of The Press that it might be Ruth and Naomi, the Elizabeth Journal queries:—"Would n't Frankie be more appropriate?"

The University of Pennsylvania has decided to offer among the college courses this year one designed to prepare young men for newspaper work. It will be in charge of Prof. Joseph French Johnson, and will cover a period of four years. The best college for learning the newspaper business is a daily printing office and the outside world which centres around it.

The Press staff has been regaling on delicious wedding cake from the Blair-Acheson feast, and can express no happier wish for the young married people than that their companionship may be ever as felicitous as their cake was sweet and substantial, and that their marital skies may ever be as unclouded as the frosting on that cake was dainty and spotless. This may not be a very clear expression of what The Press wishes, but you must n't expect too much of a man who has been reveling in such ecstatic bridal cake.

The death of Oscar Smith was particularly distressing because it rudely broke the circle of a family whose sons had all attained majority with never such an affliction before. The Smith brothers—Franklin, Robert, Oscar and Stanton—were bound together by ties more firmly cemented than is usual even in one family. They were closely associated from childhood to manhood in all their deeds. To the three others, and to the devoted parents and sister, the loss of the one is a most heartrending and crushing blow, but it is also a personal grief to a host of people in this and other cities who knew the departed spirit and loved him for his manly qualities and endearing attributes.

DOWN WITH THE RACE-TRACKS!

The Press would again urge the county committees of both parties in the six counties where racetracks are situated to be careful about their nominations for Sheriff this year, for it is part of the plan of the race-track managers to place in that office men previously committed to the interests of the race-tracks. This will insure the selection of the right kind of Grand Jurors, such as they have been having in Camden and Hudson for the protection of the Gloucester and Guttenburg race-tracks.

In eighteen out of the 21 counties there will be county elections, and the important office of Sheriff and Clerk will be the paramount consideration in the November election. Sheriffs will be elected in every race-track county but Bergen, where Sheriff Bogert, who has been protecting the pool-rooms at Fort Lee, will have until 1895 to serve in the same patriotic manner that has already given him a reputation.

Union county has two tracks, and the fact that Linden was recently licensed against the protest of the reputable citizens of the county, and because, too, it is the cradle of the Citizens' League movement, and has within the borders of its county more Citizens' League organizations than any other, makes the race-track men particularly anxious to be protected by the drawing of Grand Jurors, and the fight will be a desperate one when time comes to make a nomination.

The lovers of good government, and the foes of the race-track evil, have their duty to perform in this matter, which is to turn out to their primaries and put none but anti-race-track delegates on guard. It is not a time for partisan consideration. The purity of the home, the protection of the youth, is paramount. Let Democrats and Republicans alike strive for the nomination of men pledged to fight this monstrous evil.

LUXURY FOR PRISONERS.

Fanwood's Hard Cases to Have Snug Quarters of Their Own, and Escape the Indignity of Being Brought to Plainfield's Hovel of a Jail.

Residents of Fanwood are awake to the fact that a local lock-up is desirable, and have requested the magistrate to investigate the matter and report to the Town Committee at its next meeting as to possible location and cost of construction of a suitable cell or cells for the retention of prisoners. Accordingly, Judge Moore has been in consultation with Overseer of the Poor Hezekiah Hand, and made a complete tour of the township yesterday. He also conferred with the police authorities of New York city as to the best-made cells, and his report will unquestionably be promptly acted on, as the Fanwood township authorities are determined to preserve order at any cost, and are backed by the taxpayers to a man.

Their Bed Found Burning.

A fire occured at the house of Andrew Jennings, 515 Richmond street, last night. One of the Jennings boys preparatory to studying in his bedroom, lighted a lamp and went down stairs. Shortly afterward, he returned to the room, and found the bedclothes ablaze. The cry of fire was raised, and Mrs. Jennings, who was down stairs, ran with rare presence of mind to bring a pail of water.

It fell to the lot of Policeman John Flynn, however, to extinguish the fire. He happened to be passing when the cry was given, and, hastening into the house and up the stairs, he seized the burning bedclothes, regardless of consequences to himself, and flung them through the window into the street. The fire department was not called out; and no damage was done except to bedclothing and nerves.

DEATH OF JOEL CODINGTON.

A Good Man, Whose Eccentricities Made Him Well Known on The Streets, is Gone—Left His Money To Churches and Worthy People.

Joel Codington died early yesterday morning after a three days attack of hiccoughs and stomach trouble. The deceased was a distant relative of ex-Judge W. R. Codington, who will be his executor. Mr. Codington boarded for many years, until his death, with the family of Samuel Voorhees, at Warrenville. He was a familiar figure on the streets of Plainfield, being known to all because of his habit of going about continually in his shirt sleeves and standing in the sun, with an umbrella in his hand. The deceased was a bachelor and owned considerable property in and about Plainfield, most of which he has bequeathed to churches and to worthy people. The funeral will take place tomorrow; and the burial will be in the Methodist Episcopal cemetery, this city.

THEY'VE CAUGHT HIM.

Gus VanAngleman, One of Marshal Pangborn's Assailants, Is Held by the New Brunswick Police.

Gus VanAngleman, colored, Saturday night resisted Marshal Pangborn and with Aleck Williams assaulted the policeman and escaped. Yesterday the police received a message from New Brunswick saying that VanAngleman is held under arrest in that city. Chief of Police Grant and Marshal Pangborn will go to New Brunswick after Van Angleman.

The Son Helps the Father.

In the case of Fosher against Seguine, yesterday, a jury decided the ownership of certain property which had been seized by Constable Mattox to satisfy a judgment held by Fosher against Seguine. Andrew Seguine, Jr., claimed the ownership of the goods.

The trial was held at 2, before Justice Nash. The evidence for the defense was overwhelming; and after short deliberation the jury, which consisted of Charles Bock, foreman, George Rockafellow, Jr., Dr. Frank C. Herbert, W. H. Clum, Garrett Smith and Michael Coyne, brought in the verdict that the property in question belonged to Andrew Seguine, Jr., instead of to his father.

Lawyer George DeMeza appeared for the prosecution and Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman for the defense.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Everyone is talking about Collier's new sign.

—The W. C. T. U. will hold its monthly business meeting at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

—Timothy McCarthy had to shoot his horse that fell into a hole and injured itself.

—Terry is satisfying lovers of oysters, with the luscious quality of the bivalves he furnishes from 140 North avenue.

—The case of Vail against the C. R. R. of N. J., in which a struck jury was selected Monday, will have a hearing in Elizabeth the first week in October.

—George Tobin had an ugly fall from his wheel at the corner of North and Park avenues, this afternoon, and liberally scraped the mud off the roadway with his person.

—Two young women, evidently from the country, furnished amusement for a few spectators this morning, on Front street, as they were being weighed on a drop-a-penny-in-the-slot machine.

—Crack-shot Charles Smith yesterday won first money in the great tournament in Allentown, on the "doubles". He broke nine shells out of five pair. There were 38 entries. This is great shooting.

—Those passing Leal's school on Front street, this morning, were much entertained by a colored woman, who was cleaning the school and singing appropriate songs as accompaniment.

—Rumors that U. B. Crane is in financial difficulties are founded on the fact that one of his heaviest creditors, a Hebrew firm of whom he bought heavily on the promise that they would renew his notes, refuses to grant him the extension expected. He hopes to weather the gale, and as his business dealings have always been perfectly honorable and as his other creditors are disposed to be extremely kind and lenient, his friends should rally to his support.

Suit Against Pastor Sagebeer.

Much interest is shown in Flemington in the slander suit brought by Dr. W. W. Hawk, a practising dentist, against the Rev. J. E. Sagebeer, pastor of the First Baptist church of that place, which begins there today before Justice Abbett. It will be remembered that the Rev. Mr. Sagebeer is the minister who denounced the dentists and several other young men for alleged drinking and singing hymns in a music store during revival services there last fall.

Dr. Hawk claims the publicity given the matter has ruined his business and accordingly brings suit to regain his reputation.

Instrumental Music Clubs.

The enterprise of F. M. Hulett in organizing banjo, guitar and mandolin clubs under the direction of a competent instructor, is greatly to be commended, inasmuch as Plainfield has long needed facilities for such instruction as these clubs will afford.

The general public, also, will await with interest the concerts to be given later in the season by the clubs. There is no reason why Mr. Hulett's venture should not result most happily and accomplish a genuine service to the cause of good music in Plainfield.

BLAIR—ACHESON.

A Pretty Home Wedding—Congratulations and Presents from a Host of Friends—Bride and Groom Depart After The Wedding Supper.

A pretty wedding took place last evening at 8, when Adam Craig Blair and Miss Martha Acheson were joined in marriage by the Rev. Charles E. Herring at the bride's home, 406 East Fifth street.

Harry McDonald, of Plainfield, was best man; and Miss Clara Nelson, of Philadelphia, was bridesmaid. The bride was given away by her father, Samuel J. Acheson. She was dressed in white brocade silk, trimmed with duchess lace.

The bridesmaid carried in her hand a large bunch of France roses.

The parlors were prettily decorated with clusters of bridal roses and golden-rod; and from the ceilings hung heavy floral festoons.

After the ceremony, a wedding supper was given, and the large company made merry until 10, when the bride and groom left for their wedding trip through New York State. The presents were handsome and numerous, many of them having been sent by friends and relatives who could not be present.

One of the bride's presents was a diamond brooch, the gift of the groom.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Acheson, father and mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Blair, father and mother of the groom; Samuel Acheson, Jr., Millard Acheson, Joseph Acheson, brothers of the bride; James Blair, Thomas D. Blair, Miss Bessie Blair and Miss M. Agnes Blair, brothers and sisters of the groom; Miss Ella Acheson, sister of the bride, Miss Pansy Jean Herring, Robert A. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Boice, James Craig, Miss Lottie Craig, Miss Nellie F. Doud; J. Hazelwood Craig, Miss Emma Craig and Miss Ethel Boice, of Dunellen; and Mrs. Grace Perry, Miss Maggie Acheson and Miss Blanche Keenan, of Philadelphia.

The groom was formerly employed in the Plainfield post-office, and is now in the livery business.

After their return to Plainfield next week, Mr. and Mrs. Blair will live at the home of the bride's parents, on East Fifth street.

SUN-LIGHT and FRESH AIR are THE BEST DISINFECTANTS, of course; but you can't apply them in every situation. What next? Well, that depends. For damp cellars use Quicklime, plenty of it. For vaults and cesspools use COPPERAS; cheap stuff; we sell it by the pound or hundred-weight—instructions thrown in. For kitchen sinks, for water-closets, for house plumbing, for the sick room, to deodorize discharges, to purify the air and to prevent contagion, use REYNOLDS'S ODORLESS DISINFECTANT. Injured in a Collision.

In the Troy Press of Sept. 12 appeared the following concerning Mr. Jaensen who was for many years in the draughting department at Pond's and who has many friends here:

A BICYCLER RUN DOWN.

Carl Jaensen, Nelson Young and William Nichols, of the West Troy Cycle Club, were riding last evening on the Albany road when Jaensen was struck by a vehicle. He was thrown to the ground and received a severe cut on the head and also above his right knee. The index finger of his right hand was caught between the brake and the handle bar of the bicycle and part of the member closely severed. Dr. M. J. Zeh dressed the injuries. There were two men in the carriage which struck Jaensen's wheel and they were driving rapidly toward Albany, where it is believed they live. The wheelmen were on the extreme right of the road and had lamps burning brightly. The men in the carriage did not stop to inquire into the accident. The West Troy police telephoned the authorities at Albany to apprehend the party. Jaensen is a draughtsman at the Watervliet arsenal.

INSIDE FACTS OF THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Dr. Barnes Tells How Jersey Cider Comes Back from France to Be Sold as Cognac Brandy.

Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, No. 79, held a public meeting last evening in their rooms on Front street. A good-sized audience was present, though the gentler sex were in the majority.

William B. Ayers occupied the chair, and seated beside him was Mrs. Stratton.

The meeting was opened by singing the ode of the society. The Rev. Dr. C. B. Barnes made a prayer.

Mr. Ayers made a few remarks explaining the objects of the society and what it was doing. He then introduced Miss A. V. Scribner, who recited a very touching story where drink had played its destructive part. Miss Try Mattox then rendered with telling effect, "Jesus Lover of My Soul".

The Rev. Dr. C. B. Barnes was announced, and gave an excellent temperance address. At times he became exceedingly humorous. In part he said:

"When I was asked to deliver an address I thought it was to be before the Sons of Temperance, but this gathering looks more like the Daughters of Temperance, with a few sons thrown in.

"I hardly know what to talk about, but if you should tell me what to say there would be no need of my saying it, as you would know yourself.

"At the present time we are in the presence of the greatest foe to humanity. I am thoroughly opposed to the traffic in all forms. In the last half century it has put on a new phase. I can remember that when I was a boy my father had decanters standing on the sideboard, and nothing was thought of it. Prominent Methodist officials met at our house, and these decanters would be taken from their place and used. Nowadays we doubt a man's honesty as to his profession of Christianity if he drinks. I once heard of a place where a church and a tavern were situated near one another, and the minister and members of the church would visit the tavern before services. The result was, sometimes, most ridiculous. Nowadays, if a member of the Methodist church signs a liquor license he is liable to be disciplined.

"The old-fashioned tavern used to be quite the thing; if cold, a man would stop to get something to warm him up; when warm, he would stop to get something to cool him off.

"In the olden times it was the object to give licenses to good moral men for their taverns. Now it's different. Why don't they get Methodist ministers to run them? There is a good basement in our church, and I might run one there, and we could pray over our success. Would that be right?

"No: it is the wicked class that get the license. They are profligates in a moral sense.

"Jersey cider is put in barrels, and sent to France, where foreign stamps are put on and a name burned in the barrels, and the barrels and cider are then sent back to this country, where the stuff is passed off as cognac brandy. There is not one saloon-keeper out of a thousand that would not break the law in some particular case. You expect a saloon-keeper to be a law-breaker just as much as you expect a minister to uphold the law.

"We are all partners in the traffic, by permitting it to exist, and by legalizing it; and it is the duty of everyone to rid the country of this curse."

At the close of the address, Miss Emma Angleman gave an instrumental solo, and Miss Bertie Clum a recitation, and remarks were made by Brethren Scribner and Ayers. The closing ode was sung, and the meeting came to a close.

The Division will hold a picnic in the near future.

GEORGE BECOMES A FIREMAN.

But He Hasn't Learned the Pointers that Alert's Boys Can Give Him.

George has n't been a fireman long, but nevertheless when he hears the alarm at the dead hour of night he leaps from bed as though shot out by a catapult and rushes forth to conquer. Thus, at a late fire, notwithstanding the protestation of his better half against his venturing forth in the storm, he began to don his clothing. After getting into his trousers he found that there was an unusual amount of goods to tuck away in the roomy part of them, but kept on until everything was stowed away. He went to the fire and did good service under difficulties, as it was a great strain on the trousers to bend forward, and his right leg was cold and so was his left foot. When he got home he found that in dressing he had got only one leg encased in his drawers, the other drawers-leg having slipped his grasp and fallen out over the waistband of his trousers. It was this that he had tucked away, and he had also forgotten to put on one sock. It had tried to go with him, and was found on the front stoop the next morning. George has learned that a fireman must arrange his trousers so that he can jump right into them and that his socks must be stowed away one in each boot or shoe.

Courtesy to All, at Hunting's Show.

Hunting's great show will be in town to-morrow. Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m., with doors open at 1 and 7 to give a chance to see the animals. The Scranton Truth says:

Hunting's circus and menagerie keeps up its record and pleased packed houses, both afternoon and night yesterday. Mr. Hunting's show is much bigger and better than ever, and is growing so every year and his show is a favorite here, and he can look for packed tents whenever he comes here. A particularly pleasing feature of Mr. Hunting's shows is the entire absence of all followers and gamblers, and ladies and children unescorted are always accorded courteous treatment at his show.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

"BOYS, WHAT'S TRUMPS?"

True Tale of a Blacksmith Who Suffers from Dreadful Hard Times.

Not a thousand miles from Scotch Plains is a blacksmith shop with an occasional attendant in charge. For convenience, we will call the blacksmith Bob.

A day or two ago, just after the noon hour, our friend, the smith, was standing at the bar of a local hostelry engaged in a stand-up game of euchre with a produce dealer by name MacDonald and two others. Suddenly in walked a neighbor and called out to Bob, saying he wanted some hooks fixed on his wagon. "Will do it at once"—responded Bob.—"Boys, what's trumps?"

Within ten minutes a noted liveryman rushed in, and, spotting Bob, said he wanted his mules shod, and shod quickly. "Will do it at once"—responded Bob.—"Boys, what's trumps?"

The game proceeded, when without warning in dashed Billy Stanbery, with another order for the genial Bob. "Will do it at once"—responded Bob.—"Boys, what's trumps?"

About sunset, the game was at last ended; and Bob with a pitiful expression on his countenance turned to the landlord, saying:

"Billy, times are awful bad. I can get no work, so put my games down on the old score."

And the fire burned low in the forge.

THE MORALIST.

All Hearts Captivated by "Liberty Hall".

"Liberty Hall", the leading comedy success of the opening season in New York city, is in its second month at the Empire Theatre. It has caught the popular and fashionable fancy, and is filling the beautiful new theatre at every performance. It is the second play that has been produced at the Empire, and, following the long run of "The Girl I Left Behind Me" at this house, it would seem to have a hard task to duplicate the success which that play made, but "Liberty Hall" is a really beautiful piece of work, with a love story so simple and natural that it finds no difficulty in winning friends and capturing hearts, and it is so enthusiastically talked about and so lavishly praised that it gives promise of being every bit as popular and successful as "The Girl I Left Behind Me" was. Manager Charles Frohman believes that it will prove to be one of the best plays in his repertory. "Liberty Hall" has a delightful comedy element that will be gratefully accepted after the hurly-burly and horse play of farce that has pervaded the stage for the past few seasons. Its love story, so different from that with which theatre-goers have been familiarized, is genuinely human, goes right to the heart, and holds one charmed to the very end. Humor and pathos are beautifully blended in its scenes, and the characters have a realistic Dickens-like flavor that makes them seem as real as ourselves. The intense hold which "Liberty Hall" has taken upon the people of New York is shown by the large audiences it has drawn to the fashionable Empire Theatre all through a season when theatre-goers are supposed to be still out of town at the summer resorts. On the last Wednesday of this month special Wednesday matinees will begin at the Empire.

The Drinks Were on Him.

The large rock used in "A Flag of Truce", which will delight Music Hall patrons Saturday night, is the cause of considerable comment as to weight and material.

A reporter on a New York paper was positive it was made of pasteboard, so that even if it did fall on the actor who is placed beneath it, it would not injure him. Mr. Sheldon, manager of the theatre, invited the knight of the quill back of the stage, and placed a ten-dollar bill on the rock, saying "Lift the rock, and the bill is yours."

The reporter was not to be bluffed, and, as the saying goes, thought he had a "cinch". He made the attempt and shortly afterwards a neighboring "soda-water" cash register rang up one dollar and sixty cents and the reporter paid it.

NEW JERSEY AT THE FAIR.

State Officials Planning to Group the Exhibits on Their Native Soil.

The several department exhibits of New Jersey now at the Chicago Exposition have been so generously praised that the heads of the departments are at sea to know what they will do with these exhibits when they are brought back to Trenton. The school, geological, agricultural and horticultural displays are sufficient in themselves to fill a good-sized building.

State Geologist Smock and Dr. A. B. Poland and Franklin Dye, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, have had their heads together recently, and are discussing the possibilities of getting an appropriation from the Legislature next year sufficient to erect a building in which all these exhibits can have a permanent place. There is a fair-sized geological museum on the top floor of the Statehouse at the present time, and nearly all of the available space is taken by the collection secured for the New Orleans Expoeition, augmented at various periods by new specimens. A custodian of the museum has been appointed and is now in charge. He is Samuel Semple, of Burlington, who is Secretary to the State Geological Survey.

When the geological exhibit from the exposition is brought back it will crowd every part of this room. The school exhibit would more than fill this room should it be vacant, while the State Board of Agriculture have some permanent features in their display, such as grasses, cereals, specimens of wood and soil, that they would like to have placed somewhere where the citizens of the State could inspect them.

The matter has been brought to the attention of Gov. Werts, and while he made no definite expression as to what will be done, he is of the opinion that something should be done, so that all these valuable articles should be permanently preserved.

It has been suggested that a large room could be erected over the Supreme Court and Chancery chambers in which to place the school exhibit, but this would leave the agricultural display out in the cold. Superintendent Ford thinks it would be as cheap to erect behind the Senate Chamber, and extending to the water-power bank, a regular museum building, properly arranged for such purposes. Then all the curios collected from time to time by the State could be gathered together and classified and placed in cases for convenient inspection.

Gen. Stryker is also interested in the scheme, because he has in his keeping a large number of battle-flags carried by the New Jersey regiments during the war. These he is obliged to keep in his vault, along with a large miscellaneous collection of books and pamphlets, and almost out of sight, so that this valuable collection is rarely seen by anyone visiting the Statehouse.

There are also at the State Arsenal many old cannons and other relics of the early wars, which could be arranged with the flags and make quite a creditable display. It is more than likely that the present agitation will result in the Governor's recommending to the next Legislature an appropriation for a museum building, and for the time being the school, agricultural, geological and horticultural exhibits will have to be stored away either in the cellar of the Statehouse or in the storage room of the State Arsenal.

LATEST ATTRACTIONS AT HULETT'S.

This Flourishing Music House to Become More Popular Than Ever.

F. M. Hulett, Plainfield's well-known music dealer, in preparing for fall trade has made important changes and improvements in his store, 324 West Front street, and now has an establishment that should be a source of pride to him and to the city.

The west window of the store is furnished to represent a parlor scene. The floor of the window is carpeted in fawn color; an upright oak piano draped with silk stands in one corner, and near it a piano lamp and a music stand. A piano stool is pushed carelessly to one side as if left so by the pianist. On a silver stand nearby some beautiful palms are growing. The effect here is most attractive and homelike.

The east window is given up to photographs of well-known musicians, and the latest sheet music.

As one enters the store the office of Mr. Hulett is on the left, and on the right hand opposite the office is ranged a large stock of minor musical instruments, including banjo, guitars and violins. Beyond this department and taking up the main part of the store, is the large stock of upright pianos, of all qualities and finishes, nicely arranged and ornamented with drapings and bric-a-brac. Instruments are here to suit every taste and purse.

Beyond the piano department at the back of the store, is a well equipped repair shop. Mr. Hulett now has an experienced tuner always at the store, so that tuning can hereafter be done without delay.

The whole appearance of the store is most pleasing to the eye, and is an evidence of the proprietor's enterprise in giving Plainfield a high-class music store. Mr. Hulett informs The Press that a women's banjo, mandolin and guitar club; and a men's banjo and guitar club will be organized Sept. 20, both under the direction of Prof. Armstrong, of the New York Conservatory of Music. Later in the season concerts will be given by these clubs.

The studio and dancing school in the Manning building, on Front street opposite Mr. Hulett's store, will reopen Oct. 1. Fancy dancing will be taught at the school this winter.

ANNOYING THE DUKE.

Questions About the Performance of His Duties in the Navy.

LONDON, Sep. 13.—Several questions were asked in the House of Commons yesterday in regard to the time spent by the Duke of Edinburgh, now the reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg of Gotha, in performing the duties of his recent office of Naval Commander-in-Chief at Devonport.

Responding to the questioners the Right Hon. Sir U. Kay-Shuttleworth, Secretary of the Admiralty, declined to admit, as some of the questions implied, that the Duke, who was at that time an Admiral of the British navy, had been absent on leave ten months out of the thirty-four months he had had command at Devonport. He concluded by declaring that the Duke had been subject to the usual regulations embodied in the rules of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

It may be well to state that it was but a short time ago that the Duke of Edinburgh was promoted to be an Admiral of the Fleet, and his position at Devonport was given to Admiral Sir Algernon Lyons. A short time after the Duke's accession to the throne of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha he resigned from the British navy, retaining only the honorary title of Admiral of the Fleet.

CHARLES DE LESSEPS FREE.

Released From Prison Because His Sentence Was Illegal.

PARIS, Sep. 13.—Charles de Lesseps, who was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for complicity in the Panama Canal scandal, was released from prison yesterday.

The sentence of five years' imprisonment was set aside on appeal to the Court of Cassation, which decided that the prosecution had not been inaugurated within the time set by law.

Subsequent to the above sentence, however, a sentence of one year's imprisonment was passed upon M. Charles de Lesseps on his conviction of having corrupted ex-Minister of Public Works Baihaut to support the Panama Lottery Bonds bill.

The court ordered that his sentence should run concurrently with the preceding one. The last sentence prevented his release when the Court of Cassation decided that the five years' sentence was illegal. He had served about six months of the sentence when the prison officials were ordered to release him. Most of his time was spent in the prison hospital.

STEAMSHIP COMPETITION.

American Line Equalizes Rates to All United Kingdom Ports.

LONDON, Sep. 13.—The American steamship line, whose boats began docking at Southampton instead of Liverpool some months ago, will henceforth book passengers from any town in the United Kingdom to Southampton for the fare charged from the same town to Liverpool or Queenstown. This step has been taken to meet the steerage competition of the British steamships which sail from Liverpool. The American line has been heavily handicapped in its efforts to secure emigrant traffic on account of the greater expense of a journey to Southampton from Ireland, Scotland and the north of England.

HOME RULE.

The Question of Mending or Ending the House of Lords.

LONDON, Sep. 13.—The National Liberal Federation has issued a circular in connection with the rejection of the Home Rule bill by the House of Lords in which it says that the question of mending or ending the House of Lords may displace for a while in the House of Commons all other subjects of reform. The question, the circular adds, needs unflinching treatment.

He had the janitor go security for fine furniture, engaged clerks and gave large orders on a number of stationery houses. He has fled, leaving numerous creditors.

BOARD WALKS AND TALL WEEDS.

Both Distressing Features of the Landscape Over the Brook.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Will you allow me, through the columns of your journal, to call the attention of the Committee on Streets and Sidewalks in the borough to the bad condition of certain of the board walks on Somerset street.

There are many places where the boards have entirely disappeared, so that, at night, a foot passenger tumbles into holes and there is real danger of broken limbs. If one of the Committee would walk down Somerset street its entire length, and return on the other side, he could make some interesting notes, in his note-book on this subject.

Also to the fact that along many of the lots there are very high weeds growing, chiefly rag-weeds, which are unsightly, and contrary to the law of the State which requires them to be cut by the owners.

The Fishing Party.

Wunst we went a-fishin—me
An my Pa an Ma—all three;
When they was a picnic, way
Out to Hanch's woods, one day.

An there was a crick out there,
Where the fishes is, an where
Little boys 't ain't big an strong
Better have their folks along.

My Pa he let fished and fished!
An my Ma she said she wished
Me an her was home, and Pa
Said he wished so worse'n Ma.

Pa said ef you talk, er say
Anythin, er sneeze, er play,
Hain't no fish, alive or dead,
Ever go to bite, he said.

Purt' nigh dark in town when we Got back home, and Ma, says she,
Now she'll have a fish fer shore!
An she buyed one at the store.

Nen, at supper, Pa he won't
Eat no fish, an says he don't Like 'em, an he pounded me
When I choked! Ma, didn't he?
—James Whitcomb Riley.

God Counts by Souls.

Who shall judge a man from manners?
Who shall know him by his dress?
Paupers may be fit for princes,
Princes fit for something less.
Crumpled shirt and dirty jacket
May beclothe the golden ore
Of the deepest thought and feeling—
Satin vests could do no more.
There are springs of crystal nectar
Ever welling out of stone;
There are purple buds and golden
Hidden, crushed and overgrown.
God, who counts by souls, not dresses,
Loves and prospers you and me,
While he values thrones the highest
But as pebbles in the sea.

Man upraised above his fellows
Oft forgets his fellows them.
Masters, rulers, lords, remember
That your meanest hinds are men—
Men by honor, men by feeling,
Men by thoughts and men by fame,
Claiming equal rights the sunshine
In a man's ennobling name.
There are farm embroidered oceans,
There are little weed clad hills,
There are feeble inch high saplings,
There are cedars on the hills!
God, who counts by souls, not stations,
Loves and prospers you and me,
For to him all famed distinctions
Are as pebbles in the sea.

Toiling hands alone are builders
Of a nation's wealth and fame.
Titled laziness is pensioned,
Fed and fattened on the same,
By the sweat of others' foreheads,
Living only to rejoice,
While the poor man's outraged freedom
Vainly lifteth up his voice.
Truth and justice are eternal,
Born with loveliness and light;
Secret wrongs shall never prosper
While there is a sunny right.
God, whose world-heard voice is singing
Boundless love to you and me,
Sinks opposition with its titles
As the pebbles in the sea.

A Little Feller's Sundays.

Say, Sunday's lonesome fur a little feller,
With pop and mam a-readin all the while,
An never sayin anything to cheer ye,
An lookin 's if they don't know how to smile.
With hook an line a-hangin in the woodshed,
An lots o' 'orms down by the outside cellar,
An Brown's creek just over by the milldam—
Say, Sunday's lonesome fur a little feller.

But Sunday's never lonesome fur a little feller
When he is stayin down to Uncle Ora's.
He took his book onct right out in the orchard
An told us little chaps just lots o' stories,
All truly true, that happened onct fur honest,
An one 'bout lions in a sort o' cellar,
An how some angels came an shut their mouths up,
An how they never teched that Dan'l feller.

An Sunday's pleasant down to Aunt Marilda's.
She lets us take some books that some one gin her,
An takes us down to Sunday school 't the schoolhouse.
An sometimes she has nice shortcake fur dinner.
An onct she had a puddin full o' raisins,
An onct a frosted cake all white an yeller.
I think, when I stay down to Aunt Marilda's,
That Sunday's pleasant fur a little feller.
—Michigan Christian Advocate.

Limitation.

How can we tell
That the eyes which give back to us smile for our smile
Often hide in their depths deepest anguish the while,
That the lips whence gay laughter so merrily flows
Would be white did they dare let the world know their woes—
How can we tell?

How can we see
That the face which is turning so coldly aside
Bears the look of an infinite love it must hide?
That the passionless air, which seems cold as the stars,
May conceal a strong passion that beats 'gainst its bars—
How can we see?

How can we know
That the lives we deem selfish and worldly alone
Only hide breaking hearts that are making no moan,
That what in our blindness we judge as unmeet
The Lord of the harvest will garner as wheat—
How can we know?
—Bertha Kopple.

What Might Be Done.

What might be done if men were wise—
What glorious deeds, my suffering brother,
Would they unite
In love and right
And cease their scorn of one another.

Oppression's heart might be imbued
With kindling drops of loving kindness,
And knowledge pour
From shore to shore
Light on the eyes of mental blindness.

All slavery, warfare, lies and wrongs,
All vice and crime might die together,
And wine and corn
To each man born
Be free as warmth in summer weather.

The meanest wretch that ever trod,
The deepest sunk in guilt and sorrow,
Might stand erect
In self respect
And share the teeming world tomorrow.

What might be done? This might be done,
And more than this, my suffering brother—
More than the tongue
E'er said or sung,
If men were wise and loved each other.
—Charles Mackay.

A Wise Man.

There is a man in our town,
Who is so wondrous wise,
He knows he cannot sing at all,
And so he never tries.

He also knows he has no wit,
Like many funny folks,
And so he never bothers me
By getting off his jokes.

And when he has no word to say,
He's wise enough, though young,
To sit about while others talk
And hold his little tongue.
—John Kendrick Bangs.

Distrust that man who tells you to distrust.
He takes the measure of his own small soul
And thinks the world no larger.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A PHILOSOPHER.

A Case Where Words Were Entirely Out of Place.

Robert Grant, in Scribner's Magazine, defines by an incident what he calls a "thoroughgoing, square trotting philosopher." This is his illustration, necessarily shortened. Possibly lovers of fishing will agree that not even the most unmerciful curtailing could deprive it of force:

I remember taking little Fred, my eldest son, to skate with me one winter's afternoon on a suburban pond. He did famously for a tyro, but we both wearied at last of his everlasting strife to maintain the perpendicular, and I was conscious of a rush of joy when he became completely absorbed in watching a man who was fishing for pickerel through a hole in the ice.

"Caught anything?" asked he.

"Nop."

"Had a bite?"

"Nop."

"How long you been fishing?"

"An hour."

As I glided away light heartedly on the delicious curves of the outer edge, I reflected that he was evidently a persevering pot hunter, who would not be easily discouraged, and that I could count upon his engrossing the attention of my offspring for a considerable period.

Accordingly I was surprised some five minutes later to observe the fisherman shambling across the pond toward the shore. A moment afterward I learned what had happened.

The horny handed pot hunter, having presently pulled a solitary pickerel out upon the ice and freed it from his hook, turned aside to cut another piece of bait, whereupon my hopeful picked up the fish and popped it back into its native element without so much as a syllable of commentary, and thereupon he of the horny hand, having realized the situation in its terrible entirety, pulled up his line, shoveled back the particles of ice into the hole and betook himself upon his shambling way without a word.

Not a word, mark you. The only alternative was child murder or silence, and my pot hunter chose the simplest form of the dilemma.

"I thought the fish would like it," said little Fred, when interrogated upon the subject.

Qualified.

It is rare tact that "gets all the best words" after a rebuff. Politicians need it. Colonel Stone of Tennessee on one occasion got the last word at least. When he was running for governor, he met for the first time a delegate from one of the rural counties to the state convention. The colonel said:

"I am glad to meet you. I have known your father for many years, but never had the pleasure of your acquaintance. I see, however, that the son is better looking than the father."

"Look here, colonel," said the delegate, "you need not be flattering me up, for I am out and out for Barksdale for governor, although the old man is for you."

"Why, I simply find you better looking than your father, but I did not say you had half as much sense as he has," returned the colonel.

Those standing around roared with laughter, in which the delegate good humoredly joined.—Youth's Companion.

"My Sick Sisters,

"Let me tell you something.

"I have no motive other than to do you good.

"For years I have been almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms: shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, faintness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the U. S., but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors.

OPEN WAR IN BRAZIL

Rebel Ships Begin to Bombard the Forts.

THE LARGEST GARRISON DESERTS

Cannons to be Next Turned on Rio—The City Desolate—Business Suspended and Inhabitants Leaving—Telegraph Communication Cut Off.

LONDON, Sep. 14.—The Daily News has the following from Rio Janeiro: "The attack of the rebel fleet on the forts began at 9 o'clock. The garrison of the largest and strongest fort has declared for the rebels. The bombardment of the town begins at 11 o'clock. The town has a desolate appearance. The people who are compelled to remain are generally excited. All business is at a standstill. The air is full of alarming rumors."

No Telegraphic Communication.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—Notwithstanding statements from cable companies, that Government messages to and from Brazil pass without interference via Galveston, the state department has received no information whatever for two days from Minister Thompson, who is supposed to be at Rio. According to international agreement official messages to foreign governments from their representatives in a country must be sent without subjection to censorship, and because of this agreement and from the fact that official messages from Brazil have been received by diplomatic officers of ha country in European capitals, the non-receipt of another message from Mr. Thompson has created some surprise at the state department. The navy department has been quite as unfortunate in this respect, as the diplomatic branch of the government, but this is not so strange for the department has, no knowledge that any of its ships are in Brazilian ports.

The Navy Department has decided to leave the United States steamer Yantic, now in the Rio de la Plata "severely alone," to quote a naval officer on duty in Washington. There was some thought of sending her to Rio de Janeiro, but this has been abandoned, and the government will depend for protection of American interests in Brazil on the cruisers Detroit and Newark, the former of which will probably sail from the Norfolk navy yard today, and the cruiser Charleston if she can be reached. The Charleston is believed to be near Montevideo, where orders for her to remain have been sent.

MRS. HALLIDAY SEES ANGELS.

Theory That She May be a Religious Fanatic.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 14.—"I see three angels above me," exclaimed Mrs. Halliday when she was visited in her cell in the jail and then she said: "The two women are nearest." Later she spoke again of the two saying, "the women who visited the house and whom the old man wanted was the wife of the Irishman."

She was visited by Mr. Kinney, clerk at the Hotel Rockwell, to whom she talked in a rambling way of religious matters, endeavoring to tell him something about the Episcopal church, and claiming that she followed the teachings of that faith. These assertions she repeated several times and it may yet develop that the prisoner is a religious fanatic. A report has been received here that a band of gypsies are traveling toward Monticello, but nothing has yet been seen of them.

Several times within the past week Mrs. Halliday has been detected gazing from her cell window in a perfectly sane way. It was discovered that she had stuffed her pillow in front of the bars of her window insuring her from sudden detection.

The prisoner ate heartily yesterday. When she had finished her supper she said: "Oh, Nancy; I want to tell you when I came from Ireland to this country. Barney stole me away and took me a long ways where there were lots of terrible people." She will probably soon tell who Barney is. She appears to be cheerful.

EMMA GOLDMAN'S CASE.

An Unknown Friend Engages an Attorney for Her.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—Emma Goldman, who was arrested in Philadelphia for having made speeches in this city inciting to riot, was arraigned before Recorder Smyth. Lawyer Hugh O. Pentecost appeared on behalf of the prisoner, whom he had never seen until he entered the court room, having been engaged to defend her by an unknown man about half an hour before coming to court. Assistant District Attorney McIntyre appeared as prosecutor and asked the court to fix a date for trial. The Recorder named September 28. Mr. Pentecost asked for more time, but his request was refused. When asked about bail, Mr Pentecost said the thought the prisoner would be bailed out.

Father Dent's Case.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—The Rev. Father Francis Dent, who is suing the Order of St. Francis to recover $50,000 for his alleged expulsion from the order, was in the Supreme Court, Kings county, yesterday, when by direction of the court he was paid the $250 allowed him in the expenses of the trial, which was interrupted some time since by the withdrawal of a jury by Colonel Bliss, who appeared for the order.

THE HARLEM ACCIDENT.

Railroad Commissioners Recommend More Comprehensive Train Orders.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sep. 14.—The State Board of Railroad Commissioners has made public its finding in regard to the collision occurring on the Harlem division of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad between Dykeman's and Ice Pond on Aug. 26, whereby four employes and one passenger were killed, and eight employes and six passengers injured.

The board finds that the accident was caused by the error of William W. Wakeman, the assistant agent and operator at Towner's in substituting "Dykeman's" for "Ice Pond" in the train despatcher's order as the place of the passing of the two trains which came in collision.

The board recommends that the requirement of rule 509, that the operators of stations called for attention to train orders shall listen to the repeated orders to the train despatcher, shall be rigidly enforced; that the rule be amended so as to require that the train despatcher shall first write his order before sending it, and shall check the repeated order by his original order in writing; and that the rule be further amended so that the conductor shall be required to telegraph to the train despatcher what is his understanding of the order received by him, and shall not move his train until the train despatcher shall subsequently order him to do so. In regard to the latter recommendation the board says: "The saving of time is unquestionably essential in the operation of a single track road, but time gained at the expense of safety leads to disaster. Had the requirement that the conductor should telegraph what his understanding was been in force, the accident under consideration would not have occurred."

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

General Opinion That the Registration Period Should be Extended.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—Yesterday the House Committee on Foreign Affairs referred the Everett bill to amend and modify the Geary Chinese Registration law to a sub-committee for examination and report. When the committee met in special session to consider the matter, all the members were present save Messrs. Storer and Van Vorhis of New York. Chairman McCreary laid the bill before the committee with a statement that upon examination it had been found necessary to revise it in several particulars, in order that it should be effective for the purpose intended. He therefore suggested that it be referred to a sub-committee for examination, and a motion was adopted referring it to a sub-committee of five with Chairman McCreary at its head, the other members being Messrs. Geary, Everett, Hitt and Harmer. This sub-committee will meet at an early time and proceed with its work.

In the course of the discussion, there seemed to be a unanimous sentiment favoring the extension of the registration period for six months from the date of passage of the act, and this will, in all probability, be the term fixed in the bill as reported from the committee. The Everett bill proposes a period of a year, but this is believed to be longer than is necessary. Mr. Geary, himself a member of the committee, is in favor of the extension if he can secure with it certain amendments which will make the measure acceptable to his people at home.

CHICAGO, Sep. 14.—So general an interest was manifested in the proceedings of the world's parliament of religions yesterday that it was found necessary to arrange for overflow meetings in the smaller halls.

NEW REGULATIONS UNPOPULAR

Temperature 110 and Boomers Dying of Sunstroke—Over 50,000 Land Seekers Already Registered and the Booths Overwhelmed.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sep. 14.—The mercury in Arkansas City yesterday indicated a temperature of 110 degrees Fahrenheit, the hottest day of the season in this part of the country. Many persons among the home-seekers, overcome by the heat, were carried from the lines. Some of them will recover, but others will die. Six men died yesterday. There is great discontent among the home-seekers because the forces at the booths are not large enough to register more than one half of the people who wish certificates of registration. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon the authorities at Washington to induce them to move the booths to Arkansas City or to discontinue all registration and to permit everyone to enter the strip and locate a claim.

So bitter has the feeling become against the registration system that when Friday night arrives and it is apparent that the thousands in waiting will be unable to have their names placed on the list, a riot will be precipitated. Practically the same condition exists at Orlando, Stillwater, Hunnewell and Caldwell. It will be impossible to enforce the order issued by Secretary Smith Monday, forbidding anyone to board the trains entering the strip at noon, who are not armed with registration certificates. Trains loaded to their fullest capacity are arriving and this influx will be kept up constantly until Saturday noon.

At Hunnewell yesterday a boomer was killed in his wagon and robbed of all his money. The murderer was captured and quickly removed from town to prevent his being lynched. Several attempts at murder and robbery were made at the booths near the city, but the vigilance of the soldiers prevented any fatalities. A soldier engaged in an altercation with a would-be bad man and fired at him in the crowd. The bullet hit the horse on which Sheriff Nipp of this county was sitting, killing it outright. He was placed under arrest by the lieutenant in command.

It is reported here that an organization of Oklahoma men has been effected to capture the township of Perry next Saturday.

The Cherokee Indian allotment trust concluded all preliminary arrangements and placed town lots in each of their town sites on sale. They found a ready market, business men and speculators generally preferring to buy a lot outright and get a perfect title at once than to take chances in the scramble that will be made for lots at the government county seats.

Fifty Thousand Registered.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—A telegram just received at the Interior Department from officials of the General Land Office now in the Cherokee outlet, says that reports from all of the booths show that there have been 50,000 people registered up to last night. Additional clerks have been put on duty at Arkansas City, and the office will be kept open day and night as long as necessary to accommodate the crowd.

WORLD'S FAIR RATES.

The Pennsylvania Wants Further Reductions, but Other Railroads Refuse.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—At a meeting of the Trunk Line passenger committee held here on Tuesday the Pennsylvania railroad company submitted a proposition to reduce the rates for the coach excursions to Chicago from $20 to $16. This reduction was urged by the representative of that company on the ground that it would enable a large proportion of the people to visit the Fair, and at the same time insure to the benefit of the railroads. After an animated discussion the question was voted down, all the other trunk lines opposing it except the Pennsylvania.

THE LONG ISLAND HORROR.

Effort to Fix the Responsibility Beyond Towerman Knott.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sep. 14.—General Superintendent William H. Blood, of the Long Island railroad, was the first witness to be examined before the grand jury yesterday. His examination was prolonged. The purport of his testimony is not known. It is said other officers of the road will be called on to testify. This is considered in confirmation of the reported attitude of District Attorney Fleming, who is apparently not satisfied in holding towerman Knott alone responsible.

After Preston's Scalp.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—The depositors of the suspended Commercial Bank of Brooklyn, determined to appear against the State Superintendent of Banking, Charles M. Preston, before the governor and ask for his removal from office. It is charged that the Commercial was passed as sound by the state banking department when it was actually insolvent. One of the foundations of this charge is the statement made by Superintendent Preston, after the bank closed, to the effect that he had been criticising the institution for three years.

Perils of Yachting.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., Sep. 14.—The steam yacht Allegra, Col. S. V. R. Cruger, from New York for Bayville, L. I., while opposite City Island, blew a tube out of the boiler. The fireman, James Gell, was instantly killed and the engineer, E. R. Barrett, was severely burned and scalded by the escaping steam.

HORRORS OF CHOLERA

Thousands of Mecca Pilgrims Die of the Plague.

SACRED MOUNTAIN A PEST FIELD

A Hundred Thousand Pilgrims Panic Stricken—Five Hundred Turkish Soldiers Lose Their Lives Burying the Dead and Rescuing the Living.

TUNIS, Sep. 14.—Of the nine thousand pilgrims that left here and other ports in May last for Mecca only half have returned, the other half having fallen victims to the cholera. Fully twelve thousand friends and relatives met the returning pilgrims on their release from quarantine, and there were many heartrending demonstrations of grief by the relatives of those who had succumbed to the disease. The survivors tell terrible tales of suffering. On June 24 one hundred thousand pilgrims were gathered on the Sacred Mount to hear a solemn address prior to their proceeding to Mecca. Many of the multitude were starving. The Mount resembled a battlefield, being strewn with corpses of victims of the pestilence, among whom were lying hundreds of poor wretches who were dying from the dread disease. So frightful was the condition of affairs that no one dared to approach the place. Finally a battalion of seven hundred Turkish soldiers was sent to bury the dead and rescue the living. Five hundred of these soldiers lost their lives as a result of their devotion to duty. Of the whole battalion only two hundred men escaped the pestilence.

Briggs Sticks to Presbyterianism.

CHICAGO, Sep. 14.—Professor Charles A. Briggs says there is no truth whatever in the rumor that he contemplates leaving the Presbyterian Church. With reference to the probability of reinstatement in the Presbyterian ministry, Dr. Briggs said: "I cannot talk about this. If I am never reinstated, I may add, it will not prevent my teaching as a professor or doctor of theology. I may continue as one who never was a preacher, the same as Mr. Moody, for instance."

Great Educational Scheme.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—Bishop John F. Hurst, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who is at the head of a movement to establish a great university at Washington under the auspices of that church, reports encouraging success. Within the past few days a large donation has been received, the source of which, however, by direction of the donor, he is not at liberty to reveal. Six shares and dollars have been added to the fund by the ministers of the Cincinnati conference.

British Soldiers' Debts.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sep. 14.—Two years ago reserve men of the British army were granted leave to reside in Canada, and many availed themselves of the privilege. In court here yesterday Thomas Hyles was sued for $30. He did not dispute the account, but made the plea that he was exempt from compulsion to pay because he is an army reserve man. It is decreed in the Army act that, to prevent the Crown from losing soldiers' services, they cannot be compelled to pay any debt under £30.

Gypsies' Bad Luck.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sep. 14.—At Chase's Crossing, near here, yesterday, while Hugh Hicks, one of the best known gypsy horse dealers in the State, was driving from Providence to Worcester in a heavy covered gypsy wagon with his wife sitting on the seat beside him, the White Mountain express struck the team, throwing both occupants a long distance, killing the woman and severely, perhaps fatally, injuring the man. One horse was killed, and the other must be shot.

Obnoxious Commissions.

CHICAGO, Sep. 14.—J. P. Victor Henolt and Jean Turnolt, representing 250 French exhibitors, have filed a bill in court praying for an injunction ordering the World's Fair managers not to interfere with French exhibitors who are selling merchandise at the Fair without paying a percentage to Treasurer Seeberger. The injunction was granted and was served on Director General Davis during the afternoon.

Queer Quarantine.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—Dr. Jenkins has received communication that Portugal intends to quarantine against New York. He says this action is simply ridiculous, as the only vessel that brought cholera was the Karamania and her passengers were discharged from Quarantine on Aug. 22 after a detention of 19 days and 8 days without any development of the disease, making 30 days since the last development of cholera in Quarantine.

The Alvo Lost.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sep. 14.—The steamer Alvo, long overdue at this port from New York, has been given up as lost by the consignees here. No doubt is entertained here that she foundered during the severe hurricane of Aug. 20.

The Savannah Abandoned.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sep. 14.—The steamship City of Savannah, wrecked in the recent coast hurricane, whose passengers and crew were rescued by the City of Birmingham, has been abandoned.

Death of Frederick L. Ames.

NEW YORK, Sep. 14.—Frederick L. Ames, Vice-President of the Old Colony Railroad, was found dead yesterday morning in a state-room on the steamer Pilgrim, soon after her arrival here.

GETTING TO THE POINT

Senator Voorhees Suggests an End to Silver Talk.

SILVER MEN EMPHATICALLY OBJECT

They are Unwilling to Trust to Future Legislation, Knowing, as They Claim, That None is Possible on Silver During Cleveland's Administration.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—An effort was made in the Senate yesterday, after the repeal bill was laid before it, to have a day fixed for closing general debate, but the result of that effort was not very encouraging to the hopes of those who look forward to a not distant final disposition of the bill. The proposition came naturally, and with due modesty, from the chairman of the Finance Committee, who suggested that general debate should close in a week; that the discussion on the substitute and various amendments should continue till the following Saturday, and that then the voting should begin. He desired to elicit the views on that point of Senators on the other side of the question. Those views were expressed through Mr. Dubois of Idaho, and held out no hope of an agreement to having any time fixed. Thereupon Mr. Voorhees recognized the situation, and withdrew his suggestion, promising, however, to submit another proposition at some time hereafter.

In the course of the discussion upon it, Mr. Voorhees declared his readiness to engage in legislation in behalf of silver, as soon as the Sherman law should be out of the way, and denied that the repeal of that law would demonetize a single one of the 600 odd million silver dollars in the United States. It would only put an end to the traffic in silver as a commodity—a miserable commodity. Mr. Dubois, however, expressed on behalf of the friends of silver an unwillingness to trust to future silver legislation, knowing that there could be none during the next three and a half years of Mr. Cleveland's administration. Mr. Voorhees' proposition having thus failed, the debate on the repeal bill went on, speeches being made by Mr. Shoup (Rep., Idaho) against it, and by Mr. Dolph (Rep., Oregon) in favor of it.

House.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—The House yesterday attempted notwithstanding a small attendance, to get down to business.

Mr. Talbert of South Carolina, made the first effort with a resolution instructing the Committee on Banking and Currency to report the McLauren bill for the issue of $125,000,000 of treasury notes. But this attempt was frustrated by an objection from Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania.

Then Mr. Richardson, the Chairman of the Committee on Printing, came in with a report on the bill regulating public printing and binding, and asked for its immediate consideration. But Talbert, acting under a desire for retaliation, and Kilgore, acting on general principles, objected, and the bill was placed upon the calendar. Subsequently it was considered but without disposing of it, the House adjourned.

NO CLUE TO THE ROBBERS.

Detectives Baffled in Their Search for the Lake Shore Bandits.

LIGONIER, Ind., Sep. 14.—The Lake Shore detectives from Elkhart and Toledo who have been scouring this part of the State for a clue to the express robbers have about given up the chase. C. C. Needham and another detective from Elkhart just drove in from the southern and central part of the county, and they say there is absolutely no clue. Three tramps were arrested at Brimfield and at Butler two more were overhauled. The actions of these men were very suspicious. They purchased tickets here for that point, but before the train reached the station they alighted and started across lots for the woods. The detectives now express the opinion that the job was done by professionals and have about given up the idea that local crooks had anything to do with it. The people in the neighborhood of the point where the train was held up say that they know absolutely nothing, saw no suspicious strangers and know no more about the affair than if they lived 100 miles away.

Cruiser Montgomery.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—The new cruiser Montgomery, built at Baltimore by the Columbia Iron Works, and recently reported ready for inspection preparatory for her initial trial, was examined by a board of naval officers and in a report submitted to the Navy Department, the cruiser is shown to be in excellent condition from topmast to keel. The vessel will probably be tried Monday, Sep. 25th.

New England Conspiracy Cases.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sep. 14.—In the Superior Court the case of Evan W. Scott, timekeeper, and 21 other employes of the New York & New England railroad for alleged conspiracy in defrauding the road by means of falsified pay rolls, came up. Owing to the absence of the prisoners' counsel, all the cases were continued to the December term of the court.

The Britannia Wins Again.

LONDON, Sep. 14.—The yacht race between the Prince of Wales' Britannia and Royal Phelps Carroll's Navahoe, which started Tuesday on a course extending from the Needles to the breakwater at Cherbourg, France, round the breakwater and back to the Needles, a distance of about 120 miles, ended in a narrow victory for the Britannia.

Van Brocklin Guilty.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sep. 14.—Eric O. Van Brocklin, ex-Secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners, charged with forgery and embezzlement of about $60,000, pleaded guilty in the Supreme Court yesterday to three indictments of forgery and grand larceny in the second degree. Sentence was deferred until Friday.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

IS IT WAR?

In a speech delivered before the House of Representatives, as published in The Congressional Record of Sept. 6, the Hon. William Baker of Kansas stated some interesting facts about what is going on throughout the world. He makes the claim that a conspiracy, of Semitic origin, was begun at the close of our civil war and consummated after the Franco-German war, to double the debts of the world by doubling the value of gold.

It would seem from his speech that the bond-holding Jews control the debts of the governments, and of many of the larger corporate interests; in fact, that they control the fixed money values.

With the stroke of a pen they were able to close the mints of India, and added 30 per cent to the debt of that country. The gold clique of London, which is Semitic, did this, and hoped to bind the Congress of the United States to acts which would make gold the single standard.

He shows how Europe has strengthened her arm of oppression to a degree unparalleled in the history of the world.

The table of statistics which he gives is from the figures which were recently compiled by Captain Meiard, of the general staff of the French army.

These figures show the increase of European armies from seven millions in 1870, to more than 28,000,000 in 1873.

	Number of armed men.
England	6,202,000
Germany	5,000,000
France	4,350,000
Russia	4,000,000
Italy	2,236,000
Austria	1,900,000
Turkey	1,500,000
Spain	800,000
Sweden and Norway	510,000
Switzerland	489,000
Belgium	258,000
Roumania	280,000
Bulgaria	200,000
Holland	185,000
Servia	180,000
Greece	180,000
Portugal	150,000
Denmark	91,000
Montenegro	55,000
Total	28,566,000

This is four times above the usual war footing for these nations. When it is considered what the naval preparations have been in making the armament as strong as man can make it, it is not to be wondered that the student of the signs of the times reaches the conclusion that these are the days of the preparation forecast by the prophets of old, which should come in the latter times, and which were to precede the Great Battle of which so much is written.

There can never be a larger percentage of population under arms in Europe; and the strain of maintaining so large a force cannot last long. War seems close at hand.

From all these conditions it appears that it is not mere avarice that prompts the great struggle to gather the gold of the world into few hands; but rather to carry on war.

DENOUNCING THE BRITISH GOLD CLIQUE.

The Hon. William M. Stewart, of Nevada, in a speech in the United States Senate, as published in The Congressional Record of Sept. 12, stated that it is a false pretense to assert that the bill directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon is the road to bimetallism.

He showed that the outside world owes England ten billions of dollars, and that she receives five hundred millions annually, interest on this indebtedness.

"When I speak of England"—he says—"I mean the bonded aristocracy, for the poor people of England are suffering the same as are our poor people; but the England that governs is concentrated capital."

In addition to the vast carrying trade and other commercial advantages that go towards making England a creditor nation, it is shown that this country pays into the British bondholders every year no less than two hundred millions.

"It is said"—continues Senator Stewart—"that they are supporting 20,000,000 soldiers with an expense of more than eight hundred millions of dollars a year. Most of these countries are bankrupt, particularly Austria and Italy. This, it should be understood, means that England is supporting the armies of the continent, and they are going into debt for the amount."

Senator Stewart holds that England has demands enough against this country at present to break us down, if we attempt to pay with gold, and he asks: "If we undertake to buy gold, where is the gold? It is all locked up: $360,000,000 in Russia; $150,000,000 in Australia; $900,000,000 in France; and they dare not pay out any of it. She protects herself by paying out silver. The same condition exists in Germany. She cannot pay out gold. England has the advantage of collecting gold from all the world, but she adopts an expedient to keep her gold at home. Whenever an attempt is made to draw her gold away she raises her rate of interest. England has never allowed any country to draw out her gold. From the earliest history, whenever the attempt has been made, England has suspended specie payments, or raised the rate of interest, and in that way protected her people.

"The New York banks"—says Senator Stewart—"are the agents for the British bondholders; they are simply investors and collectors on foreign account. They sold the securities, got the gold, took it away, and when the panic came the securities went down 40 or 50 cents on a dollar, and the gold is now coming back to buy them up." The Senator shows in detail how the operation is done, and he says: "You will always have a panic when they command".

He urges most strongly the necessity of being free from the English influence. His speech fills pages of The Record, but he defends the length of it and excuses its being made exhaustive, by saying: "We are told that we must not debate the question; that it is filibustering to tell the country what we are here for"—and ridiculing such an idea.

EXTENSION TO DUNELLEN.

Plainfield Railway Directors Approve Jacob Kriney's Plans.

Messrs. Nevins, Riker and Fritts, Directors of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, met yesterday afternoon and received the petition gotten up by Jacob Kriney for the extension of the trolley line down Front street to Dunellen. The petition is signed by 600, being all except 3 or 4 of the property-holders along the route. The Directors said that if the petitioners would agree to certain conditions they would build the road this fall.

The road will be single track, with turnouts.

Mr. Kriney deserves credit for his public-spirited zeal and enterprise in working up this and other public improvements. He says: "I secured the fire-alarm box; the railroad is coming; and next I'll work for water".

Last night Chief of Police Grant and Marshal Pangborn brought VanAngleman handcuffed to Plainfield; and Borough Magistrate Crosley committed him without bail to await the action of the Somerset County Grand Jury, which meets September 26. Marshal Pangborn this morning took VanAngleman on the 9:42 train to Somerville, and there lodged him in jail.

CITES A PLAINFIELD CASE.

This Correspondent Thinks Some Plainfield Clergymen Unfairly Treated.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I noticed in your paper that there was a question with members of the First Baptist church of our city whether Dr. Yerkes should be displaced, and a new pastor elected. While not a member nor regular attendant of any church, it does seem to me that the disease of preaching sensational sermon is more acceptable to the people of Plainfield and elsewhere than sound texts taken from the Bible. Take the preacher who advertises that he will talk on "The Slums of New York", or some other sensational subject, and I will guarantee him a full house; while the one who takes his text from the Bible will talk to empty seats.

I had a long talk with a Methodist clergyman quite recently, who has preached for the last thirty years at least, and in Plainfield for six or eight years. He remarked the same thing, and said he was given a small charge, while the young clergymen were given the best charges.

Notably again, take the instance of a Presbyterian clergyman of our city, who had labored for years, and through his influence and instrumentality a handsome church was erected, and after the congregation had gotten that, he was forced to retire.

Now with the case of Dr. Yerkes, from whom I was taught my first lessons in in the Bible: although he is a man ripe in years, and, as you say, still undimmed in mentality and vigor, it is feared he will gradually be supplanted by an "assistant".

OBSERVER.

NOT YET DECIDED.

The Tie Between Willis and Coffin Not to be Run Off at Once—Coffin Has Other Irons in the Fire—Willis Took a Header.

The Catholic Young Men's Lyceum race which resulted in a tie between Willis and Coffin, has not yet been run off, and no date is set for the race.

The Lyceum have met and left it to the contestants to arrange the date of the race.

Coffin, however, has started on a thirty days' wheeling tour through New England, while Willis is unable to ride, by reason of a severe header which he took last Saturday at the ten-mile road race of the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey, over the Elizabeth-Cranford course. Willis won the race, however, and would have broken the world's record for the distance had it not been for his ugly tumble, caused by a small boy getting in front of his wheel near the finish.

Another Death from Eating Toadstools

Another death from eating toadstools occurred yesterday in Union Township, just outside Elizabeth. Undertaker Ogden shortly before noon received a message from Freeholder Noah Woodruff, of Union, that the eleven-year-old daughter of Peter F. Henry, a farmer of Aldine, had died in agony from eating the poisonous fungus. The girl cooked the toadstools herself and ate some; her mother then threw the rest away. A valuable house dog belonging to the family ate these and was also killed by them.

The Elephant Scared Him.

As Hunting's Circus parade was passing through North avenue this afternoon, a horse attached to the wagon of D. W. Littell, and standing unwatched before the store, became frightened at the elephant, and went on a run around the corner and down Park avenue towards Front street. The street was crowded with people, mostly screeching children following the parade. Luckily, none was injured. The runaway was caught before reaching Second street.

A Fashionable Milliner.

Madame Knight, of Twenty-third street, New York, has taken a long lease on the entire building at 112 West Front street, and on or about the 20th of this month will open a first-class millinery parlor. Their stylish turnout will attract attention on Plainfield streets.

Kicked by His Dying Horse.

George Leland, the plumber, on Central avenue, lost a valuable horse this morning.

TRADE TEMPLE.

Sumptuous Headquarters of the Plainfield Board, to Be Dedicated Tonight.

The new quarters of the Board of Trade, 117 East Second street, which are to be formally opened tonight, are a striking evidence of the enterprise of the organization. The rooms, which take up the whole building formerly occupied by the Crescent League, are large and well lighted, and furnished with every convenience that could suggest itself to the minds of members.

The first floor of the building is taken up by the bowling alleys, four in number, of the famous Grote construction, the best that it is possible to obtain. This room is lighted by ten windows on the sides and an immense one in the front, partly of stained glass. The walls and the ceiling are wainscoted. To the right as one enters the bowling alleys, is the flight of stairs leading to the second floor. Mounting these, the visitor finds himself in a square hall from which doors lead into the various rooms on the floor.

The billiard room takes up the larger part of the second floor, and is back of the other rooms. It has a polished hardwood floor, and on the walls and ceiling is paper of a light brown tint approaching near to cream color. The room is amply lighted by windows on both sides, and is furnished with four billiard and pool tables. At the lower end of the room is an immense red brick fireplace, over which solemnly ticks a mammoth clock. Directly in front of the billiard room is the meeting room of the Board. It is carpeted with Brussels, and furnished with antique-oak tables and chairs. The wall paper and the carpet and rugs are light brown, which, in connection with the oak furnishings, gives a harmony of color to the room that is delightful. In front of the meeting room is the parlor, a smaller room which looks from a bow-window upon East Second street. This room has a large brick fireplace and is sumptuously furnished, but retains the same harmony of colors noticeable in the meeting room. At the left of the meeting room as one faces the front of the building, is the directors' room, a small apartment, furnished with a large green-topped table and numerous comfortable chairs. This room is used by the board of directors and important committees, to hold their meetings in. At the front of the directors' room and at the side of the parlor bow-window, is a cozy second floor balcony overlooking the street, where members may gather to smoke and chat after the heat of summer days. In the doors connecting the different second floor rooms swing luxurious brown portieres. The whole building is lighted by electricity.

A janitor is in charge of the rooms throughout the day. The Board is arranging for a grand time at this evening's formal opening of the rooms.

A FESTIVE WEDDING NEXT.

Fanwood's Physician Buys a Fine House for His Prospective Bride.

FANWOOD, Sept. 14.

Mrs. Ernest L. Kieb returned today, from her sojourn at Canada Lake, N. Y.

L. J. Briggs, Jr., leaves his father the Captain to hold up his end of the whist and seven-up tournaments, which he is doing successfully. L. J. expects to take in the Midway once more, as he wishes to give a fuller report to The Press of his experiences there.

Harry Robinson and family have returned, and are as yet the guests of Abner P. Downer. They will probably take possession of their new mansion within a few days.

Horace Young, of Fanwood, who was taken sick while on his return from Asbury Park, is up and about again.

Edwin Fancher has just returned from a shooting trip in upper New York, and says the woods are full of welsh rabbits.

H. P. Robinson and family, formerly of Brooklyn, are now residing at Maple Knolls.

John Cothell, of Bergen street, spent last Sunday with the Fancher family.

Col. C. K. Moore has been keeping bachelor quarters, while his family were visiting friends at Eagle Bridge.

H. Robinson and family will move into their pretty Queen Anne cottage in a few days.

The colonial residence of Mr. Urner is rapidly approaching completion, and certainly the grounds are beautiful. The foundation for the house of his son-in-law, William E. Gibbs, is well under way, and the grounds surrounding the same, being connected with those of Mr. Urner, will make a most magnificent park.

Dr. F. W. Westcott has bought the property now occupied by Mr. Gibbs at the corner of North and Martine avenues. They do say the Doctor is going to fit it up for a bride. Heartiest congratulations are extended by THE CHRONICLER.

The Lonesome Grass-Widower.

He was a Fanwood man.

His wife had been gone just ten days, when he plunked down a 40-cent dollar on the Western Union shelf, and wired:

My dear girl. Calico looks like silk. Come home immediately.

And she came.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained 3 pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and wornout parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

A New Excursion Resort.

Churches and other organizations in this vicinity have been troubled of late days to find a place suitable for excursion parties. Asbury Park is in many respects all that could be desired by excursionists; but it woefully lacks the eager interest that goes with newness and change. Its sights are too familiar; they fail to interest. Other excursion resorts have been tried by venturesome parties, sometimes with fair, sometimes with indifferent success. This year the Epworth League of Westfield have hit upon something a little out of the beaten track. They will go on a steamer forty miles up the Hudson, to Oscawana Island. Many who are interested in the management of excursions will be pleased if this venture is a success, as it will open a new field for excursionists hereabouts.

Here's a Happy Ending.

H. K. Vail, a painter, who was charged with nonsupport by his wife, and ordered on Tuesday by Judge Coddington to furnish a $500 bond to give his wife $6 a week, was today released without bond, by the Judge, on the promise of both Vail and his wife that they were reconciled and would dwell together peaceably and study one another's happiness.

The Judge gave them great chunks of good advice, which they promised faithfully to heed.

AGAINST THE RACE-TRACK.

The Citizens' League Holds a Secret Session to Make Arrangements for a Campaign Against Gamblers.

The Executive Committee of the Citizens' Anti-Race-Track League of New Jersey held a special meeting late yesterday afternoon in the lecture-room of the First Presbyterian church, Elizabeth. The meeting was largely attended by representatives from all parts of the State, among them being the crusader, Very Rev. Dean McNulty, of Paterson.

The Rev. Dr. Kempshall presided, and Editor McBride, of the Elizabeth Journal, acted as secretary. While the proceedings were conducted with closed doors, it is understood the gathering was for the purpose of taking steps to begin at once an aggressive campaign throughout the State against the race-track gamblers and their allies in the Legislature. Vigorous efforts are to be put forth to defeat every member of either House in the last Legislature who voted to license the race-tracks and now aspires to re-election.

Determined efforts are also to be made in counties where race-tracks are now in operation and a Sheriff is to be chosen next fall to beat any candidate who may be named by the race-track element. This especially applies to Union county, where the crusaders are going to sacrifice everything to elect a Sheriff who will enforce the law against the gamblers. The big fight in Union will this year be not on the Senator, but on the Sheriff, as the race-track men, it is believed, will try to dominate the conventions of both parties so as to have only men favorable to them nominated for Sheriff.

In case this programme should be successful, then the anti-race-track league will place an independent candidate in the field and issue an appeal to the moral and religious people, irrespective of party, to support him.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS.

Damage Done by Storms, and Prospects for Winter Grains.

(From The Official Crop Bulletin.)

The observers and crop correspondents of the New Jersey State Weather Service report for the week ending Monday, September 11, 1893, that the weather conditions which prevailed during the week have been most favorable for the maturing of corn and the gathering of the various farm products. Fall plowing and the seeding of wheat, rye and grass are well under way, and in the districts where this work is completed the grain is reported as coming up nicely. Corn cutting has already commenced, and great difficulty is experienced, owing to its tangled condition. The yield will be reduced one-third. Sweet and round potatoes are being dug; the former is reported good in yield and quality, and the latter, that the yield is better than was expected two weeks ago.

In the fruit growing districts the storms of the 23d, 24th and 29th of August did serious injury, yet sufficient fruit remains on the trees to insure a fair crop. Winter apples are coloring and sizing up nicely, as also are the late varieties of peaches and pears; during the week, prices for these products have improved.

In the cranberry growing districts, all reports show that the present condition of the fruit is most promising, with little or no scald being noted. Picking has already commenced, and it is estimated that the yield will reach 650,000 bushels.

In the vineyard districts, the picking of grapes has already commenced and the yield will be an abundant one.

As this is the last issue of our Weekly Crop Bulletin, for the season of 1893, we desire to extend our grateful acknowledgments to those who have so well performed a gratuitous and valued service. We hope to renew your acquaintance and secure your service for the season of 1894.

E. W. MCGANN, Director.

PLAINFIELD—Farmers are now cutting corn which is down so badly that it is difficult to cut; the crop is fair. Fall plowing is being pushed. The amount of rainfall during the growing season helped the crops to some extent but the drought had done its injury before the rain came. The rainfall from May 1 to date was 19 32 inches. Rainfall for the week, 0.59 inch; average temperature, 62 deg.

JOHN NEAGLE.

A Beautiful Dramatic Picture.

The new play "A Flag of Truce" by Wm. Haworth, author of "The Ensign", which will be produced in Music Hall, Saturday night, is simple, natural and strong: strong in its fidelity to life and human nature. Its pathos brings honest tears; its clean, pure comedy brings hearty laughter; the powerful climaxes bring tremendous bursts of applause. The picture of the two brothers is touching in its quiet, undemonstrative affection. Of all the figures in drama and literature, there is none nobler than the two brothers, Tom and Jim.

One leaves the theatre feeling that it pays to be a man, without any violent declamation or forced emphasis or strained effect.

The two figures, as quiet as the statue of the picket at Valley Forge, and as noble, stand a perfect picture of the dignity of simple manliness.

Reappointed by the Governor.

County Physician Edward R. O'Reilly, of Elizabeth, has received a telegram from Trenton informing him that Governor Werts had just reappointed him for seven years as a member of the State Board of Health. The doctor is highly pleased at this mark of the Governor's appreciation of his services. Dr. O'Reilly was only appointed a few years ago to fill a vacancy on the board.

NEVADA MAY ABSORB UTAH.

A Clear Case of Jonah Swallowing the Whale.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 14.—Representative Oates of Alabama has introduced a bill to annex the territory of Utah to the State of Nevada. Mr. Oates said: "I have been thinking over this question a long time, and believe I have found the true solution of a vexing question. The plan is wholly within the power of Congress to carry out; there is nothing in the constitution to prevent it. There is no way to destroy a State. That cannot be done. And yet the future of Nevada is a serious question. Its population decreased from 70,000 in 1880 to 42,000 in 1890 in round numbers and there is no prospect of its recovering any part it has lost. On the other hand, if the silver mining industry be further diminished there won't be 20,000 people in the State in five years. But it has two Senators and a Representative in Congress. Utah, just adjoining, has 240,000 population, and is not represented at all except by a delegate with no vote. It is not right that Nevada should have such power in in Congress, nor is it fair that we should keep Utah out of the Union.

"The objection has been made to admitting the territory that at some time in the past a form of religion was in vogue there that did not meet with general approval. Well, now, I've provided in this bill that the constitutional laws of Nevada shall prevail until a new fundamental structure and code of laws can be provided in the regular way." The passage of this bill will solve the question what to do with Utah and at the same time put life and strength into the veins of a decaying State. Besides that, Mr. Oates said jocularly, in conclusion, prompt and favorable action may have an important bearing upon the silver debate in the Senate. If it becomes a law those Senators affected may quit talking and go home to see about their election."

The bill was referred to the Committee on Territories.

FARIBAULT SCHEME A FAILURE.

The Catholic and Protestant Partnership School Abandoned.

FARIBAULT, Minn., Sep. 14.—The formal announcement of the failure of the Faribault school plan, which during the past 18 months has been discussed from Rome to San Francisco, was made yesterday when Father Conroy appeared before the board of education and said that the Catholics could no longer consent to the assignment of two Protestant teachers to the Hill School, which had been a Catholic school up to the time of the union. It is understood that the order came from Archbishop Ireland, and that he had had a request to take such action from Pope Leo. As a result of this order all Protestant children will be withdrawn from the Hill School and that institution will be in future conducted strictly as a parochial school. The board of education annulled its lease of the Hill School and took steps to lease another building for the accommodation of Protestant children.

NORTH ABINGDON RIOTS.

Rounding Up the Participants in the Railroad Crossing Battle.

ABINGDON, Mass., Sep. 14.—The trials growing out of the recent riot and railroad war at North Abingdon, were continued in the Second District Court, Judge Bouve presiding. Edward Mackie, charged with the larceny of an engine of the railroad, was discharged. The cases of Christopher L. Bailey, charged with assault upon officer Russell, and of Augustus R. Frazer, charged with assault upon Officer Hollis, were tried together. Lawyer Kingman stated that the defense would rest its case without offering any testimony. He claimed that Bailey and Frazer were justified in using force in resisting arrest, as the officers had no warrants for the officials' arrest. Judge Bouve found the defendants guilty and imposed a fine of $41 each. They appealed and gave bonds in $200 to appear at the Superior Court.

Had a Choice.

It is said that the French Abbe Delille once had in his household a very quick tempered relative, with whom he sometimes had animated disputes and who sometimes went so far as to throw books at the abbe.

The abbe must have been a person of great amiability and control. Once when a particularly large and heavy volume was thrown at him, he caught it gracefully and said:

"My dear friend, I must beg of you to remember that I prefer small gifts."—Youth's Companion.

Safe.

Nellie—Don't you think this salt air is hard on the complexion?

Mamie—What of it? There's a drug store up the beach.—Truth.

His Error.

The smart man was getting off a train, when he saw a couple ahead of him, who at once challenged his attention and indignation. The husband was walking off with his hands in his pockets, while the wife carried a baby and a large basket and valise.

This was too much for the smart man, and stepping up to the overloaded woman he said:

"Let me assist you, madam," and seizing the basket and valise he ran after the husband, whom he grabbed without ceremony.

"Here, sir, carry these things for your wife. I should think you would be ashamed to call yourself a man and permit your wife to bear all the burdens in this way. Let this be a lesson to you, sir, to"——

"Hello," interrupted the stranger indignantly; "she ain't my wife! I never saw the woman in my life till now."

At the same time the woman was shrieking at the top of her voice, "Stop thief." And it took the smart man's utmost eloquence to convince the depot policeman that he was not a sneak thief instead of a self appointed reformer of other people's morals and manners.—Detroit Free Press.

Fun at the Table.

A man read in a paper that the family table should always be the scene of laughter and merriment and that no meal should be passed in the moody silence that so often characterizes those occasions. The idea struck him so favorably that when his family was gathered around the table that evening he said:

"Now, this sort of thing of keeping so mum at meals has got to stop. You hear me? You girls put in an tell stories an keep up some agreeable sort o' talk, an you boys laugh an be jolly, or I'll take an dust your jackets with a stick till you can't stand. Now, begin."

The glare that he sent around the table made the family as funny as a funeral.—Tit-Bits.

She Objected.

Whoever has seen a Cornish funeral knows how "ilka lassie has her laddie" in the melancholy procession, and not only are there lads and lassies, but more mature couples. It is a matter not only of ceremony, but choice. A clergyman was ministering the other day to a parishioner whose end was approaching, when the voice of the sick man's wife, who was something of a virago, made itself heard through the open window, "I don't care what comes or goes, but I will not follow the corpse with a little man."—Argonant.

One Time When.

"What nonsense this all is about men getting on their knees when they propose!" said Mrs. Parslow to her dear friend. "My husband didn't do any such absurd thing when he asked me to marry him."

"He did when he proposed to me," said the dear friend, without thinking.—Harper's Bazar.

The Logic of It.

Random Observer—Pardon me, but what are you putting down in your notebook?

World's Fair Visitor—Oh, I'm just putting down the things that have made an indelible impression upon my memory, so that I won't forget them.—Chicago Record.

A Cheap Threat.

Officer (to a young lady at the ball)—Gnadiges Fraulein, if you do not reciprocate my love, I shall throw myself out of the window this very day!

Lady—Ach! Herr Lieutenant, you live on the ground floor, I presume!—Fliegende Blatter.

Cooler.

The Heiress (hesitatingly)—He is a more suitable match than you are.

He—Yes, but he does not love you as much as I do.

She—Why not?

He—Why, he is not as poor as I am.—Truth.

Previous.

A countryman, wishing to convey a pig to town without paying the toll, put it into a cart and covered it with cabbages. On reaching the gate he said to the collector:

"Look here, tomorrow I intend bringing a pig to town. I shall put it in my cart and cover it up with cabbages. If you will just close one eye, you shall have a handsome tip."

"All right," said the collector.

Next day the countryman drove up with his cart loaded with cabbages. The collector stepped up to him and whispered in his ear:

"So you've got the pig with you today?"

"No, I brought it yesterday," was the man's reply.—Corriere della Sera.

Unexpected Proof.

Principal—I have to send you on a very important errand, one demanding the greatest secrecy. Say, Mr. Meier, can I rely upon you? Are you able to keep a secret?

Clerk—Oh, certainly (whispering in principal's ear). I have been secretly engaged to your daughter for the last couple of years!—Fornotsee.

SPEAKS HIS MIND.

And He Can Do It Too from His Own Experience.

ANOTHER WELL-KNOWN PERSON CORROBORATES ALL HE SAYS.

And They Both Make Some Very Important Disclosures.

Mr. August Storjohann, who resides at 532 East 84th st., New York city, makes the following remarkable statement:

"I have been troubled," he says, "with heart disease for the last few years. I always felt weak and dizzy, in fact I was so bad that I would rather walk the street than go to bed, for I suffered terribly and could not sleep at all.

"I had a cough which made everybody think I had consumption; I would cough and spit all the time and I could not eat.

"I finally gave up everything and thought that I would have to die. I was reading the paper one evening and saw an advertisement of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I got some and took four bottles of it and now I feel very much better. It is the greatest and best remedy that ever was discovered and I would like to let everybody know the improvement this wonderful medicine has made in me."

A well-known lady, Mary M. Morse, living at No. 2 Marlow Terrace, Jamaica Plain, Mass., gives a similar experience.

"I was suffering," she said, "from great weakness, languor, loss of energy and power of endurance; it was also evident that there was a tendency to paralysis as my right thumb dropped and became useless with loss of sensation.

AUGUST STORJOHANN.

"My physician said I was suffering from nervous exhaustion and was upon the verge of complete prostration. A number of physicians said nothing could be done for my hand.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy but a few months, indeed, by the time I had used the third bottle, my general health was wonderfully improved and feeling and strength restored to my hand which is now as perfect as the other.

"With perfect confidence I recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to my lady friends who are suffering from debility, nervous exhaustion and other weakness, and take pleasure in testifying to its merits thus publicly that sufferers whom I cannot meet personally may be induced to use this remedy and find a cure."

This medicine is just what you want to take to make you well and strong again. It is purely vegetable and harmless—Indeed it is the discovery and prescription of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Awkward.

There is such a thing as being too persistently complimentary. A candid and well meaning professor, who had witnessed the performance of a little play in a private house, in which his hostess had taken the leading part, met the lady as she came from behind the curtain.

"Madam," he said, rushing up to her, "you played excellently. The part fits you to perfection."

"Oh, no professor," said the lady modestly; "a young and pretty woman is needed for that part."

"But, madam," persisted the professor, "you have positively proved the contrary!"—Youth's Companion.

Too Hot In the Shade.

"Begobs, it's hot! I t'ink th' hate must be up to wan hunderd in the shaade."

"Thin yez ought to be glad yez are workin in th' sun."—Harper's Bazar.

CLASH IN THE HOUSE

Federal Election Bill Stirs Up Partisan Blood.

WILL IT AFFECT THE SILVER BILL?

It is Not Believed that Action in the House on Election Laws Will Influence the Senate—Another Day of Debate on the Silver Question.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—The first skirmish over the Federal Election Repeal bill took place in the House yesterday, and although the casualties were few, it was manifested that both sides were in earnest and that the regular battle will be a severe one. The Republicans opened their batteries by declining to allow the "Canus Bell!" to be even reported to the House. Under the generalship of Mr. Burrows, the Republicans resorted to filibustering tactics and for the day had the best of the skirmish as they prevented the reporting of the measure, and the House adjourned before action. But before this was done the Democrats adopted a resolution revoking all leaves of absence except those granted on account of sickness. Over this resolution there was a very brief but very spicy discussion, in the course of which Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., Ohio) intimated that if the bill were called up at the present time the Wilson bill when it returned from the Senate might not receive the Republican assistance it formerly did, and Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) vigorously declared that the Federal Election bill would be reported if it took the whole Congress to do so.

In short, in the brief debate there were indications that the approaching dispute will be a warm partisan dispute.

Effect On the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—The tactics pursued in the House by the Republicans in relation to the Federal election laws and the proposed repeal by the Democrats has awakened a keen anxiety as to what the effect of the passage of the repeal by the Democrats in the House would have upon the action of the Senate on the bill now pending for the repeal of the Sherman act. The attitude of Mr. Tracy of New York, in acting in harmony with the Republicans in filibustering, is said to be based upon his idea that the repeal of the Federal election laws in the House would cause some votes for the repeal of the Sherman law to be changed among the Republican members of the Senate. A careful canvass of the Senate discloses the fact that so far as its effect upon the pending measure is concerned, the repeal of the Federal election law will not alter the convictions of a single Republican. They say they favor repeal as a matter of principle and if any one thinks they can be moved by partisan tactics, the temper of the Republicans of the Senate has been misjudged. Not a Republican Senator can be found who will admit that a vote can be made or lost by any action the House may take. When the proposition to repeal the Federal election law comes before the Senate, however, as a proposition by itself, the most determined opposition to it will be manifested.

Senate Still Talking.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—The great event of yesterday's session of the Senate was the delivery of a speech by Mr. Daniel (Dem., Va.) against the passage of the repeal bill. It occupied four hours and five minutes, and was listened to throughout, with an interest that did not seem to diminish from exordium to peroration. No other Senator desired to speak after Mr. Daniel, and the Senate at 5:05 adjourned.

Mr. Faulkner (Dem., W. Va.) offered an amendment to the repeal act, which was read and ordered printed. It provides for the coinage of silver dollars (not less 8,000,000 a month) at the present ratio of 16 to 1, out of the silver bullion purchased under the Sherman act, to be a legal tender. Also for the monthly purchase of sufficient bullion for the coinage of $2,000,000 a month, in quarters halves and dollars, further purchase and coinage to cease when the aggregate of $300,000,000 is reached.

CLEVELAND'S IRON HAND.

No Pardon for a Pension Attorney Who Charged Excessive Rates.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—In refusing a pardon to a pension attorney, J. K. Foxworthy of Lincoln, Neb., convicted of collecting illegal fees, President Cleveland expressed his views as follows:

"Denied—It seems that the charging of greater fees than those allowed by the pension laws was not unusual in the practice of the defendant. Assuming that the statute on this subject is a wholesome one, and I think it is, and that it operates as a protection to soldiers seeking pensions, I do not see why it should not be enforced and I do not find a sufficient reason on this application for the exercise of clemency.

VIENNA, Sep. 15.—Edgar Mix, an American, was arrested at the railway station in Przemysl, Austrian Galicia, yesterday as he was about to start for Odessa. He has called upon Bartlett Tripp, United States Minister here, to interefere in his behalf.

YELLOW FEVER AND NEGLIGENCE.

Several New Cases of the Disease at Brunswick, Ga.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—The fresh outbreak of yellow fever at Brunswick, Ga., is charged by the Marine Hospital Bureau to the criminal negligence of local physicians, and a most rigid investigation with a view of locating the violator of the law has been set on foot.

Surgeon Guiteras, the yellow fever expert at Brunswick, Ga., telegraphed Surgeon General Wyman of the Marine Hospital service that still another case of yellow fever has been discovered. This makes the fourth case recently reported and seven since the disease first appeared. The last case is that of a returned refugee. It is suspected that her child also has the yellow fever.

Many people have returned to Brunswick despite the advice given by the Marine Hospital authorities.

Warnings against too speedy return were given by the public press in that section of the country in order that everybody should be made aware of the danger.

Surgeon Murray and Passed Assistant Surgeon Geddings, both yellow fever experts, have been ordered to Brunswick and inspectors have been stationed at Waycross and Jessup, Ga. Instructions have been given the authorities to prevent the people from Brunswick going south of Atlanta. The detention camp at Waynesville, 25 miles from Brunswick, is about completed and will be opened in a short time.

SATOLLI'S RESIDENCE.

Movement to Provide a Suitable Home for the Ablegate.

CHICAGO, Sep. 15.—The secret conference of the Catholic Archbishops of the United States was continued yesterday afternoon at Archbishop Feehan's residence. There was a long discussion on the question of removing the ban on non-Catholic Secret societies, which are unsectarian and benevolent in purpose.

The question of providing a home for Ablegate Satolli came up and it was definitely fixed that action should be taken immediately toward securing a site in Washington for his residence. A committee was appointed to take charge of the matter.

Upon the question of widening the scope of the Catholic University at Washington, the Archbishops were unanimous in favoring a scheme to establish faculties of science, arts and medicine.

HOW DARE YOU JUDGE?

A Buddhist Startles the Congress of Religions.

SPEAKING FOR 470,000,000 PEOPLE

He Ascertains That Only Five of His Vast Audience Had Ever Read the Life of Budda and Four the Life of Mohammed. An Eloquent Scoring.

CHICAGO, Sep. 15.—"How dare you judge us!" Arrayed in robes of spotless white which seemed all the whiter by reason of his swarthy countenance and wealth of jet black hair, with arm and index finger extended and every muscle of his body quivering with excitement, Dharmapala, the Buddhist priest and scholar from Calcutta, stood upon the edge of the platform in the Hall of Washington, and thus hurled defiance at the great audience before him. A volley of cheers was the response. Behind the striking figure from the Orient, dwelling intent upon every word, sat the venerable Edward Everett Hale, who had just come from an adjoining hall. On his right was the negro prince from Africa, on his left Mrs. Ormiston Chant, the English radical. Next to her, his head encircled in a turban of white, Dakoyoshi Matuyaama, the advocate of Shintoism, side by side with the negro Protap Chunder Mazoomdar, the philosopher of the Brahmo-Somaj. It was a striking scene and a striking occasion.

The Buddhist had been introduced, after an address of remarkable literality by Rev. Dr. E. L. Rexford of Boston. He expressed his gratification that an opportunity had been afforded him of crossing the water to participate in the parliament, and said that it mattered little what a man's dogma, or what his theology, if he was only sincere and true to the light within him. Then surveying the audience, he suddenly demanded "How many of you have read the life of Budda?" Five hands, four of them belonging to women, were timidly held up. "Five only" said the Buddhist, with tone and look of disdain. "Four hundred and seventy millions of people accept our religion of love and of hope. You call yourself a nation, a great nation, and yet you do not know the history of this great teacher. How dare you judge us! And the audience cheered again and again.

"You complain that you do not make converts among us," he continued. "You preach a God of love, but in your actions you are selfish. You make of an ignorant or an unsophisticated man a perfect hypocrite. You have used the story of a life crushing bloody Juggernaut to secure the means to save alleged heathens. Juggernaut has been popularized by Christian missionaries, and yet a commission composed of eminent Englishmen has declared that the Christian idea of Juggernaut was a myth, that death and blood were repulsive to our people. This Christian story has been exploded. It has gone into oblivion." And so the Orientalist went on, scoring his hearers and defending his own creed. He asked how many had read the life of Mohammed, the prophet of Arabia, and when four hands went up he asked why they should denounce Mohammedanism when they knew nothing of it or its founder. And with every sentence he carried his audience with him.

Quite as radical in its way was the address of Rev. Dr. Rexford, the Boston Universalist divine, and he took for his subject "The Religious Intent." He said he had no sympathy with people who wanted to be separated from the bonds that bound them to the tragic past. He preferred to keep his share of the bond so that he could rejoice in the development of mankind, in glorifying that evolutionary religion which had brought them where they were to-day. He did not believe in talking of a fallen man, but of an undeveloped man. Revelation was never a divine message until it was understood.

The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott was another of the leading speakers of the day, taking for his topic, "Religion Essentially a Characteristic of Humanity," he spoke in his usually eloquent strain. Temples and priests, he said, were the creatures of religion. They had not made it. Christ came not to create religion, but to develop that which was already in existence. Science was the thought of man trying to find the reality that lay behind the mysteries of nature. All life was a search after the infinite. Agnostics might call out to them to stop, but they had to go on because they could not help it. The blemishes and blurs of human handiwork were upon Christianity, but it was not Christianity concerning which they desired to tell their brothers from across the sea, but Christ.

Shattuck Guilty.

Shattuck is only 22 years of age.

Emma Goldman Bailed.

NEW YORK, Sep. 15.—Dr. Julius Hoffman, called at the District Attorney's office yesterday, and went on the bond of Emma Goldman, the alleged Anarchist. Dr. Hoffman was introduced to Mr. Nicoll and was duly identified by Justus Schwab. His bond for $2,000 was accepted.

THE BRAZILIAN REVOLT.

Fragmentary News of the Bombardment at Rio.

NEW YORK, Sept 15.—A Buenos Ayres telegram gives fragmentary news of the Brazilian revolt. President Peixoto still controls the telegraph lines.

The insurgent squadron is reported to have bombarded an arsenal town near Rio Janeiro, but which one it is impossible as yet to ascertain. The insurgents captured the government gunboat Alagoas, which lay in the harbor, and surrendered without firing a shot. The forts at the entrance to the harbor fired on the insurgent fleet, but without effect. The insurgents directed their fire upon the arsenals and forts. The government ironclad Bania, which started for Paraguay river to oppose any revolt in the fleet at Matto Grosso, has been ordered to return to the defence of Rio Janeiro. The officers of the government gunboat Tiradentes, which has been in the harbor of Montevideo for several days, expect to be attacked shortly by the insurgent transport Itacca and they have prepared their ship for action. Of the 488 officers in the Brazilian navy 286 have joined the insurgents.

American interests in Brazil are absolutely unprotected, unless the presence of the United States Minister at Rio can be considered as a protection to them. It will be from four days to a week before the cruiser Charleston can reach Rio from Montevideo, for while the distance is only 1,030 miles the vessel will be obliged to coal before starting and coaling is something not easily accomplished at the latter port.

Yesterday the navy department was informed of the departure of the Detroit from Hampton Roads for Brazil. The journey to Rio will consume two weeks, so that the vessel cannot join the Charleston until September 28 at the earliest.

Another dispatch states that the telegraph office at Rio has been abandoned on account of the bombardment. This may cause additional delay in the transmission of official dispatches. Telegrams sent via Lisbon have passed uninterrupted, but the Galveston and other lines have experienced much trouble in getting telegraphic matter through.

THE HALLIDAY CASE.

Fragments of the Accused Woman's Strange Talk.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 15.—Deputy County Clerk I. L. Weed received a package from Coroner Rosche containing the evidence taken at the inquest on the body of old Paul Halliday. The testimony of the doctors shows that the body was not mutilated, as was supposed. Accompanying the package were three sealed envelopes containing the bullets taken from the bodies found on the Halliday farm. Two of the packages were quite heavy.

Mrs. Halliday said in a low, distinct voice "The old man brought those two women to my house. They were perfect strangers to me; I never saw them before. The men came and quarrelled and threw me out in the dark and they fought." She then cried out "Go away, Mollie Perkins; we don't want you at the hotel. The hotel was my grandmother's in the United States of America."

Mrs. Halliday was visited by a reporter while she was eating her supper last evening. She said: "Naney, that Irishman came to my house and wanted me to be his lover. He wanted to take me to his house, but I would not go with him. The men came and made a terrible racket. My husband took me by the shoulders and put me out of the house, and I was not well at the time. I knew General Garfield and he was shot."

Mrs. Halliday has acted as if she had seen angels floating around her.

IMMIGRANT INSPECTION.

Secretary Carlisle Takes Up the Question With Canada.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—Secretary Carlisle has written a letter to Sir John Thompson, the Canadian Premier, calling attention to the hardships, annoyances and expense that will result from a failure of the two countries to arrive at some agreement as to immigrants landing in Canada, but who are destined for the United States. It is pointed out that our laws require such immigrants to be thoroughly examined and that these examinations can be made more effectively at a few points than at many, and at much less expense to both countries. Mr. Carlisle expresses the determination to execute the law on behalf of the United States, even if every port of entry in the northern frontier has to be manned by immigrant inspectors.

HARDSHIPS FOR HOME-SEEKERS

The Interior Department Authorizes the Employment of a Thousand Additional Registry Clerks—Five Excited Applicants for Every Claim.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sep. 15.—Secretary Hoke Smith has at last yielded to the pressure of public sentiment and authorized the officers in charge of the registration booths at this point to increase the clerical force to any extent that is deemed necessary, a thousand if required. He has also authorized them to open all booths required in this city, and thus make it unnecessary for persons to undergo the hardships incident to registering at the border line. The news of this order was received by the home seekers here with great rejoicing, and has tended to allay the bitter feeling that has been aroused against the registration laws. At booth No. 9 more than 1,000 women had their names recorded. They were principally school teachers, typewriters' clerks and servants.

The crowds are steadily on the increase. If 20 booths should be opened in this city and a force of 80 clerks employed it would still be impossible to register all the home seekers. The cattlemen held a meeting here and resolved to send the following telegram to Grover Cleveland:

"We, the undersigned cattlemen, thoroughly posted upon the condition of affairs here, respectfully protest against the registration system as carried on at booth No 9. Seven thousand people are now in line and thousands arrive on each train. A conflict between parties who are not registered and troops is imminent unless the system is abandoned. The honor of your administration is being jeopardized. Common humanity demands relief for honest settlers desiring to enter the strip who cannot register. Immediate action is necessary. Registration is a farce."

The conduct of the soldiers at booth 9 is despicable. They appear to be in collusion with the clerks, and for a consideration of $2 will conduct a home seeker to the back door of the booth and secure his registration out of turn. It is freely charged that clerks are making a business of registering passing acquaintances at their hotels after the booth has been closed.

At Caldwell there were between 4,000 and 5,000 persons in line before the booths waiting for registration.

At Hunnewell the registration officers are exerting every effort to complete their work by Saturday at noon, but unless they are provided with many more clerks they will not succeed.

The temperature is exceedingly hot, but the suffering is not as great as formerly, and fewer prostrations are reported. Yesterday a colony of 200 Scandinavians arrived here under the management of Oscar Johnson of McPherson county. The colony is chartered by the State of Kansas and expects to establish a community in the new country.

A colony of several hundred negroes arrived yesterday, every one having a printed certificate granting him a piece of land upon his arrival and presentation of the same to the land office. These people were victimized by some scoundrel who traveled through Louisiana and sold them these certificates at $10 each. Other parties have arrived with tickets entitling them to a draw in the Cherokee Strip land drawing, for which they paid several dollars each. At Hennesy yesterday, a man from Kansas City was knocked down on the main street and robbed of $250. It is estimated by conservative men that by Saturday there will be in line to take part in the race about five persons for every claim on the Strip. At Orlando over 500 women have been in line for two days, and a special registration booth was opened for them yesterday afternoon. A large force of extra clerks are being hired and four to ten more booths will be opened at every registering point to-day.

Speculation Rampant.

NEW YORK, Sep. 15.—The Indian Land Adjustment League of which Wm. Lloyd Garrison is president, issued an address to the American people regarding the impending opening of the Cherokee strip. It says the opening will prove to be simply a gigantic real estate speculation in which the rights of the genuine home seekers will be lost sight of. By means of bicycles, fast horses and balloons, every effort is being made to shut out those who actually need the land. In this Columbian year when liberty, equality and fraternity are the watch words of the Republic, the address points to the armed bodies of men who at a government signal are to trample on every obligation of fraternity and brotherhood. The league declares that the best part of Oklahoma is now held by speculators and that the same result is inevitable in the Cherokee strip. The league says it has facts to prove that the majority of the boomers now on the strip border are not genuine home seekers but speculators.

The address calls on the people to stamp with their disapproval the laws that permit such a rush for land and to agitate for the application of the lease principle to Indian land openings.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Fair and Cooler Tomorrow.

The opening of the Board of Trade is a most felicitous event for Plainfield. The Press hopes for great things for Plainfield from its powerful influence.

Mayor Gilbert, by his extremely interesting talk in Trade Temple last night, once more shows him to be wide awake to the city's interests and alert to the needs of the hour.

PLAINFIELD THE MODEL.

Plainfield's prosperity is the admiration and envy of sister cities, one of which, New Brunswick, through its leading newspaper, The Home News, sets up this wail:

Business men of this city who go to Plainfield come back disgusted, not because there is anything the matter with that city, but because they found an excellent electric railroad in operation there, and their disgust is engendered because all we have here is a poor, one-horse railway that runs between two cemeteries. One's disgust is turned to indignation when it is remembered that our city was offered a first-class electric road a year or so ago, and before Plainfield had its road. The people of that place are delighted with the trolley road and patronize it very generously. It has recently been extended and will shortly be further extended to Netherwood and other suburbs. Just now there are numerous costly buildings in progress of erection in Plainfield, including one on Front street covering nearly a block to cost about $150,000, and another to cost about $50,000. All these evidences of prosperity might have been even more abundantly ours were it not for the baneful influence of the grasping politicians who are in control here.

New Brunswick has been as unfortunate in its government as it is fortunate in natural advantages. By right of situation, on the heights overlooking the pleasant Raritan, the old Dutch settlement has grown to be a powerful commercial centre and a city of some beautiful and aristocratic homes. This growth has been in spite of the tremendous drawbacks put upon it by selfish political schemers: and what a city might not New Brunswick be, were it not for that! Public officials have robbed it; personal and corporate greed have kept the taxes high and the treasury low; public improvements have been steadily prevented. So easy and desirable a thing as the erection of a new stone bridge across the Raritan has been delayed until now, though it was a grave necessity ten years ago. The rapid transit of the age is resolutely kept out of the streets, and wornout horses drag hearse-like cars about like snails. What New Brunswick needs to lift it out of the slough is public spirit and modern push in the hearts of its citizens. Its voters are dead to their city's welfare. They may well rub their eyes and look to Plainfield for example. The reason Plainfield forges ahead is because its people are wide-awake, and because public and private purses alike are open for the liberal expenditure of money in channels which are sure to return manifold benefits.

The most charitable thing New Brunswick can do itself is to have an overturning at the polls and put in power men who will use the public funds to uplift and upbuild their decaying municipality.

ON MR. SCHEPFLIN'S GREEN.

A Pleasant Meeting of the Dunellen Bowling Club Interfered with by Rain.

A practice game at "bowls" was played at Dunellen yesterday afternoon by members of the Dunellen Bowling Club. Two rinks were formed: one with Mr. Schepfin as skip, assisted by James Smyth and D. B. S. Cockburn of New York, and C. K. Moore, of Fanwood. The other by Thos. Stone, skip; with John Booth and John Young, of New York, and Andrew Love, of Plainfield, as aids. Result—Mr. Stone, 21; Mr. Schepflin, 15.

A scientific single-handed game was bowled between Messrs. William Elliott, of New York, and Samuel Laurie, of Auburn, N. Y., resulting in the victory for Mr. Laurie of 21 to Mr. Elliott 13.

Mr. Elliott immediately challenged Mr. Laurie to a game of eleven points, but as the rain storm interferred, all bowling was dispensed with.

As great rivalry exists between Messrs. Elliott and Laurie it is not improbable that a match will be arranged on a Scotland Green, with John Young as referee.

The Dunellen Bowling Green Club will play a match game with the Boston Bowling Green Club, Saturday, Sept. 23.

LIVELY MIDNIGHT CHASE.

Policeman Flanagan Has an Experience with a Burly Negro.

Policeman Flanagan, attracted by cries of "Murder!" found a man and woman, negroes, quarreling at Madison avenue and Seventh street. The man fled, and the policeman chased him over picket fences and through backyards. Though the officer shot at him, he got away, disappearing in Rowland Cox's yard. The man left his hat behind. The woman is a Country Club servant, and says the man was brutal to her.

A NEW ERA IN PLAINFIELD.

THAT'S WHAT THE BOARD OF TRADE HOPES TO ENGENDER.

Trade Temple Opened with Much Good Feeling and Cheer—Mayor Gilbert's Humorous Reminiscence of the Mud Age from Which We Have Emerged—Serious Work Ahead.

The Plainfield Board of Trade formally opened their rooms at 117 East Second street last night; and a royal opening it proved, despite the inclemency of the weather. Long before 8 the Plainfield Cornet Band took possession of the little second floor balcony; and as the members of the board and the invited guests gathered, music, sweetly-cadenced, swelled the air without the building and crept subdued into the rooms, adding another charm to brilliant lights and the sparkle of greetings, conversation and jest.

At 8:30 the company gathered in the handsomely furnished meeting room; as many as could, occupied chairs; the remainder gathered about; the jam was so great, it blocked the doorways; Judge W. A. Coddington as chairman rapped for order. On motion of J. B. Coward, the regular order of business was suspended and the date of the next meeting fixed for next Thursday night.

The special programme for the evening was then taken up. The Barnby Quartette, composed of Elmer Runyon, first tenor, Frank Knight, second tenor, Robert Gorton, first bass, and Arthur Freeman, second bass, sang a selection entitled "The Happiest Land", which was heartily applauded.

Mayor Gilbert was then called upon, and delivered an address that should have been heard to be properly appreciated.

"A gentleman in New York city, with whom I am acquainted,"—the Mayor said in part,—"mentioned to me some time ago that he had read in the newspapers that Plainfield was to have a board of trade; and he expressed a doubt as to the city's need of such an institution. I maintained at that time that we did need a board of trade—not merely to supervise matters of retail trade, small buying and selling, but to advance the city's larger interests; and I find that what I said then, half in earnest and half in jest, was true, and that the organization of the Board of Trade is a most important step in Plainfield's development. A city is not built in a day. Its building is a slow process and necessitates first a recognition on the part of the people of what is needed to promote the city's growth, and a willingness on the part of individuals to bear some part of the burden.

"I look with pride upon the growth that Plainfield has made since 1860, and especially upon the growth of our ideas, which now demand that Plainfield shall occupy no second-rate place among sister cities. I remember the time when we emerged from the mud age to the stone age. All public meetings were held in Laing's Hall twenty-five years ago; and a meeting was called there to discuss public improvements.

"There were men who arose in that meeting and opposed flag sidewalks. They said it was another new-fangled notion of the New Yorkers. They said we only slept here; they called us roosters, and said they did n't wear patent leather, and if they could walk in the mud, New Yorkers could.

"Then came the struggle over the city charter—a struggle to obtain a government clothed with adequate power; and the foresight of our people triumphed; and business principles were introduced and economy was enforced in the city government.

"When we look back, we are surprised to find how much we have accomplished. When a larger annual outlay was necessary for city improvements, the people gave a charter amendment authorizing an increased tax rate.

"But the Board of Trade must be broad enough in its scope to include all interests. It should be the aim of this organization to fix public attention on important matters and to mould opinion thereon. Few of us perhaps realize the denseness of popular ignorance on such a subject, for example, as sewage for our city. As is known, I have been circulating a petition to be presented to our Common Council, for the introduction of a system of sewage. Most of the opposition that I have encountered in circulating this petition was based entirely on ignorance. Because a man thought this thing or imagined that thing, without any knowledge whatever he had condemned a system which experts have pronounced perfect. Now it is the duty of this organization to instruct the people in public affairs and to make good citizens of men. The Board of Trade will then be a power in the community, and what nobler work can any man be engaged in than labo ring

"But, gentlemen, the picture is not all of bright colors. There are dangers confronting us. We hear more about practical politics in Plainfield today than ever before. There are more political bosses in each ward than the whole city once had; and the power of patronage is talked of. Along with this, there is a lessening of interest on the part of the people in public affairs. Now I dare say that our guests from Newark and Trenton know what the evils of practical politics are; I lived a number of years in Newark and I speak somewhat from experience. This same evil of practical politics is confronting us, and it results from the neglect by the individual citizen of the simple duties upon which good government depends. The Board of Trade is a non-partisan institution; through it the business man speaks irrespective of party. He speaks in no uncertain sound and commands respect. The important part which boards of trade had in influencing Congress to pass the silver repeal bill is an evidence of their influence.

conscientiously for the interests of the community in which God has placed him."

Prolonged applause followed Mayor Gilbert's speech.

Edwin C. Hill, president of the Trenton Board of Trade, was then called upon and spoke in an interesting manner of the results accomplished by the Trenton board as illustrative of what might be done in Plainfield.

The speaker expressed great pleasure in the beautiful appearance of Plainfield. The city—he said—seems like a paradise, and ought not to be marred by the bringing in of factories. One duty of the Trenton Board of Trade, said the speaker, was to keep a close watch on the Mayor and the Common Council. That however hardly seemed necessary in Plainfield, because Gilbert is Mayor.

Mr. Hill was inclined to think Plainfield's tax rate of 2.20 rather high. They were complaining bitterly in Trenton against a rate of 1.90. The speaker ended his talk by wishing the board every success and inviting the members to visit the Trenton organization when they chanced to be in that city. "Trenton is n't much of a city"—he said.—"The only places of interest are the State Prison and the Legislature; and we have to depend on the rest of the State for them."

The speaker was roundly applauded.

P. T. Quinn, President of the Newark Board of Trade, was to have spoken; but a telegram was received saying that he was too ill to be present. The Barnby Quartette sang "Annie Laurie" and as an encore "When All The World Was Young."

At 10 Judge Coddington arose with a serious air, as if he had a painful duty to perform and feared that somebody would object, and announced that refreshments would now be served. In the billiard room were tables neatly spread; around them members and guests gathered, while the sandwiches, cake and fruit took unto themselves wings, and the lemonade flowed as freely as champagne. Music floated in from the veranda, and for a happy hour conversation and good cheer were rife. Then slowly the goodnights were said, silence crept in, and the lights took offense and went out.

The gathering was fairly representative of Plainfield's best citizens.

Among those present were: Mayor Gilbert, Postmaster E. B. Pope, Judge W. A. Coddington, ex-Mayor Place, of North Plainfield; W. R. Codington, John Abbott, Alonzo H. Titsworth, James K. Arnold, J. A. Hubbard, Street Commissioner R. A. Meeker, John Doane, George Godown, C. M. Ulrich, Dean Rodman, Councilman Frost, ex-Judge Ulrich, City Clerk Runyon, William H. Sampson, Stephen R. A Long Absence, After This Season.

There are no people on the stage who appreciate the return of pleasantly cool weather any more than do DeWolf Hopper and the members of his merry company, for their arduous work in the performance of "Panjandrum", at the Broadway Theatre, New York city, has been performed just as faithfully and conscientiously during the hot nights of July and August as during the opening weeks of its run in May and June.

Nineteen weeks have elapsed since the initial production of "Panjandrum", and the run, taken in its entirety, has been a highly satisfactory one, financially, as well as in an artistic sense, and in spite of the discomforts of midsummer, the unusual stringency in monetary matters, and the absence of a greater portion of Metropolitan theatre-goers, the attendance at every performance, withal, has shown an excellent average.

But three more weeks remain of the comedian's present engagement in the Metropolis, and at its termination an extended tour of the country will be inaugurated in Montreal on October 2 Before he again visits the Empire City, all of the principal points in the United States and Canada will be visited, and his next appearance in New York will be February 18, 1895, at the Broadway Theatre, on which date an entirely new comic opera will be presented.

All of the members of the company have returned from their vacations, the latest to rejoin the cast being Miss Della Fox, who made her reappearance last Monday in the character of Paquita.

A great feature at the Broadway during the past week has been the appearance at every performance of Miss Lole Fuller in a series of her wonderful dance creations; in fact she has created a veritable sensation, and her success has been so emphatic that her auditors responded in enthusiastic applause, and on every occasion were loth to let her go. The curtain was raised from five to eight times each evening after her dances, and every call was smilingly acknowledged by the graceful, nimble dancer. Miss Fuller will continue two weeks longer with the Hopper organization, and will at every performance of "Panjandrum" appear between the acts.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

There seems to be a diversity of opinion among our village statesmen as to who'll be the Democratic nominee for Senator in our county this fall.

Business has been so brisk in Justice Crosley's court, the past week, that they have not found time to put the lights out, or else they forgot to.

"Cornell" Taylor, of the Dunellen Hotel, drives a team of bob-tails through North Plainfield streets every other day, attached to a runabout.

Ex-Councilman Charles Parkhurst Sebring has completed his electric line into Bound Brook, and now does most of the inside lighting in that town.

Mr. Wennas, of Vine street, the bridge builder, who was home for a few days on a visit, has gone to Pennsylvania to attend business engagements.

The young fishermen's paradise seems to be on the banks of Tier's Lake. Every afternoon crowds of youngsters may be seen with rod and line fishing there.

The Saenger and Turner Hall people who rented their building to the School Trustees for two months for $60 have already spent $75 in alterations to suit the trustees.

Will McLaughlin, with Plainfield's uptown grocer MacDonald, took a number of views along Johnston Drive recently and intends using them as lantern-slides the coming winter.

John A. Thickstun and John H. French, the miller, were both born in the large old-fashioned dwelling on Somerset street between Race street and Manning avenue, now owned by Mr. French.

There is a little Miss who lives on Stone street with a head of blonde hair that would put to shame many an Albino who makes a living exhibiting herself. She is a daughter of a Mr. Brown, and is only ten years old.

Andrew E. Kenney, who has been in the West in the interest of the Emerald Benevolent Society, is now at Cincinnati at the Tremont House. He will be home in a few weeks on a visit to his family. He has met great success this trip.

Sebring's large drill and engine on wheels passed through the borough streets yesterday, and some of the small boys mistook the same for a calliope and pleadingly asked the man aboard to play.

Henry Windham is making arrangements to give a band concert on the lawn adjoining his hotel. Elaborate decorations will be a feature, and a sextette of male singers from New York are to take part.

For the first time in the last half part of this century the lights of the Cracker Barrel Club are being put out at 7 every evening. The club's members are now compelled to meet under shade trees and lamp posts along Somerset street.

Captain Morrison, for a long time past connected with Heyniger's grainery on Somerset street, has many warm friends in the borough who will miss his absence very much. Mr. Morrison is an interesting conversationalist and an entertaining companion. Luck to you, Captain Morrison, wherever you may go!

"Aunt Annie" Washington, the good-natured old colored woman who used to reside in the alley in the rear of French's mills, and whose five-o'clock Gambrinus teas were so lively, is home again after a few years spent in Richmond, Va., and a month or two "wisitin'" in Massachusetts. She says the "conclusionment of her totin' de cross up de steep old hill, what her ole missus use ter read 'bout when de baby dun gone to sleep, is comin' some day".

THE STROLLER.

WESTFIELD TOPICS.

The Postmastership Settled — Clubs and Consolidation—Burglaries and the Centennial.

WESTFIELD, Sept. 15.

The fight for the postmastership goes merrily on. Certain men are doing a great deal of talking, but are not harming anyone except it be their own candidate. It appears that the struggle has been finally settled by Congressman Dunn, who has decided to endorse Mulford Scudder. The postmastership in Westfield is fast becoming an important and lucrative position.

The Westfield Athletic Club and the Union League Club both have nicely appointed club-houses, with bowling alleys, billiard rooms and other time-killing and care-killing devices. Considering the fact that Westfield is rather a small town to support two such organizations, it is not surprising that there are rumors of steps towards the consolidation of the clubs. I shall not attempt at present to say how much there is back of the rumors, I simply mention their existence as an interesting fact.

The centennial celebration scheme languishes. The village will be one hundred years old very soon; but she does n't seem to realize it vividly. On July 4, a committee was appointed to call a meeting of citizens to talk over the matter of a centennial celebration. The meeting has not yet been called.

Two bold burglaries have been committed this week. The market of John Singer, on Broad street, was entered early Wednesday morning and some provisions stolen.

At 2 yesterday morning the grocery of Fred Crouch on Central avenue was broken into and the safe drilled and blown open. Entrance to the store was made through the front door. The sound of the explosion when the safe was blown open was so loud that the sleepers in neighboring houses were awakened. The burglars took fright and made off without securing any booty. The burglaries are thought to be the work of New York cracksmen.

REESE.

Not in the Play.

Little Ethel Black, who plays the son of the hero in "A Flag of Truce" in Music Hall, Saturday, recently gave the members of the company playing this highly interesting drama, a novel experience. During the third act, the little one, after saying her prayers, is snugly tucked away in a cot, which occupies a central position on the stage, behind heavy portieres. After the curtain falls on the climax of the act, it is supposed to rise again on a picture which shows the little son clinging to his father. The curtain went up, but the child was nowhere in sight. As soon as the scene was over, Mr. Haworth, the author, rushed to the stage manager, and asked: "Where is that young one?" The stage manager grinned, pulled the portieres aside, and pointed to the cot. There the infant rival of Eleonora Duse was discovered, fast asleep.

He's a Lively Agent.

J. W. VanHorn, of the borough, has received a silver water pitcher and goblet as a prize from the Prudential Insurance Company, of which he is an agent, for having transacted the largest amount of business for the company during the past three months. Some time ago Mr. VanHorn received three fine steel engravings framed, from the company, as a reward for his diligence in the company's business.

Attorney McClure Was Away and Ill.

The case of Smith against Lederer, for alleged breach of contract, which was to have been tried today by Justice Mosher, was postponed one week on account of the illness of defendant's counsel, W. K. McClure, in Montreal.

Scudder Was Guilty.

John Scudder four weeks ago robbed John Giles while the latter was intoxicated. In the Court of Special Sessions in Elizabeth Scudder pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced Sept. 20.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

AT LAST THEY GET A PRESIDENT.

SHE'S A NEWCOMER, AND HAS A GREAT RECORD ELSEWHERE.

W. C. T. U. Work Not to Languish—Reception to the New Head of the Organization, Planned for Thursday.

The September business meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in their rooms yesterday afternoon. The Vice-President from the First Baptist church presided.

The Nominating Committee appointed to find a President reported favorably. By a rising vote the Secretary cast the ballot and Miss Cara L. Peck was declared elected. The oldest member of the W. C. T. U., who is seldom absent from the meetings, carried to Miss Peck a beautiful bunch of flowers announcing her election.

Miss Peck is a woman of exceptional qualities. Though a stranger as yet in Plainfield, she has understood the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, having been associated with the organization in Michigan some few years ago. She is a newcomer and lives on East Front street.

Many will remember the paper Miss Peck read at the Union County School of Methods, touching in a most interesting and concise manner the Juvenile work; and later at the Ocean Grove Summer Convention, where she spoke most acceptably on the general work of the W. C. T. U. As an organization, while we deeply regret losing our retiring President as our leader, we feel most fortunate in securing one so able and efficient to fill the office.

An informal reception and tea will be held by the Union next Thursday afternoon between 3 and 5, when it is hoped every member will be present to meet and welcome the newly elected President.

The Executive Committee met at the close of the regular business meeting to appoint the Superintendents and other Standing Committees for the ensuing year's work.

C. R. YATES,
Superintendent of Press.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Reporter Elderton of The Courier will leave town tomorrow for Virginia, where he is to be married. He will bring his bride home in two weeks.

The many friends of Miss Mabel Woodruff, of East Second street, are rejoiced to know that she is home again, after a delightful visit with friends in the Smoky City.

In order to get into good company, ex-City Judge Codington has delayed his trip to Chicago one day, and tomorrow afternoon he and Freeholder Vanderbeek go together.

Recorder Conneely and Jacob H. Johnson, of Bayonne, are in town today. The genial Judge is one of the leading legal luminaries of the State, and Mr. Johnson is an astute Hudson county detective.

Robert Whittaker, formerly of this city, performed as a hurdle racer in Hunting's Circus yesterday, to the great delight of his friends, who presented him with a handsome bouquet. Mr. Whittaker is still suffering somewhat from an accident of a few days ago.

At a meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association, Wednesday evening, three delegates were elected to attend the State convention at Lambertville, Wednesday, Sept. 27: Chief T. O. Doane and firemen Auguste Saltzman, R. B. Bogers and R. J. Spicer.

An afternoon tea will be held on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis Club, tomorrow, from 4 until 6. Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna will receive, assisted by Mrs. D. F. Ginna, Mrs. D. C. Ivins, Miss Cooley, Miss Gilman, Miss Bessie Ginna, Miss Huntington, Miss Streuli, Miss Stewart and Miss Tompkins. The reception will be the last of this season.

Miss Annie Boorman and Charles F. Pond, both of North Plainfield, were married by their brother-in-law, the Rev. C. R. Strong, at New Brunswick, yesterday. They have gone to Boston on a wedding trip of two weeks, and on their return will go to housekeeping at the bride's former home, 74 Washington avenue, North Plainfield. The bride's sister Miss Laura has purchased a home on Leland avenue and will move into it on the return of the bride.

Death of Aunt Jeannette Kelley.

The funeral services of the late "Aunt Jeannette" Kelley, of Oak Tree, will take place at the Metuchen M. E. church this afternoon. Mrs. Kelly is survived by three sons, William, "Sank" and "Ollie", and by two daughters, to all of whom her death is a sad bereavement. The deceased was well-known to every prominent person in Middlesex county, and her death is a cause of sincere sorrow to all who knew her.

Electrocuted a Rat.

A large rat was caught at the car house last night. The men attached a wire to the rat's body and also to an electric circuit, and the rat was electrocuted, instant death resulting as the current passed through the animal's body.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

BROKE OPEN A BARN.

William O. Baldwin Buys Hay in Somerville, But His Men Can't Get It Without Smashing a Door.

William O. Baldwin, of West Fourth street, was this morning arrested by Constable VanHorn on a warrant from Somerville, charging him with unlawfully entering the barn of a man named Poole in that place.

Baldwin, it appears, purchased a quantity of hay from Poole, and yesterday sent his men to cart it away. The men found the barn in which the hay was stored locked, and none near to open it for them. They decided to force the door rather than return to Plainfield empty-handed. This they did, and departed with the hay. When Poole, the owner of the barn, learned what had been done, he swore out a warrant for Baldwin's arrest. Before Justice Nash today Baldwin furnished $100 bail to appear before the grand jury at its next session.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Reynolds says get ready for winter, and tells how.

—Tom Morrison's ugly dog bit the Rev. Koechli's eldest son this forenoon.

—The North Plainfield school will re-open next Tuesday. The entrance is on Vine street, temporarily.

—The Saengerbund had a merry time last night in celebration of the birthday anniversary of one of its feminine members.

—One of the new cars for the street railway has been shipped, and is expected to arrive in this city some time today. The other will be sent as soon as possible.

—The case of Kimball against Chase, which was to have been tried by Justice Nash today, was postponed two weeks, on account of the absence of the plaintiff's attorney.

—Keenan, Rafferty, Sneeden and Smith play with the Elizabeth Athletic Club against the New Jersey Athletics tomorrow. Manager Keller could n't arrange a game for Plainfield.

—The Exempt Firemen's fund is low. To replenish it, for its excellent work, for the coming winter, the Wrens will give one of their benefit entertainments in the Casino Monday night.

—A strong petition, signed by influential parishioners, has been presented to the Holy Cross vestry, urging that body to investigate the case of Choirmaster Miner, since the signers feel that injustice has been done.

—Hunting's Circus afforded high pleasure to Plainfield people, who attended in large numbers. It was bright, entertaining, wholesome, and will be warmly welcomed by liberal patronage when it comes again next year.

—A valuable horse belonging to John I. Holly was seized with the colic last evening while being driven with another, through town. The animal was taken to the Metropolitan Stables on North avenue, where he finally died.

—To-night in the W. C. T. U. rooms, at Watchung avenue and Fourth street, several young ladies, representing the Sunday-school Committee of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church, will hold a peach festival. The amount realized will be given to the Sunday-school of the church. It is worthy of patronage.

Insurance Promptly Paid.

John C. Manchester, who died suddenly Saturday, August 19, was a member of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W. Mrs. Manchester on Wednesday received a warrant for $2,000, the amount for which her husband's life was insured in the order.

BROCKWAY SUSPENDED.

Investigating the Affairs of the Elmira Reformatory.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sep. 15.—The board of managers of the New York State Reformatory held a meeting at that institution. Superintendent Brockway stated to the board that he did not desire to block them in carrying out the wishes of Governor Flower, and requested to be relieved of his duties during the investigation of the reformatory by the State Board of Charities. The board decided to appoint James B. Rathbone, a member of the board, to act as superintendent pending the investigation and to temporarily retire Mr. Brockway from office. The members of the board state that after having explained to the Governor certain conditions which from personal observation they thought might arise, should Mr. Brockway retire temporarily, and finding the Governor's judgment unchanged after becoming cognizant of these facts, they had decided to act in accordance with his wishes and grant Mr. Brockway's request to be temporarily relieved from office.

CONTRACT LABOR.

An Important Decision Involving Family Relationship.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—Col. Stump, Superintendent of Immigration, has rendered a decision in which he construes the immigrant law in connection with degrees of relationship. The case in point is that of Vito Bochiccio of Naples, Italy, whom he orders excluded as having come here under contract. Bochiccio had a brother living in New Jersey who sent him his passage money and told him if he came here he could secure him work, giving him the name of the person for whom he was to work and the amount he was to receive. Such action, the decision holds, might be permissible of a head of a family, anxious to keep his family together, but was not so under the law in a brother or in a relative of a lesser degree.

ESTHER CLEVELAND.

The White House Baby Given a Scriptural Name.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 15.—The new White House baby will be known hereafter as "Esther." This old-fashioned name has been selected for the child by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. It is stated that the selection of this name has no significance other than the partiality of the parents for scriptural denominatives and that it means "a star" and "good fortune."

SOME ODD STORIES.

INTERESTING TALES OF ADVENTURE ON SEA AND LAND.

A South African Story—A Desperate Struggle With Baboons—The Band of Faithful Dogs—Perils In the Dark Continent. Fierce Creatures to Encounter.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

When in South Africa last year, I met the hero of the struggle I am about to describe, and my readers will agree with him when he says that "not for all the diamonds taken from the Kimberley mines, nor for all the gold in the hills of Mashonaland, would I repeat that experience."

Mr. Nicholas Hurter, a powerful man of middle age and a famous South African hunter, lives in the district of Somerset East and within sight of the Vogel River mountains. Last September, accompanied by four powerful dogs and armed with pistols and a repeating rifle, he went into the hills for a few days' sport.

On previous expeditions Mr. Hurter had frequently seen many large, manlike baboons, but as they were not game and always fled at his approach he never bothered them nor ever dreamed that they would bother him.

DRAWN TO THE EDGE OF THE CLIFF.

He had reached a place in the mountains where he had often made camp before because of the abundance of fuel and the fine spring near by, when he was surprised by a prolonged series of half human cries that seemed to come from the top of the precipitous rock at the base of which he had come to a halt.

The dogs at once set up a vociferous barking, and stepping back Mr. Hurter saw a band of at least 20 immense baboons clambering down the cliff with blood in their eyes. It looked as if, tired of flying from the white man, they had resolutely determined to become the aggressors.

As the foremost of the fierce creatures came to the level the dogs, unheeding the call of their master, sprang at him, and as the other baboons now began leaping down from the rocks in a way that would have killed a man Mr. Hurter thought only of the danger to his dogs and started in to save them. He fired into the group, and as he was not 30 feet away he soon laid out eight of the largest of the animals, but in doing so he exhausted all the loads in his magazine.

In that first onset, three of the dogs were speedily killed, and the baboons crowded about Mr. Hurter so that he had to club his rifle to keep them away, and so had no time to load up again.

Fifty feet behind him was the Vogel river, which at that point flowed through a canyon, the precipitous sides of which were fully 1,000 feet in depth. Realizing his danger from the baboons and giving no thought to the canyon, he fell back with his remaining dog till he stood on the edge of the black, yawning chasm.

The animals, with increased cries of anger, followed him, and as he saw the danger behind he was reminded of his pistols, for by this time the stock of his rifle was broken into splinters. Hastily drawing them, he fired into the mass of baboons, which seemed to grow no smaller, though he and the dogs had killed nine.

At length the last shot was fired from the pistols, and at that instant a huge male animal that had been slightly wounded in the shoulder leaped on the dog and dragged him to the edge of the precipice.

Mr. Hurter clubbed his pistols and was running to help the last of his dogs, when another baboon equally strong and fierce attacked him from behind. This creature seized the hunter by the leg with such force as to bring his big white teeth together near the thigh bone.

In moments of great danger and excitement, men do not feel a sudden wound. With a blow from his pistol and a quick turn, Mr. Hurter freed himself from the animal, but the next instant it had leaped upon his chest and was trying to seize his throat in its teeth.

Strangely enough, and fortunately for the hunter, the baboons did not act in concert. Had they done so the result would have been different.

Mr. Hurter never lost his presence of mind. Dropping his pistols, he fastened his powerful hands on the hairy throat of the monster, whose fierce eyes were now not a foot away from his own, but he soon felt that, with only nature's weapons to help him, he was no match for his half human antagonist.

He was being drawn to the edge of the cliff when he bethought him of his knife, and with a quick movement of the right hand he drew it from his belt and plunged it into the baboon's face.

The creature's claws had torn his scalp so that he was nearly blood blinded, while the drain from the wound in his thigh was fast exhausting him.

He felt that the struggle could not continue much longer. His clothes were torn from his back, and with an intelligence that seemed human and a malignity positively devilish the creature was forcing him to the edge of the canyon.

At this juncture the remaining dog, having succeeded in killing his assailant, sprang to the rescue of his master. The baboon, on being attacked in the rear, released his hold on the man and turned on the dog.

The faithful dog, already weakened by the loss of blood, was unable to cope with the baboon, but he clung to him and drew him closer to the precipice, over which the two soon fell.

At sight of this the other baboons made off with cries of alarm, and the hunter succeeded in reaching that night a mining camp, where he was kindly cared for.

Rather Sharp.

The belief in fortune tellers is as old as human curiosity and the yearning to lift the veil of the future, nor is the belief in the powers of gypsies, "seventh daughters of seventh daughters," "trance mediums" or people born with a "call," whatever that may be, confined to the servant girl class.

I know two well educated young ladies who, made curious by the advertisements of a fortune teller, an alleged gypsy who had made a competency out of "credulous humanity," determined secretly to consult her.

One of the things this woman promised to do was to show the young women who patronized her the faces of their future husbands, and this it was no doubt that induced my young friends to pay $1 each to see, as they imagined, the portraits of the men to whom they were to be wed.

They were admitted into a half lit room, candles burning, though the sun was shining brightly outside, and the walls decorated with snakes in tinsel and many cabalistic signs that the girls could not understand, and which no doubt conveyed no meaning to the adventuress, except it might be their effectiveness in adding to the awe of her patrons.

The fortune teller called herself "a palmist" and pretended to look into the future of the girls through their palms. Being an excellent judge of human nature and a keen physiognomist, as are all people of that class, the woman had no difficulty in giving a pretty accurate delineation of the girls' characters. This with many of her visitors might have passed for fortune telling, but it did not suit these particular young ladies.

"We know pretty well what we are," said one of the girls, beginning to see through the fraud. "Now, what we want to know is the future."

"But haven't I told you that you are to be married and each of you is to have five children? Yours'll be three boys and two girls, and hern'll be just the opposite."

"That's all right," said the second girl, "but you promised to show our husbands' faces, and we want to see them."

"Or to get our money back," added the first.

"I never returns any money," said the old lady, "but if you two insist on it I won't mind showing you the faces—that'll belong to your husbands."

The young ladies did not notice the emphasis the old creature put on the words "that'll belong," so they followed her into an adjoining room, where there was more light. Pointing to a mirror hanging against the wall, she said:

"Look into that."

The young ladies did so, and one of them exclaimed:

"Why, we see only our own faces."

"Well, isn't that right?" asked the hag, with a bow.

"It is not right. You promised to show us our husbands' faces."

"And so I have. Won't them two be your husbands' faces—when you are married?"

Angered with the woman and disgusted with themselves, the girls left the place, their faith in fortune telling entirely undermined.

"How good digestion waits on appetite, And health on both."

To assure both the above ends, good, wholesome, palatable food is demanded. It is next to impossible to present a sufficient variety of appetizing bills of fare for our meals without a liberal allowance of pastry and other food in which shortening is required. How to make crisp, healthful, digestible pastry has puzzled the cooks. A difficulty in all good cooking in the past has been lard. Always fickle, never uniform, most unwholesome—lard has always been the bane of the cook and the obstacle to "good digestion."

COTTOLENE

comes now into popular favor as the new shortening—better than even the best of lard with none of lard's objectionable qualities. And

COTTOLENE

comes attended by both "APPETITE AND HEALTH."

The Best Feature of the Business Outlook.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Industrial Resumptions Less Conspicuous Than the Previous Week—Increased Bank Deposits—Currency More Plentiful But No Greater Trade.

NEW YORK, Sep. 16.—Bradstreet's today says: "The starting up of idle manufacturing industries has not been as conspicuous this week as last, and in most instances has been with reduced forces and on part time. The stimulated demand for staples at prominent cities in the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys remains the feature of the business week. In other respects there has been no real gain within a week, and the long drawn out indifference of the Senate to the wishes of an enormous majority of the business community has had a depressing effect on the commercial situation. In addition to last week's favorable features of the money markets are increased deposits, a heavy influx of currency from the agricultural regions, and reported extensions of discounts by a few banks, but there has been no further increase in the volume of general trade throughout the country, the increase in the volume of bank clearings within a week being more than accounted for in other ways.

"Business failures in the United States show for the third week in succession a heavy check in the effects of the late financial storm. Two weeks ago the number of failures was 369, last week it was 379, and this week only 300. One year ago the week's total was 143, two years ago it was 236, and three years ago 157. Doubt about the speedy repeal of the Sherman law in the Senate and appreciation of the damage the recent troubles have inflicted on business interests, with the enormous decreases in railroad earnings, have checked the advancing tendency of stock speculation at New York."

ONLY A SKELETON.

Weakened Condition of the Famous Amalgamated Association.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 16.—"The Pittsburg district of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers is but a skeleton of its former self and is in a demoralized condition."

The above remark was made by a prominent member of the order while in conversation with a party of mill workers.

An investigation was instituted and resulted in securing some very interesting data concerning the once powerful organizations. Out 64 iron and steel mills in the Pittsburg district 30 or more are being operated on a non-union basis. Five years ago more than a majority of the mills were working under the Amalgamated Association rules and rates. The first division of the Pittsburg district contains 35 mills, of which 13 are outside of the Amalgamated Association. In the second division of Pittsburg there are 29 mills 15 of which are not governed by Amalgamated rates. A probably greater menace to the future of the organization lies in the very uncertain financial outlook. The loss to the organization of so many mills means a corresponding loss from the per-capita tax and dues, in fact the only source of revenue. It is quite likely that several more mills will be added to the non-union list. Brown & Co., operating the Wayne Iron Works, announced that the scale would not be signed this year, and that work would be resumed on a non-union basis Monday. The rod-mill scale at the Newcastle Iron Works has been signed at 10 per cent. reduction. The mill will resume Monday.

FOREST FIRES.

Only a Change of Wind Saves Deadwood From Destruction.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sep. 16.—Nearly the entire male population put in the night fighting the forest fire north of the city which for hours threatened to sweep all before it. Bankers, merchants, doctors, laboring men and everybody took a hand and by their exertions managed to save the city. At 11 o'clock last night the fire had reached a point on Forest Hill only a mile distant. Just when the men were exhausted and all hopes almost given up, the wind veered and blew away from town for about half an hour. The moments were taken advantage of to cut a cleared path in front of the fire and when the wind again changed and blew toward the city the flames found nothing upon which to feed.

JEWISH RESENTMENT.

Punishment for Fanatics Who Said They Sacrificed Children.

VIENNA, Sep. 16. — Recently Father Meyer, a Catholic priest, Dr. Deckert and Herr Doell, editor of Das Vaterland, accused several Jewish ministers of sacrificing children in observance of religious ceremonies. The accused ministers brought suits for libel, which were closed yesterday. Father Meyer was sentenced to four month's imprisonment and Deckert and Doell were fined heavily.

Three days will be devoted to the discussion of the Sunday questions, and papers bearing on the subject will be read by distinguished clergymen and laymen, both from this country and Europe.

FIVE PRISONERS SHOT.

Ghastly Work of a Lynching Party in Alabama.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Sep. 16—H. Tuler Archer, Will Archer, Polk Hill, Ed Guyton and Ellen Fantal, all negroes, and the latter a woman, prisoners confined in the jail at Carrollton, Pickens county, Ala., were shot to death on Thursday night, by a mob of masked men.

During the present week the mill and gin house of J. E. Woods were burned. The negroes were arrested and confined in the Carrollton jail. The preliminary investigation was in progress, but had not been concluded. On Thursday night the sheriff was called on in his room in the jail building and told that parties had a prisoner whom they had arrested and wanted to turn over to him. The sheriff came down from his room and unlocking the jail door, found himself in the hands of a disguised mob who demanded of him the keys to the cell where the prisoners were confined. This request was urged upon the sheriff by the glistening barrels of a hundred Winchesters. After the officer was overpowered the mob quickly made their way to the grated cells of the prisoners and through the iron bars the barrels of the Winchesters were placed, and from every muzzle came a dozen balls. In a second's time five human beings had been cruelly butchered and their quivering bodies lay in blood which ran in streams across the floor and dyed the walls and ceilings of the cell. The mob then quietly dispersed.

Carrollton is an inland town without railroad or telegraph and it is impossible to get any information as to the testimony against the negroes charged with arson, but it is said that one negro confined in the jail had turned state's evidence against the others. The mob made him leave the jail and also told him it would be best for him to leave the State. The negro left and has not been seen since.

This is the second lynching that Dickens county has furnished in the last few weeks. Joe Floyd, a negro, was hung and his body riddled with bullets for the murder of a white farmer.

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS.

Great Damage Along the Chemung and Susquehanna Valleys.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sep. 16.—A terrific electrical storm broke over this city yesterday and was accompanied by a deluge which quickly swelled the small streams to overflowing and caused destructive washouts and landslides on all the railroads. The storm seems to have been worse east of Elmira and no trains have arrived from the East on the Erie for several hours. There is a landslide on their tracks near Smithboro forty feet long and six feet deep which fills up as fast as it is shoveled away. D. L. & W. trains from the East were also delayed three hours by landslides and washouts.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sep. 16.—The most disastrous storm that has visited this city and vicinity in 25 years broke yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. The rain fell for about four hours. The rivers and creeks were all flooded and considerable damage was done. The thunder and lightning accompanying the storm were terrific. The greatest damage done in the city was in Rossville, a suburb, where four houses, a number of barns and outhouses were swept away. The occupants escaped unhurt, but the houses and contents were totally destroyed. Reports from vicinity towns say that great damage has been done to crops and farm buildings.

ALL SORTS OF BELIEFS.

Buddhists and Fire Worshippers Interest the Religious Congress.

CHICAGO, Sep. 16.—The leading speaker at the Religious Congress yesterday was the noted exponent of Zoroasterianism, Ervad Sheriarji Dadabhai Barucha of Bombay, who in clear forcible style explained and defended the tenets of the fire worshippers. The Buddhists, who have figured prominently on the programme since the beginning of the parliament, had another inning, their advocates being Bauriu Yatsubschi and Prince Chandibral of Siam. Still more was added to the advocacy of Confucianism than has distinguished the parliament, in an address from Kung Hsian Ho of Shanghai. Between these addresses Prof. Hardy of the University of Freiburg resumed the history of the study of comparative religion and Prof. Godspeed of the University of Chicago told what the dead religions had bequeathed to the living.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sep. 16.—United States Consul Meyers has just got back from an expedition undertaken to inquire into the necessity of a United States consul for the Kootenay country. Either Nelson or Kaslow was mentioned as a place for headquarters.

Lower California Rates.

CHICAGO, Sep. 16.—Notice was given by the Southern Pacific road of its intention to make reduction of $15 in one way and round trip first class passenger rates from Southern California points to the Missouri river via El Paso and Forth Worth.

Chief Characteristics of the Present Congress.

REPEAL SENATORS HAVE THEIR SAY

The House Yet Fighting Over the Election Laws, With No Prospect of Doing Anything Before Tuesday—Long and Bitter Contest Ahead.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 16.—The debate in the Senate yesterday on the Repeal bill was altogether on the affirmative side of the question. Two speeches were made in favor of the bill—the first by a Democratic Senator, Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky and the second by a Republican, Mr. Higgins of Delaware. Both were uncompromisingly and unconditionally for the repeal of the Sherman act. Mr. Lindsay eulogized President Cleveland's course as being exactly in conformity with the party platform and with the popular will, and he promised for him that whatever further silver legislation Congress may enact in conformity with the platform will receive executive approval. He also defended Secretary Carlisle from the charge conveyed in Mr. Teller's speech that he had been a party to the supposed conspiracy of New York bankers to produce a financial panic with the object of having the Sherman law repealed.

House.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 16.—For two hours in the House yesterday the skirmish fight over the Federal Election bill continued, Mr. Tucker of Virginia marshalling the Democratic majority, and Mr. Burrows of Michigan taking charge of the Republican forces. Not during this session has Mr. Reed appeared to be as anxious for a fight as he was yesterday and had it not been for continual roll calls the House would have had a very lively session.

The time up to 2 o'clock was monopolized by the reading clerks, who monotonously called the roll of members, knowing that their task was merely a perfunctory one.

At 2 o'clock the House paid tribute of respect to the memory of the late J. Logan Chipman of Michigan and afterward adjourned.

Nothing Till Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 16.—It is probable that nothing will be accomplished in the House before next Tuesday. This is the view of the situation taken by Mr. Tucker of Virginia, who has charge of the bill to repeal the Federal Election laws. After the House adjourned yesterday he said to a reporter for the United Press: We shall endeavor again to get the Election Law Repeal bill before the House but our real expectation is that nothing will be accomplished before Tuesday. It looks now as if we should be unable to secure a quorum this week and as Monday has been declared a holiday nothing can be done then. Col. Ike Hill, the deputy sergeant-at-arms, has reported that most of the answers to his telegraphic summons read 'Will Monday do?' As the senders in all probability won't come earlier, the colonel says he has notified them that Monday will do."

THIRTY BOMBS FOUND.

Supposed to Have Been Hidden by Brooklyn Anarchists.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sep. 16.—Patrick Brannelly while loading lumber in John Kollock's scaffolding yard yesterday discovered a small linen bag containing 30 bombs. He took the bombs to the Stagg street police station and one of them was opened by the captain. Powder was found inside of it a little of which when ignited exploded with considerable force. Twenty-nine of the bombs were twelve inches in length and two and a half inches in diameter. The other one was much larger being about three feet in length and over seven inches in diameter. It is thought that the bombs were hidden in the yard by the Anarchists who were discovered in Maspeth, L. I., about six weeks ago.

THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE.

Military Features Withdrawn and Differences Left to Diplomacy.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 16.—The Mexican boundary dispute incident is closed with regard to its military features. A telegram was received at the war department from Major Keyes, commanding the United States cavalry at the scene of the trouble, stating that the Mexican customs officers had surrendered the 639 sheep in their custody to the owner, an American citizen. The United States troops will be withdrawn and the two governments will proceed to a settlement of the dispute by diplomatic means.

FATAL FLOODS.

Forty People Meet Death in a Spanish Inundation.

MADRID, Sep. 16.—The town of Villa Canas, in the province of Toledo, has been devastated by floods and a large number of lives have been lost. Heavy rains have fallen in the province, and the town, which is situated on rather low ground, was inundated. The people had no thought of danger, though the many small streams in the vicinity of the town were rapidly swelling and threatening to overflow their banks.

The bodies have been found of several women who had apparently made heroic efforts to save themselves and their children. In one place a handsome young woman was found with an infant clasped to her breast with the hand, while with the other hand she held the hand of a little boy. All were dead, and there was not a mark on them to show how death came to them.

A dispatch from Villa Canas says that 60 dead bodies have been recovered. Many more are believed to be hidden by wreckage or to have been washed far from the town.

Many of the deaths were caused by the flooding of the cave dwellings on the outskirts of the town. These dwellings are holes dug into the hillside almost on a level with the plain.

ROBBING THE FAIR.

Frauds by Clerks Amounting to Over a Hundred Thousand Dollars.

CHICAGO, Sep. 16.—Evidence of fraud has come to light among the minor employes in the transportation department of the World's Fair. The entire contents between the covers of one bill register have been torn out, as also a number of leaves from another. The amount involved may be large or small.

W. H. Holcomb, the general manager of the Transportation Department, has had as chief clerk a Mr. Christman. Under him was A. C. Featherstone, head bookkeeper. It was under Mr. Featherstone, it appears, that the accounts of the department were kept, and he may be able to assist the officials in explaining the mutilation of the books. He left the city Wednesday for St. Paul.

Despite the assertion that the amount taken is small the statement was made last evening that the investigation so far shows a shortage of $106,000.

CHANCE FOR ALL.

A Possibility of Keeping the World's Fair Open Till Jan. 1.

CHICAGO, Sep. 16.—After a conference with a number of foreign commissioners, the World's Fair directors have called a special meeting for next Monday night to discuss the possibility of extending the Exposition until January 1, 1894.

It has been understood for some time among the managers of the Fair that it would be kept open later than October 30, the time fixed by Congress, if the attendance in the latter month seemed to justify such a move. The heavy gate receipts gave the directors encouragement enough to justify serious consideration of the project. The Director General was consulted and while he thought it impossible to make an extension for another year he said it might pay to postpone the end until the first of January.

PEARY'S PARTY.

No Attempt to Reach the Pole Until Next Season.

BOSTON, Sep. 16.—Matthew Hanson, Lieutenant Peary's first assistant, writes the following from Falcon Harbor, under date of August 18:

"Our little party is well and getting along nicely. We are now building our house on the shores of Bowdoin Bay, and expect to have it done by August 22. It is 38 feet long by 14 feet wide inside and 25 feet by 15 feet over all. By the 25th of August one party will be ready to start out on the ice-cap to make a cache, so as to be ready for the long sledge journey next spring. The names of those who will go on this journey are not known as yet.

CALUMET, Mich., Sep. 16.—A train on the Mineral Range railroad was held up between here and Hancock by four masked men yesterday. The trainmen were covered by revolvers by two of the robbers while the other two ordered the express messenger to put the contents of his safe in a bag which one of the robbers carried. The messenger immediately complied and handed out some $75,000 consigned to the Calumet and Hecla mine and which was part of the money to be paid by the mine on its pay roll.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sep. 16—John L. Sullivan speaking of the Corbett-Mitchell fight said: "The men are evenly matched. Of course I hope that Corbett will win. I want the belt to stay on this side of the water. Mitchell has never suffered a decisive defeat. I think he will get it in the neck this time."

No More Souvenir Tickets.

LET THE MOTHERS READ!

Nature's Remedy for Sickly, Ailing Infants Is Lactated Food.

"Let me have the mothers on my side, and I don't care what others think," said a great observer, speaking of his reputation.

On nothing are the mothers of Plainfield so united as on the excellence of lactated food for babies.

The praise of physicians and mothers, and stronger testimony yet, the thousand of homes all over the land, radiant with plump, hearty children, who have been brought up on this purest and most nourishing of all infant diets, make lactated food one of the most famous products of modern care and diligence.

In these days of late summer and early fall when cholera infantum and diarrhoea bring even strong, healthy children in two or three days to the verge of the grave, the physicians order lactated food, not only because it is the most nourishing, strengthening, readily digestible food for the baby, but also because it is absolutely pure.

There is no secret whatever about it; it is simply a food.

It is the most perfect substitute there is for pure mother's milk. It's basis is sugar of milk, and with it are combined the nutritive qualities of the three great cereals wheat barley and oats, thoroughly cooked at high steam heat, and made a "pre-digested," palatable, nutritious food. Babies take it with a relish. It is retained in the stomach when other foods are rejected. It restores sickly, ailing, fretful little ones to health and strength.

It has the qualities that nature intended for the infant's diet.

The twin babies of Mrs. T. H. Hickens, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., whose pictures are given above, were brought up entirely upon lactated food, which has saved the lives of thousands of little ones whose mothers have been unable to nurse them at the breast.

At this season of the year an infant's stomach, when the little one has been fed upon cow's milk or has been imperfectly nourished at the breast, or has been fed upon some inferior food, is often weak and incapable of converting such food into nourishment sufficient to keep up its strength. Lactated food should at once be given, and the history of these cases, as told by physicians, where a change to lactated food is made, invariably shows a rapid renewal of flesh, and a return of sound digestion, health and happiness. Try lactated food. It is nature's remedy for the ills of childhood. It is the best possible food.

The Lehigh Valley Coal Company is about to establish an office in Westfield and deliver coal in the town from Picton, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. If that means that the price is to be cut, Plainfield would welcome a similar innovation from South Plainfield.

DAMMING THE DELAWARE.

Forty years ago a pet hobby of Abram S. Hewitt, who then lived in Trenton, was the project of constructing a dam across the Delaware at that point in order to utilize the water-power for manufacturing purposes. It now seems about to be realized, but electric instead of water-power will be developed, a company having been organized to build a wing dam, with a complete outfit of sluiceways and turbines for the generation of power. The works will be located at Morrisville, and the power will be sold to Trenton shops and factories. At the last session of the Legislature a bill was passed authorizing the construction of dams halfway across the river, when the State of Pennsylvania should agree to co-operate. Objections came, however, from lumber interests on the Pennsylvania side and from the city of Philadelphia, which had been considering a plan to get its future water-supply from the Delaware above Trenton. These objections were satisfactorily met, and the company was recently incorporated with a capital of $500,000. Work on the dam will be started about the latter part of this month. Among other things which the company is empowered by its articles to do are the following: "To erect and maintain mills, factories, ice-houses, dwelling-houses, power-houses, and plants; to erect and maintain dams and reservoirs for the storage of water for the purpose of power; to supply power for mills and factories and electrical power-houses and plants and water-wheels; to erect and lay cables and wires overhead, under water, and under ground for the transmission of electricity; to manufacture, sell, furnish, rent, and lease all kinds and manner of power and machinery for the carrying on of all kinds and manner of mechanical business, mining, street-railways and tramways, and to acquire franchises and privileges for such purposes."

A MAN IN THE CASE.

That unique enterprise, the Woman's Baking Company of Chicago, has come to grief, a number of stockholders having petitioned the Court to appoint a receiver. It was incorporated Nov. 10, 1891, and was to be strictly a women's concern. To women the circular of the company soliciting subscriptions was addressed, and they were told that as the finances and all details of the management, even down to the work done in the bakeries, would be in the hands of women, handsome dividends were assured. An extract from the circular will illustrate the methods of the projectors. "The actual net profits from the sale of our bread," it said, "will exceed 2 cents per loaf, and that on pies will exceed 5 cents per pie. To give a very conservative estimate, however, of the annual profits on these articles, we will, for example, place the profits at ½ cent per loaf and that on pies 1 cent per pie. If twenty-five bakeries were established, averaging 2,000 loaves of bread and 1,000 pies per day, it would equal an annual profit on this basis of $136,875 on bread and $46,625 on pies, allowing nothing for our profit on cakes, buns, etc., which will be large. This will enable us to pay a dividend to our stockholders of $18.35 for each share of the stock." It is now charged that the whole scheme originated in the brain of a designing man, who, contrary to the terms of the prospectus, was engaged as manager. He is accused of being the author of the extravagant eulogies on the lives and characters of the incorporators that appeared in its pages. Their connection with philanthropic societies, temperance unions, and charitable organizations was set forth with much pious flourish and attracted liberal subscriptions. The petitioners say the company has lost $47,000 on two bakeries which it established, and that whatever profits there might have been the manager has received in the form of a commission of $12 50 on each share of stock sold. The petition finally alleges that he and the stockholders of the company "relied for immunity from the consequences of his transactions on the fact that the stockholders of the company were impecunious and widely separated, and would be unable to expose such rascality in a court of justice."

WHAT A MEMBER THINKS.

Views of One of the First Baptist Church Flock, Who Favors Frankness.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As a member of the First Baptist church, I can say that even as far back as the jubilee service, in celebration of Dr. Yerkes' 25-year pastorate, dissatisfaction was apparent; and that since then it has showed itself in many ways.

The deacons from time to time have held meetings to adopt methods by which better results in church work might be obtained. A young man in the church was secured to assist the pastor, and by close application was able to accomplish considerable good. But the deacons did not wholly approve of his methods, and frequently corrected him.

In the meantime certain members complained that the pastor's sermons were too doctrinal, and not practical enough.

In reality, a younger preacher was the choice of their hearts. It was not an open complaint, but one that could be heard; and it was not confined to the younger members of the church, but was rife among the older and more conservative ones as well.

At a recent meeting of the deacons, at which the pastor was present, the subject of a younger man for the pulpit was discussed. The pastor said the time had not come for such a move, although it might come later on.

Whereupon one deacon, who is noted for his quietness in turoulent times, arose and said, that there had been a time, not very far back, when it was hard to secure a choice seat in the church, but now it seemed that the pastor was preaching to empty seats. Other remarks of like character followed.

Since that time the lack of interest in the regular prayer meetings of the church and the Sunday evening services has been a cause of much anxiety; and it is positively known that certain members of the church have desired a younger pastor, one who would revive the too apparent deadness in the church.

From these facts it seems to me that the better way of handling this subject is to make a plain statement of affairs to the pastor and the people.

It is an undeniable fact that a young pastor is wanted, and if the officials of the church deny it they show that they are not thoroughly acquainted with the church's affairs. Of course, publicity in such matters is unpleasant; but there are times when frankness is better than concealment; and this, I think, is such a time.

A MEMBER.

A WET-WEATHER FAIR.

Delightful Time for the Visitors, and Some Profit to the Sunday-School Fund.

The Christian Endeavor Sunday-school Committee of the Trinity Reformed church held a peach festival in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Watchung avenue, last evening. It was most successful, in spite of the inclement weather. A most commendable feature of the affair was that the entire committee was there ready for business, and all those who braved the storm to reach the place found a warm reception awaiting them.

A table, laden with choice candy, homemade, was in charge of Miss Ella Dunn, and no difficulty was experienced in disposing of it.

Around the room were tables neatly arranged where one could sit down and partake of inviting refreshments, served by charming young ladies, who were very anxious to please their customers. Miss Lizzie Dunn made a most efficient cashier, and received the money as fast as handed in.

As chairman of the committee Miss Mabel Wilson was most efficient, and managed everything in a business-like manner.

During the evening Miss May Berg played several instrumental selections to the enjoyment of those present.

The committee having the affair in charge were:

The Misses Mabel Wilson, chairman, Lizzie Dunn, Helen Bogert, Carrie Mehl, the Misses Berg, the Misses Wyckoff, Lottie Wilson, Ella Dunn and Nellie Crawford.

Although everything was not sold, a most creditable return was made from the sales, and the young ladies made $15, clear of all expenses, which is remarkable under the circumstances. They are very grateful to those who purchased tickets and helped them in any way. The fair would have been continued tonight, but the rooms are engaged.

Heartfelt Sorrow.

At a regular meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., held Sept. 11, 1893, the following resolutions were adopted on the death of Sister Elizabeth Dockrie:

Whereas, In view of the loss we have sustained by the decease of our friend and sister, and the still heavier loss sustained by those nearest and dearest to her. Therefore be it.

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her removal from our midst, we morn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best and Whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the daughter of our departed sister.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed on our records, also printed in the daily papers.

Reduced Rates of Fare to Washington via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The hundreth anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the United States Capitol will be celebrated at Washington on Monday, September 18, with ceremonies appropriate for an occasion so nationally momentous.

That people from other cities and towns may attend the celebration, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all points on its system east of Pittsburg and Erie, except the Downingtown and Lancaster branch, at one and a third fares, which is a considerable reduction. The tickets will be sold by the company's agents on September 16, 17, and 18, good going only on those dates and for return passage until the 21st of the month, which will permit of quite a little visit in the nation's capital.

—Ho Ho, Ha Ha, read VanEmburgh's ad. They are having a special sale.

—H. S. Runkle and family came home last night from Hotel Champlain, Clinton county, N. Y., where they had been since July 18.

—Telephone and electric light wires were broken in last evening's storm; and many places in the city were in darkness until repairs could be made.

—A house awning at the residence of Joseph E. Morse, 338 Franklin place, was completely stripped from its irons in the high wind yesterday afternoon.

—Charles Hawley, driving a wagon for A. M. Griffen, narrowly missed being crushed by a falling tree on Second place, in the storm yesterday afternoon.

—A large tree on Fourth street, near Arlington avenue, is being cut down by Manager Charles Runyon, of the Telephone Company, and his assistants.

—At Townsend's marble yard, on Somerset street, is to be seen an attractive monument chiseled to the memory of Nancy B. Southard, late wife of A. M. Frazee. The monument will be placed in position next week in the M. E. cemetery, and will be a fitting tribute to her memory

—Jesse Hetfield, H. T. Williams and Walter J. Swaim are the hustling clerks in the employ of the Pacific Mail tea and grocery store, recently opened at 106 East Front street, and they are all well-known Plainfield people. If you get within gunshot of that store, Jesse will surely sell you a bill of goods.

—The merchants on West Front street, below the Babcock building, complain about the number of men standing on the narrow sidewalk in front of Mr. Babcock's building and thus preventing ladies who would patronize them from doing so. They intend asking for police protection if the nuisance is not abated.

—J. B. Cleaver will preach the second of a series of sermons tomorrow evening in the First Church of Christ, on the subject "The Second Coming of Christ". The church was filled to overflowing last Sunday evening, and a general interest in the services is manifest. The seats are free, and everybody is welcome.

—In front of Foote's candy store at about noon today as a lady stepped out of a buggy for the purpose of checking her horse, the animal started at breakneck speed toward Front street, leaving her standing in wonderment on the sidewalk. Fortunately the horse was stopped at the next corner, before he had done any harm.

—Hiram Hornish, of North avenue, is accomplishing wonderful results with his medicated sulphur and vapor baths, which he follows by a thorough rubbing with alcohol. The bath is wonderfully effective in cases of rheumatism and skin disease, and Mr. Hornish should be looked on as a public benefactor, when it is considered what results he accomplishes in relieving pain.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

FREAKS THAT ARE NOTICED ON THE JERSEY CENTRAL.

The Philosophical Chap Chats About a Couple of Freak Commuters, and Tells What Makes Life Worth the Living.

"Speaking of funny things,"—said The Man on the Cars one night this week as the conversation turned that way, and he settled himself for a comfortable ride homeward—"there used to live, up near where the Job Male Library now is, an old man who amused me more than a little. The poor old fellow is dead now, but that does n't hurt the story. He used to get up about five o'clock every blessed morning and go to work in the little garden that struggled along and did its feeble best in his backyard. With a trifling intermission for breakfast, he would rake and shovel and dig away in in all sorts of weather until after seven o'clock. Then, washing and dusting off, he would plod down Park avenue—it was Cherry street in those days—and arrive at the station just in time to miss the half-past seven train. Not wishing to waste a single valuable moment, he would hurry back home, work a few minutes more, and start out again for the eight o'clock train, and generally had the pleasure of seeing this dash over the bridge and hearing it puff away from the station before he got as far as Fifth street. Nothing daunted, back he would trudge to his little garden, and repeat the miscalculation on the next train. And so on every day in the week, Sundays, of course, excepted. They say he never caught a train much earlier than ten o'clock, and I certainly never saw him on the cars before that hour. Frank Stockton's 'Late Mrs. Null' was never half so chronically late as this old farmer, and he did try so hard, too. I never knew how his business in New York came on, but it goes without saying that the little garden prospered in the fulness of its possibilities.

"Then there was the old chap who used to commute regularly but whom I have not seen on the road for a year—the short, grizzly, storm-beaten customer with good clothes and bad manners, whose eccentricities have made lots of Plainfielders laugh. I used to see him on the way to the city many, many times, and his resources for attracting attention never failed him. His pet trick was to be troubled, while sitting in the forward end of a car, by an opened window at the other end, a draught from which could not by any possibility under heaven reach to where he sat. Rising, with a little shiver, he would look down the length of the car and regard the proprietor of the offending window with a contemptuous glare that would have paralyzed a Midway Plaisance coryphee. This measure seldom closed the window, however, and his next move was to walk boldly down the aisle and request that the draught be discouraged. Another freak often exploited was to rise from his seat and stand out in the aisle of the car whenever he wanted to blow his nose, and in winter he would invariably add dignity to this operation by removing his overcoat prior to using his handkerchief and resuming it before reseating himself. These were but two of his many specialties. I tell you he was a dandy, and I often wonder what has happened to keep him away from the cars; but he was not the only one, oh dear, no! Life would n't be worth the living if were not for just such little diverting side-shows as his. Great Scott, what 's this! Slowing up at the gas house, sure enough! Good-night; if I jump off here I save myself five minutes walk."

And he jumped off.

"Cannons."

There are few large business houses in New Jersey that have achieved marked success without liberal advertising, and during recent years a number of these, in order to keep fully abreast of the times, have begun to use printer's ink liberally. The Newark furniture house of "Cannons", in Market street near Mulberry, was founded many years ago, and at the present time is the largest house outfitting concern in New Jersey, yet until recently the sum spent annually was small in comparison with the immense volume of business transacted every year. The firm is well known in Newark and its immediate vicinity, but to the suburban buyer it has not before been so widely advertised as it has during the last three months.

The best newspapers in central and eastern New Jersey were selected early in June to spread still further this mammoth furniture business, and among these high-grade papers was included The Constitutionalist. The "Cannon" advertisements will continue in this paper for a year at least, and they will bear careful reading. Thus far they have been distinctly attractive in design and thoroughly businesslike in tone. "Cannons" have an immense establishment containing every nature of household furnishing, including furniture, carpets and kitchen ware, and the prices are plainly marked in figures anyone can read.

The poor man buys just as cheaply as the rich here, and each pays cash or receives credit as he desires. The intending purchaser of house furnishings will do well to read "Cannons" advertisement in this paper, and visit that store before buying. The firm's fair business dealings please all customers.

CASHIER BAIN IS HELD.

Arraigned at Jefferson Market Police Court This Morning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Howard L. Bain, the cashier of the Home Bank, who was arrested yesterday for embezzling $16,166 in bonds from that institution, was arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court this morning. He pleaded guilty, waived examination, and was held in $10,000 bail for trial at the Court of General Sessions.

As no one was present who would go on his bond, the ex-cashier was taken to the Jefferson Market Prison, where he will remain until his trial is called for, or until he is able to furnish bail.

WON BY BRITANNIA.

The Cape May Cup Race Finished Today—Navahoe Far Behind.

LONDON, September 16.—Britannia won the race for the Cape May Cup, started from the Needles, Isle of Wight, yesterday afternoon. When she finished Navahoe was not yet in sight.

SILVER REPEAL IN DANGER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Mr. Voorhees's "era of business" in the Senate has been postponed and the bill providing for the repeal of the Sherman act is hung up by the eyelids, as it were, with its ultimate fate very uncertain.

BIG INJUNS MEET AGAIN.

They Have a Glorious Time Over Their Wigwam Ceremonies.

Last evening was most pleasantly spent at the Wigwam of Miantonomah Tribe. While the storm was raging outside four hunters were raised to the Warrior's Degree, and three palefaces made application for membership. Singing, speaking and other good things were the features of the evening.

After an absence of two Council meetings, the Sachem, John H. Carney, was cordially welcomed back. This tribe is in a flourishing condition, and bids fair to be the pioneer tribe of the State of New Jersey. The Great Council of the United States is now in session in Iowa, and this tribe has a representative in the person of Past Sachem Norman C. Mague, who has been highly honored by the appointment on an important committee.

Tale of Two Brothers.

In "A Flag of Truce" in Music Hall, tonight, there are two brothers, one married and steady, the other single and wild. The steady man is drafted. The dissipated brother magnanimously takes his place. This does not please the villain, who has somehow arranged the drafting of Tom, the steady brother, as he wants him out of the way so that he may marry his wife. The wild brother earns promotion for bravery.

The villain then forges a letter from the soldier's colonel saying that the brother had deserted. This he shows to Tom, who immediately goes on to take his brother's place. Meanwhile the villain intercepts all letters and bribes officers in both armies to execute a plan by which Tom may be shot to death by violating a flag of truce.

It all works, and he is about to marry the widow. They have just gone to the church, when both brothers return. The hero and villain fight in a quarry, and the latter is only defeated by a lucky chance.

The play is well staged. There is a pretty farm exterior looking down on a fertile valley and homelike interior. The great scene of all, however, is the quarry. It is realism with a vengeance. Steam drills are noisily at work and a big block of marble is dropped from a derrick on a man. Fortunately the man is pulled out in time to escape everything but a cloud of dust.

Forsaken By The Captain.

Captain L. J. Briggs, accompanied by Mrs. L. J. Briggs, Jr. and her children, left Fanwood today for a ten days visit to relatives in Brooklyn Heights.

His departure breaks up for a time those evenings devoted to reminiscences by "The Captain and the Colonel". The latter is inconsolable.

Sidewalk Improvements at the German Church.

As a result of the entertainment which friends and members of the German Reformed church gave a short time ago, in Reform Hall, new flagstones have been laid on the sidewalks in front of the church on Craig place, and from the sidewalk to the entrance of the church.

This is most convenient, as the basement of the church has been leased to the trustees of the North Plainfield public school temporarily. There will now be no danger that the children will fall over rotten boards.

ADDITIONAL DATES FOR THE POPULAR EXPOSITION TRIPS.

As the period of the existence of the World's Columbian Exposition draws to a close the demand grows stronger for the economical and satisfactory means of reaching Chicago provided heretofore by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Recognizing the urgency of this popular need, that company has fixed a few additional dates on which excursions of the same character as the previous ones will be run. September 19, 23, 28, October 2, 11, 17 and 21 are the days selected from New York, Philadelphia, and points east of Pittsburg and Erie and north of York.

The special trains will be composed of the standard coaches for which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is noted, and the arrival in Chicago at an early hour the following afternoon obviously gives ample opportunity for the securing of accommodations at that place.

The trains will leave New York at 9 a. m., Jersey City 9:13, Newark 9:25, Elizabeth 9:32, New Brunswick 9:53, Trenton 10:23, Philadelphia 11:30, Frazer 12:09 p. m., Downingtown 12:22, Parkesburg 12:41, Coatesville 1:02, Lancaster 1:25, Conewago 1:57, Harrisburg 3 p. m., Lewistown Junction 4:30, Tyrone 6, Altoona 7, and Pittsburg 10:40 p. m. The excursion rate, good only on the special train and valid for return within ten days, is $20 from New York, $18.25 from Philadelphia, and proportionately low from other stations. Return portions of tickets are good for ten days.

These trains will be run on fast schedule, and will be provided with all modern conveniences with the exception of Pullman cars.

Many expressions of complete satisfaction have been made by people who have availed themselves of this excellent opportunity of visiting the greatest and grandest exhibition the world has ever seen.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

William E. Rockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained 3 pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and wornout parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Insuffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known.—Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front st., New York.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured Z. C. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

BANK ROBBERS FEARED

Latest Terror of the Cherokee Strip Craze.

CITIES WILL BE UNPROTECTED

Over 300,000 People Expected to Join the Wild Rush for Land—Town Lots in Great Demand—Ten Would-Be Buyers for Each Lot.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 16.—Everything that has life along the border of the Cherokee outlet is moving. Final preparations for the biggest race in the history of the world are being made and would-be starters are scrambling for a chance to make their entries. Booths were opened at 7 o'clock yesterday in a large store room and almost before the people knew what was going on a force of 20 clerks were at work taking the names and issuing certificates of registration to home seekers. They started out at the rate of 20 a minute and if that rate is kept up 12,000 will be registered at the border line. The opening of the booths here has attracted many women and old men who had determined not to register at all rather than undergo the hardships at the border line. Many of those at the border, who were near the foot of the long lines abandoned their places there and came into the city to register. More, however, went to the border than came away and the crowd there continues dense. Home seekers appear to have awakened to a realization of the necessity for carrying a supply of water with them into the new country, and all sorts of vessels are in demand for carrying it. The stock of canteens has long since been exhausted and tinners are busy soldering tops on ordinary tin wash basins which are being sold readily at a dollar each. A large number of water wagons have been rigged up and they will move into the strip as rapidly as possible to supply water to claim makers. They expect to dispose of it at a dollar a bucket on Saturday night. Trains are loaded with town lot speculators and the Cherokee Town Site Trust company is selling lots at a rapid rate in Cross and Kildare, which by common consent are looked upon as the coming cities.

Most of those who arrived yesterday intend to make a run for town lots and the objective point is the government county seat and land office of Terry, 10 miles north of the Oklahoma line. The town site covers an area of 320 acres, which has been cut into nine lots to the acre, making a total of 2,880 lots to be divided among the 20,000 people who will crowd in there.

A conservative estimate of the number of people who will be within the border of the Cherokee outlet to-day is 300,000.

A courier from the Osage Nation has come to warn the bankers of this city that the remnants of the Starr and Dalton gangs of train robbers are camped on the north line of the reservation and that they have planned a bold dash on Arkansas City when the town will be almost deserted and its people are scrambling for real estate in the new country. The bankers held a hasty meeting and decided that all banks would be closed to-day at 11 o'clock and remained closed until such time as the danger is passed. Time locks will be set so that no vaults can be opened before 9 o'clock Monday morning. Bankers in all of the border towns have taken the same precautions, for not more than a handful of people will be left in any of them after 12 o'clock to-day.

SCHEMES OF FREEMASONS.

A French Bishop Charges the Order With Inciting Wars.

PARIS, Sep. 16.—Bishop Fava of Grenoble delivered a remarkable oration at Miribel's funeral. He denounced English Freemasons unmeasuredly because, he said, they had pushed France into the Crimean war in order that she might exhaust her gold treasure in needless combat. The French Freemasons, added the Bishop, were not less blameworthy. They had incited French statesmen to take sides against Catholic Austria in order that the unification of Italy might be accomplished. The result of this deplorable and unrighteous policy was that united Italy had now turned on France and was menacing the Alpine frontier. Italy's new strength moreover, was being utilised at home to resist the temporal power of the Pope.

WATCHING MRS. HALLIDAY.

The Authorities Discover Nothing But a Bad Temper.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 16.—Mrs. Halliday was examined in the sheriff's office yesterday by the county physician, Dr. F. A. McWilliams, in regard to her sanity. She could not be made to look the physician in the face, and when her head was held back shut her eyes. She has been taken from her cell a few times and when she leaves it she is obliged to descend a few steps at a time. She has persisted when ascending or descending in going two steps at a time. She has spoken but little and seems to be brooding over something. Mrs. Halliday has several times during her incarceration exhibited a terrible temper.

Fatal Toadstools.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sep. 16.—Last Sunday the family of Malco Gregoria, an Italian, living in one of the large tenement houses in Raritan, made their Sunday dinner of what they supposed was mushrooms, which they had gathered in the fields. On Monday Mrs. Gregoria was taken violently ill with symptoms of poisoning and on the following day the father and three children were stricken down. Thursday the mother and the youngest child died, and the father cannot recover.

Trainmen Armed

LOUISVILLE, Sep. 16.—Trainmen on the Pennsylvania railroad, especially on the division running out of Chicago, are now said to be walking arsenals, and prepared to stand off an army of Daltons and other train robbers. The report reached the city that the company had ordered all its trainmen to arm themselves in order to be able to protect the company's property.

Bain Behind Bars.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Howard L. Bain, the cashier of the Home State Bank, accused of embezzling $16,185, was arrested yesterday. He is locked up at police headquarters.

Brooklyn's Broken Bank.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sep. 16.—A committee representing depositors of the Commercial Bank of Brooklyn appeared before the Attorney-General yesterday and asked for the appointment of an associate receiver.

THE HORROR OF IT.

Only Those Who Have Experienced It Know.

A THRILLING STORY MOST PLAINLY AND GRAPHICALLY TOLD.

Did You Ever Read Anything of Greater Interest?

The following communication from Mrs. Minnie Miller, who resides at 5 Guthrie st., Fort Wayne, Ind., explains itself:

"For many years I was troubled with indigestion and constipation. Three years ago I became so weak and nervous that I was a complete physical wreck. I had dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart and numbness of my hands and feet.

"These attacks came often and each time worse; my life was a burden to me and a trouble and worry to all my friends I expected to die. At times I thought I should lose my mind. My stomach was in such a condition that I could eat nothing but a very little of the lightest kind of food. Sleep was impossible. Every little noise would startle me and I would feel faint.

"No one can imagine the agony I suffered but those who are afflicted with nervousness. I cannot describe the feeling in half its horrors.

"At last I saw Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised and read the testimonials of cure of some of those who had been afflicted as I was, so I thought I would try it. Wonderful to relate the first bottle helped me so much that I had faith in it. I took two more bottles and oh! I feel so much better. I can sleep soundly and the nervous feeling has almost left me. I can eat with a good appetite and have gained seven pounds.

"My friends say that I am looking so much better and I know that I am feeling as they say I look. I tell everybody that the Nervura has done it. I cannot say enough for it and I praise the Lord and thank this wonderful medicine for giving me relief.

"I am only too glad to recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to anyone afflicted as I was and I hope this testimonial will be the means of inducing many to use this marvellous remedy."

If you are a sufferer do not fail to get this medicine immediately from your druggist. It costs but $1, and it is purely vegetable and harmless. Owing to its great strengthening and invigorating powers it is the best medicine possible to take. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the most successful specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases and the doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

COTTOLENE

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Has come not a little knowledge as to cookery—what to do, as well as what not to do. Thus we have learned to use the most pure and perfect and popular cooking material for all frying and shortening purposes.

COTTOLENE,

PROGRESSIVE COOKING

is the natural outcome of the age, and it teaches us not to use lard, but rather the new shortening, which is far cleaner, and more digestible than any lard can be.

COTTOLENE,

The success of COTTOLENE has called out worthless imitations under similar names. Look out for these! Ask your Grocer for COTTOLENE, and be sure that you get it.

Made only by

N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., CHICAGO, and 138 N. Delaware Ave., Phila., Produce Exchange, N. Y.

MURDER AND LYNCHING

Ghastly Chapter of Crimes in Louisiana.

A WAR OF RACES THREATENED

Three Negroes Hanged for Shielding a Brother Who Had Committed Murder—Another Negro Kicked to Death—The Blacks Arming for Revenge.

NEW ORLEANS, Sep. 18.—There was a triple lynching almost within the the shadow of the city Saturday night, but it was conducted so quietly that the account of the horrible affair published in the morning was a surprise to the community. The victims of the vengeance of the mob were three negro brothers named Julian, and the crime which they expiated in so summary a manner was the shielding of a fourth brother, Roselius Julian, who on Friday afternoon shot Judge Victor Estopinal to death while the latter was trying him for some trivial offense, seriously wounded the Judge's son, and then made good his escape. The shooting occurred in the court room and the murderer continued firing until the Judge, who followed to close in upon him, fell mortally wounded immediately outside and to the left of the building. The brutal negro then stood over the prostrate form of his victim and fired a fourth shot, which is supposed to be the one that passed through the heart. Officer Korber ran to assist the Judge and the negro made a dash across the grounds for his cabin. Just at this time August Estopinal, a son of the murdered official, who is employed as a conductor on the Carrollton road, was coming in from his work, and he gave chase to the man whom he had just seen murder his father. The negro reached his cabin and coming out, fired two shots at the young man, who sought safety in a house adjoining the residence of Mrs. Charles Flory. The negro provided himself well with amunition while in the cabin, for during his short stay he grabbed up a valise and a Winchester rifle. It was from this rifle that he fired the two shots that wounded young Estopinal. The negro made for the swamps in the rear of the city and being familiar with them, was soon in safe hiding. Posses were immediately organized and all night and all Sunday the surrounding country was scoured but the searching was fruitless so far as the real criminal was concerned. The mother, two brothers and two sisters of the negro Roselius were arrested at the Black Ridge, in the rear of the city, by the city police and were then taken to the little jail on Judge Estopinal's place about Southport. Another brother was arrested later in the day in the same neighborhood and taken to the same jail. They were charged with furnishing supplies to the fugitive.

About 11 o'clock, a body consisting of about 25 men, some armed with rifles and shotguns, came up to the jail and lit a lantern. They unlocked the door and then held a conference among themselves as to what they should do. Some were in favor of hanging the whole five, while others raised objections and insisted that only two of the brothers, the short one and the tall one, "Valsin" and "Bakile" should be taken out and strung up. This was finally agreed to, and several of the men went into the jail, and coming out afterwards, brought with them the two doomed negroes. They were hurried across to a pasture, 100 yards distant and there asked to take their last chance of saving their lives by making a confession. The negroes made no reply. They were then told to kneel down and pray. One did so, the other remained standing, but both prayed fervently. The taller negro was then hoisted up. He remained hanging fully five minutes before the second one was hanged. The shorter negro stood gazing at the horrible death of his brother without flinching. The mob remained at the place for about half an hour when some one suggested that they go back and hang the three others. This was opposed by several, and it was finally decided that they should go back and take the remaining brother out to Camp Parapet and hang him there. The other two were to be taken out and flogged, with an order to get out of the parish in less than half an hour. The mob then started back to the jail, to put their threats into execution. The third brother, Paul, was taken out to the camp, which is about a mile distant in the interior, and there he was hanged to a tree, his body hanging in full view of a morbid crowd during the day, "as a warning to the negroes that they cannot go about killing white people," as one of the members of the mob put it.

The lynching was conducted very quietly and not a shot was fired during the entire proceedings. In the meantime the real murderer is at liberty, and his brothers, who died to save him from the fate which they met, will soon be resting in unmarked graves, heroes of a peculiarly distinctive type.

There is a general belief in that section that the murder of Judge Estopinal was the carrying out of a preconceived plan. The judge had been very strict in his rulings when the negro tough element of the parish were brought before him. The judge, however, had once saved Julian from a mob of lynchers. During the search for Julian on Saturday, one branch of the posse visited the house of a negro family in the neighborhood of Camp Parapet, and failing to find the obect of their search tried to induce John Willis, a young negro, to disclose the whereabouts of Julian. He refused to do so, or could not do so, and was kicked to death by the gang.

The negroes are massing at Camp Parapet and arming with the intention of slaughtering the white people in that section. The whites in the rear near the swamps have been served with notices to leave, and many have abandoned their homes.

GREAT LAND GRAB.

Scenes Saturday and Sunday Along the Cherokee Strip.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sep. 18.—Sunday in a new town, especially a town made on Saturday afternoon, is never a very enjoyable day, and it was less so than usual in the little city of Perry. The great majority of tents and supply wagons did not arrive until late and everybody was busy trying to get away from the dust of a terrible gale.

The signal for the start Saturday was the firing of the guns of the soldiers and deputy marshals.

The greatest struggle of the day took place in the rush of ten thousand people attempting to get aboard the first train, which could carry but a few over a thousand.

Men were pushed off upon the ground, women jostled rudely, and the cars cleared of all save a few favorites in the ring. The people in the first train were told that everybody must go up to the line to get in the trains, and hundreds walked through a mile of strangling dust to the line only to find the train from which they had been ejected go by them without stopping.

The first train was filled with people who had been given inside information.

When the trains pulled up to the line the terrible struggle began. Women had their clothes torn off and were trampled under foot. All decency, self-respect, manhood and womanhood were laid aside.

The first train into Perry found the best lots taken by sooners and fast horsemen, and by the time the second train arrived most of the town site was preempted.

Before night business houses were doing business, and the inhabitants of the new town were talking about electing city officers. The people on the first train secured residence lots in the outskirts, but those upon the second and third secured nothing.

The race between the trains and horsemen was an exciting one, with the odds in favor of the horsemen.

Lorenzo Holcomb, of the place, was fatally crushed by a horse falling upon him. One woman was injured in falling from a moving train.

A cowboy from Texas fell from his horse, shot through the body, but there is no clue as to who fired the shot.

It is feared the death list will reach a score, and the injured be numbered by hundreds.

NOT SO EASY.

Difficulties in the Way of Continuing the Fair After Oct. 1.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, Sep. 18.—There are many intricate problems involved in the proposition to keep the exposition open after October 21 for any length of time, no matter how unanimous may be the action of the local board of directors at its meeting to-morrow. One obstacle to be overcome is the unwillingness of many foreign commissioners and exhibitors to remain any longer away from their homes than the contracts between their governments and the exposition calls for.

In speaking on this point to many of the British and Colonial commissioners and exhibitors the invariable reply was "We want to get away from here and go home. There is only extra expense for us in this scheme to continue the Fair, although it would no doubt put money in the pockets of others. Our governments and our employers have made no provision for this extra expense, and we would not be in favor of keeping our part of the exposition here after October."

There is another reason why many of the foreign exhibitors object to prolonging their stay in Chicago. They have openly declared among themselves that they have been greatly disappointed at the lack of entertainment in their honor by the officials of the exposition and wealthy citizens of Chicago who are identified with the Fair management. They have taken umbrage over this alleged failure of Chicago's four hundred to invite them to their homes, and the reasons the foreigners assign among themselves for the apparent neglect are not at all complimentary.

CAPITOL CENTENNIAL

Where Much of the Nation's History Has Been Made.

STORY OF THE FAMOUS EDIFICE

President Cleveland Will Preside at the Celebration and a Descendant of Patrick Henry Will Deliver the Oration—Gala Day in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 18.—Washington will to-day celebrate the Centennial of the first national event which occurred within her borders, the laying of the corner stone of the Capitol on the 18th of September, 1793. The ceremonies on that occasion were directed by the officials of the Alexandria Masonic Lodge, President Washington assisting upon the invitation of the Master of the lodge. Some of the regalia which Washington wore on that occasion was made by the wife of Lafayette, and it, together with the implements of the craft used to lay the corner stone, are still in possession of the lodge. An invitation to participate in the exercises has been declined by the lodge.

The original structure of the Capitol, which has since been added to from time to time, was the production of a Frenchman named Stephen Hallet, improved by an Englishman named William Thornton, and a right lively quarrel the Gaul and the Anglo-Saxon had over the authorship of the plans.

An English architect named Latrobe succeeded the designers, and it was under him that the building was nearly completed when the British burned it in the raid on Washington. He rebuilt it, and then architect Bulfinch of Boston took hold, and in 1827 the modest structure was reported finished—cost $2,433,314, perhaps ten per cent. of the total cost of the present structure.

A second corner stone laying occurred in 1851, when on July 4, President Fillmore presiding, the first stone was laid and Daniel Webster delivered an address.

Thomas U. Walter of Philadelphia designed the magnificent dome which was subsequently constructed and the building was added to until it reached its present completed condition. Edward Clark is the present architect and under him the grounds and terraces have been finished.

By resolution of Congress to-day will be a holiday in the District of Columbia and all public business will be suspended. There will be a procession preceding the exercises which will be held on the east front where the Presidents of the United States deliver their inaugural addresses. The route of the parade will be the same as taken by President George Washington 100 years ago, from the front of the State, War and Navy buildings on Seventeenth street via Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol. The exercises begin at 2 o'clock in the presence of Congress, national and district officials and a throng of visitors which it is expected will fill the plaza. President Cleveland will preside.

William Wirt Henry, the orator of the day, is a direct descendant of Patrick Henry, a resident of Richmond, a lawyer, scholar and statesman. Mr. Henry was in the Confederate army. He was the orator at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 and in 1893 was president of the American Historical Society.

BOLD FRONT.

The Amalgamated Association Refuse to Modify Their Demands.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 18.—The question of reconvening the conference committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel workers, recently submitted to all of the lodges in the country, has been voted upon and the result of the ballot of a majority of workmen has been received at Amalgamated Association headquarters in this city. The object sought in presenting the question to the sub-lodges was to secure from them authority to modify the demands made by the committee in their recent conference with the manufacturers, with a view to smooth away the rough places on which they failed to agree. It was hoped by the acceptance of a 10 per cent. reduction in the bar and guide mill scales that the way would be opened for the mills to be placed in operation and the many thousand idle workmen given employment. The result of the ballot, however, is against the reconvening of the committee or the granting of any further concessions in the wage scale.

SOCIETY GAMBLERS.

A Number of Nashville Ladies Indicted For Playing Parlor Games.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—A special to the Sun from Nashville, Tenn., says: The Grand Jury of the Hamilton Circuit Court, acting under instructions from Judge Moon, have indicted several well-known society people on the charge of gambling. A number of ladies are included in the list. Even euchre players are much alarmed at Judge Moon's attitude toward the popular parlor games.

Discussing Gov. Flower.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—At yesterday's meeting of the Central Labor Union a circular of the American Federation of Labor complaining that Gov. Flower has not done anything for the relief of the unemployed was laid over for the first meeting in October, after a hot debate, in which several delegates bitterly attacked the Governor, while others defended his course.

TRAIN ROBBERY AS A TRADE.

A Texas Bandit Threatens to Implicate Leading Business Men.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sep. 18.—Nathaniel Myers, alias Charles Leakman, who is in jail here charged with being implicated in the Missouri Pacific train robbery near Lamar, Mo., which took place two years ago, makes some startling disclosures as to the guilt of Marion Hedgepath, who is in jail at St. Louis, charged with being the leader of the Glendale train robbers, who secured $40,000. Hedgepath claims to be Myers' double and says that the latter was the leader of the Glendale robbers and not he. Myers in reply to this says: "I have shielded Hedgepath all along in the matter but I will now tell all I know. He got me into the trouble and is now trying to put it all on me. I know that Hedgepath is one of the Glendale train robbers and I can produce four witnesses that can prove that he is. When I am called upon to tell what I know about the Glendale robbery my statement will implicate some of the most prominent business men of Kansas City, Mo. It will be an easy matter to prove that Hedgepath is guilty of the robbery. Mrs. Hedgepath herself said that her husband was one of the robbers and that $40,000 were secured and that the money was divided in her presence. Four of the men received an equal share of the money. They were Hedgepath, Mrs. Hedgepath's brother, a man named Slie, and Dink Wilson."

REFUSED TO PARADE.

A Canadian Captain Defies His Commander-in-Chief.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—A Times special from Halifax, N. S., says: There was a sensation at Aldershot camp last week, where the Canadian militia from this province are undergoing their annual drill. General Herbert, commander-in-chief, came from Ottawa to inspect the troops. The captain of a Kentville company of the Sixty-eighth battalion refused to muster his men, scoffed at the authority of General Herbert and told him to do his worst. He made the camp the laughing stock of beholders.

Later on he paraded his men with a flourish of trumpets after General Herbert had concluded his inspection and had an inspection of his own.

So much for the discipline of the Canadian army. General Herbert will have a peculiar report to send to the Militia office at Ottawa. The captain's conduct is a mystery.

REVOLVERS AND HANDKERCHIEFS.

What a Leading Pennsylvania Official Says About Arming Trainmen.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 18.—A leading official of the Pennsylvania company when seen regarding the report that Pennsylvania trainmen on the western division of that system were being armed for the purpose of protecting trains, in case of an attack from train robbers, said: "I have issued no order that trainmen be armed and have received no official notification of any such order having been issued by any of the western officials of the Pennsylvania lines. I have had enough experience in running trains to know that a trainman might as well have a handkerchief in his pocket as a loaded revolver when his train is held up by outlaws."

TO WORK OR NOT TO WORK.

That Is the Question Which Agitates New Bedford Mill Operatives.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—The situation among the mill operatives of this city remains the same as the first of last week. The Acushnet mill operatives were forced to quit work on account of the strike of the hook-boys and are anxiously waiting for to-day, when the gates of the mill will be opened for all who wish to go work. The back-boys say they will not go to work under the reduction, and unless some dilling is obtained the mills will be forced to remain idle. The manufacturers have given no word that they will give in to the back-boys, and the indications are that the Acushnet mill will be idle for some time to come.

GREAT LABOR COMBINE.

Efforts to Consolidate All the Unions in the Country.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 18.—Pittsburg labor leaders will this week commence correspondence with national officials of every labor organization of the United States on the subject of a labor union which will embrace within its ranks every association and union of workingmen in the country. The plan has been endorsed by T. V. Powderly, and it is believed will find an acceptance among laboring men everywhere. The men who have started the movement are confident such consolidation can be performed.

Inspection of Hogs.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 18.—Secretary Morton has just issued an important order, broadening and perfecting the meat inspection service of the Agricultural Department. After Oct. 1 all hogs slaughtered for the Interstate and foreign trade will be inspected before slaughter and again at the time the carcass is being dressed. This has been enforced heretofore in the inspection of cattle and sheep only.

Red Cross Work.

BEAUFORT, S. C., Sep. 18.—The Red Cross party, consisting of Gen. Butler, Gov. Tillman, Clara Barton, Dr. Gardner and Geo. Pullman, spent Saturday on a tour of the islands viewing the destructive results of the recent storm, and becoming acquainted with the suffering and destitution resulting therefrom. Yesterday the party extended their investigation as far north as Charleston.

Another Dull Sunday.

CHICAGO, Sep. 18.—Visitors to the Exposition yesterday were found in large numbers in the Fine Arts Palace and in the Midway Plaisance, but in the other departmental buildings and on the broad avenues separating them, only a straggling few were to be seen.

Trefethen's Second Trial.

BOSTON, Sep. 18.—To-day in the Superior Court for Middlesex county, East Cambridge, James A. Trefethen will stand at the bar to answer for a second time to the charge of having murdered Deltena J. Davis of Everett, on the night of Dec. 28, 1891.

More Knitting.

FONDA, N. Y., Sep. 18.—Operations in the knitting mill of Shanahan, Briggs & Company have been resumed, after a shutdown of a couple of months. So far as known there will be no reduction in wages.

WEEK OF HARD WORK

Desperate Efforts to Do Something in Congress.

VOORHEES STILL PUSHING REPEAL

More Silver Speeches on the Senatorial Programme—War in the House Over Federal Election Laws—Long Session of Arduous Labor in Prospect.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 18.—The seventh week of the present session of Congress gives promise of great interest. The situation is extraordinary in legislative history in that both houses are just now in a condition where it is impossible to make headway in the dispatch of public business. But if the present programme is carried out this week will witness determined efforts on the part of the leaders in the Senate and in the House to break the spell which has bound Congress for so many days. On Tuesday Senator Mills of Texas is expected to deliver his oft-postponed speech for repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law. The other speeches for the week, of which notice has been given, will be delivered by Senator George of Mississippi (against repeal) on Wednesday; by Senator White of California (against repeal) on Thursday, and by Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota in the same line at the next convenient opportunity. The silver leaders—Teller, Jones of Nevada, and Morgan—also stand ready to address the Senate whenever there is an opportunity or necessity for it. No one can foretell how many of these speeches, or how many more, will be heard in the Senate chamber, for Senator Voorhees has it in his mind to renew his request, next Tuesday, that a time be fixed for a vote on the bill. It is not to be supposed that he expects that unanimous consent will be given to any such arrangement. But the Senator believes that the time for action has now come. He has made that request twice before and it has been rejected. He will make it again and it will be rejected. The Senator believes that with this record behind him he will be able to convince the country and the Senate that the repeal bill is being subjected to unreasonable delay, and he will then ask the the majority of the Senate to remain in session almost continuously until the point of action is reached.

The result cannot now be foretold, but if Mr. Voorhees can command the constant attendance and support of 43 Senators, committed to the repeal bill, the history of the week in the Senate will probably be a repetition of the history of a week of the celebrated campaign against the Force bill. The silver men are fully prepared to meet this phase of the case, and may be relied upon to swell the Congressional Record to proportions almost unheard of.

The programme in the House the coming week is pretty clearly outlined, a condition of things growing out of the fight inaugurated by the Republicans last week, against the proposed repeal of the Federal election laws. On Tuesday, the Democrats, having then a quorum of their own faith in attendance and voting upon the main question, the repeal bill will be reported from the Committee on Election of President and Vice President and Representatives in Congress and be placed on the calendar. As soon as the bill and accompanying reports can be printed, Mr. Tucker, who is in charge of the measure in the absence of Mr. Fitch, chairman of the committee, expects to call them up for consideration. When the debate thus begun will end, the future alone can determine.

The interim between the presentation of the report and for the beginning of the debate may be consumed by a further discussion of the bill to regulate and reform the public printing, which has already had one day devoted to it, and which was blocked last week by the struggle over the election law repeal bill. It is doubtful, however, if the time that it is expected that can be devoted to the printing bill will be sufficient to dispose of it. Much opposition exists to the measure and the fate in store for it is believed to be the same that it met in the last Congress.

It is not probable that the McCreary bill to modify the Geary Chinese registration law will come to the front this week in such a way as to command the attention and consideration of the House. It will not be reported to the full Committee on Foreign Affairs until the regular meeting day, (Thursday) and even if it be reported to the House at once it will probably find the Election Law Repeal bill in possession of the right of way. Governor McCreary says he will not undertake to antagonize the Repeal bill with his measure. Doubtless a favorable report will be ordered by the committee this week. Mr. Geary is the only member of the committee who is known to be opposed to it.

Speaker Crisp's attitude in favor of forcing the Election bill to the front now is in line with his expressed determination to have Congress continue in session and go ahead with the legislation marked out for it instead of taking a recess as soon as the Wilson bill is disposed of in the Senate, if it ever is, until the regular meeting time of Congress in December. The chairmen of the leading committees of the House were at first in favor of the recess programme, but the Speaker put his foot on this, and it looks very much as if "an era of business" is to be inaugurated in the House even if Senator Voorhees fails to set his agoing in the Senate. The protracted and constant tariff hearings of the Ways and Means Committee will soon be at an end, and if the Speaker were so minded the House could adjourn after the close of the hearings until the new tariff bill is ready to be brought into the House. If the Speaker, however, has any influence with the members, and he thinks he has, there will be no prolonged recess of the present Congress until the session winds up for good next spring, and it is hoped that in the meantime a great mass of promised legislation in the interest of the people will have been enacted.

The Spanish Flood.

MADRID, Sep. 18.—The bodies of 28 persons drowned in the recent flood at Villa-Canas were recovered yesterday. Fourteen bodies known to be in a cave near the foot of a hill cannot be reached on account of the high water. Many more bodies are supposed to be in the ruins of the 300 dwellings which were wrecked by the flood.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair; Warmer in the Morning; South-westerly Winds.

George Kyte has enlisted the services of The Mail and Express to secure his nomination for sheriff on the Republican ticket. He'd make a good nominee—for a Republican; but he'll never have the chance of showing how good a sheriff he'd be.

The ease with which secret divorces may be secured in New Jersey is no credit to the State, and no help to social conditions. For the protection of society, publication of the fact of every divorce should be legally compulsory, the same as the fact of every marriage.

As if matters were not bad enough, speculation is again appearing in provisions. A man who is so heartless and mercenary as to juggle the prices of necessities for the sake of his own profit, especially in these hard times, deserves to lose in the speculation—and lose heavily.

What sort of vaults can those be in the Philadelphia mint, if gold bricks can be drawn out under the doors with a rake? The doors of the vaults would better be removed, to save the mint clerks from getting their trousers bagged at the knees every time they are in need of a few hundred thousand dollars.

The way Plainfielders are looming up as political candidates is an indication that before long this town is going to have the recognition it deserves. Just now Judge Coddington is being mentioned as a senatorial possibility; George Kyte is booming himself for sheriff; John J. Kenney has been slated by Congressman Dunn for postmaster. The only certainty in this excellent trio is Mr. Kenney. In choosing him, Mr. Dunn has selected a wide-awake young business man who will devote his best attention to the duties of his new position. But Mr. Kyte won't reach the office he is striving for, because he is a Republican. And the worthy Judge will hardly find it possible to capture the senatorship from the rest of the county. If any Plainfielder is to have it, it is James E. Martine's by all that is good and holy.

Old! Who said the Rev. Dr. Yerkes was growing old! He preached a rousing sermon to a large congregation yesterday on "Let your light shine", and it had all the fire of stalwart youth and all the intellectuality and wisdom that years of ripe experience alone can bring. The Press still insists that his powers as a pulpit orator and his influence as a teacher of the divine message are as vigorous as ever. Time, which has brought a crown of silver to his brow, has touched his faculties with sterling gold, and his eloquence not only rings the ear but lingers in the memory. Who has ever heard his Sunday evening talks without being impressed with their tenderness and truth! When he started out in the ministry he set up as his standard of lifework the preaching of Jesus Christ and Him crucified, and today he is doing that work even more steadfastly and more nobly than ever before.

AND THIS FROM AN ENGLISHMAN!

Alfred H. Brown, the English naval architect, is in New York. Mr. Brown says that he came over principally to see the yacht race between Vigilant and Valkyrie. As a loyal Englishman, he says, he should like to see Lord Dunraven's boat win, but his cold-blooded judgment is that Vigilant is the better boat.

THE CHEROKEE'S CRAFT.

For the last sixty years the Cherokee has been at once the most docile and the most crafty of the Republic's red wards. He has discovered a thrift almost Yankee-ish in its pervading eye to the main chance.

As a tribe he has been the spoiled darling of the Interior Department. As a land holder he has displayed a knowledge of values that fairly outwits the long-headed land sharks and Indian pillagers so long the cormorants of all Western lands. So that now, as he relinquishes the receding fragments of his patrimony, he retires in affluence—a man of income—of assured independence. In his sale of territory to the Government, the Cherokee drove a most sagacious bargain.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

Hillside Tennis Teas End in a Pleasant Gathering Around an Autumnal Fire.

The Hillside Tennis Club wound up the season of teas Saturday afternoon. The rain in the morning made the grounds so wet that it was necessary to hold the reception in the club-house, but the fall in temperature made the shelter of the house very acceptable, and many of the guests gathered around the cheerful wood fire that had been lighted in the gentlemen's room, and found its warmth not amiss.

Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna received the club's guests. She was assisted by Mrs. D. F. Ginna, Mrs. DeWitt Clinton Irvine, Miss Tompkins, Miss Stewart, Miss Streull, Miss Huntington, Miss Gilman and Miss Cooley.

Only one court was in fit condition to be used, the others being very wet, so that the tennis was not watched with the usual interest. The attendance was not large, owing probably to the late hour at which it stopped raining.

Everyone is sorry that the teas have come to an end, as they formed a very pleasant incident in the week, but now that the cooler weather is coming on there will be dances and other festivities to take their place.

Among those present were: Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, Miss Bowen, the Misses Davis, Miss Lawrence, Miss Laura Worthington, Miss Whiton, Miss Erskine, Percy Stuart, Harry Opdyke, James Murray, the Rev. W. R. Richards, Albert Simmonds and Louis Walz.

OBITUARY.

F. J. Horr.

Frederick J. Horr died at 7:25 a. m. yesterday, after an illness of eight weeks, at his residence, 47 Westervelt avenue, of meningitis of the brain, succeeding nervous prostration.

Mr. Horr was in his fifty-seventh year. He was a native of Frankfort, Germany, and had lived in Plainfield ten years.

The deceased was a commission merchant with Markt & Co., of New York. He and his family have long attended the First Presbyterian church of this city. In Brooklyn, where Mr. Horr lived previous to his coming to this city, he became a member of the Royal Arcanum, from which the widow will receive benefits.

A sister living on Staten Island, his wife, and a daughter aged 15, survive him, and are heavily stricken with grief at their bereavement.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m., at the residence, 47 Westervelt avenue. The Rev. Charles E. Herring will officiate.

Henry F. Stites.

Last Saturday morning at 6, Henry F. Stites, one of the original settlers in Scotch Plains, died at his residence in that place.

Mr. Stites had been ill a comparatively short time, having been seen on the streets only one week ago.

He was in his sixty-ninth year, and a widow survives him. He will be sadly missed in the community, as he was ever a progressive citizen and highly respected by all. The funeral will be from the Scotch Plains Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Luckily, Escaped Harm.

Mrs. John Doull Miller, of Ninth street, and Miss Daisy Shepard, of Scotch Plains, daughters of Augustus D. Shepard, were driving on Watchung avenue, at 4 Saturday afternoon, when their horse took fright at an electric car, and threw the ladies from the carriage. John E. Keely, who happened to be on the scene, assisted the ladies to Dr. O. L. Jenkins's office. Fortunately, they had received no serious injury, except a severe shock to the nerves.

Frisbie Wasn't Scared.

Dog-catcher Frisbie today captured two canines belonging to a band of gypsies. At Park avenue and Fourth street, the gypsies gathered round and attempted to recover their dogs. It looked as if serious trouble would ensue, but the doughty Frisbie was not to be frightened. He compelled the gypsies to accompany him to the pound and pay the customary fee for the release of the animals.

Peach Festival by the Lake.

The peach festival of the young ladies of the Y. P. S. C. E. of Trinity Reformed church, which was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms last Friday evening, will be repeated Thursday evening of this week, at J. H. Tier's lake house pavilion. No admission fee will be charged, and as Mr. Tier has donated the use of his pavilion the young ladies look for a financial success. The amount realized will be given to the Sunday-school of the church.

Pastor Richardson to Speak.

The Rev. J. W. Richardson, D. D., of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will deliver two addresses before the Waterbury, Conn., Christian Endeavor Union, tomorrow. At 5:45 he will speak to the Juniors, and at 9 he will deliver the closing address to the older young folks. The societies are fortunate in securing Mr. Richardson as a speaker.

Capt. Williams Was from Plainfield.

Captain Williams, of the missing steamship Alvo, which it is supposed went to the bottom with all hands in the terrible storms of a few weeks ago, was at one time a resident of Plainfield, living with his family at Ninth street and Arlington avenue. Three years ago Mr. Williams took his family to Westfield, where he built a fine home and had since kept his family. His grief-stricken wife and children are still hopeful of his safe return.

Miss Laura Mulford, of East Fifth street, left town today for Boston, where she will visit for one week. Thence she will go to Bar Harbor to spend two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin, of Newark, spent a very pleasant Sabbath with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Washington Valley. Mr. Martin is a brother of Mrs. Clark.

The many friends and pupils of Miss Ada Grace Marsh, of 340 Franklin place, will be pleased to learn that she will return from abroad about the last of September.

Robert Clark's fine tenor voice again delighted the congregation of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday. His solo, "Nearer My God to Thee", was particularly well rendered.

The funeral of Randolph Giles was held from his late residence New Market yesterday afternoon. He was the father of Isaac Giles, of this city, and was well-known in this vicinity.

Peter L. Conde, of this city, is the subject of a very complimentary notice in a recent issue of the New York Evening Telegram for his exquisite music at Asbury Park this summer.

The Honeyman World's Fair excursion which left for the White City today, included thirty from this vicinity, among whom were Walter Moore, Mrs. Walbridge and A. E. Hoagland, all of Plainfield.

"Uncle" Peter Wooden and his sister, Ann Dickinson, took a trip to White House, today. They seemed as sprightly as ever, and many friends of the venerable pair watched their departure with interest.

A RARE BOOK.

Ex-Judge Codington Comes into Possession of an Old Law Volume that Makes Interesting Reading for Jerseymen.

Ex-Judge W. R. Codington has in his possession a valuable reprint of an old law volume entitled "The Grants, Concessions and Original Constitutions of the Province of New Jersey, The Acts Passed During the Proprietary Governments, 1664 to 1702, etc., etc., by Aaron Leaming and Jacob Spicer".

The first part of the volume is taken up with copies of the grants and concessions of lands in New Jersey in Carteret's time, between 1664 and 1682. Then follow the "Laws Passed Under the Government of the Twenty-Four Proprietors, Between 1682 and 1702."

This old volume is extremely interesting reading. Among the laws of Carteret's time, for example, is one providing that "If any person be found to be a witch, either male or female, he shall be put to death", and "that if any person or persons shall profanely take the name of God in vain, by swearing or cursing, he or they shall pay for every such offence one shilling, half to the informer, and the other half to the country."

Among the laws passed by the Legislature in 1692 is "An Act Prohibiting Selling of Strong Drink or Liquors to the Indians". It is a good specimen of Jersey blue law, and it must have delighted the hearts of old-time Prohibitionists, whose sympathies went out to the Indians. The Act provides that any person or persons caught selling or procuring for Indians, wine, rum, cider, beer, or any strong liquor whatsoever, shall receive for the first offense five lashes on the bare back; for the second offense, ten lashes; for the third offense, fifteen lashes; and for the fourth and every subsequent offense, twenty lashes.

An act passed at the General Assembly held in Perth Amboy, 1695, provides for "The Raising of One Hundred and Fifty Pounds for the Support of the Government". Another act offers a reward of fifteen shillings apiece for wolves' heads; another is to regulate the size of bricks and the height of fences.

Among the laws passed in West Jersey is one imposing a fine of six shillings upon any person caught doing any labor or traveling on the Lord's Day.

Death of the Giant Engineer.

Preston Moffett, a brother of Mrs. Isaac Connett of Watchung avenue, died at his home in Jersey City, Saturday night, of paralysis.

Deceased was aged 57 years. He had been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company more than 30 years, most of the time as engineer of a Washington express train. He was also at one time in the employ of the Jersey Central Railroad Company. Mr. Moffett was an extraordinarily large man, so that an extra-large door had to be placed in the cab of his engine for him. He was a skilled engineer, and like all giants was cheery and good natured, and highly esteemed by all who knew him.

The funeral took place today in Jersey City, and the railroad company provided a private car for the mourners.

Consul Demarest's Experience on a Canadian Railroad.

The Brockville, Ontario, Times tells that "Among the many distinguished guests at the Leeds County Agricultural Fair, Thursday, was United States Consul James A. Demarest. Although something of a traveler in all waters, and having been around Cape Hatteras a dozen times, yet the Honorable Mr. Demarest was seasick for the first time in his life during his trip over the Brockville, Westport & Sault Ste Marie Railroad".

The Silver Question, after all, concerns your spending a half dollar for admission to the Great Inter-State Fair.

Financially, your half dollar will bring a greater return than you can imagine. A visit to the Fair means a liberal education for you, while the recreation and change from the dull grind of daily routine will be of infinite value.

Take a day off and spend it at the Fair.

The place: Trenton, N. J.; the dates: September 25-29, 1893.

Counselor Reed Was Fishing.

In the case of Miller against Trust, to recover the amount of a debt, Justice Mosher today granted a nonsuit on account of the absence of Charles A. Reed, plaintiff's attorney. This merely annuls proceedings to date, and as the Millers hold that their claim against Trust is a just one a new summons will be issued and suit will be begun over again.

Let It Be Here, by All Means!

After the next regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting in the First Baptist church, the members will consider the advisability of asking that the New Jersey Baptist State Convention be held in this city next June.

Mayor Gilbert Was Lenient.

Jacob Goodman was drunk and disorderly last night, and was arrested by Officer McCue. In court this morning, Mayor Gilbert, who presided in Judge Coddington's absence, suspended sentence.

GUS WILLIAMS.

He'll Be the Next Attraction in Music Hall, Thursday Night.

Gus Williams, the jolly man with the German accent, will be in Music Hall Thursday night, in his latest success, "April Fool", a farce comedy, pure and simple. It is full of music and dances and capers and things, and there are some very capable people to do the capering. The company includes the Midgleys, Sager and Fanny, who for the last three years were the hit of "Natural Gas"; Miss Emma DeBerger, formerly principal vocalist with Gilmore's Band; Miss Georgie Burt, one of the bright lights of Evans & Hoey's "Parlor Match"; and others. Gus Williams has a German part, of course. He has made a fortune interpreting the German-American—a fortune big enough to enable him to buy a 160-acre farm in New York State, where he spends the summer chasing the festive potato bug. Ever since he was the child-wonder, the round-face chubby boy, singing temperance ballads at Brooklyn meetings, with a pathos that melted hard hearts, Gus Williams has been true to himself as an artist. He has not tried to play "Hamlet". Having a delicious German dialect, he has never outraged the probabilities of nature, and has never ridiculed the German people in his acting. He has held the mirror up to nature in his simple way, and has told his stories, recited his poems, and sung his humorous or tender songs, in a way that has touched the people's hearts.

DIVORCES GIVEN IN SECRET.

Publicity May Be Avoided in This State by Persons Wishing to Annul the Marriage Bond.

New Jersey has become one of the legal conveniences for people who want a divorce. New Jersey unmarries upward of 350 couples a year. The marriages last year footed up to 16,082, this including all the non-resident weddings. A divorce is granted for every forty-five marriages. Deducting the non-resident marriages, which in 1892 were 3,633, leaving 12,349 marriages of people belonging to the State, the ratio of divorce becomes smaller. The natural ratio is thirty-five marriages to one divorce, which is a remarkably high average.

Ten years ago the average number of divorces granted was about 180 a year. In 1878 there were only 144 divorces granted. In a period of five years from 1878 to 1883 there were only 788 divorces. In that number 514 were secured by wives, 461 were for desertion, and 287 for adultery.

In at least four-fifths of the cases that are begun the defendants are out of the State. During the past twelve months 314 ex-parte cases have been begun. As a rule all ex-parte cases are concluded and a decree given, while contested cases are not. It has been estimated that there are 1,500 divorce cases now docketed in the Court of Chancery, some of them having been in progress for the past six years.

Hundreds of divorces are granted and nobody but the persons directly concerned know of the existence of the decree. In the Court of Chancery the dockets are guarded and are only opened to the members of the bar and officers of the court. Under an order of the Chancellor no information is volunteered. If the fact of a particular suit is known the papers can be examined by calling for them and giving the names of the parties in the suit.

NEWS FROM JACK MORTIMER.

He Sends a Paper East Telling of John Crane Among the Mormons.

Ever since Jack Mortimer left town three years or more ago, the people who so well remember him here have wondered just where he went. At last news of him has come. On the margin of The Deseret Evening Evening News, issued in Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 13, and reaching The Press today, is the inscription "From J. Mortimer", and the following paragraph is marked:

PLEASED WITH THIS CITY.

Mr. John M. Crane, general superintendent of the American Casualty Insurance and Security Company, has been in Salt Lake for three days looking over the business of his company in this section in connection with Messrs. Sloan and Krigbaum. He thinks this the making of a fine city. Mr. Crane is one of the originators of the casualty insurance in the United States, was an organizer of the Fidelity and Casualty, knows the business as a father knows his child, is a sleight of hand performer, a business maker and a business getter, a good story teller, is the press man for his company, an all-round good fellow and is held in high esteem by the insurance press and companies generally.

Almost Up to the Record.

At Waverly, Saturday afternoon, Thomas Cuming, of Watchung avenue, entered the two-mile handicap race. He came in fourth, with the time of 4:37 3-5. The entries numbered 28. The best time for two miles is held by Sanger, which is 4:31 1-5.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

WHO GETS THE BANNER?

Surely Plainfield Can Win It This Time.

The Press Committee of the State Endeavor Convention met Thursday evening and outlined the work. There was a full attendance of members, and all present entered upon the work of advertising the meeting with zest. The aim of the committee will be to reach every Endeavorer in the State through the newspapers. The convention will be held in Trenton October 11 and 12.

The First Baptist church in Plainfield has been selected for the County Conference, which takes place Friday evening next. The Rev. L. R. Dyott, of Newark, who is well known as an interesting and inspiring Christian Endeavor speaker, will make the address. Miss Spangenberg, the district secretary, will speak on Junior work, reports from the Montreal Convention will be given, and the singing will be lead by a large chorus choir.

The badge banner, which was won by the Roselle Baptist Society at the conference in Elizabeth, will be awarded to the society having the largest percentage of its active members present.

The Programme Committee of the County Union met Friday evening and finished the programme for the County Conference mentioned above. Papers from two Montreal delegates will be read. A feature of the convention will be the singing. There is room for forty singers in the choir circle, and the full number will be in the chorus.

As has before been stated, its funds are nearly exhausted, and to assist them in their work of charity they have secured "The Wrens", to give one of their entertainments in the Casino tonight, and for the sake of the cause The Press hopes they will be greeted with a large attendance.

The Hyacinth and How to Grow It.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am sure if people knew how very easily they could have a bed of beautiful hyacinths in bloom in early spring, there would be more attention paid to their cultivation for outdoor culture.

The hyacinth will grow well in any good garden soil, but light rich soil will suit it best. Planting in the open ground can be done any time from Oct. 1 until the ground freezes. Dig the beds thoroughly to the depth of 18 inches, and plant the bulbs from six to eight inches apart and about four inches deep. A slight cover of dry litter may be placed on the beds after the first frost, and should be removed early in the spring.

Hyacinths may be grown in pots for house cultivation. The pots should be from four to six inches in diameter; fill the pots with light soil, and press the bulb down into it and press the soil tightly around the bulb. If potted loosely they will not thrive after potting. They should have a good wetting, and be left a day or two until the surface of the soil begins to dry; then place them in a cool, dark cellar, where they may remain for several weeks to allow the roots to get a good start. If brought to the light gradually, and a few at a time, a succession of flowers may be kept through the winter.

Some other time we will have a talk about house plants that will bloom well in winter. You should order your bulbs early so as to get a good assortment.

How the Boroughites Will Fly!

The new car for the street railway arrived in this city yesterday, and will be put into service as soon as the motors are adjusted. It is a beauty, and will make quick runs. It has a double motor.

Car No. 1 of the street railway still continues to jump the Somerset street track, thereby causing much annoyance. It is not fitted for that style rail. The new cars have improved wheels.

Superintendent Adleman expects to have the new car running regularly tomorrow morning. The car has a different style of truck and undergearing than the others, being of the latest pattern.

Not Miss Jessie; That Was a Mistake.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Please correct in today's Press the announcement which appeared in The Press of Saturday 16, of the wedding of Miss Jessie Clawson, etc., as it is untrue.

And oblige,
MISS CLAWSON.

THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

Sermon Last Night, by the Rev. J. W. Richardson, in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, to a Large Audience.

The text was Ephesians v: 25—"Husbands love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it." The speaker said in part:

"The 'Ideal Husband' will be satisfied with his wife. There is something vastly more important in the marriage relation besides sentiment and passion and self gratification. Those who look for such things in this sacred relation between man and woman make social shipwreck. Men and women should look upon marriage as a continuous act, which is to enrich and beautify their truest affections, making them more God-like as their patience and temper are refined by the experiences which come to married life. True marriage is one of God's redemptive agents. It has a power which breaks up the selfishness in a man's nature and teaches him self-sacrifice, and to curb his petulancy, and to live not for himself but for another. And one of the surest indication of a true marriage is where the husband is satisfied with the love of his wife. I have an idea that the 'Ideal Husband' will look upon his wife as being worthy of his constant attention. Between such a couple courtship does not end with the ceremony which makes them husband and wife; their whole married life is courtship continued. But in some homes the gentleman of the house comes in with a slam; wife and children about the tea-table are awed into silence by his gruffness; he pushes back from the table, snatches up the newspaper, and not a soul dares ask a question. His sweet wife attired herself in the most becoming costume to attract his attention; he is intent on base-ball and boat racing news. She took pains to have the children look neat and tidy; but he growls 'Oh go away and let me alone'. Then without a single caress for that disappointed woman, without a kiss for those waiting children, he takes his hat and goes off to the lodge. Some men are better satisfied with the lodge than with their wife. Some men would rather go down town and sit around in stores, than to stay at home for five minutes with their wives. Some men see nothing attractive in the smile of that pure little woman at home, but let some other woman smile upon them, and how they grin, and scrape, and bow.

"Some men will allow their wives to do the lifting and lugging of the house; they will even allow them to make all the arrangements for the next morning's fire; while on the street, if a strange woman drops her fan, they will walk clear across the sidewalk to pick it up for her. There are husbands, who though they would not be guilty of marital infidelity yet need to change their deportment. I tell you it is not smartness; it is concentrated meanness in a man, for him to cut the heart of his true wife, by an unmanly flirtation with some other woman. I suppose we have been uttering some very plain truths tonight; but they will be better remembered. Oh! it is high time that American manhood be told its faults, so that blameworthy habits may be corrected."

HUMANE DECREE.

The Czar Will Stop a Cruel Practice of Russian Police.

LONDON, Sep. 18.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Central News says that an Imperial ukase will shortly be issued abolishing the practice of kneuting by the police. It is stated that the initiative has been taken by the Czar himself, who ordered the governors of different provinces to report on this kind of punishment. The reports submitted to the Czar revealed the fact that the use of the knout was often resorted to for the most trivial offenses, that women, and even children were not exempt from it, and that frequently they were maimed for life. All the governors favored its abolition.

YELLOW FEVER WORSE.

Eleven New Cases at Brunswick, Ga., and Epidemic Declared.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sep. 18.—"Eleven new cases of yellow fever and an epidemic declared." Such was the announcement made by the board of health yesterday. With heart-breaking sorrow, hundreds hurriedly rushed to the trains and it will need no military force to depopulate the city. There are hundreds of poor in Brunswick who need help from the government and from people of the country. They cannot leave for they have no money.

The Valkyrie Overdue.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—At 5:45 this morning the great English yacht Valkyrie had been out 26 days, since which time not a word has been received as to her whereabouts. Yachtmen are getting anxious but will give her at least five days more before they begin to believe that she has been disabled and is slowly working her way to port. The Valkyrie carries a crew of 24 men.

Fell Five Stories Unhurt.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—John Harty, the four-and-a-half-year-old son of Jacob Harty, of 101 Monroe street, fell from the fifth story window to the pavement and sustained no injury besides a slight contusion of the scalp. His fall was broken by a fire escape below and by a stout clothesline.

White Cap Murder.

BRECKINRIDGE, Mo., Sep. 18.—Edmund Burke was murdered here presumably by white caps. He had been charged with frequently beating his wife and had received warning letters.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Atty, Washington, D. C.

MONOMANIA FOR GOLD

Strange Passion of the Old Mint Robber.

HANDLED GOLD ALL HIS LIFE

Thought the Government Rich Enough to Spare a Few Bars and Quietly Helped Himself—Could be Trusted With Millions of Anything Except Gold.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 18.—It is probable that Henry S. Cochran will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell on the charge of robbing the Philadelphia mint of $26,576 worth of gold. Chief Inspector Drummond of the secret service went to Washington to get instructions from Acting Mint Director Preston and when he returned he had a conference with one of the assistants of United States District Attorney Ingham in reference to getting his aged prisoner a prompt hearing.

The witnesses for the government will be Chief Drummond, Treasury Agent Morgan and Assistant Weighing Clerk John Z. Jones of the mint. The government is not disposed to push the case with any degree of vigor but District Attorney Ingham will ask that Cochran be taken out of the hands of Secret Service Inspectors Wood and Linden, who now have him in charge and pet him where he can be found when wanted.

Chief Drummond said that he was not in a position to definitely say whether or not the government would prosecute Cochran, but declared he would recommend the abandonment of the case in the event of complete restitution being made. "He is old and feeble and has done good service in the mint," Chief Drummond further said, "and I do not believe that he is altogether responsible for his actions. I would trust Cochran with millions of dollars of anything valuable except gold. It would be safe to give him control of a vault filled with greenbacks, for he would not take a cent of it. He handled gold all his life and has developed a passion for it which is too strong to be described. He thought the government was rich enough without a few bars more or less and he helped himself to an extent that would make his declining years happy ones."

BR. BURTSELL'S CASE

Satolli Has Decided Not to Interfere in the Matter.

NEW YORK, Sep. 18.—The Times says the petition of the parishioners of the Epiphany Church to Mgr. Satolli, the Papal delegate, for the return of their old pastor, the Rev. Dr. Burtsell, has come to nothing. Dr. Burtsell will remain in Rondout for the present.

The delegate has decided that he has no jurisdiction in the matter. He received the petitioners very kindly last winter and promised to do whatever lay in his power to induce Archbishop Corrigan to reconsider the Burtsell case. He kept his promise by writing a politic letter to the Archbishop, expressing the wish that he would reopen the case.

The Archbishop replied that it was a question which the Propaganda had already settled and he had no desire to interfere. The matter ended there. All that has since been published about it was mere guesswork.

Mgr. Satolli on his recent visit to New York said that he had taken no steps in the affair and would take none. Dr. Burtsell will be compelled, therefore, to carry his cause to Rome. So far he has taken no measures for his restoration, although he would like such a vindication very much.

ALSACE-LORRAINE.

Emperor William Proposes to Consolidate Them With Germany.

BERLIN, Sep. 18.—Before leaving Stuttgart on Saturday evening Emperor William had a long conversation with Chancellor von Caprivi. The subject is said to have been the projected assimilation of Alsace-Lorraine with the rest of the Empire. The Frankfort Gazette says that the Emperor's purpose is no longer limited to the mere abolition of exceptional laws. His desire now is to have Alsace incorporated in the Grand Duchy of Baden, whose people have almost the same dialect, customs and even the traditions with the Alsatians.

Lorraine will be treated somewhat differently. It is inhabited by people of French tendencies and language, and has little in common with any German State. It therefore will be annexed to Prussia, although its affairs will be administered by a special department, probably situated in Berlin. This plan originated with Caprivi. It is agreeable to the Emperor, who wishes to mark his sojourn in the provinces by some act signifying that Germany has taken possession of the territory, despite all hopes of the French to the contrary.

THE VALKYRIE SIGHTED

Bearing Herself Beautifully Under Full Sail.

ONLY A DAY OUT OF NEW YORK

The Steamship Spain Passed the Famous Yachts and Reports Her All Right Only a Few Hundred Miles Away From Sandy Hook.

NEW YORK, Sep. 19.—The British racing cutter, Valkyrie, may be in port this evening, but it is hardly probable that she will sail through the Narrows until to-morrow morning. She was sighted on Saturday last by the British steamship Spain, which arrived at Quarantine at half-past 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and went to her dock at the National line wharf, on the North river, half an hour later.

Although no signals were exchanged between the big steamer and the yacht it is presumed that all are well on the smaller craft. At the time the yacht was sighted the wind was blowing freshly from the south, southeast.

"If I had known that the Valkyrie had not been reported since she left the other side," said Capt. Griffiths of the Spain, "I would certainly have borne down on her and gone alongside. But, of course, I had no idea that there was any uneasiness about her and so I kept on my course. I am quite sure she was the Valkyrie, as I know that boat well. It was Saturday morning at 11 o'clock when we sighted her. The wind was blowing from the south, southeast, and she was behaving herself beautifully under full sail. She carried a jib and staysail, mainsail and gaff-topsail and was about six miles south of us. I should judge she was making 10 knots an hour, and the Spain was making about the same.

"We kept in much about the same position all day. It was raining and murky. At 6 o'clock it grew darker and we lost sight of her. That was just 430 miles east of Sandy Hook.

"During the whole of Saturday there was a fresh wind, but at ten o'clock that night it came into west, southwest, and at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning to northwest, keeping in the west the rest of our voyage. Of course when the wind headed us during the night she would break off, and that accounts for our not being with her on Sunday morning.

"When I last looked at her she had taken in her gaff topsail. All Sunday the wind was fresh, but during Sunday evening fell, and that night and until we came into port last evening it was very light. I hardly think the Valkyrie will get in until Wednesday morning, but she might make it this evening."

STUDYING TRAIN ROBBERIES.

The United States Senate to Investigate the Subject.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 19.—The Senate yesterday held a short session. Its attention was devoted to Senator Peffer's resolution directing the Committee on Interstate Commerce to inquire into the recent train robberies. Senators Cullom and Hoar took the position that the matter should be left in the hands of the Judiciary Committee, and Senators Hawley, Vest and Dolph opposed the proposition on constitutional grounds, but the resolution was not disposed of when the Senate, according to agreement, took a recess in order to attend the centennial ceremonies, and at their conclusion adjourned.

The House did nothing but meet, take a recess in accordance with the order previously adopted, to attend in a body the exercises in connection with the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol and adjourn at their close.

PORTUGAL'S QUARANTINE.

The Absurb Decree About New York Has Been Withdrawn.

NEW YORK, Sep. 19.—In view of the action of the Portuguese government last week declaring New York to be a port infected with cholera, the Maratime Exchange communicated with the Department of State at Washington showing its ruinous effect upon the trade of New York with Portugal.

Secretary Gresham at once took up the matter. A telegram received from Assistant Secretary of State Adee, announces that United States Minister Caruth at Lisbon has secured a reversal of the decree, and that the Portuguese government declares the ports of New York and New Jersey free of cholera.

WHO OWNS THE $100,000?

Sensational Suit Against Wall Street Broker James R. Keene.

NEW YORK, Sep. 19.—James R. Keene, the well-known stock broker, is defendant in two suits for judgment amounting to $200,000 which, it has just been learned, were begun last June and are on the calenders of the the Supreme Court of this city for trial in October or November. The complaint is made by Mrs. Minnie C. Rankin, wife of Alfred H. Rankin, a member of the Wall street banking firm of Wayland, Trask & Co. She sues as an acknowledged Wall street operator and her action is based on alleged transactions in that capacity with Mr. Keene prior to and after his suspension in 1884, and with the late William H. Vanderbilt in an earlier period.

The first of these suits sets up a claim for $100,000, with interest, declared to have been accepted by Mr. Keene in the spring of 1884, from the late W. H. Vanderbilt practically in trust for Mrs. Rankin. The object for forming this so-called trust, as set forth in the complaint, was to give Mr. Keene the use of the money to enable him to tide over his difficulties.

The other action is for an unpaid balance of salary—$34,486, claimed as having been earned in the defendant's service.

Mr. Keene admits in answer to the $100,000 suit, that over nine years ago, William H. Vanderbilt, for the accommodation of Mr. Keene, and for no other purpose whatsoever, lent to him $100,000. He denies that he ever received or accepted from William H. Vanderbilt $100,000 or any other sum in trust for Mrs. Rankin, or that he ever agreed with William H. Vanderbilt or with Mrs. Rankin to act as her trustee, or that he ever entered upon the performance of any duties as trustee of Mrs. Rankin. He denies expressly that there is any balance of $34,486 or any other sum owing from him to Mrs. Rankin.

TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT.

Trainmen and Express Messenger Implicated in the Crime.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sep. 19.—Practically all the men who had anything to do with the robbery of the Mineral Range express last Friday of $70,000 are in jail or under espionage and up to date $14,000 of their booty has been recovered. George Liberte, a former fireman on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road, was arrested here by the police on the telegraphic order of the sheriff of Houghton county and made a clean breast of the whole affair. The other men under arrest are A. S. Cannon of Hancock, a young man of good family, whose trunk was used to carry away the money; John King, an athlete; Chellew, a saloon keeper of Negaunee; Michael and John Shea, saloon keepers here; Tom Winters, baggage man; D. W. Hogan, the messenger on the robbed car; Ed Hogan, saloon keeper; W. Shiops, hack driver and one Butler, an habitue of Chellew's place. Liberte in his confession gave a detailed account of where the trunk was left along the line of the Mineral Range road and a special train and some officers were sent after it. They found the trunk and on its arrival at the Houghton National Bank it was opened and found empty. On Liberte's information $14,000 was recovered by the officers, at Shea Brothers' saloon. The empty condition of the trunk is accounted for by the suggestion that the money was stolen a second time, last from the robbers themselves, and Messenger Hogan's brother is being looked for in connection with the latest episode.

TAXING CHECKS.

Uncle Sam Wants Ten Per Cent. When Used as Currency.

HARTFORD, Sep. 19.—Collector of Internal Revenue J. F. Hutchinson recently wrote to the commissioner at Washington, asking whether the pay roll checks which were used as currency were subject to a 10 per cent. tax. He stated that employes were obliged to take them in payment for services, and that their use conflicted with two sections of the revised statutes. The Collector has received word from G. W. Wilson, acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue, that the checks are notes in contemplation of section 19, act of Feb. 8, 1875, (18 Stat., §311), and that the Billings & Spencer Company, the firm mentioned as issuing checks, was liable for a tax of 10 per cent. on the amount used for circulation and paid out by them. The firm claims that the checks are not currency, but are used for convenience. The matter will be carried to the courts.

SETTLERS LEAVING IN DISGUST

Wind and Fire Add New Terrors to the Lawless Land—Perry City Has 25,000 Inhabitants—Three Daily and Five Weekly Newspapers.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sep. 19.—A gale swept the Cherokee strip yesterday, lifting great volumes of the black, dry earth and tearing tents away from their fastenings. Tented towns were laid low by the wind and little progress was made by the army of town builders. Thousands of people have moved out of the land of promise. Many have lost the prizes they raced for last Saturday, but many others who had undisputed possession of farms abandoned their claims to return to their old homes, thoroughly disgusted with the country. Those who made the great race honestly last Saturday found the bottom lands all taken, and in many instances men were at work plowing ground about houses half completed of sod or boards. These sooners profited by their Oklahoma experience. It will be impossible to convict them of perjury this time. They will have their witnesses on hand to swear each other out, and the man who had the swift race horse will have no show, because none of his friends were with him.

Numerous prairie fires have been the cause of more deaths than have six-shooters, and more charred bodies, on which there was nothing to identify them, were found on the prairies. Near Blackwell four quarter sections were found in the possession of as many sooners by the racers when they came in on their foam-flecked horses. The claims were valuable and the racers proceeding to drive the sooners away, a fight ensued and three men were killed, Arthur Johnson of Pueblo, Col.; Geo. Childs of Valley Falls, South Dakota, and James Squires of Hennessey, Oklahoma, all sooners.

A large mass meeting was held here and resolutions adopted demanding the surrender to the civil authorities of the soldier who killed J. A. Hill at the line of the Chilleco reservation Saturday afternoon. The officers of the Third Cavalry persistently decline to give the name of the soldier who did the shooting, claiming that in killing Hill he was simply obeying orders. The remains of the dead man were shipped to his former home in New Jersey.

GUTHRIE, O. T. Sep. 19.—There are now 95,000 persons at Perry. All the land adjoining the townsite has been staked off into lots, and the Cherokee allotments at Wharton, half a mile away, were yesterday put on the market platted for a townsite, and several hundred lots sold at from one to $400 each. Lots are selling in Perry at $200 and $300 each, and dozens of buildings are going up. A bank has been opened in a substantial frame building. There are three daily and five weekly newspapers in the town, and more coming. A terrific sand storm raged all day and people could not see 20 feet and hundreds are coming into Guthrie to await its abatement. The prairie fires are still burning the Pawnee country and several have perished.

A number of people who were ejected from trains or thrown off lots by deputy marshals on Saturday are having papers prepared to begin damage suits against United States Marshal Mix, in sums ranging from $1,000 to $10,000 each, and he and his bondsmen are pretty nervous, as there is not a lawyer but admits that every person so ejected has a good case. In every case where the conductor or brakemen on a train aided in putting the people off, or even allowed it without protesting, the railway company will also be sued.

THE WAR IN BRAZIL.

All Ports South of Rio in Danger of Blockade.

LONDON, Sep. 19.—A mercantile firm here has received a telegram from Rio Janeiro saying that Congress had decided to to sit until September 25. The foreign bankers in the city have agreed to suspend business until the crisis shall end. The bombardment of the city yesterday lasted three hours. The forts replied with great effect. The steel cruiser Republica, the fastest of the Brazillian naval vessels, forced a passage across the bar and after a severe fight with the forts got away to the south. She is supposed to have started for Santos for the purpose of blockading the port. Immediately after the bombardment the Aquidaban, with the rest of the insurgent fleet, sailed southward. The fleet is expected to blockade shortly all the ports south of Rio Janeiro.

Iron Works Resume Operations.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 19.—Brown & Company's Wayne Iron works, Tenth street and Duquesne way, resumed operations yesterday, their former employes reporting for duty to a man. In anticipation of possible trouble the entire police reserve of the city went on duty at the mill at 5 o'clock. They found nothing to claim their attention and withdrew from the mill.

Still After Eno.

NEW YORK, Sep. 19.—The District Attorney's office has prepared papers for appeal in the case of John C. Eno, ex-president of the Second National Bank. Judge Wallace recently gave a decision discharging Eno, and now the District Attorney appeals to the Supreme Court of the United States to place him in the jurisdiction of the criminal courts.

BEFORE RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS

The Capital Said to be Ready for the New Line Between New York and Brewsters Connecting With the New York and New England Railroad.

ALBANY, Sep. 19.—There was a hearing yesterday before the State Railroad Commission on the application of the New York, New England & Northern Railroad company for permission to construct its proposed road from Leggett's Point on the Harlem river in New York city to Brewsters, there to connect with the New York & New England road.

A. A. McLeod, who is president of both roads, James Armstrong, his counsel, W. K. Niver of Syracuse and Chief Engineer Olmsted appeared in favor of the construction of the road.

S. A. Rockafeller of New York city and John W. Van Valkenburg and James Walters of this city appeared in opposition to the application in behalf of Mr. Ramsey's proposed road, called, the New York, Boston, Albany & Schenectady railroad, claiming that Mr. McLeod's road would take up portions of the route of the road in which they were interested.

Chairman Beardsley of the Commission said that as Mr. Ramsay's road was incorporated in 1880 and no work had as yet been begun upon it, no consideration should be granted the company.

Sherman Evarts of New York city, representing the New York & Northern railroad, which runs from New York city to Brewsters, and is controlled by the New York Central railroad, appeared in opposition to the construction of the new road.

He said no public necessity existed for its construction and that the New York & Northern could easily take care of all transportation in that section. Mr. McLeod disputed this. He admitted that the road was proposed as an entrance for the New York & New England into New York city, and would, it is estimated, cost $40,000 a mile to construct. Mr. Olmstead did not think the proposed road paralleled any existing road within the meaning of the law. Mr. McLeod said the capital to construct the road was ready, and he could assure the commission that the road could be made a paying one from the beginning.

A short discussion followed between Mr. Evarts and Mr. McLeod as to the relations existing between the roads they represented. Mr. Evarts asked for an adjournment so he could prepare data to show that no necessity existed for the construction of a road in that portion of the State.

Commissioner Beardsley asked what guarantee could be given the commission that the road would be constructed if the application to construct was granted.

Mr. McLeod said he would in executive session show the good faith of the applicants.

Another hearing will be given on Monday.

MRS. HALLIDAY FRIGHTENED.

Thomas McQuillan Visits the Slayer of His Wife and Daughter.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 19.—The village is crowded with people from the vicinity of the Halliday murder and elsewhere who are here to witness the trial of Mrs. Halliday. The feeling is very bitter against the woman and the people say if she is crazy now she was not so when she committed the murders. The woman has shown every evidence of fear and is probably conscious of her approaching trial. To all appearance she is still the muttering lunatic. Mrs. Halliday was visited in her cell yesterday by Thomas McQuillan, whose wife and daughter were two of the victims of the murderess. The old man gazed fiercely at the woman and could hardly restrain himself from harming her as he exclaimed: "That is the woman who came and took away my wife and daughter." The words were spoken with terrible earnestness and as the prisoner heard them she crouched down on her cot as though in fear and then began muttering.

Robert Halliday, son of the murdered man, identified the watch which Sheriff Beecher found on the woman as his father's.

HISTORY WARMED OVER

Capitol Centennial Recalls Inspiring Events.

GEMS OF THOUGHT AND ORATORY

Following the Programme of a Hundred Years Ago—Addresses by the President and Vice-President and William Wirt Henry—A Glorious Day.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 19.—Yesterday was a memorable day for Washington. Though the day is said to have been fair and beautiful 100 years ago when President George Washington crossed the Potomac into Maryland and escorted by Virginia and Maryland troops and Masonic and other bodies, moved in procession to Capitol Hill, and there laid the corner-stone of the National Capitol, the weather could not possibly have been more pleasant on that occasion than the clear skies and buoyant sunshine which smiled on the centennial commemoration of that great event.

Following as closely as possible the programme of the original ceremonies, the procession was chiefly confined to civic bodies, under the marshalship of General Ordway, commanding the District National Guard.

At the head of the procession, immediately following Grand Marshal Ordway and his well mounted staff, rode the President of the United States and his Cabinet officers.

An interesting side feature of the day was the releasing of a number of carrier pigeons which had been sent to the Engineer Corps of the National Guard from New York city, Brooklyn, N. Y., Newark, N. J., Providence, R. I., Fall River, Mass., and Leesburg, Va. The little messengers entrusted with messages of congratulation from the district commissioners to the mayors of the respective cities were turned loose at different times during the day, according to the distances to be traversed.

Arrived at the Capitol shortly after 2 o'clock, the parade was dismissed and the ceremonies of commemoration were commenced from stands erected on the East front, and in the presence on an immense concourse of people.

The musical part of the programme was exceedingly notable and effective. Then after Bishop Paret's eloquent prayer Dudley Buck's magnificent, "Te Deum in E flat" was rendered by a chorus of fifteen hundred trained voices, under the leadership of Prof. Du Shane Cloward.

After an appropriate address by Chairman Gardner, which was replete with local and historical interest, President Cleveland spoke as follows:

While I accept with much satisfaction the part assigned to me on this occasion, I cannot escape the sober reflections which these ceremonies suggest. Those who suppose that we are simply engaged in commemorating the beginning of a magnificent structure devoted to important public uses, have overlooked the most useful and improving lesson of the hour; we do indeed celebrate the laying of a cornerstone from which has sprung the splendid edifice whose grand proportions arouse the pride of every American citizen; but our celebration is chiefly valuable and significant because this edifice was designed and planned by great and good men as a place where the principles of a free representative government should be developed in patriotic legislation for the benefit of a free people.

If representatives who here assemble to make laws for their fellow-countrymen forget the duty of broad and disinterested patriotism, and legislate in prejudice and passion, or in behalf of sectional and selfish interests, the time when the corner-stone of our Capitol was laid and the circumstances surrounding it, will not be worth commemorating.

The sentiment and traditions connected with this structure and its uses belong to all the people of the land. They are most valuable as reminders of patriotism in the discharge of public duty and steadfastness in many a struggle for the public good. They also furnish a standard by which our people may measure the conduct of those chosen to serve them.

I believe our fellow citizens have no greater nor better cause for rejoicing on this centennial than it found in the assurance that their public servants who assemble in these halls will watch and guard the sentiment and traditions that gather around this celebration, and that in the days to come those who shall again commemorate the laying of the corner stone of their nation's Capitol will find in the recital of our performance of public duty no less reason for enthusiasm and congratulations than we find in recalling the wisdom and virtue of those who have preceded us.

The oration of the day by William Wirt Henry was learned and eloquent, closing as follows:

When we remember the great men who have shed lustre on this Capitol during the past century, as Presidents, legislators and jurists, we can justly claim an eminence for our republic which has not been excelled; if ever equalled, by any other nation of this or any other age.

Filled with the patriotic spirit of our founders, may those who administer the government come year by year to this Capitol, and by wisdom in counsel do continued honor to their memory in contributing to the happiness of this great people. Illustrious founders:

"Ages on ages shall your fate admire,
To future shall see your names expire
While stands the Capitol, immortal dome."

The "Star Spangled Banner" sung by the grand chorus followed after which Vice President Stevenson was introduced and made a historical and interesting address. A short speech was also made by Speaker Crisp.

The closing exercises consisted of the rendering of the grand chorus "The Heavens are Telling" from Haydns "The Creation." A judicial address by Associate Justice Henry Billings Brown of the United States Supreme Court, a closing speech by Commissioner Myron M. Parker, for the district governor and the rendering of "America" by the Marine band, chorus and audience.

THE DAILY PRESS.

L. L. FORCE, - - Publisher and Proprietor.
WALTER IRVING CLARKE, - Managing Editor.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair, Cooler; Southwest Shifting to Northwesterly Winds.

Dr. Talmage offers to give $100 to any infidel who can furnish satisfactory proof that he has read the Bible through twice. The inference is that no man can twice read the Bible thoroughly, and honestly disbelieve its teachings.

Pennsylvanians hardly get through with one patriotic anniversary before they take up another. Recently they celebrated the 116th anniversary of the battle of Brandywine, and now the people of Philadelphia are making preparations to commemorate the landing of Penn's ship Welcome on October 27, 1682. The initiative has been taken by Superintendent of Education Brooks, who recommends that the public schools signalize the anniversary of next month with patriotic exercises. Pennsylvania people have the right idea of developing patriotism in the breasts of the rising generation early in life.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION.

Jacob Kriney has the job of his life before him. It transpires that the condition the Plainfield Street Railway Company imposed on him was that before the Dunellen extension shall be built he must secure subscriptions to $10,000 of stock from the people whose property will be benefited. It's easy enough to find the people who want the road, but to find enough willing to pay for it is another matter.

Sometime ago, when imputation was cast by another paper against the financial ability of the company to extend its tracks, the company's representative assured The Press that it had no lack of funds, and that all it wanted was signers and it would extend.

Inasmuch as the Dunellen extension would mean largely increased profits to the company, it seems strange that the company should put such an impediment as a $10,000 condition in its own way. The stock would be a good investment, but neither Mr. Kriney nor anyone else will ever secure the subscription of the amount specified among Dunellenites.

Plainfield and Dunellen are entitled to the rapid transit petitioned for, and the company has no right to refuse or to block it.

WHITEHEAD HAVEN FOR TRAMPS.

What kind of a place is Westfield, if it would not welcome the Saviour?

In the current issue of The Standard appears a communication signed Celia B. Whitehead, in which the estimable woman says:

I have never been a believer in the doctrine of total depravity, but I fear I shall soon believe in the total stupidity of legislators. Our tramp laws seem an embodiment of it.

If I have read aright the story of Jesus of Nazareth, Westfield would be a very unsafe place for him if he wished to live the same sort of life he lived when on earth before. Our laws would imprison him.

The Press does n't seek to defend Westfield from the insinuations made by a worthy citizeness who doubtless knows the place like a book: but it does believe that Miss (or Mrs.) Whitehead is not so familiar with the festive tramp, or she would n't write such essays in his favor. Miss (or Mrs.) Whitehead evidently has never been confronted when alone in the house by a big, burly, bewhiskered chap of the sort that bulldoze Plainfield wives into surrendering the choicest eatables of the larder and saving the bones for the "master" of the house. The Press will be pleased to direct members of the tramp fraternity to their Westfield friend, and terrified Plainfield housewives will bless her for her goodness. Will Miss (or Mrs.) Whitehead kindly chalk four red crosses on her gatepost so they may know the house?

Miss (or Mrs.) Whitehead has a good and liberal heart, but what kind of a place is Westfield?

CONSOLIDATION SURE.

A Third Club Will Supplant the Two, and Get the $15,000 Club-House.

The Westfield Athletic Club and the Union League Club each met Saturday night and appointed a committee of conference. The two committees have met and formulated a plan of consolidation which will be submitted to the clubs tonight and doubtless approved by them.

The plan of action to be proposed is that a third club be organized which shall take in as charter members all members of the old clubs who shall wish to enter. The old clubs will then be disbanded, leaving but one organization, which will manage by a process which need not be explained at length, to get possession of the $15,000 club-house of the Westfield Athletic Club.

THE SEASON'S GAY DANCES BEGUN.

YOUNG PEOPLE MAKE MERRY AT THE PARK CLUB.

Successful Subscription Affair, with a Cotillion of Novel Figures—September Snowballs Smite Smiling Swains—Big Boys Burst Baby Balloons.

The first dance of the season took place last night at the Park Club. It was a subscription affair; and the invitations, which were limited in number, were sent out about a week ago. The Park Club was chosen on account of its size, as the Casino is rather large for a small dance. No attempt was made at decoration, but the dancing room at the Park Club is sufficiently attractive without covering up its walls with bunting.

Informal dancing was indulged in until 10:30, when supper was served. The cotillion was danced at 11, Irving West leading with Miss Corlies.

There were several amusing figures, one of the best being the contest between the men to decide who could break a toy balloon first and get away to choose his partner. One of the prettiest was the snowball figure, in which the girls designated their choice of partners by breaking a small tissue-paper bag, filled with clipped paper snow, over the heads of the fortunate swains.

The favors were simple but pretty, the floor was superb, and the music was good. The cotillion was finished about 1:30.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting a list of patronesses, on account of the number of matrons out of town. Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna and Mrs. J. K. Boome presided at the favor tables, besides lending their names as patronesses. Those dancing were:

Irving West and Miss Corlies, Edward Bloodgood and Miss Bessie Ginna, Gifford Cooley and Miss Gilman, Rowland Cox and Miss Cooley, Howard Huntington and Miss Elizabeth Evans, John Munn and Miss Maude VanBoskerck, Mr. Streuli and Miss Tompkins, Harry Opdyke and Miss Mitchell, Thomas VanBoskerck and Miss Florence Huntington, Harry West and Miss Gertrude Walz, O. G. Waring and Miss Marion Dumont, Walter Murray and Miss Holly, Mr. Jewett and Miss Holly, George VanBoskerck and Miss Murphy, Augustus D. Shepard, Jr., and Miss Elizabeth Stewart.

Those dancing stag were Percy Stewart, Walter Stewart, Clifford McGee, John Holly and Clarence Logan Murphy.

HAMMERED THE HACKMAN.

Michael Kennedy's Tough Experience with a Couple of Fares on Saturday Night.

Michael Kennedy, so long a hackman in this city, met with a rather hard time of it Saturday night.

Kennedy was approached at his new stand in Elizabeth, at a late hour, by two apparently respectable looking men who asked to be driven to Newark. When midway between Newark and Elizabeth, the men got Kennedy to halt and, getting out of the coach, assaulted him by hammering and kicking him to their heart's content, after which they took to flight.

It is said that Kennedy, during the struggle, was relieved of his watch and purse, and that before his assailants left they kicked in the windows of his coach.

Where the Voice May Be Trained.

Miss Annie J. Bronson, who has opened a studio for voice-training at 248 East Ninth street, is highly endorsed by former patrons and by newspapers. She has eminent ability for teaching the art of singing and speaking, for developing ease, purity, tone, color, expression, compass and power, and for establishing breath control in her pupils. She trains the child voice along natural lines, and has won prominence for her teachings and writings on voice culture. Miss Bronson is also prepared to make engagements for ballad lecture recitals, illustrated by eminent New York vocal artists, or to deliver lectures in schools and parlors. She will supply circulars and testimonials on application. Classes are now forming.

Mr. Parker is the manager of the Manufacturers' Trap-Shooting Association, and is also Game Warden of the State of Michigan. He is one of the most popular sportsmen of the country, and his friends who are lovers of the gun are afforded rare sport when visiting Detroit.

Rahway Workmen Laid Off.

The Johnson Railroad Signal Company of Rahway has laid off its night hands and reduced the number of its day hands considerably. The works began today to run four eight-hour days each week. The Johnson people have run full time both night and day until this time.

The Time Is Short.

Miss Hellwig has already secured a number of engagements for her fall classes. Intending patrons will notice that the time before opening is short, and engagements must be made at once. Miss Hellwig is too favorably known to need any further endorsement.

Mr. Mahon has rented his house to a Mr. Wright and family of Brooklyn, who boarded all summer at Barrett's Rockview Farm under Washington Rock. They like Plainfield so well they will remain here for the winter.

Morning Services at 2 P. M.

Two Plainfield pastors, of the Trinity Reformed and the First Baptist churches, made an Irish bull Sunday in saying that "the morning session of the Sunday-school will hereafter be at 2 p. m." It was unintentional in both cases, and is enjoyed by the pastors themselves as much as by the people who heard it.

Headache and Dyspepsia.

William E. Bockwell, No. 512 West 57th street, New York, says:

"I have been a martyr to bilious headache and dyspepsia. Any indiscretion in diet, overfatigue or cold, brings on a fit of indigestion, followed by a headache lasting two or three days at a time. I think I must have tried over twenty different remedies, which were recommended as certain cures by loving friends, but it was no use. At last I thought I would take a simple course of purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS. For the first week I took two pills every night, then one pill for thirty nights; in that time I gained 3 pounds in weight, and never have had an ache or a pain since."

Disease in one part of the body will eventually fill the whole body with disease. Every year or two some part of the system grows weak and begins to decay. Such part should be removed at once and new matter be allowed to take its place. There's no need of cutting it out with a surgeon's scalpel. Purge away the old, diseased and wornout parts with BRANDRETH'S PILLS.

THE COMING OF WINTER is foretold by the cool nights of September; with winter come coughs, colds and sneezes; how better can you meet them than by "bracing up" with A New Feature Next Month.

Worthington's Magazine for October is a royal number. As the season draws near when the large army of magazine readers will decide the question, "What magazine shall we take another year", it is well for them to keep an eye on Worthington's, and, whatever else may be taken, add it to the list. It is second to none in choice, high quality of matter and attractive illustrations, and it is very much more entertaining than many of its rivals. Its low price brings it within the reach of all. A. D. Worthington & Co., Hartford, Conn., are the publishers.

It costs only $2.50 per year, or 25 cents a single number, and is for sale by all newsdealers. A new and notable feature will be added to the November number and will be continued regularly thereafter. Walter Blackburn Harte, the vigorous and critical essayist, whose papers under the heading of "In a Corner at Dodsley's" have hitherto been a noticeable feature of the New England Magazine, will hereafter contribute these essays exclusively to Worthington's under the heading of "In a Library Corner".

Another Crescent Would Have Won It.

Little Kid Keenan pitched a great game for the E. A. C.'s Saturday, against the New Jerseys, giving them only five hits, and two of these were of the scratch order. The game was called after the ninth inning, the score being a tie with 4 runs each. Rafferty and Sneden also played on the team, and Leo Smith was in uniform on the coaching line. It was unfortunate for the E. A. C.'s that a regular member of their team unexpectedly reported for duty, for with Captain Leo in the game to do a little sacrificing with the stick, the game could have been easily won.

Sunday Driving Wreck.

Sam Allen and two friends went for a ride to Westfield, Sunday. About a quarter of a mile this side of Westfield, some bicyclists came along, and Sam had a race with them. The result was that Sam's spirited animal went on a run, and and upset the trio into the gutter. Fortunately none was seriously injured, although the wagon went to pieces. Sam went to a near-by house and procured a coil of rope, and after patching up the wheels proceeded to Westfield, where he left the wagon for repairs.

Only a Boys' Row.

The case of Dennis Cush against Chas. Frey, in which Frey was charged with assaulting Cush's young son, was this morning dismissed by Judge Coddington, who was convinced that it was nothing more than a boys' row, taken up by the parents.

LEAVES FROM A NOTEBOOK.

A young Jerseyman who had just come into possession of his first cat, and naturally thought it a most wonderful feline, was exhibiting it to his playmates.

"What color do you call her?"—asked one of them.

Looking somewhat doubtfully at his pet's mottled fur, the lad replied: "She's—er—er—two-thirds maltese, half orange, and—and the rest vanilla."

Greed and insolence sometimes have a humorous side, as is shown by a man's recent experience in a New York eating-house. Having eaten a light lunch, he handed a five-dollar banknote to the waiter in payment of his bill. Returning presently, that worthy laid upon the table ten cents less than the proper amount of change and remarked: "I took a cigar on ye, boss."

A couple faultlessly attired were promenading in Plainfield one evening. A mechanic on his way home from work passed them. The breeze carried a whiff of smoke from his pipe into the woman's face.

"How utterly disgusting that is!"—she exclaimed loudly.

On hearing this, the mechanic stopped, removed the pipe from his mouth with one hand, and raised his cap with the other.

"I beg pardon, ma'am, it was carelessness on my part. I did not mean to annoy you."

"Whether you meant it or not, don't let it happen again"—she snapped, shooting fire at him out of her eyes.

The son of toil make no reply; but, donning his cap, went on his homeward way with a twinkle in his honest eye which said that he knew the difference between a woman merely well dressed, and a woman well bred.

Two college boys went one Sunday morning to hear a colored preacher discourse to his flock. Arriving late, they took seats in the last pew, near the door. In his opening prayer the old parson remembered the visitors as follows: "Lawd watch over dose two white boys in de back seat"; then, opening one eye just in time to see the boys exchange smiles, he continued, "because dey needs it, Lawd; dey needs it powerful".

DISASTROUS COLLISION.

Nine Persons Killed and a Score Badly Hurt.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The second section of the Big Four passenger train No. 45 crashed into the rear of the first section, that had stopped unexpectedly at a point ten miles north of Kankakee at 9:30 last night, telescoping one sleeping-car and two coaches, killing nine persons and seriously injuring twenty others. The rear cars of the first section were the Ohio and Mississippi sleeping-car and two chair-cars, the latter well filled with passengers.

As soon as the extent of the disaster was realized, physicians were telegraphed for to Kankakee and Manteno, and ten arrived here at 11:40. The work of rescue was immediately begun, and one by one the mutilated bodies of the nine dead were removed from the pile of wreckage. The passengers in the forward car, although they received a severe shaking up, and many were badly cut and bruised, were foremost in the work of caring for the injured. They were taken as soon as possible to Manteno, where they are being cared for under the direction of the railroad officials.

A Farewell Benefit.

There is a possibility that a base-ball game may be arranged here for Saturday. Manager Keller is trying to secure a good strong club, and if he can arrange it Plainfield will have a farewell game, the proceeds to be given to the players.

Look Out for Him.

The police are keeping a sharp lookout for a young man who has been going about soliciting money to pay the expenses of a child's funeral. The man is a fraud. The name and address of the child's parents that he gives are fictitious. A man was caught practicing this trick in Plainfield some years ago, and paid a severe penalty for his offense.

Another Loss to Holy Cross.

Robert Clark, one of the best singers in the Holy Cross church choir, has had trouble with the new organist. He was present at a recent rehearsal, and was expected to sing a solo the following day.

After the rehearsal, he asked the organist if he was to receive the same pay as formerly. He was told they could not afford it. He has left the choir, and his excellent voice will be missed.

Handsome Dresses for Children.

"My sister's children," writes Mrs. B. in the Ladies' Journal, "wear dresses that do duty for several seasons, being dyed with diamond dyes from light colors to dark. Sashes, ribbons and feathers are ever fresh and new by the aid of diamond dyes. This is all done with so little expense and so little work that no one can complain that it is too much trouble. It is really wonderful what can be done with diamond dyes.

Fight Over Work.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sep. 19.—A riot occurred at the Big Riverside mill when the men went to work yesterday. About 20 Hungarians gathered and attempted to take the jobs from the Americans. A fight ensued in which a large number participated. Stones and clubs were freely used. Two Hungarians, whose names are unknown, were seriously hurt and half a dozen men received bad injuries. None of the foreigners got work.

New Bedford Labor Troubles Ended.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sep. 19.—The help at the Acushnet mills returned to work yesterday, with the exception of about half the back boys in mill No. 1. The six doffers who induced the strike were discharged. It is thought that this is the last of the present labor troubles, and the situation looks most hopeful.

The Boom in Ohio.

BELLAIRE, O., Sep. 19.—The Bellaire, Riverside and Wheeling Iron and Steel Company's works in this city and Benwood, W. Va., started after ten weeks stoppage at a reduction of wages of from 20 to 30 per cent. Work will be continued while orders last giving employment to 3,000 people.

Iron Mills Resume.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 19.—Two hundred and fifty men were benefitted by the resumption of work at the mills of the Pittsburg Forge & Iron company. More of the old employes will be given work as rapidly as possible. The firm refused to sign the Amalgamated wage scale.

Senator Hill and Ohio.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 19.—The statement that Senator Hill of New York has determined to take an active part in the Ohio campaign and make a number of speeches in behalf of Mr. Neal's candidacy, is at least premature.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

GEMS IN VERSE.

A Builder's Lesson.

"How shall I a habit break?"
As you did that habit make.
As you gathered, you must lose;
As you yielded, now refuse.
Thread by thread the strands we twist
Till they bind us neck and wrist;
Thread by thread the patient hand
Must unwind ere free we stand.
As we builded, stone by stone,
We must toil unhelped, alone,
Till the wall is overthrown.

But remember, as we try,
Lighter every test goes by;
Wading in, the stream grows deep
Toward the center's downward sweep;
Backward turn, each step ashore
Shallower is than that before.
Ah, the precious years we waste
Leveling what we raised in haste;
Doing what must be undone
Ere content or love be won!
First across the gulf we cast
Kite borne threads, till lines are passed,
And habit builds the bridge at last!
—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Judge Not.

Oh, men, who are good, who are honored and great,
Be kind to your brothers of lowly estate.
If masters, then be not in tasking severe.
If rulers, then rule men in love and not fear.
And if ye be fathers, wise, learned and strong,
Lead the little ones tenderly, slowly along.
Ere you sneer at the humble or punish the base
Pause and think for awhile, "Put yourself in their place!"

Fair lady, so haughty, so chaste and so cold,
Kept safe from harm in love's sheltering fold,
Ere you turn from your frail, erring sister with scorn,
Think how she was tempted and how she was born.
Her ruin may date from a smile or kind word,
The first that her poor, hungry heart ever heard.
Then pause ere you taunt her with sin and disgrace—
How if you had been tried? "Put yourself in her place!"

Proud man, whom the white robes of ermine enfold,
As you weigh others' sins in the balance you hold,
Ere you crush the last spark in a heart doomed to bleed,
Let mercy come in for a moment and plead,
Ere you sentence "for life" a poor brother to dwell
With the ghosts of the sins that shall people his cell,
Think why you are honored, and he in disgrace,
What is hid in your heart? "Put yourself in his place!"

"Put yourself in their place!" Yes, have mercy on all
Who through love or through hate, good or evil shall fall;
Who knows in the light of a judgment divine,
Which soul shall be whitest, the sinner's or thine!
Fear to judge lest you stand at the heavenly door,
To see harlots and publicans go in before,
While you cover with guilty confusion your face,
And cry when too late, to be put in their place!
—Phœbe Cary.

To Trouble Borrowers.

There is many a trouble
Would break like a bubble,
And into the waters of Lethe depart;
Did we not rehearse it
And tenderly nurse it
And give it a permanent place in the heart.

There is many a sorrow
Would vanish tomorrow,
Were we willing to furnish the wings;
So sadly intruding
And quietly brooding,
It hatches out all sorts of horrible things.

How welcome the seeming
Of looks that are beaming,
Whether one is rich or whether one is poor;
Eyes bright as a berry,
Cheeks red as a cherry,
The groan, the curse and the heartache can cure.

Resolve to be merry
All worry to ferry
Across the famed waters that bid us forget,
And no longer fearful,
But happy and cheerful,
We feel life has much that is worth living for yet.
—Frederick Wallace Bauer.

In the Woods In Summer.

These mighty trees with their centuries
Of miracles of wood,
Like their sires who stood before the flood,
Mock at men's perjuries.

Under the screen of this forest green,
Unheeded by human eye,
The passions die like sounds in the sky,
And my spirit walks serene.

The shining sun may his journey run
Through a sky of cloudless blue,
Yet the morning hue of the fragrant dew
Here waits like a kiss unwon.

The winds may blow or their flights forego
On the treeless plain and hill;
Here all is still save the tinkling rill
Or a bird note lone and low.

Here the squirrel peers with uplifted ears,
And the rabbit stops to stare,
And the woodmice dare to seem to scare
And jest with their own fears.

'Tis a precious boon on a summer noon
Through the ancient aisles to stray,
Where the shadows play like wood nymphs gay
While summer takes off her shoon.

The sounds which jar, the things which mar,
The ills which sting the heart,
Here have no part or lose their smart
From the babbling world afar.
—Clarence A. Buskirk.

The Mirror of Life.

Do you wish for kindness? Be kind.
Do you wish for truth? Be true.
What you give of yourself, you find.
Your world is a reflex of you.

For life is a mirror. You smile,
And a smile is your sure return.
Bear hate in your heart, and erewhile
All your world with hatred will burn.

Set love against love. Every deed
Shall armed as a fate, recoil.
You shall gather your fruit from the seed
That you cast yourself in the soil.

Each act is a separate link
In the chain of your weal or your woe;
Cups you offer another to drink
The taste of their dregs ye shall know.

It Shall Be Well.

If thou shalt be in heart a child,
Forgiving, tender, meek and mild,
Though with light stains of earth defiled,
O soul, it shall be well.

It shall be well with thee indeed,
Whate'er thy grace, thy tongue, thy creed,
Thou shalt not lose thy fitting meed.
It shall be surely well.
—Lewis Morris.

Love and Justice.

Said Justice to Love—she was shy as a dove—
"I am lost; my way back I can't find."
"Take my hand," said Love, bold; "I am hot;
you are cold.
I can feel our way out if you'll mind."
On the way dark as pitch both fell into a ditch—
Ah, the blind had tried leading the blind!
—Nelly L. Brown.

Speech is but broken light upon the depth
Of the unspoken. Even your loved words
Float in the larger meaning of your voice
As something dimmer.
—George Eliot.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Whitfield, L. I., N. Y.

DOCTORS ASTONISHED.

Something They Cannot Understand or Explain

IT MAKES EVEN THE MEDICAL FRATERNITY OPEN ITS EYES.

If This Is Not a Wonder Worker We Should Like To Know What Is.

Doctors are surprised at any cure of paralysis, but there is one form of paralysis which has been pronounced absolutely incurable—locomotor ataxia. This is indeed, the most serious and dreaded of all nervous difficulties.

Having so long pronounced this disease incurable, the astonishment, not to say amazement, of the doctors can be imagined when they learned from Mr. John H. Golding, who resides at 166 Christopher st., New York city, the following wonderful facts:

"I was taken six months ago with locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis. The numbness of limbs and dizziness rapidly increased until I could not walk nor stand without assistance; could not button my clothes or dress myself without help.

"On the sixth day of October I commenced taking Dr. Greenes Nervura blood and nerve remedy and have taken four bottles and can now walk without a cane, and am rapidly gaining every day.

"The numbness has almost completely left my limbs and I feel first rate. I eat and sleep well, and I can recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy since I know that it has saved my life.

"I was refused admittance into St. John's Hospital because they said my case was incurable.

"But Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has done it work well. It is the wonder of my friends that I am alive today and when I tell them that this medicine cured me when the doctors had pronounced my case as incurable, they say it was a mira le.

MR. JOHN H. GOLDING.

"I was two months under doctors hands and getting worse. I was discouraged when I began to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. But today I am well; a week ago I walked eight miles and felt no bad results.

"I am now feeling like a new man, my nerves are strong and I feel happy. I hope this will be received by all suffering from disease."

It does really seem that there is no disease which baffles this marvellous remedy Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It certainly seems to cure almost everything, and if it will cure a terrible disease like the above, heretofore pronounced absolutely incurable by doctors, how much more certainly and surely will it cure all the ordinary complaints of life. If you are sick you are not wise if you do not give this health restorer a trial It is truly the greatest curer of disease in existence. Druggists keep it for $1 and it is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless.

Physicians have been everywhere surprised at its wonderful powers to cure disease and they unhesitatingly recommend sufferers from ill-health to use it, because it is the discovery and prescription of a well known physician, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

Democrats Decide to Complete the Job at Once.

TIRED OF REPEATED FAILURES

Senator Voorhees Endeavors for the Third Time to Fix a Date for Voting on Silver Repeal—The Senate Will Hold Longer Sessions Hereafter.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20.—For the third time since the repeal bill has been before the Senate the Senator in charge of it, Mr. Voorhees, made an effort yesterday to have the opposition fix some time when debate might be closed and a vote taken, and for the third time the proposition met with an unfavorable response. As on the first occasion, Mr. Dubois (Rep., Idaho) acted as spokesman for the opposition, but he was seconded and sustained by Mr. Teller (Rep., Col.), who stated that he knew of fifteen Senators who still desired to address the Senate, and of whom thirteen had not yet opened their mouths on the subject. He added that until all Senators who desired to speak had an opportunity to do so, no vote could be or would be taken.

Mr. Voorhees, in view of the attitude of the opposition, said he would from and after to-day ask the Senate to have not continuous but lengthened sessions, and he was informed that his programme would not be resisted, but that the friends of the bill as well as its enemies, would be expected to be present.

After a speech by Mr. Mills of Texas in favor of the bill, and by Mr. Stewart of Nevada against it, the Senate adjourned.

Still in Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sep., 20.—Although Col. Ike Hill, the Democratic whip, reported 195 Democratic Representatives in the city yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, 17 more than a quorum of the House, there were but 178 of them present on the floor at any one time, and the majority found themselves powerless to make any progress with the bill to repeal the Federal Election laws. Mr. Fitch returned from New York and relieved Mr. Tucker on the floor as leader of the Democratic hosts. At 2:45 o'clock, after vainly endeavoring to secure a call of the committees and the introduction of the report on the Election bill, Mr. Fitch moved an adjournment, which was agreed to without dissent.

Democrats Get Together.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20.—The caucus of Democratic members of the House yesterday afternoon was brief and to the point. Representative Holman presided, and Representative Alderson acted as secretary.

There was a full attendance of the Democrats who had been present during the proceedings in the House and the action taken, it was reported, had the hearty and unanimous concurrence of all who participated. Speaker Crisp offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that it is the duty of every Democratic member to attend the sessions of the House, in order that the public business may be considered and disposed of.

He supported his motion in an earnest speech, pointing out the necessity that existed for Democratic Representatives doing their full duty to their country and to their party and honestly endeavoring to redeem the pledges made to the people who had entrusted them with the duty of legislating in their behalf.

Mr. Enloe of Tennessee, moved to amend by adding, "and vote" after the words "sessions of the House," which was accepted by the Speaker.

Mr. Fithian of Illinois, moved to add the following to the Speaker's resolution, and the caucus agreed: "And that when the House meets on to-morrow it is the sense of this caucus that it remain in session continuously until a quorum is obtained, voting in favor of reporting the bills for the repeal of the Federal Election laws."

There was some discussion as to the expediency of pressing the consideration of the Repeal Bills and the overwhelming sentiment of the caucus as expressed was favorable to early action.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. McMillin of Tennessee on this point, was adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that the House should proceed at the earliest practicable day during this session to the consideration of the bill or bills repealing the law authorizing deputy marshals and supervisors of elections at the polls.

After adopting the resolutions as a whole the caucus adjourned having been in session but a little over an hour.

Subsequently, in pursuance to the last resolution Speaker Crisp issued a call for a meeting of the Committee on Rules for to-day at 11 o'clock, to consider the fixing of a date for taking up the repeal bills and determining the length of time that shall be allowed for debate.

Speaking of the probabilities of the length of the continuous session agreed upon, Speaker Crisp said he did not look for anything extraordinary or uncomfortable. "After we get a quorum, and I imagine there will be one on hand Wednesday, the Republicans cannot detain the House any great length of time. They may keep us until 7 or 8 o'clock, but we'll drive the report through as soon as a quorum appears."

Train Orders Disobeyed and Nine People Injured.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sep. 20.—Owing to the disobedience of orders by Engineer Hufford and Conductor Sholler of a local passenger train it was run into last evening by the New York express at Slocum sliding, two miles this side of Fairview, on the Lehigh Valley railroad. The engines came together with much violence and both were badly smashed, one thrown from the track. Strange to say neither the firemen nor engineers of either train were hurt and all stuck to their posts. The passengers on both trains were thrown over the seats and into the aisles, but no one was fatally injured. Those injured are:

E. S. Holeb, Allentown, thumb dislocated. He was on his way to Elmira.

Theodore Cross, Rummerfield, Pa., injured on hands and arm.

Gomer E. Jones, Stockton, Pa., injured on back.

William Sigfried, Easton, a brakeman, head cut.

John Sweeney, White Haven, baggagemaster, one leg badly bruised while jumping from his car.

John F. Mentz, a newsboy on No. 7, seriously cut on forehead.

W. C. Gray, Bristol, calf of one leg badly cut.

Miss Maggie Sweeney, White Haven, lip cut by broken glass.

Alexander Mitchell, Wilkesbarre, superintendent of motive power on the road, wrist cut.

Engineer Hufford has been railroading since boyhood. He was considered one of the most experienced and careful men on the Valley road.

CHOLERA IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Confined to Three Ports on the Eastern Coast.

LONDON, Sep. 20.—Questions were asked in the House of Commons regarding the presence of cholera in Great Britain. In reply to these questions the Right Hon. Henry Fowler, president of the Local Government Board, stated that with the exception of three ports on the east coast, all the ports of Great Britain were free from cholera. There was not the slightest reason, he added, to suppose that there was an epidemic of Asiatic cholera in any part of the United Kingdom. No cholera cases had occurred at Southampton. The medical experts attached to the Local Government Board held that there was no danger of infection from a ship that had been out 14 days from Great Britain and which had a clean bill of health.

WANTED TO DIE.

Two Men Attempt Suicide by Lying in Front of a Train.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sep. 20.—Charles Williams and Bernard O'Rourke, of New York city, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by lying down in front of the Newburgh local on the West Shore railroad at East Hackensack. The engineer shut off steam and applied the brakes and was within a few feet of the men when the train stopped. They refused to leave the track even when Detective George Betts ordered them away. They fought with Conductor Hawley and the brakemen, but were overcome and lodged in the Hackensack jail.

TALK OF COMPROMISE

Harmless Gossip About Possible Silver Legislation.

FIGURING WITHOUT CLEVELAND

Concessions That Might be Made on Both Sides—What Night Sessions of the Senate and Consequent Physical Exhaustion May Bring Forth.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20.—There is a marked increase in the number and variety of the rumors indicating a compromise on the silver question. According to one of these stories the Secretary of the Treasury is to appear before the Committee on Finance this week for consultation on the subject, but various members of that committee deny the truth of the statement, while others assert that they have never heard it mentioned either on the floor of the Senate or in committee. Senator McPherson permits the use of his name in denying that such a proposition has been advanced. Still, the fact remains, that a great deal is being said looking in that direction. The compromise, if there is to be one, upon which it is thought the offer would be made would consist of concessions not only by the eastern, but by the silver men. The latest proposition discussed is one that directs the coinage of the seignorage now in the treasury and the purchase and coinage of a further amount of silver to about the aggregate provided for in the Faulkner amendment, the silver to be coined to its full coinage value, thereby preventing the storage of any more seignorage. This would appeal to two classes, those who want the the purchases continued and those who believe that what the country needs is an enlarged currency, and advocate the coinage of the seignorage rather than the purchase of more metal.

This would be a concession of the eastern men, but if such a concession is made by them they will insist that it be coupled with a concession on the part of the western men that will incorporate in the law the authority given to the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds and buy gold whenever in his judgment it becomes necessary to do so in order to maintain the parity between the two metals. Unless the silver men agree to this it is said there can be no compromise. It was upon such a proposition as this, or one akin to it, that it was said the secretary of the treasuay was to be invited to come before the committee. Secretary Carlisle was in the marble room during the afternoon, but whether his visit had anything to do with the financial question is not known.

Those who favor the compromise outlined state that it is known that President Cleveland would veto it, but that would be provided for, and after Mr. Cleveland had stated his exceptions to the bill it would, by the same combination that put it through before, be pushed to a passage over the veto. It is very certain that nothing has been said in committee indicating any thought of compromise on the part of the friends of the administration, and any steps that may be taken in that direction will be taken by members of the committee as senators only.

The fact is that there appears to be an unusual amount of lethargy about the Finance committee. There seems to be no way for it to force a vote on the pending bill and until that is out of the way its sessions are held as a perfunctory performance of a specific duty. The discussion yesterday was of the most desultory sort and very little interest was manifested, it being taken for granted that there was little need for talk until the Repeal bill had been voted upon, or, at least, until the dawn of the breaking of the debate could be seen in the distance. The bill of Mr. Morgan for the establishment of a joint commission of the two houses is looked upon by the Finance committee as a measure intended to usurp their own functions, and very naturally, the members of that committee will hardly report favorably a bill to legislate themselves out of prestige and power. The Faulkner amendment was talked about, but with no purpose in view, because it is looked upon as a compromise pure and simple and until the point is reached where compromises are in order it will receive but the most casual discussion.

The whole situation may be summed up by saying the committee is playing a watching game, and the action of Mr. Voorhees on the floor later in the day was but a move intended to force their opponents to take the next step and indicate their programme. The appearance of things now indicate that night sessions will be the usual thing before the committee is willing to take up the Faulkner or any other amendment and discuss it in a serious way as a possible solution of the pending difficulty. Still, there are Senators who profess to believe that a compromise proposition will be crystallized before next week is over.

Anglican Archbishops in Canada.

TORONTO, Sep. 20.—The House of Bishops of the Synod of the Church of England in Canada, elected Bishop Machray of Ruperts Land Primate of Canada and Metropolitan of the Province of Ruperts Land. It was decided that both he and Bishop Lewis, the eastern Metropolitan, should be created archbishops, in which decision the lower house concurred. This is the first instance of the creation of Anglican Archbishops in Canada.

TARIFF REVISION.

Chairman Wilson Will Have a New Bill Ready in November.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20.—The majority members of the Ways and Means Committee have not yet decided upon a time for beginning the work of formulating the bill to replace the present McKinley law. Friday next will be the first regular meeting day of the committee after the hearings have ceased, but it is hardly probable that the members will want to rush into that part of the work after nearly three weeks' continuous sessions. Besides all the testimony submitted by those who have appeared before the committee is not yet printed, and the members will probably desire to study the statements made to them before entering upon the preparation of their bill. The probabilities are, therefore, that nothing will be done on the details of the bill before next week. It is the expectation of Chairman Wilson and his colleagues on the committee that the measure will be ready for presentation to the House by November.

Chairman Wilson has informed a number of persons who have applied for the privilege of appearing before the committee that it will be impossible to grant their requests, as the time allotted for hearings being already occupied by the terms of resolution adopted by the House, any particular subject upon which information is desired may be investigated by the sub-committee having it in charge, and in the course of the preparation of the new tariff bill, it is probable that several inquiries will be prosecuted under this resolution.

BABY'S THREE NEEDS.

CLEANLINESS, SOUND SLEEP AND PROPER FOOD.

No Pains Should Be Spared to Secure the Infant's Health—Upon the Little One's Diet Depends Its Life and Happiness.

An infant has but three big need—food, sleep and cleanliness.

During the important first few years, when the child is rapidly developing, no pains should be spared to secure food of absolute purity and sufficiently nourishing for every need of healthy growth.

Breast milk is at first baby's ideal food; but there are circumstances under which artificial feeding becomes absolutely necessary. The proportion of mothers in our large towns who are able to fully discharge the maternal duty of nursing during the whole of the natural period are few.

Until within recent years infants deprived of mother's milk have been reared in a haphazard and unscientific manner, with the usual result that the enormous mortality during the first five years of life has been a reproach to medical men.

But all this is now changed. Practical scientific men of the highest standing have devoted themselves exclusively to these problems of infant feeding. Many results have come, but the greatest and most practical is the preparation of lactated food—next to mother's milk, the most nourishing, strengthening, readily digested and palatable food that can be given a baby.

Very many babies that could not be reared, that piped and wasted on other food, have grown fat, ruddy and strong when fed on lactated food.

Just now when the death reports show a fearful previence of diarrhoea and cholera infantum, lactated food is doing its best work.

It is saving the lives of babies in nearly every city and town in the union. Every day most touching letters come from mothers whose babies have escaped or safely come through dangerous complaint by the help of lactated food.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Graff of Cornelius, Oregon, write:

"Our baby was born in October. After trying milk and several kinds of infant foods we began using lactated food. On this she thrived and grew well and strong We regard lactated food all that is claimed for it."

He wants damages for assault and battery alleged to have been committed by Brockaway while Rhodes was an inmate of the Elmira Reformatory.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey Tomorrow: Fair, Cooler; Northwesterly Winds.

The Minneapolis Journal tells a genial tale of an Arizona bank cashier who nailed to the door the legend:

This bank has not busted; it owes the people $30,000; the people owe it $55,000; it is the people who are busted; when they pay, we'll pay.

Here is a choice specimen of British geography, gleaned from the London Sun:

Rev. Dr. A. H. Bradford, who preached in Westminster chapel recently, hails from Montclair, N. J., one of the three divisions into which New York city may be said to be divided, the other two parts being the island of New York and Brooklyn. New Jersey and Brooklyn each have about 1,900,000 inhabitants.

There can be no doubt that the building now being erected where Laing's Hotel used to be will do credit to the city, but the manner in which its builders are permitted to obstruct Front street with their materials will never reflect glory upon anything. Why does n't the Street Commissioner make them carry their boards and bricks around into the unused space at the west side of the structure, and keep them there?

The danger of eating overripe or partly decayed fruit is well understood, but there are still many persons who are not alive to the peril there is in eating eggs and meat, and certain forms of sea food, such as oysters, lobsters, and crabs, that are not fresh. The poisonous matter caused by decay often exists in quantities so small that the taste is in no way affected, yet serious digestive disturbances, often laid to other causes, are the result.

The lock-stitch bobbin, which gives out just when you get nicely started with your sewing, has long been one of the annoyances of the sewing machine. A bobbin that will carry a thousand yards of thread successfully is shown among the inventions by women at Chicago. Another convenience that has long seemed a necessity is an adjustable step for a railway car that looks more secure and trustworthy than the foot-stool used by sleeping-car porters.

The Holy Cross church vestry has peremptorily refused to grant the petition of the members and patrons of the church, asking that they and Mr. Miner be given a hearing in the choirmaster matter, and the petitioners are highly incensed at the pointblank refusal of what they considered an unbiased request. Further developments are anticipated. The question arises in their minds, Has not the vestry exceeded its rights, and involved itself in difficulty, in declining to hear supporters of the parish?

Joseph Fleischmann, the New York florist whose magnificent floral rooms in the Hoffman House were opened with a flourish Monday night, made $100,000 last year on roses alone. Many would say that this was money spent unnecessarily. But men will never be content with the mere necessities of life, and after bread and butter why should not flowers be bought? There is inspiration in the beauty of a flower, and the man who loves roses, like him who loves children, has a great deal of good left in him.

The project adopted by the farmers of Saratoga county, N. Y., to protect their crops from damage by early frosts, is worthy of imitation elsewhere. It seems that a Swedish farmer had talked of the use of "frost torches" in his native country, made of petroleum-soaked peat, but as peat is not common in Saratoga county the farmers employed their leisure time in the summer in preparing pine stakes two inches in diameter and five feet long, then they laid in a stock of kerosene. A few evenings ago the thermometer dropped to 38 degrees by 8, and the agriculturists began soaking their pine sticks. By midnight they had them in place about fifty to the acre and blazing vigorously, the dense smoke preventing the chilling of the atmosphere. As the torches cost but about half a cent each, and as the torch-illumined farms escaped damage, while the others in the vicinity were probably depleted of two-thirds of their produce by frost, it is clear that the scheme is as economical as it is successful.

Senator Marsh Spreads the Good Work.

Senator Fred. C. Marsh left town last evening for Cape May County Court House, where today a mass-meeting of citizens is held to discuss the question of improving the county roads under the State law and in the manner in which the system of roads in Union county has been established. Senator Marsh was engaged to address the meeting, his subject being "Good Roads".

LEFT GENEROUSLY TO CHARITY.

HERE'S A WORTHY EXAMPLE BY AN HUMBLE CITIZEN.

Henry Stites Would Not Keep All His Money in the Family, But Distributed It Around Among Worthy Churches as Well as Relatives—This Example Might Well Be Imitated by the Wealthy—Muhlenberg Hospital Gets a Plum.

Last evening at 7 the will of the late Henry F. Stites, of Scotch Plains, was read. Deceased left a wife but no children, and the nearest of kin is supposed to be a grand-nephew. The reading of the will took place at his late residence in the presence of the widow and friends. He leaves the use and income of all his estate to his widow during her life, and after her death he gives to the Methodist Episcopal church of Scotch Plains $500; and to All Saints Episcopal church of the same place also $500; and after making a few other legacies he gives the remainder of his estate, both real and personal, to the Muhlenberg Hospital of this city. Counselor Walter L. Hetfield was honored by being appointed sole executor of the will. The estate is estimated as being worth from $40,000 to $50,000. Deceased was an honest, upright man, a good citizen, and a thorough believer in the golden rule.

Great Times at the Army.

Tomorrow will be a gala day at the Salvation Army rooms on Second street. From early morning till late at night, meetings will be held, and great preparations are being made for the event.

The Central Division officers, numbering between fifty and sixty, will be present.

In the morning and afternoon an Officers' Council, will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. These two meetings are not public, but for the officers only.

In the afternoon at 1 a lunch will be served in the Army rooms, and at 6 the officers and field staff will be given a banquet at the same place.

A rousing jubilee service in charge of Major Evans, assisted by the Central Division Staff and Field Officers, will be held in the evening. Good speeches and music will be a feature, and all who attend are assured an enjoyable and profitable time.

Christian Endeavor State Convention.

The seventh State Christian Endeavor Convention, to be held in Trenton, Oct. 11 and 12, promises to be one of unusual interest. Taylor Opera House, the largest meeting place in the city, has been secured for the occasion. The new Y. M. C. A. building has been placed at the disposal of the committee for the reception of the delegates. And in case of the need of overflow meetings the hall of this building will be called into use. The Park Sisters, of New York, who so acceptably led the singing at Montreal, will serve in a similar capacity in our State gathering. It is too early to announce the programme as a whole, but among those who have been secured to make addresses are Dr. Clark and John Wanamaker.

Trenton is easy of access from all parts of the State, and ample accommodations will be provided for all who come.

has characterized the growth of the Great Inter-State Fair. It has not been a mushroom growth; each year's success has been built on the prosperity of the past season. Two factors have played an important part in the remarkable history of this Association. One is its liberal and shrewd management; the other, the confidence of the people, gained by an experience of a half-dozen years. The increased attendance every year is conclusive evidence that people are getting fifty cents of value for every half dollar spent in admission to the Fair.

Don't forget the place: Trenton, N. J.; nor the dates: September 25-29, 1893.

Fanwood Club Sold.

Last Wednesday all of the property of the Fanwood Club was sold under mortgage foreclosure by order of the Chancery Court.

The mortgage was for $7,000, and the property was purchased by the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company for $1,000.

Under the Boat-Club act the members who created the debt are apparently individually liable for the deficiency.

The question now disturbing the minds of our Fanwood friends is: "Who will pay?"

A New Bowling Club.

A bowling club was organized at the Arlington Hotel last night, and these officers were elected: Geo. Richter, president; Adolph Singer, secretary; and Henry Windham, treasurer. The club will meet for practice once a week, and offer to play any club about here.

The Thief Got But Little.

Spicer & Hubbard's planing mill was broken into Sunday night, and the desk in the office smashed in with a hatchet. The weapon was found on the floor, but only a little change and a diamond cutter had been stolen.

They'll Decide Saturday.

The Athletic and the Union League Clubs, of Westfield, will take final action Saturday night on the question of their consolidation. Indications point to a practically unanimous vote in favor of the two clubs becoming one.

John Scudder, who three weeks ago escorted John Giles home late at night and robbed him on the way, was today sentenced in the Court of Special Sessions, Elizabeth, to thirty days in jail for grand larceny. William King and Eddie Henry, colored boys, who entered the house of Mrs. Mary Morris, on East Third street, and stole silverware, appeared today in the Court of Special Sessions, Elizabeth, and were committed to the Reform School.

TWO CITIZENS LAID AT REST.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND PLAINFIELD BURY THEIR DEAD.

Dr. Parks Can Give No Higher Eulogy to Henry Stites, Than the Life Record Just Concluded—Pastor Herring Condoles the Widow and Daughter of F. J. Horr.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Henry F. Stites were held yesterday afternoon, at 2:30, in the Scotch Plains Baptist church. A large gathering of friends attended, including not only those who had known the deceased for so many years in his own village but also a number of friends from this city.

The Rev. Dr. Parks, pastor of the church, had charge of the service, and gave a strong and impressive talk to those present, urging the necessity of being prepared for the last great call. The departed one was not eulogized. The doctor said he thought the dead man's own past life would speak louder than any words he might utter.

A delegation from the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company was present, and the pall bearers were chosen from the members.

Interment was made in the cemetery back of the church.

The funeral of Frederick J. Horr took place at 3 yesterday afternoon, at his late residence, 47 Westervelt avenue. The Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated.

After reading selections from Psalms, and offering an eloquent prayer, the clergyman made brief and fitting remarks from II Samuel, III: 18—

Let Him do what seemeth Him good.

He said, among other things: "Friends, we talk about Eternity—Eternity is here. Death is but a doorway that leads us into fuller life, in which there is no such episode as death."

Many sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to pay their tribute of love and respect to the memory of the departed. Among them was the sister of the deceased, who lives on Staten Island.

Among the floral tributes were two large pillows of white roses and several wreathes and crosses.

The casket was borne by colored pallbearers. The interment was in Hillside Cemetery.

Presbyterian Rallying Day.

Last Sunday was Rallying Day in the Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Special singing was a feature of the services, and the pastor, the Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., delivered an interesting address to the children.

The Rallying Day exercises of the First Presbyterian church will take place Sunday at 9:30 a. m. The special singing will be led by two cornetists from Cranford; and the pastor, the Rev. Charles E. Herring, will deliver a short address.

The Rallying Day exercises in Hope chapel Sunday-school will begin at 3, Sunday afternoon. The Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., will address the scholars of the school.

In Warren chapel, Sunday, the Sunday-school Rallying Day exercises will take place at 2:30 p. m. Special exercises will be given, and the Rev. Joseph McKelvey, the pastor, and the Rev. Wm. R. Richards, D. D., will deliver short addresses.

Independents Serenade.

The Independent Fife and Drum Corps gave another of the numerous serenades, at the residence of W. B. Watson, 521 East Second street, last evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Newman, Frank and Belle Newman, Sylvester Sharkey and daughter Alice, Ren Townley, Miss Etta Thorn, Mrs. Joe Angerbauer, Miss Jennie Brokaw, Miss Amy Hyer, the Misses Lizzie, Emma and Minnie Hughson, Miss Tillie Terry, S. Terry, Sr., Frank Kline Terry, Dorie Kurzhals, and S. R. Hope. They all had a feast of cake and ice-cream.

The Way of the Transgressor.

Two tramps, giving the name Wilson, and having in their possession several baskets of peaches, were arrested at 2 this morning at the railway station by policemen Cooney and Vanderweg. They were suspected of stealing the fruit from a peach train that had stopped a little while before at the station.

In court this morning, as the prisoners could give no satisfactory explanation of themselves or of how they came by the peaches, Judge Coddington sentenced them to sixty days in jail.

Early Closing, May It Succeed!

A meeting of the clerks of some of the principal dry goods stores was held last evening. The subject for discussion was the proposed closing of the stores at 7, every evening except Saturday. No definite action was taken, but something more is likely to be heard of the movement.

SEPTEMBER'S COMING MOON.

Why "Harvest Moon", and Why the Full-faced Orb Rises Evening After Evening at Almost the Same Hour—The "Hunter's Moon".

Terrestrials will have this month an exceptionally fine exhibition of what is known as the "Harvest Moon"—a moon full or nearly full rising for several successive evenings at about the same hour.

This happens in September, when the sun is near the autumnal equinox, and when the full moon, being in the opposite quarter of the heavens, is near the vernal equinox, that is, the point at which the sun's path crosses the celestial equator from south to north, and when, in consequences, it is greatly inclined to the horizon at the time of sunset. This month the moon will be "full" on the 25th, three days after the sun has passed the equinox. Furthermore, its path when it rises on that date will have an unusually great obliquity to the horizon from the circumstance that it will be near its "ascending node"—the point at which its crosses the sun's path from south to north.

It will be seen that in consequence of the great inclination of its path, the moon's distance from the horizon—either above or below it—is very much less at sunset each day than would be the case were its path nearly perpendicular to the horizon, as it sometimes is. On the 23d it is less than an hour high at sunset; on the 24th it is only 25 minutes high; on the 25th it is just rising; on the 26th it will rise in 28 minutes after the sun has set, and on the 27th it will rise within an hour after sunset.

As we go northward the inclination of the moon's path to the horizon increases, and this phenomenon becomes more striking. In the latitude of London—52 degrees—there is little more than an hour between the times of its rising on the 23d and on the 27th, five days later.

This phenomenon really happens every month when the moon is near the vernal equinox: but it is only in September that the moon is full at that time and that the appearance is therefore noticeable.

The August full moon shows a similar though less marked disposition to favor the harvester, particularly if it occurs late in the month, and it is, perhaps, of more real service to him than the September moon. The October moon, which also exhibits to some extent the same propensity to rise promptly at about sunset when near the full, is known as the "Hunter's Moon".

THE REASON WHY

Watson & Co. Are Selling Their New Fall Garments So Far Below the Rates of Other Houses.

For some months Watson & Co. have been closing out all garments without regard to cost or value, as they saw that currency troubles would certainly make low prices for goods so when they commenced to buy materials for making their fall clothing, they had plenty of cash on hand to offer for desirable styles that suited their fine trade. Good men who had been laid off by other houses could be hired at fair rates, and many fine tailors needed work, and with all these conditions favorable to producing the best styles of clothing at lower prices than ever known, they decided to go on strong while many houses loaded up with last year's goods, or orders at last year's prices were waiting for something to turn up. A new custom department, which is a credit to the city, was fitted up and put in charge of Edwin B. Ennis, with competent assistants. W. A. Marcell was given full swing in the cutting departments, and all minor places were filled with the most competent, careful and experienced workmen.

Watson & Co. say they know we are in for an era of low prices, and propose to meet them, profit or no profit, and have the stock to fill any demand. We were shown long lines of handsome Cheviot Suits, cut both D. B. and S. B., in black, dark blue, gray, and many stylish mixtures, some lined with fine black striped cassimere, and made up in faultless style at $10 for the complete suits, while whole departments are filled with handsome Dress Worsted Suits in all the new cuts, either silk faced or plain, at $12 and $15, and shown through long floors in which the new Fall Overcoats at $10, and the advance styles of long D. B. Overcoats and Ulsters were hung as fast as their tailors finished them.

Watson & Co. believe there will be sweeping changes in Tariff which will let in foreign goods at low rates, which suits them, as they like a free fight, but they don't believe you will buy clothing even under free trade as cheap as you can get it this Fall, when the currency trouble has made almost any offer of spot cash accepted for the finest goods.—Newark Item.

Gus Williams, Music Hall, Tomorrow Night.

Life is too short, and cares are too numerous, for anyone to stay home and ponder over financial troubles on the night that light-hearted Gus Williams is in town. It is light-hearted Gus Williams, for how can a man who so successfully drives away the blues from the feminine heart, and the "V-cut" frown from the bread-winner's brow, be aught else than light-hearted! As it is more blessed to give than receive, Gus Williams should be thrice blessed, as he spreads his sunshine all about him. He not only cheers for the night, but for many a following night, when busy brains turn back upon the memory wheel to catch up the refrain of a song which the singer left in his hearers' hearts as he passed on. To say that Gus will be in Music Hall to-morrow night should be sufficient to crowd the house.

GOOD SPORT AT CLIMAX TRAPS.

LIVELY SHOOTING ON THE GROUNDS OF THE NEW CLUB.

Plainfield's Crack Handlers of the Breech-Loaders Pepper Clay Pigeons With Varying Success—The Young Organization Winning Fame Among Sportsmen at Home and Abroad.

Fourteen members of the young and prosperous Climax Gun Club presented themselves at the club grounds yesterday to take part in the regular monthly club shoot. Although organized but a few months, the club is recognized in the trap-shooting fraternity as one of the leading organizations in the State, and the Climax boys are able to present as strong a team of crack shots as can be found.

The club is incorporated under the State laws, and every member is obliged to enforce the laws for the preservation of game.

The shooting yesterday was entirely at inanimate targets, blue rocks being the targets used. The shooting was governed by Association rules, and the targets were thrown hard, and at unknown angles. The result of the first event was as follows:

Event No. 1. Regular club event for club prizes. 25 targets, Handicap allowances—C. Smith, scratch, scored 24. D. Terry, scratch, 22. T. Brantingham, scratch, 21. T. H. Keller, scratch, 20. August Trust, shooting at 30, broke 24. D. Darby, 30, broke 17. Scott Terry, 32, scored 25. "McGinty", 32, broke 23. W. Terry, 32, broke 20. Carpenter, 33, broke 17. And J. Darby, shooting at 35, scored 21.

After this main event had been shot, sweepstake shooting was indulged in, with the following results:

Sweepstake No. 1. 10 targets—C. Smith 10, T. H. Keller and D. Terry 9, Trust and Brantingham and S. Terry 8 each, D. Darby 6, Soper and J. Darby 5.

Sweepstake No. 2. 15 targets—Smith 15, Keller 14, Brantingham 12, "McGinty" and Delone 11, Soper 10, D. Terry and J. Darby 9, Trust and Carpenter 8, D. Darby and Camp 7.

Sweepstake No. 3. 10 targets—D. Terry and Keller 9 each, McCord and Smith 8, J. Darby and "McGinty" 4 each.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Seats are selling rapidly at Leggett's for Gus Williams.

—Mrs. Whittemore, the famous mission worker, will come to Plainfield October 10.

—The State convention of the W.C.T.U. will be held in Camden, October 3, 4, 5 and 6.

—No other comedian has the knack of saying funny things in the same degree as Gus Williams.

—The first dance of the Shamrock Club will take place in St. Mary's T. A. B. Hall, the evening of Sept. 28.

—Gus Williams's original and irresistibly comical piano playing will put all Plainfield in hysterical laughter.

—There are more legitimately funny situations in "April Fool" than in many of the so-called musical comedians on the stage.

—Housekeepers delight in the Philadelphia sweet-cream butter sold at the DelMarvia Farms Dairy, 327 Watchung avenue.

—The concert which was to take place at the Arlington Hotel last evening was postponed, and will probably be given Friday evening.

—Several baskets of peaches dropped out of a farmer's wagon at Park avenue and Second street, this morning, and went rolling into the gutter.

—Suit on a note has been brought by Aaron Thompson against Samuel Johnson, before Justice Mosher. The summons is returnable Sept. 26.

—VanEmburgh & Son have sold all the ginghams and calicos they have been advertising, and are compelled to get more to satisfy the demands of the crowds.

—The first prize offered by the Coachman's Beneficial Association of this city, for bringing in the most members, was awarded to Charles Lang. He gathered in 19 new members.

—The Crescents will play the Montclair Athletic Club nine here Saturday. The Plainfield players receive all the receipts, and every lover of base-ball should attend this last game of the season.

—In the two games played between Philadelphia and St. Louis, yesterday, Turner, of the Philadelphias, made the record of 3 runs, 5 base hits, 5 put outs, 1 assist, and 1 error. How's that for a Crescent graduate!

—"Black Betty", the well-known cook who was employed in McVey's restaurant, and latterly at Force's Hotel, in Bound Brook, died recently at the home of her children, in New York. She was well-known in Plainfield.

—J. Thorn's grapevine on Terrill road was raided by a party of boys, Monday, while the owner was away from home, and many grapes were stolen. Mr. Thorn knows the boys, and they will probably be made to answer in court.

—Percy Davis, head waiter of the Hotel Grenada, stunned a patron of the hotel today by making him out a check for $165, for three meals. Another waiter corrected the mistake before the customer's purse was seriously damaged.

—Mr. Honeyman advertises that his next special party from New Jersey to Chicago goes Oct. 9, and that the cost of membership is only $43, inclusive of hotel rooms and board. There is no excuse now not to see the wonderful Fair.

—It is hoped that all those who have a personal interest in the Women's Christian Temperance Union will not fail to remember the meeting in the rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, to welcome the new president for the coming year.

—Gus Williams's humor is as oil upon the troubled sea of thought. "If"—said a noted doctor—"theatres were more prescribed instead of pills and plasters, there would be fewer hypochondriacs. Healthful laughter is as good as healthful sea air, and easier and cheaper for the many to obtain."

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with disturbing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. G. Warner, Rutland, Vt.

THE PATH OF GOLD.

An Indian legend, beautiful and old,
Tells how a sinner sought the path of gold
Cast by a midnight moon on waters deep,
And there lay down to his eternal sleep,
With faith that, though the sea his bones should hold,
His deathless soul should mount the path of gold,
And steal, unchallenged, through the gates of heaven,
Its guilt forgotten, or, perchance, forgiven.
Oh, low-hung moon! Oh, quivering path of light!
The savage legend comes to me to-night.
At water's edge I stand, and at my feet
The sands of earth and heaven's gold do meet.
Would that I held the simple faith and hope
That bore the Indian's soul up yon bright slope!
But even as my prayer is cried aloud,
Thy face, O moon, is hidden with a cloud;
Thy light is gone; the waters, cold and gray,
Clutch at my feet and chill all hope away.
Oh, can it be that souls in sin grown old
Can never find the shining Path of Gold?

Carrie Blake Morgan, in October LIPPINCOTT'S.

Hard for Young Men to Keep the Sabbath.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith of this city read an interesting paper on "Young Men", at the Young People's Hour of the General Seventh-Day Conference, Milton, Wis. Among other things she said:

The great want of the nation is manhood, enlightened, educated and inspired by Christian principles, and the great want of our denomination is conscientious young men who have individuality of character.

It is not easy for our young men to keep the Sabbath. It interferes constantly with social and business pursuits. They are oftentimes led into unpleasant discussions, and scoffed at for their peculiar belief. Their social circle is necessarily limited, and the lucrative positions are not open to them because of their Sabbath. There are all trying circumstances for the ambitious young man of the day, and the struggle is hard, but God is ready with reinforcements, and if "God be for us who can be against us"? We want young men who can afford to be poor in this world's goods rather than to violate their conscience; to be scoffed at for the time rather than lose their hold upon the generations that are to follow.

Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W.

A new lodge of A. O. U. W. will be instituted in Plainfield Sept. 28. The name will probably be Columbia Lodge, and the charter members will number about forty. Last night was the appointed limit for receiving applicants for charter membership. The time has been extended, however, and all those making application before Thursday night will be entitled to enter as charter members. Dr. D. C. Adams is the examining physician.

The Newsboy and the Dude.

At Dunellen station the other evening a dude was awaiting a train going east when Newsboy Eddie Bellows rushed up with the cry "Have a World?"

The train being late, and the dude impatient, he angrily retorted: "No, I don't want no World; I want the Earth."

"You don't want much"—said Eddie, and skipped out.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me, cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Half Rate Excursions to the World's Fair via Washington and the B. & O. R. R.

The trains will consist of first-class Day Coaches, equpped with lavatories and toilet conveniences. Tickets will be valid for outward journey only on the special trains, but will be good returning from Chicago in Day Coaches on any regular train within ten days, including day of sale. Stops will be made for meals at the dining stations on the line. A Tourist Agent and a Train Porter will accompany each train to look after the comfort of passengers. For more detailed information as to rates, etc., apply to C. P. Craig, General Eastern Passenger Agent, 415 Broadway, New York.

DISCARDED SCHEME.

Colorado Will Not be Asked to Issue Silver Certificates.

DENVER, Sep. 20.—The State of Colorado will not be asked to go into the business of issuing certificates on silver bullion. The joint committee appointed recently by the real estate exchange and board of trade reported unanimously against the scheme. Aside from the many legal pitfalls in the way they find the owners of silver bullion are without exception against the scheme, declaring that they would not deposit their bullion against certificates which could circulate only in the State of Colorado when they can sell it on the market for the legal money of the United States. It is thought nothing more will be heard of the proposition.

THE HALLIDAY CASE.

Belief That the Woman Will Be Adjudged Insane.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 20.—The grand jury, which is deliberating on the Halliday case, will probably not finish its business and make known its findings until Thursday. The impression seems to prevail that the woman will be adjudged insane and sent to an asylum for life. Mrs. Halliday added a little more to her story. She said that the Irishman who came to see her had a companion, and she gave them money and they fought. Then the old story was again repeated. Thomas McQuillan, the husband and father of the murdered women, is a Mason, well up in the order, having taken over 15 degrees.

Exciting Lecture.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sep. 20.—Rev. Father Francis Sovieski, two years ago a priest at the Lorretto Convent across the river, now married and a Baptist clergyman, has his old home in a state bordering on riot by attempting to lecture in the town hall on "The Secrecy of Romanism," to men only.

Waiters Resist.

NEW YORK, Sep. 20.—A mass meeting of waiters affiliated with the Waiters' National Alliance was held last evening to discuss the proposed action of a number of hotel proprietors in reducing the wages of their men from $30 to $25 a month.

Reward of Bravery.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 20.—Secretary Carlisle has awarded a gold life-saving medal to Ingar Olesen, of Milwaukee, Wis., for rescuing from drowning, James Miller, in what is known as the crib disaster in Lake Michigan, on April 20th last.

Brunswick's Epidemic.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sep. 20.—Only one case of yellow fever was reported yesterday and one death, Charles Johnson, of Tifton, Ga. Nineteen cases are under treatment, only one of which is serious.

A Mother's Letter:—

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Last winter I did not think my little ones would have a mother long. I suffered terribly with female troubles.

"I could keep nothing on my stomach, and got so 'poor' my friends hardly knew me. I suffered with severe headaches, dizziness, faintness, backache, and 'the blues.'

"Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am now as fat as ever, and have no female troubles.

"If you use my letter I hope it may be the means of saving some other poor mother's life as it did mine."—Mrs. Ella Van Buren, Brazil, Ind.

BLOODHOUNDS ON H'S TRACK

Judges and State Legislators Are Leaders of the Regulators—Newspaper Men Conducted Beyond the Lines and Told to Stay Away.

NEW ORLEANS, Sep. 21.—The leading colored men of the city have asked the Governor for troops for protection against the reign of terror existing in Jefferson parish, on the outskirts of the city. A mass meeting of all colored citizens of the State has been called for Monday in this city, and from the indications serious trouble may be expected. Jefferson parish has been declared under martial law by its residents. The sheriff, judges, State Senators and Representatives are the leaders of the regulators together with all the other white officials. All newspaper men were conducted outside the lines yesterday and ordered to remain away in the future. It is impossible to learn what is now going on, or whether the murderer Julian has been captured or burned at the stake. The line of sentinels along the city boundary fired several shots about midnight at persons who would not halt. It is believed that the State troops will be called out. Many of the white women and children from Jefferson have come to the city for refuge. Bloodhounds from the penitentiary were let loose in the swamps where it is thought the murderer is hiding.

A correspondent saw the preparations made for his reception when caught. It has been built on the exact spot where Judge Estopinal fell and died. An iron stake has been driven into the ground, to which he will be tied. Fat pine and resinous materials surround this. Long irons, like branding irons, are in readiness, and when red hot the man will be tortured with them, while the fire underneath him burns. A rude gallows tree above the pyre has been built from which the murderer will be suspended over the fire by the arms. The description of these preparations will undoubtedly cause the Governor to mass troops in the neighborhood.

REVOLT AT POLYGAMY.

A Ripple of Excitement at the Congress of Religions.

CHICAGO, Sep. 21.—The harmony that has characterized the sessions of the world's parliament of religions since the opening day was for the first time slightly disturbed yesterday. Scores of thousands of professing Christians have listened without demur, and as a matter of fact with absolute interest, to the advocacy of Buddism, Confucianism, Zoroasterism and other isms, but they drew the line at polygamy, and when from the platform it was declared that a polygamist could also be a Christian they lifted up their voices in indignant protest. The gentleman who thus put his foot in it was Mohammed Russell Alexander Webb, in the course of an address on the spirit of Islam.

POSTOFFICE ROBBERS.

A Gang Doing New England Towns in a Systematic Way.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sep. 21.—At an early hour yesterday burglars attempted to blow open the safe of the postoffice at Warehouse Point. O. S. Smith, night watchman at the silk mills, heard the men at work. He roused John McHugh and his two sons. The burglars heard them coming and fled. It was found that a hole had been drilled through the door of the safe and the handle broken off. The building had been entered by a door that had been pried open by a cross-bar. The burglars left their tools when they escaped. It is believed they belong to the gang that has been robbing postoffices elsewhere in this State and Massachusetts.

COURT OF DEPARTMENT APPEALS

New Scheme for the Relief of Victims of Government Injustice.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—Under the terms of a voluminous bill composed of 14 sections, introduced by Mr. Morgan, there is sought to be established a court for hearing and adjudicating appeals from the victims of any executive department bureau or official in claims filed therein under the provisions of any law or resolution of Congress. The court is to be known as the Court of Departmental Appeals, and will consist of a chief justice and four associates to be appointed by the President, to hold office during good behavior. The chief justice's salary is fixed at $6,500 a year and his associates at $6,000. The necessary executive and clerical officers are also provided. The bill confers upon the court full judicial powers and clothes its members with the privilege of retirement according to the laws now in force. The bill has for its principal aim the relief of the army claimants who have been waiting for years for the adjudication of their claims. The proposed new court will take up cases which have been adversely acted upon as well as those that have been pigeon-holed from time to time for action. It will take away from the District Court of Appeals all patent cases and confer the jurisdiction entirely upon this court. It will also consider appeals taken from the decisions of the land office, pension office and the postoffice department.

AGAINST THE GEARY LAW.

Overa Million Methodists Have Petitioned for Its Repeal.

NEW YORK, Sep. 21.—If the Methodists have their say there can be no doubt of the repeal of the Geary law relating to the exclusion of the Chinese from this country. At the July meeting of the board of managers of the mission society of the Methodist Episcopal church a resolution was adopted asking the annual conference of the church to follow the executive body in sending in petitions to Congress praying for the repeal of the law in order that there might be no mistake concerning the real sentiment of the church on the question. The request of the board is being complied with and petitions are pouring in upon members of the senate and house in vast numbers.

The annual conferences of the church are now being held throughout the west and will continue for a month. Before the expiration of that time petitions signed by more than 8,000 ministers, who represent more than 1,250,000 individual members of the church will be in the hands of senators and congressmen. These petitions are unanimous in their expressions of condemnation of the act and come from all parts of the west. Many of them have been forwarded to Washington from the mission house at Fifth avenue and Twentieth street, this city, having been sent there from the places where the several conferences meet.

BULLETS FOR LYNCHERS

A Roanoke Mob Fired On by Militia.

EIGHT PEOPLE KNOWN TO BE DEAD

All the Trouble About a Brutal Negro Who Robbed a Market Woman—Mayor Trout Wounded While Protecting the Prisoner—Rifles Restore Order.

ROANOKE, Va., Sep. 21.—Robert Smith, a negro, yesterday robbed and nearly killed Mrs. Henry Bishop, wife of a well-to-do farmer of Botetout county. Mrs. Bishop was at the market with a load of produce and Smith bought a box of grapes. He asked her to go with him to get the money and taking her to a house nearby locked the door and bound her. Then drawing a razor he demanded her money. She gave it up, and while doing so jerked the razor from his hand. The negro choked her, threw her down, and pounded her head with a brick, leaving her for dead. Mrs. Bishop shortly afterwards regained consciousness and returning to the market told of the outrage. Detective Baldwin soon arrested the negro. The excited crowd attempted to take Smith away from the officer and lynch him, but Baldwin with the prisoner on a horse dashed at full speed in the face of the crowd and soon had him behind the bars.

A crowd gathered around the jail and kept increasing as night approached. At five o'clock the Roanoke Light Infantry marched to the jail by orders of Mayor Trout. Guards were posted and the streets in the immediate vicinity cleared. About dark the crowd increased by a hundred men from the vicinity of the woman's home, headed by Mrs. Bishop's son, a fireman on the Norfolk & Western railroad. At eight o'clock portions of the mob battered at a side door of the jail where the militia and Mayor Trout had retired. The shooting was commenced by the mob and the mayor was shot in the foot. The militia were then ordered to return the fire and a volley from about 25 rifles was poured into the mob. It is thought that about eight men were killed by this fire and as many more wounded, some of them fatally. During the excitement caused by the volley, the negro was taken from the jail by an officer and secreted. The dead and wounded were removed to a drug store and to the offices of nearby physicians. The militia were then dispersed and left the scene as quietly as possible.

The following is the list of the dead as far as known at present.

S. A. Vick, hotel proprietor.

Will Sheets, fireman on the Norfolk & Western railroad.

Charles W. Whitmire, conductor on the Norfolk & Western.

INSURANCE SWINDLE.

Wholesale Conspiracy to Burn Buildings for Profit.

CHICAGO, Sep. 21.—In the case of alleged wholesale conspiracies to burn houses to get the insurance, said to be headed by W. F. Smith, now under arrest, Insurance Inspector Cowie and Fire Inspector Conway made three additional arrests last night—O. C. Churchill, confidential man of Goodrich, a lawyer; D. Brown, who had two stores belonging to Smith; and John Herzog, an auctioneer for Smith.

The inspectors say that the plot, when unravelled, will be shown to extend over a half dozen States, and the amount that has been realized fraudulently from insurance companies to reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The plan, it is said, was to stock up stores with cheap goods, insure them for double their value, burn them and collect the insurance. The inspectors say that all the alleged conspiracies to do this work there were engaged insurance adjustors, store keepers, lawyers and real estate men.

The Davis family would have preferred that the wedding should have taken place in New York, but the arrangements for it to be celebrated in Paris were agreed to in deference to the convenience of the Marquis of Dufferin's family and Miss Flora's dread of making a transatlantic voyage in the autumn.

SHARP WORK AND WORDS

Skirmish in the House Over the Election Bill.

THE MEASURE FINALLY REPORTED

No Material Progress in the Senate—Postponement of the Proposition to Change the Rules so as to Establish the Principle of Closure.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—The Federal Election Repeal bill was reported yesterday in the house and placed upon the calendar. But this action was taken only after a severe struggle. The republicans sought every parliamentary device to block its way, but the democrats were ready at every point to throw the obstruction off the track, and the way was finally made clear and the bill reported.

The proposition for such a change of the rules of the senate as would establish the principle of closure was not made yesterday. Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.), who had given notice on Tuesday that he would propose that change, declined to do so because he did not wish to stand in the way of Mr. George (Dem., Miss.), who wished to address the senate, but said he would offer it at some future time. Before he had the chance of making that announcement there had been a little unpleasantness between himself and Mr. Voorhees (Dem., Ind.), who claimed the floor, and intimated that the Connecticut senator should have asked him to yield it. He then yielded it without being asked, but not before Mr. Platt suggested that it would be better if the senator from Indiana were a little kinder in his treatment of other senators.

Mr. George argued against the repeal bill, believing that it would be a leap in the dark, as likely to increase as to diminish the aggregate of the financial troubles. His speech was broken into by three roll calls of the senate, in the last of which Mr. Teller made a protest against his name being called after he had come into the chamber (having been absent when it was called). The Vice-President informed him that his name had been recorded as present, and that closed the incident.

Mr. George left the finishing of his speech till to-day, and Mr. Gray (Dem., Del.) used up the rest of the day's session in an argument against some of the points made by Mr. George. The senate sat till 6:30.

GEN. SICKLES' SALARY.

Is He Entitled to Pay as a Retired Army Officer?

WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—The question whether Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, now a reprepresentative in congress, is entitled to draw pay of a retired army officer, while a member of the house, which was freely discussed at the time of his election, yesterday formally came before the paymaster-general of the army and was referred to the secretary of war for decision. In submitting the question the paymaster-general says, that until an authoritative rule to the contrary is announced, no objection will be made to the pay accounts of Gen. Sickles covering periods subsequent to March 4, 1893. He calls attention to an opinion of the attorney-general and says that, in consonance with this opinion, it is understood that Brig.-Gen. Rosecrans, while receiving the salary appropriate to his rank also received for more or less of the same period the salary of register of the treasury.

"Unfortunately," the paymaster-general says, "the practice of the accounting officers of the treasury department does not always strictly conform to the army regulations. While there is no disposition in this office to discredit Gen. Sickles' certificate, or to give him annoyance in any way, it is still thought advisable at this stage to submit to superior authority the question as to his right to be paid his army salary.

HOW FOOLISH HE WAS!

James Corrigan Worked Falsely on the Sympathies of Plainfielders, and Is Reposing in Jail.

Policeman McCue this morning arrested James Corrigan, of 21 Plainfield avenue, suspected of being the man who collected money fraudulently, "to bury a dead child whose parents were too poor to raise the necessary money". The child was a myth, and the police have been keeping a sharp lookout for Corrigan. His arrest by Policeman McCue was a clever piece of work, as the officer had nothing to guide him in the search but a meagre description of the man, given by those from whom he had asked money.

A Press reporter and others identified the prisoner.

Corrigan, who is a young man, states that he came from New York three months ago, and with his wife and child has since been living in Plainfield.

He will be tried tomorrow.

Daley, James A. Daley, George Hughes, John Keeley, William Kiely, Frank Blatz, Mr. Doyle, Mr. Hopper. During the evening refreshments were served.

Bicycle Express in the Park.

A walk through Washington Park is quite amusing at times. Yesterday afternoon two charming school teachers were there learning to ride a safety. They were deeply in earnest, and gave evidence that they would master their untamed steed or die.

On the same street were some small boys hugely enjoying themselves. One was riding a safety to which was attached, by a rope, a small wagon, in which was a number of boys, whom the cyclist was giving a ride.

HOPE FOR THE ALVO.

Wife of the Plainfield Sea Captain Thinks the Vessel Is Safe.

Senor Juan Ribon's strange cable from his brother, John Ribon, in Mompox, United States of Columbia, which was printed yesterday, caused hope to spring up yesterday in the breasts of a great many persons who had relatives on board the Atlas steamer Alvo, which sailed from New York Aug. 16 and has not yet been heard from. The cable read: "Sabemos salvacion", which literally translated means "We know safety". Mr. Ribon's nephew was a passenger on the Alvo, and this despatch, Mr. Ribon believed, could refer only to the young man. Relatives and friends of the passengers and crew seemed to reach the same conclusion, and they crowded the office of Pim, Forwood & Co., the agents, at 24 State street, New York, early in the morning.

The wife of Capt. Williams, formerly of Ninth street, Plainfield, and latterly of Westfield, was one of the first to arrive. Mrs. Williams has never given up hope.

All inquirers received the same answer: "We think there is some mistake. It is not possible that the Alvo herself could have reached any port, or we should have heard of her. It is hardly possible that any of her passengers or any of her crew could have reached shore without our hearing of it before any one else. The place where this despatch came from is 2,000 miles from any spot whence we might hope to get news".

Not enough was thought of the despatch in the morning by the agents to lead them to cable to their correspondents in Colombia to have it investigated, but the continued appeals for information induced them late in the afternoon to send three cables. One was to the main office of the company in London. A second was to an agent at the port of Savanilla in Colombia, where the Alvo was to stop, and which is at the mouth of the Magdalena River, on which the town of Mompox is. The third was to another South American port. After the despatches were sent Mr. Pim said to a reporter: "I cannot tell how soon we will hear from the men we have cabled to, but it may be two or three days."

Senor Ribon holds to his belief. He says he has never communicated with his brother by cable except on matters of the utmost importance.

JULIAN SCOTT IN THE SNAKE DANCE.

THE PLAINFIELD ARTIST FRISKED WITH LIVING REPTILES.

Fearful Experience Among the Pueblo Indians—Invocations for a Rainfall—Smeared with Paint and Grease, the Savages Marched in Circles, with Rattlesnakes in Their Mouths, Initiating the White Man Into the Antelope Lodge.

These columns a few days ago recorded briefly the return of Julian Scott from the wilds of Arizona, where he fraternized with the Indians, and since then the artist's friends have been regaled with lively tales of the sights he saw and the snakes he met.

Mr. Scott may well talk familiarly of the thrilling ceremonies, for while in the Pueblo of Wal-pi he joined the Antelope Lodge, being taken into the society, and going through the necessary forms peculiar to their rites. Two other white men were initiated with him, Walter R. Fales, of Wrentham, Mass., and Artist Harvey Lungren, of Cincinnati. Six nave thus been honored, the other three being Dr. J. Webster Fewks, A. M. Stephen, and the late J. G. Owens.

"Working the Antelope Degree"—relates the Colonel—"consists of songs and prayers to the snake deity, Balia-la-kong-wa, and the god of moisture. An altar is formed of different colored sands or pigments upon the south floor of the ke-va representing cloud forms, lightning and rain.

"Surrounding the altar are a large number of perpendicular sticks resting in small cones of clay. These sticks are from two to two and a half feet in height, bent at the top like a shepherd's crook, and attached to their ends are little feathers and bits of corn husks which symbolize prayer; the sticks are memorials of the departed priests of the Antelopes.

THE MESSENGER TO THE GODS.

"Interspersed among them are curious old ceremonial axes, spear heads and other stone implements that belonged to some of the departed ones, and which have been given to the altar as offerings for their descendants. There are three gates to the altar; one is guarded by the courier who, on the morning of the second day of the ceremonies, carries ba-hoos (prayer sticks) to all the remote watering places, beginning with those at the north and moving to the west, thence to the south and to the east, then back to the ke-va. The entire circuit is about twenty-four miles, and this ancient type of a messenger to the gods made it this year in less than three hours and a half. He ran all the way, stopping at the springs only to deposit the prayer plumes. He wore only a kilt of cotton cloth of Ho-pi manufacture, richly embroidered with symbols of rain, moccasins and a feather adopted by men of the Antelope order, at the crown of the head. A small ceremonial blanket served to carry the prayer plumes in.

"Before he left the ke-va the guardian of the opposite gate approached him and put honey on the soles of his feet, in the palms of his hands, on his back, breast, forehead and in his mouth. Sacred meal was then sprinkled upon him as he departed. This guardian, who thus prepared the messenger, is the altar-maker, and it is his duty, too, to keep the altar in order. The principal gate is held by the chief priest, who leads in prayer, song and the work of the lodge. The snake priest reports to him for all orders and communicates them back to his men in the snake ke-va.

"The messenger continues to carry to different watering places the emblematic prayer offerings for four days, contracting his circuit each day so that the final one is in connection with the pretty springs that skirt the mesa.

"At early dawn on the eighth and ninth days an interesting ceremony takes place in the Antelope ke-va. A boy typifies the snake god and a virgin the growing corn; the boy holds a snake in his hands, while the girl carries a bundle of unripe corn; the boy stands back of the courier; the girl in the rear of the principal priest. As the early morning light appeared these two young figures, in white robes, back in the dingy corners where they stood, the circle of men sitting upon the floor about the altar, chanting and making their invocations, presented a weird picture, more impressive from the pathetic side that these good people should feel so much time and ceremony was necessary to propitiate the water deity and thus gain his favor.

THE ANTELOPE DANCE.

"The Antelope dance was public, and was initiatory to the public exhibitions which closed the long prayer for water, and now one comes to the final and strangest part of all. Dr. Fewks came through the narrow covered way from the ke-vas to the plaza; looking back frequently, he attracted all attention. Every voice was stilled.

"A few moments later the members of the order of the Antelope appeared in single file and marched over to the northeast end of the plaza and turning to the left passed in front of the 'snake house', which was made of fresh cottonwood boughs, and so on around the sacred rock they continued till every given point was passed four times. Then they took position, at the right of the snake house, facing to the front, keeping up a continuous rattle with small round disks made of buckskin stretched over hoops of cottonwood and each containing a small nnmber of beans or peas. These they held in their right hands, while in their left they carried ba-hoos made of eagle feathers. On the tops of their heads were tufts of yellowish brown and pink feathers; the front hair was banged, the side locks cut off at the shoulders, while the back hair or scalp locks fell flowing down their backs.

"The color of their faces was natural, except the lower part from the bottom of the nose back in a straight line to the lobe of the ear, painted a line of white, below which was metallic black to the neck. The arms, body and legs were of a grayish dirt color, while angular lines, representing lightning, were painted up the outside of the arms, over the shoulders, down over the bracelets to the kilts and down the outside of the legs. Besides the white embroidered kilts of Hopi cotton they wore long sashes of the same material and similarly ornamented with rain emblems. Armlets and anklets confined small bundles of cottonwood twigs in full leaf, which added color as well as livelier composition to the otherwise exceedingly picturesque costumes. Earrings, bracelets and necklaces were of varied characters of shell, silver and turquoise. Moccasins of a dull carmine color, heavily fringed at the top, completed the costumes of the Antelope, excepting that of the 'whizzer' and the chief priest, Wee-Ki, a venerable and dignified looking man.

THE "WHIZZER".

"The 'whizzer' wore an exceedingly large wreath of cottonwood twigs that reached out in every direction; his armlets and anklets were called upon to hold more of the same kind of decoration than the rest. His appearance was fierce as well as grotesque. Over his right shoulder was suspended an old bow and quiver, and there was an anxious air about him when he made 'blue' thunder with his 'whiz' that made him as conspicuous as a drum-major.

"The chief priest wore no ornaments except the single snake feather of the Antelope order and a simple string of shell beads. In his left hand he carried the badge of his high office, which was a large ba-hoo. While standing in position at the right of the snake house, continuing their rattle, another sound broke upon the air; it was the fierce tread of the snake men, headed by their young chief Co-pe-ia. Their approach was rapid and with each step of the right foot clacked the tortoise shell and sheep-toe rattles that were suspended at the knee. Their moccasins were patterned like those of the antelope, but were of a uniform reddish brown. Their lower legs and forearms were painted a grayish pink; their faces were painted from the upper lips to the eyebrows metallic black, which gave them a hideous look. Their kilts were of buckskin, painted around the centre, the emblem of the snake—a broad white zig-zag line on which were traced in black three black lines and two parallel alternating; a belt with long fringe hung at the right side.

"They wore armlets and anklets of cottonwood, some of them cut to represent lightning. Their hair was worn in the same style as that of the Antelope. In addition to a tuft of brown feathers at the top of the head there were suspended from the same point two or more long, straight eagle tail feathers, that hung down over the long black back locks of hair. Ornaments of shell, silver and turquoise, such as earrings, necklaces and bracelets, were worn according to fancy. All dance, except every third man, who carries a snake whip of eagle feathers and a long ba-hoo in the left hand. I forgot to mention that the actors of both orders all wore at the back, suspended at the waist, fox-skins.

"Moving along with the same measured tread, these men of the snake, describing an ellipse, passed the snake house and around the sacred rock four times. Each successive return to the snake house each man in turn would stamp with all his might upon a thick plank that was sunk into the rock on level with the surface of the mesa. At the conclusion of their marching they halted, and facing the snake house they begun a low, dismal chant, increasing in volume as they proceeded, the sound resembling much that of great wind. The clattering of the tortoise-shell rattles and the disk ones of antelope conveyed the idea of driving rain. At the close of the chant the priests met at the snake house and prayed, sprinkling sacred meal around them.

A HORRIBLE CEREMONY.

"The snake men marched again around the plaza, and as they came to the snake house every third man reached in and took out a snake, some of them two; these they placed in their mouths, with the heads of the snakes to the right, closed their eyes, raised their forearms slightly and allowed their hands to dangle as if helpless. Then the first attendants placed themselves upon the right side of the carriers and extended their left hands over to the left shoulders of the carriers, in which position they continued the dance side by side, the attendants carefully watching the temper and movements of the snakes, which they seemed to control with the 'snake whip.' The second attendant followed behind to gather up any fugitive that might escape from the jaws of its captor.

"Round and round the ellipse these grim and now diabolical actors continued their hazardous and fearful dance. Some of the snakes, large rattlers and small ones, freed themselves, causing consternation among the bystanders and no end of amusement for those who occupied comparatively safe places. All, however, were skillfully gathered up. During this devilish dance one of the priests made a large circle of sacred meal near the sacred rock, and at a given signal all the reptiles were thrown within it, and then a general rush was made by the actors to gather them up, a work performed in a remarkable short space of time, something less than a minute, when they disappeared off the mesa, going to the north, west, south and east, each man carrying all that both hands could hold and depositing his 'younger brothers', as the Indians affectionately term them, among the rocks and sands in the desert below, whence they came.

"The Antelopes then moved away to their ke-va, and thus closed the most unique and thrilling performance I have ever known.

"It began raining on the day of the Antelope dance, and continued several days. When the snake men returned to the mesa they gathered beyond the houses on the west side, close to the edge of the cliffs, where the women had taken ollas of a violent emetic, prepared by the snake priestess. This is a cleansing process, and ended the ceremonies."

DISTRICT SCHOOL TROUBLES.

Residents Near the Jackson Building Demand that they Have the Use of That.

The residents near the Jackson school complain that their children have to walk at least two miles to a school-house. They complain because there is no school-house between South avenue and the old Rahway road.

The Jackson school-house, which was named after President Jackson, has been vacant for a long time, and only religious services are held there Sundays. Since the place was divided into districts some years ago, the children have to go either to Fanwood or Willow Grove. The school room is well fitted up, and an indignant delegation will go to Trenton to lay the matter before the State Board of Education. The people in the district ask for a teacher and school accommodations nearer than the schools they are forced to patronize.

GUS WILLIAMS.

Music Hall's Comedian Tonight Is a Club Brother of Many Plainfielders.

The mere announcement that Gus Williams will appear in Music Hall tonight should insure a crowded house. He has been playing so long, and has always given such eminent satisfaction, that one feels safe in going to see him in anything, knowing full well that he always keeps faith with the amusement-loving public. His new play, "April Fool", is said to be an exceedingly clever one, brimful of good specialties and funny situations. Mr. Williams off, as well as on the stage, has a great personal following. He belongs to more clubs, organizations and societies than any other actor in America, and this great popularity is not of his own making, either, but is owing to his well-known powers of entertaining, he being a member of Polar Star Lodge of Odd Fellows of New York city; Boston Lodge No. 10, B. P. O. Elks, of which he is a life member; Past Chancellor of Edwin Forest Lodge, K. of P.; Wapita Tribe of Red Men of Boston; H. T. Terry Post, G. A. R., of Mt. Clemens, Mich.; the Sagamore Club of Harlem; New York No. 330, F. and A. M.; Manhattan Chapter, No. 184, R. A. M.; Palestine Commandery, No. 18, K. T.; Mecca Temple, New York Consistory 32d Degree, Northern Masonic Jurisdiction. His entertainments during the past seasons have been selected by members of the several organizations of which he is a member, and made a gala occasion by the presence of hundreds who seldom, if ever during the season, attend any other entertainment.

It Replies to Charles H. Hand, and Defends Its Female Agent.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—We received a copy of your paper a few days ago which bears date of August 31, and contains a statement purporting to have been made by Charles Hand and family of your city. After reading it over, we feel justified in introducing ourselves through the columns of your generous and worthy paper. A PLAINFIELD PASTOR SPOKE.

Rev. J. W. Richardson Addresses a Large Christian Endeavor Gathering in Waterbury, Conn.

The Waterbury, Conn., Christian Endeavor Union held a rousing meeting in that city Tuesday afternoon and evening. Among the addresses delivered were two by the Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church of this city. One was delivered to the Junior Endeavorers at the afternoon session, and one at the evening session. The Waterbury Daily Republican of yesterday gives the following report:

The closing address, by the Rev. J. W. Richardson of Plainfield, N. J., was one of the most powerful, local Endeavorers have ever listened to. It was interspersed with anecdotes of a most touching nature at times, all bearing on this one main point, that Christian Endeavorers should sacrifice everything to live up to their motto "For Christ and the Church".

"True Christian Endeavorers"—he said—"do not ask for easy places; they never discuss their great Captain's command and are always alert to find the short cut to attack the citadels of uprighteousness. The condition of affairs makes imperative a separation between those who worship God and those who worship idols. There must be a separation in aims and purposes between God's people and the people of the world." In claiming a tremendous power for the Christian Endeavor organization the speaker alluded to its onslaught on the World's Fair managers in regard to Sunday closing when, said he, "the protest of over a million Endeavorers caused the finances of the Fair to rock like a reed in the wind. Never"—he continued—"in the history of the church has there been greater need of loyalty to truth. No sceptic can answer the testimony of a Godly life. The eyes of the world are on professional Christians and there is need that true Christians put on the uniform and buckle on the sword. The church needs living sermons in all our commercial marts and social circles. The hope of the church is in its young people and it is not hyperbole to affirm that a true Christian is simply in the world but not of it. The world hates the Christian and its opposition arises not only from hatred but fear, for the Christian's bold assurance of eternity causes the world fear and anxiety. Arise then, Christian Endeavorers, in the strength of your young manhood and womanhood and draw the blade and throw away scabbard."

There are many others that you will be delighted with, and you should visit the department. The opening will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

A St. Paul Society Belle Marries a Negro Hotel Waiter.

ST. PAUL, Sep. 21.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Miss Jennie Mehl, the pretty daughter of Eugene Mehl, until last week the proprietor of the Ryan house, is cleared up. She has married a negro, James Robinson, who formerly worked for her father. A little over a week ago the Mehl family—father, mother, son and daughter—started for Chicago and New York. At the depot it was noticed that Miss Jennie was not present. Nothing was thought of this, however, and word was left for her to take the next train. The girl did not go to Chicago and her brother returned to look for her. Yesterday it was discovered that she had married Robinson and was now living with him. Her husband is 22 or 23 years old and a mulatto. The bride refused peremptorily to assign any cause for her selection.

The groom was employed for two or three years at the Ryan hotel as a table waiter and elevator attendant, the greater part of the time in the latter capacity. Rev. Hickman, who united the couple, was asked why he married a girl so prominent socially to a colored man. He replied: "Robinson came to my house and said he wanted to get married. I went with him to a house near here where I found Miss Mehl. They had a license and wanted to be married. I knew that if I did not marry them that somebody else would. It is my business, so I did it. I took care to see that everything was perfectly regular and legal."

THE FARIBAULT SCHOOL PLAN.

Archbishop Ireland Declares the System to be a Success.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sep. 21.—Archbishop Ireland has prepared for the press a statement in relation to the assertion from Faribault that the educational plan known as the "Faribault plan" had been definitely abandoned. The assertion grew out of the fact that Father Conry of Faribault had declined to allow the city to further supply teachers for the parochial school. Archbishop Ireland emphatically denied that the move in Faribault had any significance except as it showed the beauties of the plan in permitting either side to draw out upon any occasion when circumstances demanded it. "The plan," he said, "is now in force in thousands of schools, in some of which Protestant teachers are engaged in parochial schools and in others vice versa. The action of Father Conry was by my advice, simply because it became a matter of room, and there is nothing in it affecting the principle involved. It is positively untrue that I had instructions from Rome in the matter. I am positive I am in full touch with the Holy See in the matter and would be the last man in America to misrepresent anything from Rome. As to the plan itself, it is in the fullness of its progress and is being approved by time and trial."

FATAL TRIAL TRIP.

Steamer Montgomery Bursts a Steam Pipe and Kills Two Men.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sep. 21.—The steamer Montgomery, twin ship of the United States steamer Detroit, now being built at the Columbia iron works, Baltimore, on her third private trial trip yesterday, burst a steam pipe leading to the blower engine, and Chief Engineer Zachariah Mewshaw of the Columbia iron works and coal heaver John Doyle were scalded to death. The Montgomery was making 18 1-2 knots an hour. Her requirement is only 17 1-2. She was testing new coal. A leak had begun in the pipe and Engineer Mewshaw went below to stop the leak when the pipe burst. Doyle was caught in a coal bunker. Both men rushed out of the room and fell on the floor and had to be dragged away. They suffered intensely.

DANGEROUS ROOSTER.

A Game Bird Attacks and Nearly Kills a Boy at Red Bank.

RED BANK, N. J., Sep. 21.—Percy, the three-year old child of Samuel Wolcott, was attacked by a game rooster belonging to Alex Kingsbury, a neighbor, and nearly killed. The little fellow was in the yard of his home and the bird had flown over the fence. The rooster was being chased, when it jumped on the child's head and sent its spurs into the right temple, piercing an artery and causing the blood to flow freely. The screams of the boy attracted his mother's attention and she beat the bird off with a broom.

Mrs. Halliday Said to be Indicted.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 21.—The grand jury is said to have found a bill of indictment against Mrs. Halliday. The court will reconvene on Monday, and early next week the exact nature of the findings against Mrs. Halliday will be made known.

AUSTERLITZ!

Not the Famous Conquest of the Great Napoleon.

BUT STILL A GREAT VICTORY OVER A DREADED ENEMY.

Fraught With More Value Than All the Conquests of Napoleon.

AUSTERLITZ, Mich. This town was named in honor of the place where the great Napoleon so signally conquered his enemies. Our little town has lately witnessed some notable conquests, conquests which are of more benefit to the world and to mankind than were all the victories of Napoleon.

Mr. Thomas Carson, one of our most prominent citizens, became very ill.

"I was troubled," he says, "with liver disease, biliousness, chills, bad digestion and more or less rheumatism. I was very nervous and had hysterical dreams. I suffered terribly with faint and dizzy spells and had no appetite and could not sleep at night.

"I did not know what to do, but finally began to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. The very first bottle made such a decided change in my condition that I bought five bottles and took them up and I must and will say that I am astonished at what this medicine has done for me.

MR. THOMAS CARSON.

"I am completely well and I shall always pray that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will always exist. I shall never be without it in my house, for I think it was a God-send to me. I would like what I say published for the benefit of other unfortunate sufferers from disease."

Mrs. Mary J. Warner, of Austerlitz, says:

"I was troubled with nervousness and sick headache. I had no appetite and could not sleep half the night. I was very weak and prostrated. I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and it has completely cured me. I cannot speak loud enough in its praise."

If you are sick, use this great remedy. It is purely vegetable and harmless.

It is the discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, the noted specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases and he can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Senators See the Necessity of Getting Down to Business—Programme Laid Out in the House for Repeal of the Federal Election Law.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 22.—The first hour of yesterday's session of the senate was occupied in a discussion of the resolution offered by Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) for the establishment of a cloture rule. Mr. Platt made such a strong clear argument to show the necessity for such a rule that Mr. Voorhees (dem., Ind.) felt called upon to express the debt which the senate and the country owed to him for it. The junior senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge, rep.) also supported the proposed rule, although he foresaw that it would place in the hands of the democratic majority the power to pass bills changing the tariff and repealing the federal election laws. He insisted that, if senatorial courtesy permitted unlimited debate, that courtesy must be reciprocal, and must permit votes to be taken.

Amendments to Mr. Platt's resolution were offered by Mr. Hoar (rep., Mass.) and Mr. Hill (dem., N. Y.) and the resolution went over until to-day, when Mr. Teller (rep., Col.) will argue against it.

The repeal bill was then taken up and an argument against it made by Mr. White (dem., Col.) who spoke for four hours. Many of the democratic senators gave him an attentive hearing, but nine-tenths of the seats on the republican side of the chamber were vacant during most of the speech. After he took his seat and after Mr. George declined to go on with his speech in the evening, a motion was made by Mr. Voorhees to lay on the table Mr. Peffer's amendment to the bill. The motion was opposed by the minority, who resorted to filibustering. After an hour or so spent in that way, Mr. Voorhees withdrew his motion, but the general discussion went on until 7:30, when the senate adjourned.

House.

WASHINGTON, Sept 22.—The journal of the previous day's proceedings in the house was not approved yesterday until the hour of adjournment. Mr. Reed discovered some flaws in it and called the speaker's attention to them. They were attributable to the journal clerk—the speaker not having had an opportunity to examine the journal—and placed the speaker in a rather awkward position. In his decisions, he studiously refrained from declining to recognize motions not because they were "dilatory" motions, but because they were "motions." Mr. Reed thought that the entries of the clerk were proper, even though they might not be accurate ones. The question of approving the journal was postponed but later in the day was agreed to. In the meantime the committee on rules reported a resolution providing for the consideration of the federal election repeal bill on the 26th of September, the debate to continue until October 10th when a vote should be taken. After a brief discussion the resolution was adopted.

A report from the committee on accounts assigning the committees that should be entitled to session clerks was taken up, but without disposing of it, the house at 4:45 adjourned.

BLACK WASTE.

Scene of the Fatal Prairie Fires Along the Cherokee Strip.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sep. 22.—The scene of the recent terrible prairie fires on the Pawnee reservation is one of devastation. Scattered all over the prairie are partially burned wagons, wrecked camp outfits and the charred remains of household goods, and here and there the body of a horse. For miles and miles as far as the eye can reach, it is a black waste and to add to the horror of it all, in a number of places are found blackened and burned human trunks. Nearly a dozen of these bodies have been found and it is feared that many have perished. There is no clew whatever to the identity of these unfortunates.

The dust storm continued all day with unabated fury and hundreds are leaving every town of the strip, unable to stand the hardships any longer. At Perry the dust is thickest, and all business is suspended. The suffering inhabitants have sought refuge from the blowing, sifting sand in tents and under wagons.

DEATH IN A COAL MINE

Five Killed and Five Injured by a Gas Explosion.

DESPAIRING WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

Fatal Result of a Miner's Carelessness—Ready Rescuers Bring Forth the Killed and Wounded—Affecting Scenes as Grief Stricken Families Recognise the Dead.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sep. 22.—By an explosion of gas in the Lance colliery, No 11, of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre coal company at Plymouth yesterday afternoon five men were instantly killed and five others seriously injured.

The names of the dead are:

David M. Jones, aged 52, contractor, Wilkesbarre. Leaves wife and two children.

Wm. Jones, rock miner, aged 45, Wilkesbarre. Leaves wife and two children.

John Flannagan, aged 45, mason, Wilkesbarre. Leaves wife and six children.

Owen P. Jones, aged 55, miner, Plymouth. Leaves wife and several children.

Joshua Golightly, aged 55, assistant mine foreman, Plymouth.

The injured are:

Owen L. Evans, aged 40, rock miner, arm dislocated.

Thoms Williams, aged 40; rock miner, ribs broken.

D. R. Davis, aged 40, rock miner, shoulder dislocated.

John Cummings, aged 45, mason, leg brokenby flying debris.

James Morgan, aged 40, miner, face cut and scalp wound.

The accident was caused by Joshua Golightly, who entered a body of gas with his naked lamp. A terrific explosion followed. The deadly flames swung from one end of the gangway to the other, carrying death or injury to every living being in its path. The concussion was awful. props came tumbling down, cars were lifted off the road and dashed with fearful force against the pillars. Loose coal was caught up and sent whirling through the chambers, only to be ground into powder by its contact with the rocky walls.

The men were working fully 1,000 feet from where Golightly's lamp set off the gas, but owing to the unusually gaseous condition of the mine the scorching flame spread so rapidly that there was no escape.

Golightly was fearfully burned, the flesh on his body being literally cooked. The other victims were not burned, but were killed by the flying debris, carried on the wings of the explosion.

The masons were building walls and the laborers cleaning up rubbish in the rock tunnel when death overtook them. It came with such fearful force that only a few of them had a chance to escape. Golightly has been an assistant mine foreman for 15 years and was considered one of the safest and most reliable men in the employ of the company. He was thoroughly familiar with the mine and why he entered the gang-way with a naked lamp is a mystery which none of his friends can solve.

As soon as the explosion occurred word was sent to the surface and in a few minutes a thousand people had gathered at the mouth of the shaft. The greatest excitement prevailed among the friends of the doomed men.

A rescuing party was at once organized led by Superintendent Morgan. As is always the case in anthracite mine accidents, volunteers were ready at a moment's notice and a large party dropped down into the shaft to bring up the victims.

After a short absence they reappeared, bearing the blackened bodies, and there was enacted one of those scenes calculated to bring tears to the eyes of those accustomed to the saddest of sights. Women and children shrieked in an agony of grief and threw themselves upon the bodies of their dead as they were carried by, while strong men brushed their hardened hands across their eyes and turned away to hide the weakness.

The dead and injured were taken to their homes, where the company provided every means for the comfort of the latter, who are expected to recover.

The damage to the mine is not extensive and it will resume work to day.

Forest Fires Quenched.

MILWAUKEE, Sep. 22.—A good soaking rain has fallen in every nook and corner of Wisconsin. The rain was heavy enough to completely quench the forest fires. POTTER NOT GUILTY.

Nothing to Show His Connection with Maverick Bank Irregularities.

BOSTON, Sep. 22.—When the court came in after recess Judge Putnam read from the stenographic report of the case extracts from the testimony of Cashier Work, by which it was attempted by the district attorney to show that Potter had authorized the falsification of the reports of the bank to the clearing house. The court then said that the evidence so far produced in the case failed to show any connection between Potter and the paying teller who made up the reports to the clearing house. "The evidence of Cashier Work," the court continued, "has not connected the accused with the acts of the paying teller, and so far as I can see, from information that the district attorney has given me of what it is possible for him to prove, the accused cannot be connected with the matter."

The district attorney then said: "It is the judgment of the United States that within the limits of the ruling laid down by your honor it is impossible for the government to connect the accused with this case. Thanking your honor for your uniform courtesy and forbearance, the government will submit the case to your honor's ruling. When the United States entered upon the trial of the case, it was expected that the government would be able to present satisfactory proofs to the judge that the accused is guilty of the crime with which he is charged, and that it has not been able to do so is as much a matter of surprise to the government as to the court."

Judge Putnam said: "The counsel for the government have shown great ability, ingenuity and persistency in trying this case, and have done everything that it was possible to do to secure a conviction. It may be that the government could go to the jury on the testimony that has been presented this morning."

The district attorney declined going on with the case, and asked the jury if they sufficiently understood the status of the case to agree upon a verdict as directed.

The foreman signified that they did, and the court put the usual question as to what their verdict was, and the foreman said "not guilty."

WESTERN FARMERS PAY.

A New England Loan Company Denies Stories of Defaulted Interest.

NEW YORK, Sep. 22.—The failure of the Equitable Mortgage company and the Lombard Investment company having been attributed by those companies to their alleged failure to collect the interest due on western farm mortages held by them, has induced the New England Loan & Trust company to issue a circular to its stockholders and others taking exception to that statement.

In that circular D. O. Eshbaugh, the president of the company, gives figures from its books bearing on the subject, and points out that it had less interest overdue on July 1st, 1893, by $11,500 than it had on July 1st, 1892, and says that in the light of these figures it seems strange that any mortgage company should attribute its embarrassment to the failure of western farmers to pay their interest promptly. Western farmers, he says, have met their obligations throughout the trying times of the last few months at least as satisfactorily as any other class of debtors.

Bank presidents and other men who are informed on the subject confirmed the statement of Mr. Eshbaugh as to the manner in which western farmers have met their obligations during the present year.

SETTLED WITH SABERS

Romantic Midnight Duel in Prosaic Chicago.

ABOUT A PHILADELPHIA BELLE

A Knight Errant Considers a Chicago Man Too Attentive and the Matter is Settled According to the Code—The Knight Has a Hole in His Shoulder.

CHICAGO, Sep. 22.—The Evening Post says: A duel was fought at Cheltenham Beach, 15 miles south of Chicago, last night, the combatants being William Ficklen of 54 Oakwood Boulevard and a Philadelphia man. The latter received an ugly wound in the left shoulder, while Ficklen escaped unhurt. The trouble was caused by a woman. Her name is withheld by Ficklen, who admits fighting a duel. Ficklen also refuses to tell the name of the man with whom he fought, but says he was a cousin of the lady. The cousin, in view of the outcome of the affair, is equally anxious to remain unknown. Out of regard for the lady concerned Mr. Ficklen refused to say what circumstances led up to the quarrel, but the facts are said to be as follows: A friend of Ficklen's from Philadelphia, whom he declares is not Frank Keef, came to Chicago a month ago to see the world's fair. He was accompanied by a party of relatives, among them the pretty girl cousin, about whom the trouble arose. She was engaged to be married to a man in Philadelphia, it is said, but the accepted lover unfortunately stayed behind. Mr. Ficklen met her and, according to the idea of her male cousin, became too attentive. He remonstrated with the Chicago man, but it appears was not satisfied with the latter's conduct even after his reproaches had been made. The Philadelphia man finally brought matters to a climax by challenging Ficklen to fight a duel.

Ficklen accepted the challenge and being the challenged party chose swords. Accompanied by their seconds both men went to a secluded spot at Cheltenham beach later at night and prepared to settle the matter by the light of the moon. The cousin of the girl was excited but determined. Ficklen, who scarcely believed that it really was the intention of his friend to push the matter so far, was watchful. Ficklen was the more adept of the two with the sabres and contented himself with parrying his foe's thrusts and blows until assured by the latter's determined onslaughts that he meant to draw blood before he was satisfied. Then Ficklen resolved to wound his opponent sufficiently to bring the affair to a close. Watching his opportunity, he slipped his sabre across the weapon of his foe and pressed the point into his shoulder. That ended the affair.

The Philadelphia man lowered his sabre and drew back, the blood flowing from a wound in his shoulder. His second came up and asked if both parties were satisfied. Ficklen before leaving for the city assured his adversary that he was entirely mistaken in the idea that he (Ficklen) was trying to steal away the heart of another man's promised bride. The wounded man was taken to his room in Chicago where his shoulder was dressed and then he and his friends, including the fair cousin, started for Philadelphia. "I am sorry this affair got out," said Mr. Ficklen. "I intend to go east in a few days and then I will see that this quarrel is adjusted. The man had no cause to find fault with me and there was no reason why he should think as he did."

SIDEWALK UPSETS.

Serious Accident on a World's Fair Transportation Device.

CHICAGO, Sep. 22.—A serious accident occurred yesterday on the movable sidewalk which extends along the Casino pier. A plank came in contact with the under part of the machinery and a large section of the sidewalk was torn from its fastenings. The seats became derailed and slipped, throwing over 200 passengers violently on the pier. The small elevation of the sidewalk proved a safeguard against any loss of life, but many of the passengers, men, women and children, were severely bruised and cut. A few were removed to the hospital by the ambulance corps. Employes on the pier and sidewalk kept the people cool and avoided a panic.

RIPE SHEAVES AND AUTUMN LEAVES.

NOVEL AND INTERESTING HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL.

Pastors Richards, Herring and Alexander, and Visiting Clergyman Byrd, Tell of the Fruits of the Soil—Fruits and Vegetables from Eve's Cherry Up to Date.

The Harvest Home festival given in Bethel chapel, last night, under the management of the women of the congregation, proved a unique affair and an enjoyable one to the large number who were present.

The pretty chapel was filled before 8, when the Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., the Rev. Charles E. Herring and W. A. Byrd, the speakers of the evening, went forward with the pastor, the Rev. William A. Alexander, and took seats upon the platform.

The pulpit platform was a pretty representation of the harvest season. The pulpit furniture, with the exception of the few chairs occupied by the speakers, had been removed; and the platform was piled high with the products of the soil. On the left as one faced the platform stood sheaves of ripened grain, which were to furnish the subject for one of the speeches. At the other end of the platform were autumn leaves, tastefully arranged in the form of a large basket. The leaves were the subject of the Rev. Charles E. Herring's remarks.

Between the grain and the leaves, with a little open space at each side, stood a mound, fully eight feet in height, composed at its base of all varieties of fruits and vegetables, and rising at the top into a pyramid of flowers, topped with a bunch of goldenrod. The fruits were the subject of the Rev. Dr. Richards's talk.

The Rev. W. A. Alexander, the pastor, presided. After a selection was sung by the choir of thirty voices, W. A. Byrd gave an interesting address on "Grain". The speaker showed how largely the prosperity of the country is based upon the product of its grain fields, and how essential grain is to human life. He then likened the Christian life in its usefulness to the grain, and drew a comparison between the gathering of the wheat by man, and the gathering in at the last great harvest, when the wheat and the chaff should be separated, and the Lord of heaven and earth should gather in His own.

At the close of Mr. Byrd's remarks, the choir sang, "Where are the Reapers?"

The Rev. Dr. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, which is the founder of the chapel, then spoke about "Fruits". While admitting the greater utility of grain, he defended the fruit because God had made it, as he had also made the grain. He had made it for a more delicate purpose, to give pleasure after the mere necessities of the appetite were satisfied. From this he drew the lesson that God wishes men to have enjoyment in life, and not merely to eke out an existence.

Everything of beauty, adapted to minister to our finer natures, God has given us to enjoy. Let us remember, however, the speaker continued, that God made not only beauty, but duty. Fruit, especially the clusters of the vine, had been perverted to a base use, and had been made a sorce of woe. It was fruit with which the serpent tempted Eve. The Hebrew text did not say explicitly that it was an apple; but simply that it was fruit. The speaker thought that it was a cherry with which Eve was tempted, because the cherry trees in his back yard had always been a strong temptation to his neighbors. The lesson that Dr. Richards drew from the fruit was that we should use, but not abuse, the things given us to derive pleasure from.

When Dr. Richards had finished speaking there was singing by the Misses Hattie Langford, Lulu Douglas, Mary Walley, and a quartette composed of the Misses Alice Woods, Ida Dunham, Susan Reasoner and Phyllis Holland.

The Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, then spoke on the subject of leaves. He said that they had left him "nothing but leaves" to talk about. Leaves, he thought should have been first on the programme, as they were the first to appear in Nature's process and were also most essential to the life of the tree. The leaf was small and insignificant but it made the fruit possible, did its particular work well; it also helped purify the atmosphere; and in all these characteristics it should typify the Christian life.

"Plainfield is not paradise,"—continued Mr. Herring—"and it needs the influence of everyday Christian living to purify the atmosphere. The leaves of the tree are for the healing of nations."

At the close of Mr. Herring's remarks he was applauded. The choir sang "Nothing but Leaves" and "Bringing in the Sheaves". At the close of each stanza in the latter hymn, while the refrain was being sung, six small children would march up the aisles and deposit sheaves and baskets of flowers and fruit on the platform. The effect of this was very pretty. At the close of this hymn the audience were invited to remain and partake of refreshments at the tables which the ladies had arranged in the little rooms at the sides of the main room. Cream and cake were freely disposed of, and for over and hour good cheer reigned in the large gathering.

The Committee of Arrangements were Mrs. A. Peters, Mrs. A. E. Walker, Mrs. Rebecca Voorhis, Mrs. L. Henry, Mrs. M. E. Brown and Miss E. Dorsey. Miss Cora Lane presided at the organ.

WOUND UP IN A FREE FIGHT.

DISGRACEFUL DOINGS AT THE NEGRO CAKE WALK.

Young White Gem'men Awarded the Pedestrian Pastry, and Then the Trouble Began by a Gent Slapping His Ladfren's Face.

The cake walk in T. A. B. Hall, conducted by the Etna Cycling Club (Colored), was attended by nearly 400 people. The music was orchestral. The costumes, especially their colors, were striking.

The walk for the gold-headed cane and silver cup was delayed an hour, till 11. At that hour, President Frederick Mitchell ordered the promenaders to get ready. Twenty pairs competed. As they made the circuit of the room, the favorites were loudly cheered. Leander Brown and lady attracted special attention. David Martin and lady wheeled corners like soldiers on dress parade. Joseph Mitchell and lady walked artistically.

The judges, Messrs. Cox, Nate Titsworth, Irving West, Richard Williams and Wm Runyon, ruled out pair after pair, and announced Joseph Mitchell and Miss Jeonie Vail the winners.

Dancing followed the walk, and in the height of the festivities someone slapped his partner's face. Eye-witnesses say the slapper was John Venable, and the slappee Etta Washington. Fights thereupon started up in various sections of the hall, and were kept up both inside and outside the building. A blue-eyed white man leaped through a window and fled for his life.

Women as well as men were concerned in the row.

Policeman Schiemer was sent to T. A. B. hall after the performance in Music Hall, but it is claimed he did nothing to quell the disorder.

The president of the club said this morning that he asked another officer that was present to arrest a certain man, and that he replied "Let them fight!"

Chief Grant will look into the matter and find out who was to blame, and whether the officers performed their duty.

Although the club officers claim none of the club members fought, many of them take the disgrace of the affair deeply to heart and will resign from the club and strive to disband Tuesday night.

The officers of the club are:
President—Frederick Mitchell.
Vice-president—George Henry.
Recording Secretary—Wm. Kline.
Financial Secretary—Geo. Randolph.
Treasurer—Wm. Randolph.

BASE-BALL.

Last Game of the Season Tomorrow, and That a Players' Benefit.

Everybody should go to the ball game tomorrow and give the players a grand benefit.

Terry, formerly pitcher of the Brooklyn League team, will twirl the sphere for the Montclairs tomorrow.

Jack Burdock, who plays second base for the Montclairs, formerly played that position for the Boston League team. For many years he was justly styled the "King of second basemen".

Heckman will be unable to play tomorrow, and Ren Townley will play an outfield position.

McLoughlin will probably pitch part of tomorrow's game. Mack has a wonderful arm, and with experience will make one of the best of pitchers.

The batting order of the teams will be:

PEACHES BY THE LAKE.

Delightful Evening's Enjoyment Provided by Trinity Young People.

The peach festival given for the benefit of the Sunday-school fund of Trinity Reformed church last night passed off happily, and was a social and financial success. The front of the Lake House was decorated with Chinese lanterns. The pavilion was crowded with members and friends of the church. Luscious peaches and other fruits, Tier's celebrated candies and cream, and home-made cake, were served in abundance.

The young people are grateful to Mr. Tier and his family for their assistance and for the free use which they gave of the Lake House and pavilion.

Miss Mabel Wilson acted as general superintendent, being here, there and everywhere, and making everyone feel at ease. Miss Lizzie Dunn received the cash, and the Misses Grace and Minnie Berg, Nellie Crawford, Lizzie Bogert, Olive Wikoff and Cora Gardner were waitresses.

At the fruit and candy table were Miss Carrie Mehl and Miss Mamie Berg, and the cake table was presided over by Miss Ella Gardner and Miss Helen Bogert.

An East Front street woman as a gypsy created much merriment and sold numberless bags of popcorn. Frank and George Reynolds assisted materially.

Rockfellow Moves, After Many Years.

George W. Rockfellow, grocer, will leave his present business quarters and occupy a portion of the new Clifton building corner of Park avenue and Fourth street. The new quarters will be occupied probably before the holidays.

There are two ladies who reside in the borough, who, if they keep on practising, will some day be pedestriennes. While out for a strole a few days ago one of the ladies suggested that they make a call on Mrs. Cornelius Taylor, who resides in Dunellen a few blocks from Taylor's Hotel; and her companion acquiesced. The ladies leisurely walked down West Front street, discussing the styles and such other innocent feminine gossip as women will do when together, when one of the ladies, while climbing Bocap's hill, exclaimed: "There! I left a pie baking in the oven in the Kitchen when I left home, and forgot to take it out". Her companion laughed, and they trudged along down past Evona and the many fenceless places that aboard between that village and Dunellen, and at last reached their destination. Mrs. Taylor was glad to see them, and entertained them nicely. The ladies told of their walk, and after a few pleasant hours of rest and recreation returned to their homes by train.

THINKS THE LORD SENT HER.

President Peck of the W. C. T. U. Has a Reception and Talks to Reporters.

An informal reception was given to the new president, Miss Cara L. Peck, by the members of the W. C. T. U., yesterday afternoon, from 3 to 5. About fifty women attended. The retiring president, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, occupied the chair, and Miss Peck was seated beside her.

After the opening exercises, of singing, prayer and Scripture reading, Mrs. Tomlinson made a short address, thanking the members for past support in the work, and urging all to stand by the woman of ability who was to take her place.

She closed her remarks by turning over to Miss Peck the gavel made of olive wood grown in the Holy Land, and given by Miss C. R. Yates. "Blest be the Tie that Binds" was sung, and Miss Peck responded to the tender words of Mrs. Tomlinson. She said:

"If the gentlemen present are reporters, I would like to say that I hope they will get things straight. I never prepare any written speech, and if the report is not accurate there is nothing to fall back upon. I believe the Lord had something to do with my election. I feel very much obliged for the honor, though I think you have chosen a poor instrument. You have opened a door for greater usefulness for me, and I shall expect more practical experience from you than I shall be able to give.

"It is a sacred duty to attend the union meetings. I hope all will feel this duty to be sacred, and be careful to attend.

"Heretofore, I have worked almost exclusively among the children; there is always a large class of people in a city you cannot reach except through the children.

"God grant that thousands of dollars may be poured into our treasury. It will come if we have faith, for there is plenty of money, and the heart must be reached to secure it.

"I believe these are hard times in earnest, and the poor will suffer, and this class must be reached by putting bread and butter in their stomachs.

"Just two weeks from the day I came to your city, your Nominating Committee came to me and asked that I accept this position. I believe the Lord meant it to be so, and I will do the very best I can."

Miss C. R. Yates followed with the "consecration prayer", and all joined in the Lord's prayer.

Mrs. Tomlinson then asked Mrs. Cowie, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, to play a Scotch medley, which was much enjoyed for its excellent rendition.

Refreshments were served, and all were invited to greet the new president.

The Reception and Refreshment Committee consisted of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, chairman, Miss Anna Boice, Mrs. Carmon Parse, Mrs. Clinton Randolph, Mrs. M. I. Cooley, Miss Minnaeol Tomlinson and Miss Amy Green of the Y's.

CORRIGAN PLEADS GUILTY.

The Man Who Played a Mean Deception on Plainfield Had a Hungry Wife and Child, and Was Desperate.

James Corrigan, of 21 Plainfield avenue, who was arrested yesterday charged with collecting money on the false pretense that he wanted it "to bury a dead child whose parents were too poor to raise the necessary money", and who was identified by a Press reporter and others, admitted the charge yesterday afternoon before Justice Nash, and was committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

It is thought, however, that he will go at once into the Court of Special Sessions and receive sentence. Chief of Police Grant will take the prisoner to the Elizabeth Jail today.

Corrigan was very penitent yesterday, and gave as an excuse for his offense that he and his wife and child were hungry and there was no work to be had. He had heard of the deception being worked before, in New York, and, in desperation, tried it.

Thirty Long Days.

Police Sergeant Kiely last night arrested Charles Hazelton for being drunk and disorderly. In court this morning Judge Coddington sentenced the prisoner to thirty days in jail.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

HOLY CROSS UNHAPPY STILL.

FRIENDS OF CHOIRMASTER MINER SEEKING REDRESS FROM THE VESTRY.

But They Denied a Hearing—Tenor Clark Is Out, and Chorister Chutt Still Seeks His Good Attendance Medal—Strife Since Eastertide.

[From Today's New York Herald.]

It may have been that Rector Murphy's little boy did n't get along well with the choirmaster and that the latter got a new boy while the rector was in Europe, or it may have been that Warbler Chutt, one of the altos, talked somewhat freely about a good attendance medal that he was to receive and did n't. Probably these were but incidental troubles. It is difficult at this date to fix upon the specific cause which led to discord in the Church of the Holy Cross, at Plainfield, N. J., just as the maples on the hill north of the church were budding at Eastertide, for new history has buried the old. The maples are reddening now, but the "choirmaster trouble" flourishes like a green bay tree with nothing else to do.

The story of Choirmaster William H. Miner's struggles with the rector and vestry of Holy Cross and the decisive action of the church in accepting Mr. Miner's resignation and engaging Mr. Chesswright to fill his place was told in the HERALD two weeks ago.

The end of Mr. Miner's official existence was not the end of the trouble. It bids fair to live until the maples are leafless.

The new precentor reorganized the choir, reinstated some of the boys which his predecessor had dismissed, and restored confidence among the singers. Holy Cross, having once more the full choral service of which it has long been justly proud, began to forget Mr. Miner in Mr. Chesswright. But Mr. Miner had friends in the parish and a few days ago the rector and vestrymen were disturbed once more by the receipt of a petition asking that the ex-choirmaster and a committee of the petitioners be granted a hearing for the discussion of his case, or, as they are careful to say in North Plainfield, "the acceptance of Mr. Miner's resignation".

WABBLING WITHOUT PRICE.

The church wardens and vestrymen were busy with this petition when Tenor Clark, who had been absent from the choir after Mr. Chesswright's first Sunday in charge, wrote to the precentor asking if Holy Cross intended to pay him for his services if he continued to sing in the choir. He intimated, too, that he had an offer elsewhere.

Now, the choir at Holy Cross is made up of volunteers. When any boy in the parish feels the spirit of song welling up in his system he goes to the practice room and allows it to well for a time in the presence of the precentor. If it is the real article he becomes a chorister. The plan has succeeded admirably, for the boys receive musical instruction in return and work enthusiastically.

Mr. Chesswright wrote in reply to Tenor Clark saying that as he had no fund for the engaging of singers at his command he was unable to avail himself of anything but free tenor. Mr. Clark, therefore, retired.

The vestrymen soon decided that it would be unwise to grant a hearing at which there should be any general discussion of Mr. Miner's case. They forwarded to him and to each of the petitioners copies of their resolution, which denied a hearing to a committee of the parishioners, but offered one to Mr. Miner if he desired to come alone.

The petition had been signed by about one-quarter of the members of the church, and there was no little indignation among them when the action of the vestry was made known. They claim that the governing body has exceeded its rights in denying a hearing to so considerable a number of the supporters of the parish, and although nothing has been done since the vestry meeting a few days ago the matter is not to be allowed to rest.

SAY MR. MINER DID NOT RESIGN.

Mr. Miner's friends say he never resigned. They also say he was not dismissed, and that he is a competent musician and has been treated most unfairly. The other side of it is that the rector and vestry had long been awaiting an opportunity to secure a new man, and that when the organist wrote to them threatening to resign unless given a written contract they jumped at the chance, and informed him that his resignation was accepted.

Mr. Miner when I saw him yesterday was unable to say what the petitioners would do next.

"It is a disgraceful affair," he said, adding, "Not that I feel that I have done anything disgraceful."

George P. Dupee, who is a New York merchant and an ex-warden of Holy Cross, is one of the men who signed the petition for a hearing before the rector and vestry. When I asked him what course the petitioners would pursue he said they were not yet ready to show their hand. Mr. Dupee thinks Choirmaster Miner has been misrepresented, but he declined to discuss details.

No one in Plainfield knows where the matter will end. No one knows why it did n't end long ago—say at Eastertide, when it began. And here the maples are reddening, and Holy Cross, even with its full choral service, is not happy, for Tenor Clark is gone, Warbler Schutt's good attendance medal is as far away as ever, and there is no peace.

GORTON'S GREAT SHOW.

His Original New Orleans Minstrels to Delight Plainfield People Monday Night.

"Gorton's Original New Orleans Minstrels"—what memories are awakened at the mention of that well-known name? The father of minstrels—the original—the creator. For the past score of years or more nearly every minstrel name of note has sprung from his company—they obtained their first chance and schooling in his early companies. Every corner of America, big or little, has been visited at some time or other during his forty years of almost constant travel. Thousands of music dealers and band-leaders, from Gilmore and Cappa down to the cross-roads "country" brass band, have long played and can testify to the popularity of Gorton's compositions. Consciously or unconsciously all have enjoyed the familiar strains of his famous "New Orleans Quickstep" and the "Cavalier"; also many others of his equally quaint and pretty but less familiar compositions. From an instrumental musical point of view Gorton's performance is and always has been the minstrel show of them all, both on the street with his famed Gold Band and also in the theatre with the Gold Cornet Organ. Perfect instrumental music, under the direction of the composer, is one of the features with Gorton's company. His music somehow or other instantly calls to mind the vision of a crowded theatre, flaring lights, palm trees, pickaninnies, soft-shoe dancing, pastimes on the levee, the stuttering uproariously funny endman and all the good old features of genuine old-time minstrelsy, refined, musical and merry.

Herring, business will be considered at an appropriate time, and the benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Cornelius Schenck. Gospel Hymns No. 6 will be used.

MANY REPORTED KILLED.

Rumors of a Terrible Accident on the Wabash Railroad.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—It is reported that the second section of the west-bound vestibuled express on the Detroit division of the Wabash road, due in this city at 7:15 a. m., met with an accident near Kingsbury, Ind., this morning.

Twelve dead bodies have so far been taken from the wrecked train, and it is believed that there are still eighteen or twenty bodies to be removed.

VALKYRIE IN PORT.

Delayed by Gales and Calms, But Practically Unharmed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Valkyrie arrived as Quarantine at 7:20 this morning. Her delay was due to a series of gales, calms, and heavy seas. Many seas were shipped and considerable damage was done, but none of it serious enough to cause any delay in the race.

One on the King.

The Atlantic cable a few months ago—April 15, 1893, to be more exact—brought to America the news that the 17-year-old son of the deposed Milan, once king of Servia, had, with the help of the army, seized and held the throne which that royal profligate, his father, so long disgraced.

This reminds me of a story recently heard in Paris which recent events must have revived there.

Ex-King Milan succeeded in making himself talked about in Paris, as he does wherever he goes. The stories of his passion for women, wine and gambling are as numerous as they are disgraceful.

Last year the ex-king was a guest at the house of a wealthy banker. One evening, to please Milan, a game of bacarat was started, and an American lady was an interested observer of the play.

Milan's luck, as was usual with him, was very bad. He is an exceedingly superstitious man and an ill bred one, as this story shows. Glancing around after he had lost heavily on one hand, he saw the fair American and at once associated her presence with his ill fortune.

In a voice brutal and passion laden he said to the lady:

"Would you have the kindness to change your place, madam?"

"Why should I?" she asked.

"Because you are making me lose."

"How do you know?"

"It is so because I say so," he growled, then turned to his cards.

The lady smiled in a well bred way, but persisted in retaining her place, to Milan's great annoyance.

The game went on, but with the same luck. The ex-king steadily lost, and he became so excited that the cards trembled in his hands.

At length, blinded by anger, Milan sprang to his feet, and facing the still imperturbable lady he fairly shrieked:

"Did you hear what I said before?"

"I did," she said very calmly.

"It is you who are making me lose!"

"So you said."

"You can see that I am losing because you are behind me, yet you will not change!"

"You lost still heavier, monsieur," she replied, with a cutting little laugh, "when I was not behind you."

"What do you mean?" he demanded.

"I mean," she said, with another little laugh that attracted the attention of all present, "that I was not behind monsieur when he lost his throne."

This reply floored the ex-king, who, without another word, hastened from the room.

The Fault of the Age.

The fault of the age is a mad endeavor
To leap to heights that were made to climb,
By a burst of strength, of a thought most clever
We plan to forestall and outwit Time.

We scorn to wait for the thing worth having.
We want high noon at the day's dim dawn.
We find no pleasure in toiling and saving,
As our forefathers did in the old times gone.

We crave the gain, but despise the getting;
We want wealth—not as reward, but dower—
And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting
Would fell a forest or build a tower.

To covet the prize, yet to shrink from the winning;
To thirst for glory, yet fear to fight—
Why, what can it lead to at last but sinning,
To mental languor and moral blight?

Better the old slow way of striving,
And counting small gains when the year is done,
Than to use our force and our strength contriving,
And to grasp for pleasure we have not won.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Molasses Catches Flies.

My Uncle Ephraim was a man who did not live in vain,
And yet why he succeeded so I never could explain;
By nature he was not endowed with wit to a degree,
But folks allowed there nowhere lived a better man than he;
He started poor, but soon got rich; he went to congress then,
And held that post of honor long against much brainier men.
He never made a famous speech nor did a thing of note,
And yet the praise of Uncle Eph welled up from every throat.

Now father was a smarter man, and yet he never won
Such wealth and fame as Uncle Eph, "the deestrik's favorite son,"
He had "convictions," and he was not loath to speak his mind—
He went his way and said his say as he might be inclined.
Yes, he was brainy; yet his life was hardly a success—
He was too honest and too smart for this vain world, I guess.
At any rate I wondered he was unsuccessful when
My Uncle Eph, a duller man, was so revered of men.

When Uncle Eph was dying, he called me to his bed,
And in a tone of confidence inviolate he said:
"Dear Willyum, ere I seek repose in yonder blissful sphere,
I fain would breathe a secret in your adolescentlear:
Strive not to hew your way through life—it really doesn't pay.
Be sure the salve of flattery soaps all you do and say.
Herein the only royal road to fame and fortune lies,
Put not your trust in vinegar—molasses catches flies."

—Eugene Field.

Despair.

Oh, I am sick at heart. The eye of day,
The insistent summer sun, seems pitiless,
Shining in all the barren crevices
Of weary life, leaving no shade, no dark,
Where I may dream that hidden waters lie,
As pitiless as to some shipwrecked man,
Who, gazing from his narrow shoal of sand
On the wide, unpecked round of blue and blue,
Sees that full light is errorless despair.
The insects' hum that slurs the silent dark
Startles and seems to cheat me, as the tread
Of coming footsteps cheats the midnight watcher
Who holds her heart and waits to hear them pause,
And hears them never pause, but pass and die.
Music sweeps by me as a messenger
Carrying a message that is not for me.
The very sameness of the hills and sky
Is obduracy, and the lingering hours
Wait round me dumbly, like superfluous slaves,
Of whom I want naught but the secret news
They are forbid to tell.

—George Eliot.

A Sunset.

A single sunset hath more loveliness
Than all the boasted paintings kings possess.
Take the rare moment ere the large sun sinks
Behind far hills and their mysterious brinks,
Then Nature revels in most glorious mood
And shows her powers as if to [illegible] our brood.

—Clarv[illegible]skirk.

Success.

Those who succeed will always have their crown,
While thousands just as noble, and who strive
As eagerly to win the self same boon,
Find at the end an ignominious grave.
They sink 'mid sneers and slander into death,
Or die forgotten in oblivion's night.

—Walter Malone.

VENGEANCE AT ROANOKE.

The Negro Robber Lynched and Mayor and Militiamen Flee from Town.

ROANOKE, Va., Sep. 22.—After the terrible encounter with the militia Wednesday evening the mob held possession of the streets all night. About 4 o'clock in the morning two policemen, who were on the Roanoke river, south of this city, in charge of the negro, were captured.

Without delay Smith was hung up to a tree and his body riddled with bullets.

Mayor Trout, despite his wound, was compelled to flee the town, as was Captain Bird and every member of the Roanoke Light Infantry who participated in the slaughter of citizens.

After the mob had tired of firing bullets into the body of the dead negro they cut it down and took it to the river bank where they set about at once to burn it.

The body was placed upon a heap of brush and wood was piled on it leaving only the head bare. The whole was then saturated with coal oil and a match applied. The body was consumed within one hour.

The cremation was witnessed by several thousand people.

The mob threatened at one time to bury the negro in Mayor Trout's yard. Threats of vengeance have been openly made against the Mayor and the militia for attempting to maintain the law. Captain Bird, commander of the militia, has left the town and Mayor Trout has also disappeared. President Buckner of the City Council is acting Mayor.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sep. 22.—Mayor Trout of Roanoke, arrived here last night. He is suffering with a painful wound in the foot and declined to be interviewed.

ROBBERS REPULSED.

Daring But Unsuccessful Hold Up of a Train in Illinois.

CENTRALIA, Ill., Sep. 22.—The New Orleans limited train on the Illinois Central road was held up shortly before midnight just outside this city, and in the battle which followed between the three robbers and train hands, one of the robbers was mortally wounded and three of the crew were badly hurt. The thieves got nothing in the way of booty, and all the grown inhabitants of this place are on the hunt for the two daring thieves who got away.

Those who were hurt in the shooting incident to the attack were Engineer Young, Conductor Odum, Fireman McDowell, and one of the robbers having a switchman's union card with the name of D. L. Jones of Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sep. 22.—Officers of the Switchmen's union in both the Kansas Cities and Argensine say that D. L. Jones the Centralia express robber who had on his person a card from the local union is not known there and they have no recollection of any such man. The only explanation they can give of the union card found in the possession of the wounded robber is that he stole it and after filling in his name used it to travel on.

Silver Men Still Have Their Way in the Senate.

THE END NOT YET IN SIGHT

Colorado Senators Boldly Proclaim Their Policy of Obstruction—Attacking the Fairchild Commission—Proposed New Public Building for Elmira.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—The cloture resolution which was introduced in the the senate by Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) was taken up yesterday soon after the senate met and discussed until nearly 2 o'clock, when it went over until to-day in order to give Mr. Turpie (dem., Ind.) an opportunity to speak upon it. The only two speeches upon the resolution yesterday were made by the Colorado senators, Messrs. Wolcott and Teller. Mr. Wolcott said that he would vote against it, but that he would make no prolonged opposition to it, and that he thought it could be very soon brought to a vote. As to the repeal bill itself, if his associates should deem it best to contest that measure inch by inch, he would cheerfully and cordially join with them, and any attempt to impose cruel and unusual conditions would be resisted by every obstruction which the rules permitted. Mr. Teller was not so liberally inclined towards the cloture rule as his colleague, but asserted on the contrary he would resist by every method, obstructive and otherwise, the adoption of a rule that would limit debate.

The repeal bill was taken up at 2 o'clock and speeches against it were made by Mr. George, (dem., Miss.) Mr. Hansbrough (rep., N. D.) and Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) An agreement was proposed by Mr. Voorhees, and assented to unanimously, that from Monday and until further orders, the daily session shall be from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Senator Chandler (rep., N. H.) introduced a resolution in the senate that may lead to considerable debate. It calls upon the secretary of the treasury to inform the senate by what authority the so-called Fairchild commission is now engaged in examining the appraiser's office in New York, how far the work has progressed, what is its scope, and the intention of the department, how much money has been paid out and what is agreed to be paid. The resolution also calls for the correspondence and all other matters bearing upon the investigation. Mr. Chandler, after it had been read, asked to have it go over until some day next week, when both New York senators were present, at which time he said he would call it up.

The session of the house yesterday was without incident. The report of the committee on accounts assigning clerks to committees was adopted. A resolution calling for information relative to the enforcement of the Geary exclusion law was agreed to, and the house without a quorum adjourned.

Mr. Gillett of New York introduced in the house a bill appropriating $150,000 for the erection of a public building at Elmira, N. Y.

FORTY MILLION CANDLE POWER.

Remarkable Development in the Matter of Search Lights.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—A remarkable instance of scientific development in the matter of reaching lights has been brought to the attention of the United States lighthouse board at the treasury department by the reception from France of a pamphlet describing a new light to be erected on a lighthouse off the coast of Brittany. The lighthouse will be built on Penmarch Point and will be known as the Eckmukl lighthouse. It will contain an electric light of 40,000,000 candle power, casting a beam which can be seen a distance in clear weather of 63 miles and in foggy weather a distance of 21 miles. The highest order of light now in operation in the United States lighthouse service can only be seen 21 miles in clear weather. The light on the Eckmukl lighthouse is of the "lightning flash" order. At the usual height of ordinary lighthouse towers its light cannot actually be cast more than 25 miles before it strikes the horizon, but beyond that point it is reflected in the sky for 38 miles. This light is by far the most powerful searching and penetrating known to science, and has been erected at a cost of about $60,000.

Gladstone's Thanks.

LONDON, Sep. 23.—Mr. Gladstone has sent a circular letter to his supporters in the house of commons thanking them warmly in the name of the cabinet for their attendance and aid during "Nearly eight months of unexampled labor." He adds: "We are aware of the self-sacrifice entailed by such devotion to the public service and in expressing my gratitude I can not but add my belief that efforts so unsparing for purposes of such high importance will meet the warm appreciation of the country."

Damage Suits.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 23.—Two suits for damages, aggregating $20,000, have been brought against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in behalf of Miss Rose E. Bailey for $15,000 and the heirs of the late James G. Bailey for $5,000. James G. Bailey was killed while crossing the Consolidated track at East Wallingford, March 8 last, and his daughter, Miss Rose, was severely injured.

Annie Hill, same address, slightly hurt.

Henry J. Volking, fireman on freight train, burned and scalded about the head and breast; may die.

Fireman Barber, of Ashley, on passenger train; leg broken and severely bruised; recovery doubtful.

An instant of forgetfulness, or absent mindedness on the part of a brakeman who is given the best of reputation by the Wabash officers tells the story of the seconds that preceded the catastrophe. A freight train had orders to take a siding here and let a westbound passenger train pass. The passenger train was in two sections and the first section went by on the main track all right. It is said that the brakeman supposing that the freight train would now move, ran back to open the switch. Before the cars had begun to move the second section of the fast express came west at the rate of 55 miles an hour, and before the brakeman could turn the switch dashed into the side track and collided with the freight train. The proper signals showing that a second section of the express was coming were displayed, and the responsibility for the accident rests wholly with the brakeman who turned the switch before its arrival.

Relief trains were immediately sent to the scene of the wreck. All neighboring towns were called on for physicians. The wounded are being cared for at neighboring farm houses.

Two score men are scouring the surrounding country for Herbert Thompson, the brakeman, to whose neglect the responsibility for the catastrophe is placed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 23.—Capt. Case, of the Yale baseball nine, has arranged a series of games with leading Connecticut nines, to be played after the opening of college next week. PROBABLE SUCCESS OF THE REVOLT

Insurgent Victories Reported—The Government Fighting Desperately for Existence—Scandalous Stories of Nepotism and Extravagance Under the Republic.

LONDON, Sep. 23.—The British steamer Clyde has arrived at Southampton from Rio Janeiro and other South American ports. She is the first mail steamer that has reached England since the Brazilian troubles broke out. She brought 121 passengers, of which number 40 were from Rio Janeiro. A Brazilian on board stated in an interview with the representative of the United Press that there had been for a long time bad feeling in the army and navy. This was especially the case in Rio Janeiro. The greater number of the officers are uneducated, one of them holding a prominent position being unable to write. The friction in Rio Janeiro engendered many faction fights. There is no strong feeling on either side in the northern states. All they wanted was to be left alone. The general feeling when the Clyde left Rio Janeiro was that the navy would be victorious.

NEW YORK, Sep. 23.—A special telegram to the Evening Post says: The News Tagblatt has an interview with a prominent Brazilian diplomat who has just arrived there, and who declares that the revolution is due to Peixoto's squandering the nation's money and his systematic nepotism. He has wasted untold millions of the public funds. One lady friend of his alone accumulated ten millions of francs during his term of office. The failure of the cotton crop caused discontent and brought matters to a climax. Admiral Mello, who is a sincere patriot, was an old friend of Dom Pedro, and aims at the restoration of the monarchy, with Prince Pedro, a son of the Count D'Eu and grandson of the deposed emperor, on the throne.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—Coffee merchants in Baltimore, the great coffee centre of the United States, are very uneasy over the unsettled state of affairs in Brazil and several of them have sent to the state department a request that protection be given their interests in that country by this government and asking whether adequate measures had been taken to insure the safety of some of their ships now on their way to Rio. While the navy department has not been informed of the arrival of the cruiser Charleston at Rio, it is believed that the vessel has arrived there already or will arrive to-day and her presence at the perturbed capital will insure the safety, to some extent, of American interests.

WHOLESALE ELOPING.

A Halifax Doctor Runs Off With Two Women Within Three Weeks.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sep. 23.—Three weeks ago Dr. George Allan Black, dentist, of Maitland, sold off his office effects and suddenly left town. At the same time Mrs. Currie, wife of a well-to-do business man, left for a few days' visit to relatives in Truro and her husband's sister in Halifax. She took her eldest child and a goodly sum of money with her. She left the child in Truro and then eloped with Dr. Black.

Yesterday Mr. Currie received a letter from his erring wife, dated Boston, saying she was very sick and penniless, confessing her sin and imploring forgiveness. Dr. Black had abandoned her among strangers and gone off on a sound steamer with another woman.

The doctor narrowly escaped a coat of tar and feathers in another Nova Scotia village recently.

Pugilists Ran a Foot Race.

INTERLAKEN, N. J., Sep. 23.—Jack Dempsey, Jim Corbett, Billy Delaney, Jack Oliver, Seward Smith and Solly Smith, the pugilist who will meet Dixon at Coney Island next Monday night, were participants in an eight mile foot race here yesterday. The race took place on the Asbury Park athletic grounds and was witnessed by the greater part of the population. Delaney, after running two laps quit, the others held it out. Corbett and Solly Smith, who holds the ten and a half mile record in San Francisco, finished close together, the latter winning by forty yards, about a mile ahead of the third man, Dempsey. Time was not taken.

PLACE FOR DR. BRIGGS

A Handsome New Church for Him in New Jersey.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIANISM

Rumor That the Famous Professor and All His Followers Are to be Welcomed Into the Cumberland Fold—Sentiment at Union Seminary.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sep. 23.—The Princeton presbytery of the Cumberland church recently purchased the church office of the Remsen avenue Baptist church in New Brunswick. The ostensible object of the move was the founding of a church of the Cumberland faith in New Brunswick. Reliable information now shows that the main purpose of the move was to place the Rev. Dr. Briggs, who has been reduced from preaching in the regular Presbyterian pulpits, in charge. It has been understood for some time that some of the leading lights in the Cumberland Presbyterian church are leaning towards Briggsism and it is evident from certain articles in their denominational paper that overtures have been made by the denomination to Prof. Briggs to come with all his followers into the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Some of the young ministers of the Cumberland church who belong to the recently organized Princeton presbytery of the Cumberland church are students in the Union seminary of New York, in which institution Prof. Briggs has long taught. They are in favor of receiving Dr. Briggs and it is thought that when the Remsen avenue church is made over to the denomination this winter, that the pulpit will be supplied regularly by the Rev. Dr. Briggs.

Rev. Dr. Miller of the Princeton presbytery now has control of the Remsen avenue church property and the present tenants are leasing the building until the new edifice is completed on Livingston avenue. The lease extends until the first of November. Dr. Miller expects to open services in November or December.

BECOMING A MANIA.

Another Attempt to Wreck a Railway Train in Missouri.

FAYETTE, Mo., Sep. 23.—Another diabolical attempt to wreck the 8:30 p. m., passenger train on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad was made at what is known as the Swearing Culvert just north of this town. A piece of iron rail which had probably been used by farmers for breaking corn stalks had been placed between two ties. The train struck the obstruction with considerable force breaking the iron rail short off. Had the train been derailed a fearful loss of life would likely have occurred as the coaches were all filled and the banks are very steep and rough at that place. This is the second attempt that has been made within the past ten days to wreck this same passenger train.

THE PENSION QUESTION.

Secretary Smith Explains That He is Only After Unworthy Cases.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—In an interview published in the Post Secretary Smith defines at length his position on the question of pensions. Mr. Smith says that it is wrong to suppose that he is an enemy to pensions. He actually and conscientiously believes that there have crept upon the pension rolls, by various rules of pension commissioners and the work of examiners and other officers of the pension bureau, an enormous number of persons who are not entitled to pensions. "These are the ones I am after," said the secretary, "and they are the ones we intend to weed out of the pension list if they reduce the total number of pensioners one-half."

Immigrant Inspection.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—Supt. Stomp is preparing to man with immigrant inspectors the ports of entry at which, under the agreement, immigrants from Canada will come into the United States. At Halifax and Quebec two or three inspectors will be placed, and at the other ports one inspector. Men of experience will be detailed for the work, and most likely inspectors now assigned to duty at Ellis Island, New York harbor, will be sent at once to the Canadian ports of entry.

No News of Weeks.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—The state department expected to hear news yesterday of the arrest of Francis H. Weeks, the defaulter, in San Jose, Costa Rica, but the desired information did not come. Minister Baker, who resides at Managua, Nicaragua, had informed the department that he would go to San Jose in connection with the Weeks case. It is understood that Mr. Baker was directed to request the arrest and extradition of Weeks from the Costa Rica authorities.

Lighthouse Improvements.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—The lighthouse board, treasury department, has completed plans and specifications for the building of wharves and basins at the lighthouse depot, Staten Island, N. Y., to cost $45,000, and a lighthouse at Oyster Bed shoals, Hudson river, opposite Rockland Lake, N. Y., to cost $35,000. These important works will be begun as soon as the weather opens in the spring.

INVALIDS!

Relieved of Their Wretchedness.

By Paine's Celery Compound.

IT OUT RANKS ALL OTHER REMEDIES.

An Ideal Food for the Tired and Worn Out.

Grateful to the Most Delicate Stomach.

Early Fall a Season to Get Strength.

Flabby Flesh and Weak Nerves Need Food.

The Sallow, Lean and Weak Should Secure

Vigorous Body and Joyous Spirits Before Winter.

Sunshine and bright weather are the heritage from August to September; but this is a month of dangerous weakness to hundreds of people.

The first tendencies toward consumption, Bright's disease and rheumatism are developed in these early fall days.

Nature is off her guard.

Rheumatism and neuralgia are notoriously diseases that begin in September and October.

The little signs of nervousness, of kidney trouble and heart weakness should not be overlooked. Small ailments now become deep-seated diseases in winter. Winter is for every one more or less of a battle for health and existence.

The stock of health laid up against winter emergencies must be secured now.

Headaches and loss of appetite are as easy to read as sign posts. Their invariable direction is that one is approaching nearer and nearer to breakdown and serious illness.

Following the modern medical knowledge that disease is due to poor nutrition of some organ, Paine's celery compound was first prescribed by Dartmouth great professor, Dr. Phelps.

Results that have repeatedly astonished many for whom skilful physicians could do no more, confirm the wisdom of trusting all to nutrition—the complete and speedy nourishment of tissues, nerves and nerve centres. Paine's celery compound supplies the material which the nervous system craves.

Pure blood and healthy nerve action is health.

Paine's celery compound is food for the nerves and nourishment for the blood.

Health, strength and happiness have never had such an ally before as is offered by this great compound. It makes people well.

Chance for the Pennsylvania.

NEW YORK, Sep. 23.—Commissioner J. F. Goddard has decided that the Pennsylvania railroad should be allowed to make a rate of $18 for the round trip for its special excursions to the World's fair, Sep. 28, and Oct. 2 and 6. This rate is the same as by the Erie and $2 less than by the New York Central. The reduction is made to enable the Pennsylvania to utilize coaches which were used in the seashore business but which are now idle.

Ugly Dog Fish.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sep. 23.—Cape Breton fishermen, as well as those in Nova Scotia, find the prosecution of fisheries difficult this fall, owing to the immense schools of dog fish on the coast. These fish frighten from the shore other fish, destroy nets and trawls and paralyze the fishing generally.

The Jury Well Again.

BOSTON, Sep. 23.—Juryman Flarity and the others connected with the Trefethen murder trial, who were taken sick, were all well yesterday and the trial was resumed.

PULPIT AND PRESS.

The Preacher was resting in the Editor's sanctum during a breathing-spell from a round of pastoral calls. The Preacher sighed a little over the ingratitude of some of his parishioners, and said: "It takes the young folks to see these weak points in human nature. I've tried to talk my boy into entering the ministry, but he won't listen to it. It's just as you said the other night in your paper: there's no encouragement for a young man to take up preaching, if he's going to be turned down when the gray hairs appear."

"Well,"—said the Editor, half in joke, half in earnest—"don't let him go into the newspaper business, above all others, if he's afraid to face the frailties of mankind: for one sees into the hearts of men more keenly and more deeply through journalistic eyes than through any other glasses; and the newspaper man has to do many thankless deeds."

"Every man"—said the Preacher—"thinks his own profession has most drawbacks. But it is a fact that there is no other profession in which one can so soon attain his zenith and so early be retired than the ministry. Plainfield's own cases proving this are too painful to dwell upon. The grayhaired preacher is cast aside like a squeezed-out lemon; whereas the grayhaired newspaper man is supposed to know something, and is respected and honored."

"While the cry of many churches"—suggested the Editor—"is for young men, other people, as for instance a correspondent in a recent issue, clamor for less sensationalism and more divine teaching."

"The trouble with some of those people—responded the Preacher—"is that they can't see the difference between sensationalism and modern thought. Some of these days we old-fogy preachers who are drifting into backnumberhood are going to be scored on that very point. I have a friend, an earnest, progressive, up-to-date young clergyman, who has warned me, in friendly candor, that he's getting tired of hearing the grumblers prate on 'Sensationalism in the pulpit', and he threatens to give the ecclesiastical drybones a rattling with a sermon on the topic 'Sensationalism vs. Stagnation'. He holds that modern taste and modern ideas demand that everyday topics be handled from the pulpit in a broad, fearless, practical way; and that the era has passed when people desire doctrinal discourses."

"Don't you"—queried the Editor—"find that Press and Pulpit are linking more and more firmly together, and both progress in their efforts to uphold mankind?"

"I do"—was the earnest reply.—"Printer's ink has become an invaluable factor in the work of the church; I might say, an absolute necessity."

"Some misguided people" remarked the Editor—"wanted to make me a minister.

"And mine"—responded the Preacher—"had me booked for a newspaper man. The time may be coming"—he added thoughtfully—"when the two professions will be interchangeable. Their desires and duties to humanity are largely the same.

Grocer Smith's Ready Wit.

When the Plainfield grocers who were charged by Street Commissioner Meeker with obstructing the sidewalks, were arraigned in court this morning they pleaded that they should be given twelve hours to remove merchandise placed on the sidewalks, which is the time allowed builders to remove their materials. But the complaint was made under the "Peace and Morals" act, which compels immediate removal.

"I am a builder,"—said Grocer J. A. Smith, in court.

"What are you building?"—inquired Street Commissioner Meeker.

"I'm building up a trade,"—replied Smith.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONFERENCE.

THE COUNTY UNION HOLDS ITS AUTUMN GATHERING.

The First Baptist Church Crowded With Enthusiastic Young People—Addresses by Miss Spangenberg, the Rev. L. R. Dyott, and Others—Washingtonville Society Captures the Banner—Where Was William Titus?

The autumn conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union was held last night in the First Baptist church. The Union includes fifty-eight societies in eight denominations, with a membership of 2,650. The large church was filled with Christian Endeavorers; and many were unable to find seats. President W. W. Graves presided gracefully. After the organ prelude, a fifteen-minute praise service of song was led by Samuel McQuoid, of Roselle. The hymns were sung by the large audience with true Christian Endeavor spirit. The singing was led by a choir of thirty-six voices selected from the various societies of the county.

After the sound of praise had ceased, and silence had come over the gathering, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor of the church, arose and offered prayer. The chorus choir then sang the anthem "Trust ye in the Mighty God."

The Rev. Mr. Goodchild, of Roselle, led a responsive Scripture reading from Psalms XXIV. "Come Holy Spirit" was sung heartily, and the District Secretary Miss A. B. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, delivered a telling ten-minute address on "Junior Work." The address was an earnest plea for more thorough work among the juniors. Miss Spangenberg's words made a deep impression on the endeavorers, with whom she is a great favorite; and she was loudly applauded when she finished speaking. "No Shadows Yonder" was sung while the collection was being taken.

The business matters, which next came before the conference, were soon disposed of, as they consisted only of some slight amendmendments to the constitution of the Union. After the business session the hymn "What Shall the Harvest Be?" was sung.

The Rev. L. R. Dyott, of Newark, was introduced by President Graves, and delivered a ringing address on "The Needs of the Hour". The world, the speaker thought, is in a condition to be speedily saved or ruined, because of the present rapid communication of ideas. News from over the ocean is read in newspapers almost as soon as it has taken place. The speeches of Gladstone are so well reported and widely read here that we have come to feel that we are personally acquainted with the Grand Old Man. Everybody reads; clerks and shop girls remain home Sunday and read French novels, fresh from the printing press. It is not lack of education, but miseducation, that is troubling us today. Bad ideas fly rapidly, but the good ideas only creep.

One of the most imminent needs of the hour is for us to believe firmly in the truth. There have arisen of late, from various sources, many false opinions which have become sandwiched with the true. But let us cling to the Bible. Never mind who wrote the Pentateuch, it was the book of our fathers. At the Montreal convention some one gave us the following good advice:

"Early to bed
Early to rise;
Preach the Gospel
And advertise."

Now this was good advice all through; but, if I were allowed to change it I should say "believe in the gospel" in the third line. We Christian Endeavorers need more co-operation between local societies and with our churches. Take a hand in church work. We can't work ourselves into life by working our pastor to death. Christians in the various churches and societies ought to find common ground for work and unite with all their might. If we did that there would be no more political disgrace, bribery and race-tracks in our fair State. Christians, we are dividing our forces too much. As we get closer to Christ we ought to get closer to each other. Christ emphasized the social side of life, and dined with sinners. We need more earnestness. Singing and meeting together are vain if we ask not "How many souls have I won for Christ and whom can I next lead to the master?" This is the Holy Ghost era in the church. The Spirit takes the place of Christ; and the need of the church is the need of the indwelling of the Holy Ghost. Never was the church of Christ so well organized for work as now. Let us simply pray for the Holy Spirit to come. If we do this, soon victory will come."

The anthem, "I will Love Thee, O Lord" was next sung by the chorus choir. Two ten-minute reports from the Montreal Convention were read by Miss L. J. Herron, of Cranford, and Miss S. E. Allen, of Roselle. Miss Herron discussed "Missions" and emphasized the "Whatsoever" in the Christian Endeavor pledge. Does it mean that Christian Endeavorers should be content to do a little? No. They should bring all possible to the foot of the Cross. But how are they fulfilling the obligation?

Miss Allen spoke on "Evangelistic Work", and said in part: "The greatest barrier to evangelistic work is the crime of division among the people of God, the sin and selfishness of sectarianism. Christians in every town are divided into a dozen feeble sects, struggling not so much against sin as against each other. Let the church come together in Christian sympathy and cooperation and more as one man against the hosts of evil, and humanity will be saved.

"The church must stay among the people. We believe Christian Endeavorers are realizing the great truth that hand to hand, effective personal work must be done. With profound thanksgiving to God we recall the fact that during the past year 158 000 of our associate members have been won for Christ."

When Miss Allen had ceased speaking the committee to award the banner reported. The society having the largest percentage of its membership present at the conference was given the handsome badge banner. It was awarded to Washingtonville Society which had ninety-five per cent. of its membership present. Great applause greeted the announcement.

William Titus was the only man missing from the Warrenville society, at the conference. He was sought far and wide by the members so that the society could report one hundred per cent. present, but William could not be found.

Miss Nettie Beeching, president of the society, was largely instrumental in obtaining so large a representation for the society.

Hope chapel came second in the race with eighty-three per cent. present, and the First Baptist church society third with eighty per cent.

"The Lord keeps watch between us" was sung, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck of the Trinity Reformed church, came on the platform and pronounced the benediction, and the Endeavorers dispersed, exchanging cordial greetings as they went, and taking away pleasant memories of the conference.

At the regular meeting of Miantonomah Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order of Red Men, held in their wigwam last evening, the Chief's Degree was conferred on five hunters, and several palefaces made application for membership. On next Friday's sleep eight palefaces will be instructed in the mysteries of the Red Men, and the original and unique war dance will be executed.

Lawyer Stover's Story.

Lawyer Rowland M. Stover states to The Press that the claim of B. The case, Mr. Stover says, will never be tried, as the plaintiff knows he would be beaten in court.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

Personal remarks by the lawyers made the trial a heated and spicy one. The jurors, Messrs. Garrett Smith, Amos Moffett, Nathan Laing, Loyd Pangborn, B. Foscate and Meyer Leichentritt, gave verdict in favor of A. M. Seguine, Jr.

Mr. Hetfield will now apply to the Court of Common Pleas for an order granting him supplementary proceedings, so that he can disclose all of young Seguine's private affairs.

WALLACE AGAIN LOCKED UP.

He's Suspected of Causing Another Scotch Plains Fire.

A large barn belonging to the estate of the late John Taylor Johnston, near Lowe's Hotel, Scotch Plains, was burned to the ground at 11:50 last night.

John Flynn, who had possession of the barn, had stored in it 100 shocks corn, and other farm products, which were destroyed. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

Lawrence Wallace, who has been suspected of starting fires at different times in the village, and who is under bonds for trial, was found lurking about the barn. He was arrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and was sentenced by Justice Moore to 90 days in jail. Wallace was previously sentenced for 20 days for the same offense. The charges of incendiarism against him are being investigated.

Wallace spent the night in the Plainfield jail, and was taken to Elizabeth today.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

HE CHATS OF THE ALLURING CIGARETTE GIRL.

Talks Just As If He Knew All About Her, and It Would Seem That He Likes Her, Too.

"It is very seldom that I ride in the smoker"—said The Man on the Cars the other evening when I had lured him into the tobacco car and given him a cigar.—"Not that I am averse to smoking—I love it; but one cannot regulate the quality of his neighbor's pipeful, and it is sometimes unendurable. Did you ever notice how the young men mostly run to either cigarettes or pipes—these are cheaper than cigars, I presume, but then the cigarette is a charmer anyhow, and the American product is to my mind everlastingly sweeter and better than the alleged Turkish and Egyptian affairs which some affect. I saw an item in a Sunday paper last week which said that actresses as a class were much addicted to cigarettes, and that most good people would be startled if they could know the number of little paper rolls that go up in smoke at our female colleges—Vassar, Wellesley, Smith, Bryn Mawr and the rest. But, as a matter of fact, one need not go to the actresses or the seminaries for dainty smokers. Why, I have pretty good proof that a majority of the younger fair ones of Plainfield, while not all habitual 'fiends', at least have dallied to some extent with the fascinating smoke, and that when mamma is out and they are alone the fragrant little cigarette is often called upon for company and comfort; and, you know, there is a dash of diablerie about it that must appeal to every right-minded girl. How do they get the things? From their male friends as a rule: by stratagem, theft or begging. The favorite game is to ask a young man to give them a cigarette or two for an imaginary collection which they claim to be making of the gifts of friends. This never fails to work, and often wins a whole package—all but the photograph, of course.

"I know, however, of one or two cases when young women have deliberately requested a friend to buy the cigarettes for them, and trusted to his honor to keep the matter quiet. I suppose any young fellow in town could surprise you by naming a half-dozen cigarette girls if he would; but be it said to the credit of the boys that they are not likely to give it away; they enjoy it too much themselves; and besides, disclosure might go hard with the girls: although when you stop to consider, where's the harm? Cigarettes are perfectly safe, and in the Spanish countries they are a lady's right. Down in New England and through the South about every other old woman has either her pipe or her snuff, and as between these and our girls' preference it is not difficult to choose.

"A young man told me a nice story last week; and, not to abuse a confidence, you will pardon the omission of names. He said that he and another chap of his age were cycling along the Springfield road one fine day of late, when, passing one of those seductive retreats that line the highway and seem but made to loiter in, they dropped from their wheels, and, clambering up the grassy bank, filled their pipes and pushed through a small jungle of berry bushes, seeking a shaded spot whereon to lie and smoke and rest. Imagine their surprise when suddenly they came upon a pair of ladies' bicycles reposing beside a convenient tree; and beyond, reclining gracefully upon the yielding sward, two of the prettiest and demurest girls in all Plainfield, lazily puffing their little cigarettes, watching the misty smoke-rings wreath and twist and drift away, and dreaming of—no one knows what. I asked whom he supposed was the most surprised, and he said it seemed that the girls were. I should n't wonder.

"Well, here we are—five minutes late, too. Good-night—what's that.? My story has rather shocked you? Oh, come now: you're not shocked; you're selfish! What's the use? Let the poor, dear girls have a little fun—we men don't want it all: do we?"

And he had me there.

Deeply Deplore Their Loss.

At the regular meeting of Iona Council, No. 14, Degree of Pochahontas, held Sept. 20, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty God in His all wise providence to remove from us by death our sister, Elizabeth Lockrie. Therefore be it,

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, we deeply deplore our loss and extend to the family of our deceased sister our sympathy in this their hour of affliction and

Resolved, That in our natural sorrow for the loss of a sister we find consolation in the belief that it was well for her for whom we mourn, and

Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the family of our departed sister, by the Keeper of Records, and entered in full on our minutes.

City Ordinance Cleverly Evaded.

Policeman McCue this morning arrested George Green for peddling without a license. In court Green produced a paper signed by one John Goff and authorizing Green to act as his agent.

As Goff holds a license, Judge Coddington could do nothing but discharge the prisoner, although it seemed evident that Green was carring on the business for himself. It is a case which the City Ordinance does not touch; and Green and Goff, it seems, were clever enough to know this.

Twelve Queens County Criminals Sentenced in One Day.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., Sep. 22.—Twelve criminals, comprising some of the most desperate characters ever tried in Queens county, were sentenced by Judge Garretteon in the Queens county court yesterday. The heaviest sentence of the lot fell on Fred Weisman, an animal trainer, who is said to have been the head of a nest of thieves having a rendezvous in Cypress hills. He got 18 years in Sing Sing at hard labor, on two indictments for burglary. He is 31 years old and has a wife and four children. The other members of this gang sentenced were John Kelly, 20 years old, six years in Sing Sing; Henry Miller, 43 years old, another reputed leader of the gang, ten years and six months on two indictments; John Miller, 38 years old, 13 years in Sing Sing on two indictments. The lowest sentence on the three men who were caught in the act of releasing this gang from jail was imposed on Arthur Ericson, 19 years old, who was sent to the Elmira raformatory. Charles Miller, brother to John Miller, and James Donnelly, 31 years old, the two remaining raiders, were sentenced to six years and eight months each in Sing Sing.

George F. Stacey, 21 years old, one of the gang who robbed the homes of wealthy residents of Flushing, got eight years and six months in Sing Sing on two indictments. Samuel B. Southard, 42 years old; Edward Heldorff, 28 years old, and Edwin C. Williams 39 years old, got one year and one month each in the Kings county penitentiary for larceny.

Among the places raided by the Weisman gang was the mansion of Florian Grosjean, the millionaire manufacturer of Woodhaven, where they carried off the entire wardrobe of Mrs. Louis Cortell, Mr. Grosjean's daughter, which was valued at about $2,000. Since the arrest of the convicted men Mrs. Cortell has provided for the families of several of them.

VALKYRIE ARRIVES.

The English Yacht in Good Shape After a Hard Voyage.

NEW YORK, Sep. 23.—The English cutter Valkyrie, the challenger for the America's Cup, concerning whose safety considerable anxiety had been felt, arrived here yesterday morning.

The Valkyrie, under command of Captain Cranfield, left Cowles, Isle of Wight, at 5:40 a. m., August 23. There was a light westerly wind blowing when she shaped her course for America. At noon the sea was calm, but there was a heavy swell. The barometer stood at 30.03.

After Sep. 3 she encounted very stormy weather.

Capt. Cranfield confirms Capt. Griffiths' report of having passed her on the evening of the 16th.

The Valkyrie carries a crew of twenty-four men and flies the flag of the Royal Yacht Club. On Sep. 16 at 5:30 p. m. lat. 41:30 lon. 64:10, the Valkyrie passed a large vessell bottom, up coppered. Too far off to make out her name or nationality

RIOT ON THE STRIP.

Settlers Resent the Schemes of Marshals and Sharks to Fleece Them.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sep. 23.—A small riot occurred at the land office at Perry yesterday and it was necessary to call out the soldiers to restore order. Deputy marshals have been selling places at the head of the line for $50, to sharks who would file on claims of honest settlers, who were further back in the line, in hope of securing blood money from them. This caused the people in line to rebel and they threatened to burn the office if they were not treated fairly in the future.

Special agents have arrived from Washington to examine into affairs at the land office as charges of bribery have been preferred against some officials.

Train Wrecked in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sep. 23.—Yesterday, nineteen miles north of Birmingham, limited express train No. 1, Queen & Crescent route, was wrecked by unknown persons removing a rail from the track. The engine, baggage car and mail cars were demolished. Engineer Brawley, Fireman Waite, Postal Clerk Stockton, Flagman Bailey and Porter Howell were all hurt, but none fatally. Over two hundred passengers were aboard, but none were hurt, as the cars of the train did not turn over.

Rough on Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico states that it is calculated that the silver crisis will involve an annual loss of revenue to Mexico of about $10,000,000 To meet this awkward state of affairs the government of the republic has very sensibly determined upon certain economies, which are intended to bring down the expenditures by about $6,000,000.

More Work at Lawrence.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sep. 23.—The wool sorters at the Arlington mills were called to work yesterday. The resumption by the sorters is regarded as an indication that the worsted department of the mills is to resume as soon as a sufficient supply of assorted wool is obtained. The employes have been out of work since the 12th of August.

Mayor Sargent's Bank Closed.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sep. 23.—Mayor Sargent has closed his municipal bank. For the past week there has not been any additional money deposited by citizens. As the taxes are beginning to pour in he has decided to close the bank, as he has already received about $65,000. He thinks this will be ample, in view of the fact that the taxes are now nearly due.

Bismarck Better.

KISSINGEN, Sep. 23.—Prince Bismarck is slowly regaining his strength. He is exceedingly pleased with the friendly dispatch from the emperor. Dr. Schweninger, Bismarck's body physician, has sent the emperor a written report of his patient's condition. Count Herbert Bismarck and Count Rantzau, the prince's son-in-law, have arrived here.

Congressman Fitch's Mother Dead.

Protectionist Gains.

STOCKHOLM, Sep. 23.—The returns so far received from the parliamentary elections show that the protectionists have gained five seats.

Judge Morrow Killed.

REDBANK, N. J. Sep. 23.—Judge Morrow of Seabright while crossing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Little Silver yesterday, with a wagon and a team of horses, was struck by a train. Morrow had his skull crushed.

Senator Plunkett Improving.

NEW YORK, Sep. 23.—Dr. Crosby said last night that Senator Plunkett was doing splendidly.

MISTAKE OF A LIFE.

The Most Terrible Mistake Possible to Make.

AND THE FRIGHTFUL RESULTS WHICH FOLLOWED.

All Should Be Careful To Avoid This Great Danger.

The world is careless.

And it is just this carelessness which constitutes the greatest element of danger

From little things grow great things—a small beginning often results in an awful and disastrous ending.

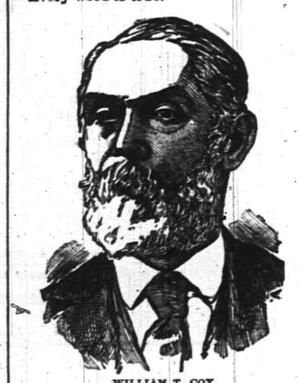
A gentleman well-known by us has just passed through an experience which perfectly demonstrates this. He began to have certain feelings which he could not explain. He grew languid and tired, felt weak, in fact, after any kind of exertion. He had headache, dizziness and his stomach and bowels troubled him. There was a sediment in his water. After a while he had numb spells, trembling feeling in his legs, arms and body; then there came prickling sensations in his fingers and toes.

Suddenly he had a shock of paralysis.

For the simple reason that he had for months neglected, through ignorance of their real meaning and danger, the gradually growing symptoms of this awful disease.

This gentleman, who is no other than the well-known William T. Cox, Esq., of 181 Friendship st., Providence, R. I., as a lesson to others against neglecting the symptoms and feeling which so surely lead to paralysis, stated to us the facts of his case, trusting that others will profit by his mistake.

Every word is true.



WILLIAM T. COX.

"For two years I felt bad, with headache, and seemed weak and tired at times My bowels troubled me and at times my water was not what it should be.

"I did not take any medicine, but let myself alone and went on with my work.

"There is where I made the mistake of my life, for this bad feeling was followed by paralysis. I could do no work for two years. I was entirely helpless, could not walk, could not even feed myself.

"I heard of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and took it for six months and am now cured.

"What a serious mistake it was not to take it before the shock of paralysis, and so prevent all danger.

"I am now 78 years old and feel young and strong."

If this proves a lesson to our people and results in those having these weak, tired and exhausted feelings and bad symptoms taking the wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and so preventing the dread results, paralysis, insanity or nervous prostration we shall feel that Mr. Cox's case has not been given publicity in vain. The remedy is purely vegetable and harmless, and is kept by druggists for $1. It is recommended by doctors because it is the discovery and prescription of the famous physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th st., New York. The doctor is the most successful of our specialists in the cure of all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, and can be consulted without charge, personally or by letter.

THE CHESTER WRECK.

Commissioners Blame the Railroad for Not Inspecting the Bridge.

BOSTON, Sep. 23.—The railroad commissioners have made public their finding in the case of the recent bridge disaster at Chester on the Boston & Albany road.

They find that the immediate responsibility for the disaster rests upon Daniel Bellville, the foreman who had the charge and direction of the work, and who on this day recklessly allowed the work to be done by improper methods and the bridge to be left in an utterly unsafe condition, and heedlessly neglected to warn the coming train.

That no blame attaches to the conductor, engineer or other trainmen of the wrecked train; that the speed of the train was not the cause nor (properly speaking) a contributing cause to the collapse of the bridge; that the contract made by the president of the railroad company with the proprietor of the R. F. Hawkins iron works, under which the work on this and other bridges was done, was designed and adapted to secure the best material and workmanship, and that there was in this case a fatal neglect or omission on the part of the railroad company to provide a competent supervisor or inspector, employed by and directly responsible to itself, to see that the bridge was at all times during the progress of the work in a safe condition for the passage of trains, and in case it should be at any time unsafe to give due warning, and to prevent such passage until the bridge had been made safe. If such supervision had been exercised in the present case the disaster would not have occured. The original responsibility for the accident must, therefore, rest with the railroad company.

COFFEE GETTING SCARCE.

Modification of the Embargo Placed During the Cholera Scare.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 23.—Dr. George O. Glavis, attorney, had a conference with Surgeon-General Wyman of the marine hospital service regarding the the removal of the embargo on coffee from Turkish Arabia and other countries.

Dr. Glavis argued in behalf of the trade. He stated that coffee was becoming scarce in this country owing to the suspension of the coffee trade from Rio, caused by the revolution there, which would in consequence raise the price.

The result of the conference was that Dr. Wyman telegraphed the medical officers at London and Liverpool that coffee which had been 30 days from infected countries may be allowed shipment from healthy ports without disinfection.

The same question in regard to figs and dates was discussed. Dr. Wyman stated that he desired to have those fruits tested to ascertain how long the cholera bacilli would live on them to enable him to make a scientific calculation of time. He expects a decision in the matter next week.

Good Cooking

is essential to

Good Digestion—

in pastry you cannot have either without a good shortening. Lard has always had very objectionable features, causing indigestion and many other dietetic troubles. Science has come to the assistance of the cook, and of weak stomachs, with the new shortening,

Cottolene

It is composed of the choicest beef suet and highly refined vegetable oil, in many respects as good as the finest imported olive oil. Physicians endorse it, cooking experts recommend it, and thousands are now using it in preference to any other shortening. Refuse all substitutes.

ANOTHER WEEK OF WIND

The Same Old Silver Story in the Senate.

DIFFERENT METHOD IN THE HOUSE

The Election Repeal Bill to Go Through on a Fixed Programme—Sweeping Changes Proposed in the Interstate Commerce Law.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25.—There is a reasonable certainty that congress will spend the entire week in debate. The first business in the senate will be the resolution offered Saturday morning by Mr. Stewart declaring for the independence of the three great branches of the federal government. This comes up in the morning hour and Mr. Stewart will make it the text for an attack upon the administration on the ground that it has trespassed upon the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government in the case of the pending repeal bill.

The house will to-morrow enter upon two weeks' debate of the bill to repeal "all statutes relating to the supervisors of elections and deputy marshals," reported by Mr. Tucker from the committee on the election of president and vice-president and representatives in congress. According to the terms of the order reported by the committee on rules the house will proceed to its consideration on that day immediately after the second morning hour, or if second morning hour shall not have sooner ended, then at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m. on said day. And it further provides "that the consideration of said bill shall be resumed immediately after the second morning hour of each legislative day thereafter, up to and including the 9th day of October next. That at the hour of adjournment on said last named day the previous question shall be considered ordered on all pending amendments on the bill, to its engrossment and third reading and to its final passage. That on the next legislative day, to wit, the 10th day of October next, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m., the house shall resume consideration of said bill, and shall proceed without further debate and without intervening motions to vote, first on the pending amendments, if there are any, and then on the engrossment and third reading of the bill, and then on the final passage thereof, and then on motions to "reconsider and lay on the table," should such motions be made. If from any cause this order shall not be fully executed on the last day mentioned herein then this order shall continue in force and be operative each legislative day thereafter until said bill shall be fully disposed of."

Mr. Tucker, whose name is attached to the measure on the calendar, will open the debate in support of the bill. He has given notice that in the course of his remarks he will have something to say about the cost of executing the laws sought to be repealed, especially the allowances made to John I. Davenport, the chief supervisor of elections in New York. Messrs. DeArmond and Lawson, members of the committee, will follow Mr. Tucker for the bill, but further than this no details of the debate on that side have been arranged. Doubtless some of the New York members will speak more fully than Mr. Tucker of Mr. Davenport's connection with the election machinery in that city.

In opposition to the bill, Mr. Dolliver, of Iowa, will have the opening, followed by Mr. Johnson, of Indiana. Both of these are comparatively young men and members, but they are among the most aggressive debaters on the republican side and it is expected that much vigor will mark their speeches. They are loading themselves with extracts from southern newspapers of recent date, which they will use to demonstrate the necessity for the continuance of the election laws on the statute books and before the voting stage is reached a red-hot political battle will doubtless be raging.

There are several bills on the calendar which may occupy the house in the morning hour each day prior to the election bill debate. Among these are the bill reported by Mr. Oates, from the committee on judiciary, to repeal a portion of the laws covered by the Tucker bill and which, in a general way, may be said to represent the views of the conservative members of the majority. They believe that certain provisions sought to be repealed by the advocates of the Tucker bill, should remain in force but they will doubtless vote for that measure although preferring the Oates bill. However, the consideration of any other than the bill set forth in the pending order will be desultory, and final action is not anticipated on any one of importance until the election repeal bill is out of the way.

Representative Patterson of Tennessee has introduced in the house a bill to amend the interstate commerce law. The measure is similar to the one prepared by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce of the last congress and passed by the house. The first section of the bill is intended to obviate the construction which the courts have placed on the words "The same line" as they appear in the present law. The courts have held that where several railroads connect constituting one line for the transaction of business any less number forming in part the same line may charge, without violating the law, a greater rate than is charged over the entire line. This ruling the committee believed would be practically nugatory of the law and a railroad could charge more over its own line than over its own and connecting lines for a much longer distance. In section two, the bill omits the word "pool" because of its indefinite meaning and substitutes for it the words "any contract, agreement or arrangement" which are considered more comprehensive and definite. It further provides that railroad companies may make "contracts, agreements or arrangements" for apportioning among themselves their traffic or their gross or net earnings on the conditions prescribed, and it is expressly provided that the same shall remain lawful only so long as the approval of the commission shall continue. When the commission withdraws its approval the contract, in express terms, ceases to exist, and no appeal lies. The effect is to enable the commission in its discretion to allow pooling contracts. The commerce committee of the last congress, after carefully considering the subject, agreed upon this bill as a tentative measure, and were of the opinion that under the arrangement proposed no harm would befall the public, and an opportunity would be given to intelligently solve a much mooted problem.

The minority of the committee in stating their objection to the measure said that it was the first effort that has ever received the sanction of a committee of this house to make legal and enforceable at law contracts for the division of traffic. But it does not stop at this. It proposes to legalize "railroad wrecking" and stock speculation by authorizing not only agreements for the division and apportionment of net and gross earnings among the carriers themselves, but it authorizes the carriers to also divide and apportion these among others not carriers. Under these provisions stockholders will be as much at the mercy of railroad managers as will the public. The Standard Oil company, "dressed beef combine" and other monopolies can obtain rebates by contract enforceable in the courts instead of by stealth and concealment as heretofore.

The composition of the present commerce committee is much the same as that of last congress and it is thought that the present measure will be reported favorably without much delay.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

MATRIMONIAL FRAUD.

A Niagara Falls Man Who Victimized Fortune-Hunters.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sep. 25.—Deputy Marshal Colt has arrived here from Niagara Falls with George Woodward, alias Chas. Moore, who was arrested in that city charged with using the United States mails to defraud.

Woodward's scheme was to insert matrimonial notices in rural papers throughout the country from New York to San Francisco calling for correspondents for a young lady, 21 years old, worth $50,000, who lived unhappily with her guardian and wanted to marry.

Answers were sent to P. O. box No. 9, Niagara Falls, Ont., and from 75 to 100 letters were arriving daily for him. Woodward would reply to these in a lady's handwriting enclosing a photograph of a handsome young lady and propose that the writer send enough money for the mythical heiress to come to him, they then to be married quietly to escape the stern guardian and return and get her property.

Many letters came with photographs of anxious ones and Woodward was receiving an income of several hundred dollars a week, living high and becoming quite popular. He opened an office in a large business block at the falls in partnership with a well known attorney and advertised as a real estate dealer. Some one of his dupes notified the police of his scheme and after some weeks spent in tracing the mail he was arrested in the act of opening a batch of some 75 letters at his hotel. His partner was engaged with him in the task and strong suspicions of his complicity in the case are held, but owing to his past life of honorable business career, being once the assistant district attorney of Niagara county, he has been simply kept under surveillance. It is believed that some woman is in with Woodward in the deal. He will be taken before the commissioners for a hearing.

Bismarck Hesitates to Make Up With the Emperor.

PUBLIC OPINION WITH WILLIAM

Sympathy With the Ex-Chancellor Gives Place to Mild Resentment—The Young Kaiser Now Seems to Have the Best of the Old Quarrel.

(Copyright, 1893, by the United Press.)

BERLIN, Sep. 25.—The arrival of Count Herbert Bismarck and Count Rantzau, his brother-in-law, in Kissingen is not expected to help much in bringing the emperor and Prince Bismarck together. Many hope, however, that stronger influences will prevail and the reconciliation will soon be accomplished. Emperor Franz Joseph and the king of Saxony have sent to Kissingen sympathetic inquiries after the ex-chancellor's health and have suggested the desirability that Prince Bismarck make the next advances. The grand duke of Baden and the king of Wurtemberg are working with energy to the same end. Still Bismarck holds back, seemingly reluctant to answer the emperor's advances before extorting such homage as no sovereign has ever paid a subject. Telegrams from Kissingen represent him as irritated and suspicious. He is said to regard the attentions now bestowed on him by crowned heads as too ostentatious. They are suggestive, he thinks, of a plan to extinguish him entirely as a political factor. He is recovering his strength quite rapidly now and is sensitive about being treated as an honored memory. He means to reassert himself as a powerful element in German politics. This is the sentiment on which his son and son-in-law, with others of their circle, rely to keep him on the old line of opposition to the government. It will bitterly disappoint the whole country, regardless of party, if they succeed and the emperor's overtures be rejected. The newspapers of all political tendencies praise the emperor for having taken the initiative and agree in hoping that the prince will not deny the nation the pleasure of witnessing the end of the feud between Berlin and Friedrichsruh.

According to the late dispatches from Kissingen the text of Bismarck's reply to the emperor's message remains unpublished. Its general tenor is believed to indicate that the efforts to reconcile the two men will be futile.

BRUTAL MURDER.

An Aged Couple Killed and Their House Set on Fire.

NEWTON, Pa., Sep. 25.—An inoffensive old couple, Samuel Rightly, aged 84, and his wife, two years younger, who lived alone on their farm in Northampton township, near this place, were foully murdered some time Saturday night. The perpetrator of the deed afterward set fire to the house to cover up his crime. Early yesterday morning a neighbor discovered that the house of the Rightlys was on fire. With the assistance of other neighbors he extinguished the flames. The charred remains of the aged couple were found lying on a bed in a room on the first floor. Mr. Rightly's skull had been fractured by a hatchet or axe and Mrs. Rightly's head and face were cut in several places. Nothing is known as to the motive for the murder, as the old people were known to be in indigent circumstances.

GETTING TOGETHER.

Prospects of an Agreement Between Manufacturers and the Amalgamated.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 25.—The difficulties in the iron and steel trades between the manufacturers and the amalgamated association, on account of the terms of the scale, will, in all probability, be cleared away without the loss of further time. A conference will be held between the committee of the amalgamated association that is expected to bring the trouble to an end. The action of the workers in voting against calling their conference committee together to meet the manufacturers has been reconsidered.

Anarchistic Plotters.

VIENNA, Sep. 25.—The 68 members of a secret society in Bruenn were arrested yesterday. Information against them was secured several days ago and conclusive proof that they were implicated in anarchist plots is said to have been obtained when the arrests of fourteen anarchists were made recently. In the club house of the Bruenn prisoners the police seized a printing press and a great mass of seditious literature. The renewed activity of the anarchists is in sympathy with the suffrage agitation now in progress throughout the empire.

Statistics of Bank Failures.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25.—Statistics compiled from official data show that from January to September this year 560 state and private banks in the United States failed and that 72 have resumed business. In the same time 155 national banks failed, 70 of which have resumed.

Too Young for Governor.

NEW YORK, Sep. 25.—A Sun special from Des Moines, Ia., says: F. A. Ott, nominee for lieutenant-governor on the populist ticket resigned, his age, 28 years, making him ineligible for the office. The vacancy will be filled by the committee.

Milwaukee's Broken Bank.

MILWAUKEE, Sep. 25.—Judge Johnson has taken the question of appointing a co-receiver for the Wisconsin Marine & Fire insurance company bank under advisement.

WHAT BRECKINRIDGE SAYS.

A Denial in General of All the Charges Made by Miss Pollard.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25.—In the case of Madeline Y. Pollard against William C. P. Breckinridge for $50,000 for breach of promise of marriage, etc., in which a few days ago the demurrer was overruled with leave to plead in three days, the defendant, by his counsel, Enoch Totten and P. B. Thompson, jr., has filed elaborate pleas in answer to the suit.

He says that in the spring of 1884, the defendant being on the train from Lexington to Frankfort, was accosted by a young woman between 20 and 22 years of age, who introduced herself to him as Miss Madeline Breckinridge Pollard, saying that her father was such an admirer of John C. Breckinridge that he named her after the said Breckinridge; that subsequently the defendant received a letter from the plaintiff, saying that she was in great distress and desiring his legal advice, and asking him to see her at Wesleyan college, in Cincinnati, which the defendant answered was inconvenient, upon which she notified him that the matter about which she was distressed was an engagement to marry, which had assumed a condition worse than a divorce suit, and reiterating her request to see him personally; that the defendant did see the plaintiff at said college, and she gave him a full recital of her relations with one James C. Rodes, and thereupon the defendant advised her to consummate the contract between her and said Rodes by marriage; and subsequently, after a full conversation with said Rodes, the defendant renewed his advice.

The defendant denies that he took advantage of the youth and inexperience of the plaintiff or made any promise of marriage to her.

WANT HAYES OUT.

Efforts to Oust the Secretary of the Knights of Labor.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 25.—After making strenuous efforts, extending over a week, to oust John W. Hayes from the position of secretary and treasurer of the Knights of Labor, the executive board at a secret meeting abandoned the fight and took action rescinding its dismissal of Mr. Hayes and reinstating him in office. It is stated that the opposition to Secretary Hayes will be smothered until the general convention in November, when his superior officers will lead in a movement to force him out of office.

BOSTON AND MAINE.

Rumor That It is to be Absorbed by the Consolidated.

BOSTON, Sep. 25.—The City Press says: "It is asserted by well informed railroad men that the Consolidated railroad, which lately absorbed the Old Colony system, will soon add the Boston & Maine to its already numerous conquests. The selection of Lucius Tuttle, the general manager of the Boston & Maine is looked upon as a step in the onward march of the Consolidated road towards the practical monopoly of the New England railroad field."

No Women Wanted.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sep. 25.—Miss Helen E. Wilkinson, who applied for admittance as a student in the University of Rochester, last Wednesday, is likely to have some trouble in obtaining the necessary acceptance of her application by the board of trustees of that institution. There has developed considerable antagonism among the faculty and trustees to admitting women to the university. It is hinted that should the Board refuse to admit Miss Wilkinson, the case will be taken to the courts by friends of the lady.

Archbishop Kenrick Out.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25.—Archbishop Satolli, apostolic delegate, was seen at the Catholic University yesterday and was asked as to the accuracy of the statement that Archbishop Kenrick, of St. Louis, had been deposed by his authority, and that Archbishop Kain, his coadjutor, had been vested with full archiepiscopal powers. Monsignor Satolli replied: "It is all true. I have nothing further to say on the subject."

Keep Their Secrets.

MILWAUKEE, Sep. 25.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows concluded its annual session Saturday and adjourned. The action of the Grand Secretary in declining to furnish Archbishop Katzer a copy of the ritual was confirmed on the ground that no authority exists for revealing the secrets of the order to any man except by initating him as a member.

Mayor Trout in Richmond.

RICHMOND, Va., Sep. 25.—Hon. H. C. Trout, Mayor of Roanoke, is stopping in this city with his wife. He refuses to be interviewed. Indeed he will not say anything concerning the length of time he proposes to remain in the city, when he expects to leave or where he is going. He denies an alleged interview sent out last night from Lynchburg.

Logan Statue Selected.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25. — The Logan statue commission met at the War Department Saturday and decided definitely upon the model of the statue as designed and submitted by Mr. Franklin Simmons, the sculptor. The statue is to be placed in Iowa circle, and judging by the design will be the handsomest equestrian statue in the city.

May Stop the Fight.

NEW YORK, Sep. 25.—It is rumored in the sporting fraternity here that Governor Flower has intimated his intention of calling on the proper local authorities to see that the law is not violated regarding the arranging for prize fights within the State. This, of course, has reference to the Corbett-Mitchell negotiations.

Not for Briggs.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sep. 25.—The report that Dr. Briggs might occupy the Cumberland Presbyterian Church here was incorrect. The church belongs to Rev. John Miller, of the Princeton Presbytery, who says that before the church shall be occupied by a Briggsite he will occupy the pulpit himself.

Two Young Villains Try to Rob a College Safe.

THEY SHOOT AT WOMEN TEACHERS

While Running for Their Lives the Two Robbers Find Time to Blaze Away at an Inoffensive Farmer, Who Turns and Shoots Them Both.

NEW YORK, Sep. 25.—A Sun special from Valparaiso, Ind., says: Two men attempted to rob the safe in the banking department of the Northern Indiana normal college Saturday afternoon. As a result one of them, C. F. Robinson, is dead and his companion, C. M. Moody, is behind bars at the county jail wounded.

It was about 3 1-2 o'clock when two masked men, armed, came into the banking office of the college. The only occupants of the room were the secretary, Miss Kate Corboy, and her assistant, Miss Emma Jones.

She had entered the room only a moment before, and was covered with a revolver by one of the men. By a quick movement she knocked the weapon from his hand to the floor, and with a scream both young women started from the room.

Picking up the revolver the first man fired at Miss Jones, the bullet missing her by only a few inches.

Seeing that their plans were frustrated and that any effort to force the huge safe would now be useless, the two robbers hurried out of the office and down the steps, revolvers in each hand.

They were confronted by Carrier Arnold, whom they frighted with their weapons. Arnold began to yell loudly. The students poured out of the college buildings and the big boarding houses and dormitories.

At the first shout the robbers wheeled without firing and ran to the fence, over which they leaped. They ran through the campus and straight down the track of the Fort Wayne road toward the east, while behind them followed a yelling mob of students. This crowd of pursuers must have numbered 1,000.

Nathan O. Howe of Michigan City, Ind., who is a son of the famous old Frank Howe, ex-detective, was driving along the road with a wagon load of peaches, and was fired at by one of the robbers.

He alighted from his wagon deliberately sighted his rifle across the fence and brought Robinson to the ground with a wound in the breast. He died instantly.

His companion knelt over him and took his revolver, throwing away his own empty weapon, but before he could use it he was shot by Howe from the roadside. He was then captured and brought to this city.

Moody, the wounded man, is about 22 years old, the son of a furniture dealer in Kalamazoo, and a student of the department of stenography.

His dead companion was about the same age and a graduate of the same department and now enrolled in the scientific class. He registered last year as from Versailles, Ind., but this year he gave his home as Cincinnati.

Howe was released on bail and is the hero of the hour in this city. Hon. Clem J. Kern sold Howe's entire load of peaches on the streets and over $1,000 was realized.

LOUISIANA LYNCHERS.

They May Come Before a Republican Judge and District Attorney.

NEW ORLEANS, Sep. 25.—The leaders who had called a meeting of the colored people for Monday night to protest against the late lynchings in Jefferson parish withdrew the call. This was done at the suggestion of those whites who are opposed to lynch law. Gervaise Leech, the district attorney of the 26th district, whom Gov. Foster has requested to investigate the lynching and bring the lawbreakers to justice, is a republican, as is likewise the judge before whom all the cases arising out of the Jefferson affair will be tried.

Fatal Fascination.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sep. 25.—Gerald Griffin and Stephen Doyle were at the academy of music Saturday and saw Hughey Dougherty and his Tuxedo company introduce their western border act. The boys, both 17, with four comrades took a Flobert gun and battled with imaginary Indians on the outskirts of the city. Doyle accidentally fired the gun and Griffin was shot through the heart and instantly killed.

Bold Swindling Scheme.

ST. JOSEPHS, Mo., Sep. 25.—Saturday one of the local banks received from a man in Oklahoma a draft on New York for $30,000 with a statement that he proposed opening a financial institution Oct. 1, and that $5,000 in gold be sent him for temporary use. The banker showed it incidentally to the officer of another bank and he in turn exhibited a similar letter and draft. New York was wired and the big draft was pronounced worthless.

Fatal Explosion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sep. 25.—A terrific explosion supposed to have been caused by a dynamite bomb, occurred yesterday at the non-union sailors' boarding house and saloon of Mr. and Mrs. John Currin. Five men, who were standing near the spot where the explosion occurred, were buried in the debris, two being killed, two mortally wounded and one seriously injured.

Injured by a Buzz Saw.

Robert Perrine, an employe of L. A. Rheaume, on Watchung avenue, was engaged in the saw mill Saturday afternoon running boards through the buzz saw, when four fingers on his left hand were cut through to the bone. The suffering was intense for awhile. It will be some time before he can work.

Accused by the Neighbors.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL IN PLAINFIELD.

VARIOUS PLEASANT FUNCTIONS PAST AND TO COME.

Last of the Five o'Clocks at the Country Club—Grace Church Benefit Fair for Muhlenberg that Is Sure to Be a Great Event—Waffle Tea for the Rectory.

A stormy sky and a few drops of rain had the effect of keeping all but a handful of people away from the last tea of the Country Club Saturday afternoon, and the many ranks of little cups that had been set out in the dining room for the iced coffee and other liquid refreshment were hardly disturbed.

The shades were all drawn on the first floor, and the gas was lighted, and the few guests that had come sat about in little groups and modified their voices so that the rest should not overhear their remarks.

Outside on the tennis courts Mr. VanBoskerck was superintending the finals of one of his tennis tournaments that was begun about two months ago. Frank Hyde and August Huntington were matched against Edward Ryder and C. Morgan. After some rather ragged but interesting tennis, Ryder and Morgan won: 6–2, 6–1. Mr. VanBoskerck presented each of the winning team with a pipe, these being the prizes which were purchased by the club last summer and exhibited at the beginning of the tournament.

When the half dozen youths who had been lounging around the courts caught sight of the flutter of petticoats through the door of the club, there was a rush for the house, and tennis was at a discount thereafter.

Mrs. Charles Fisk, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Harry Runkle received. As there was nothing to pour, there were no young ladies at the tables.

This is the last of the club teas of the season, and the interest in them seems to have died out entirely. While the functions of the little club at the other end of town always manage to draw, the Country Club teas have never been a howling success. Doubtless the Country Club's forte lies in other forms of entertaining, but it is trusted that the popularity of five o'clocks will be renewed next year.

About the first of November the Casino will be the scene of a very elaborate fair to be given under the auspices of Grace Protestant Episcopal church for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. Some other churches have been asked to participate, and the fair will doubtless outshine anything of the kind ever seen before in Plainfield.

Active preparations are on foot among the younger married set of Grace church for a "waffle tea" to be given somewhere about the 10th of October for the benefit of the Rectory Society in the church. The ladies interested have their eyes on several private houses with a view of swooping down on one of them as a place in which to hold the tea, but no final arrangements have been made as yet. All those who attend will be supplied with delectable hot waffles: is it necessary to add, not free of charge?

A few tables may be filled with useful articles for sale. It will doubtless be a success.

DRANK ARSENIC.

John Hetfield's Five-Year-Old Son Gives His Mother a Scare and Makes the Doctor Hustle.

John Hetfield's young son, aged 5, drank half a bottle of mixture containing arsenic Saturday night. Mrs. Hetfield hurried the youngster to a local drug store, the proprietor of which advised that a physician be called. Dr. Boone was summoned, and the patient was driven back home in a hack, the doctor following. The boy is still alive, thanks to Dr. Boone's energetic treatment.

MAGGIE SKIPPED.

And the Man Whom She Struck with a Barrel Stave Is in Jail.

Policeman Cooney's attention was attracted Saturday night by the noise of a row in Pruden's alley. Maggie Benford was beating William Kenney's head with a barrel stave when the policeman reached the scene. The festive Maggie escaped; but Kenney was arrested, and in court this morning was sentenced by Judge Coddington to sixty days in jail.

A GOOD PASTOR RESIGNS.

Dr. Parks of Scotch Plains Retires from the Active Ministry.

The Rev. Dr. Parks has resigned the pastorate of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, to take effect Jan. 1, 1894.

The church has voted an annual appropriation, in view of services rendered, and he will reside in his own recently completed house in the midst of the people he has served for eleven years.

Improvement Reported and Gratitude Expressed.

Albert G. Thorn, who was seriously injured last Wednesday afternoon by falling from an apple tree in his yard, as reported in The Press, is still improving, and is now well out of danger. To a Press reporter who called at the house today the family expressed their thanks for this paper's accurate report of the accident and of the patient's condition since.

City Councilman Frazee's Beans.

As Police Sergeant Kiely was on his way Saturday morning to summon to court the grocers charged with obstructing their sidewalks with provisions, he found the sidewalk in front of the grocery of City Councilman Frazee, who is one of the offenders, so badly obstructed that the policeman stumbled and nearly fell headlong over a box of lima beans. Is this the effect produced on our grocers by judicial censure?

GALA DAY ON THE GREEN.

BOSTON'S BOWLING CLUB ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

Dunellen's Club Gives Them a Happy Time on Mr. Schepflin's Green—But Dunellen Wasn't In by a Big Majority.

Saturday morning the 9 o'clock train from New York brought the Boston Bowling Club escorted by a delegation of the Dunellen Club, to Dunellen where they were cordially received by Christian Schepflin and other members.

Two grand rinks were formed for the championship games.

DUNELLEN.

FIRST RINK.	SECOND RINK.
James Steyens, Skip,	Thomas Stone, Skip,
C. K. Moore,	William Elliott,
John Young,	D. B. S. Cockburn,
Andrew Love.	C. Schepflin.

BOSTON.

FIRST RINK.	SECOND RINK.
Jas. Wemyss, Jr., Skip,	John McGaw, Skip,
William Lumb,	Edward Owler,
John Kinnear,	David Smith,
Orrin Briggs.	Charles Butcher.

The feature was the phenomenal shots made by Mr. Kinnear. The games resulted: Boston—first rink, 21, to Dunellen, first rink, 12. The Bostons also won in the second rink by 21 to 7; the Bostons thus being victorious by 23 points. The visitors accompanying the Boston bowlers were Albert Geiger, James Wemyss, Sr., George R. Bates and W. T. Treworgy. After the games the visiting club and guests were escorted to Taylor's Hotel where a sumptuous repast was served, with Mr. Elliott, Vice-president of the Dunellen Club, at the head of the table. Appropriate toasts were responded to in every case most happily, that of the senior visitor, Mr. Wemyss, particularly being appreciated. In closing he congratulated the members of both clubs, saying that never had he witnessed games in which such good feeling was shown by all. "In fact"—he said—"I wish to bear witness that they were indeed gentlemen's games." After the repast was over, the Bostons repaired to the green and met the Middlesex Club in two rinks, the Middlesex being victorious in the total by 2 points. Scores: Boston—total, 32; Middlesex—34.

After serenading the Dunellen Club with some finely rendered Scottish selections, the Bostonians left on the 6:55 p. m. train, homeward bound.

The Eyes I Love.

Poets may sing of woman's eyes—
The black or the brown or blue;
They may rave and go into ecstasies
Over each different hue.
This one may prate of his favorite,
And others be lauded by some,
But I love the eyes that watch for me,
And grow brighter when I come!

I have never found out, and I do not care,
Whether hazel or blue or gray
Is the color of those I prize the most,
And I do not know today;
But they're those of my charming little wife,
Who keeps my humble home,
And hers are the eyes that watch for me
And [illegible] when I come!

The Ingredients For a Newspaper Man.

My son, I don't know if your youthful conception
Hath breadth in the scope of its nebulous plan
To wield comprehension of that one exception
To workaday mortals, the newspaper man.
But if you'll agree to a feeble description
From one of their number, I'll do what I can
To blend in the way of a little prescription
The mixture that's known as a newspaper man!

Take a brain that is steeped in solution of knowledge,
Most varied and picturesque under the sun;
Then add just a pinch of the salt of the college,
A flavor of wit and a soupcon of fun—
For a relish Bohemian sauce is the caper—
And a mind that will stretch from Beersheba to Dan;
In fancy or fact, when it comes to the "paper,"
Or touches the heart of the newspaper man!

To a memory that clutches the veriest trifle,
And a hand that is tireless when work's to be done,
Add an eye that is quick as the flash of a rifle
And keen as the eagle that flies to the sun.
Take strength and endurance and loyal devotion
And add all the grit and the courage you can
To the heart that's as big and as deep as the ocean.
A hundred to one on the newspaper man!

With a brew of ideas that, seething and boiling,
Run out into molds that are models for men
Add a ceaseless encounter with planning and toiling
For the world of today that is ruled by the pen.
Add the honesty of friendship, the dew of affection
And the esprit de corps that gets down to hard pan,
And paste in your hat the whole mortal collection
As the regular stock of the newspaper man!

—New York Sun.

Signs of Youth.

When your mind is on the future,
And the wondrous things you'll do,
And you think the world revolves around
For no one else but you.
Although you may not know it,
Yet all the same it's true,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you will not even listen
To suggestions or advice
From those who've stumbled o'er the road
And slipped upon the ice,
And you're bound to buy experience
At the highest market price,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you brag about your smartness,
And how sharp you've always been
In getting best of every trade
With all the boys and men,
And how you've beat most other folks
In muscle and with pen,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you think a man at thirty
Is going fast to seed,
And one who reaches forty
Is very old indeed,
And a man who's really fifty
Is a withered, broken reed,
It's a fact—you're rather young.

—Albany Journal.

Love's Glasses.

WHAT HE SAID.

He said: "How beautiful, my love,
From earth beneath to heaven above!
There's not a rock with lichens browned,
And not a field with sunshine crowned,
And not a note all nature through,
From whispering pines to ocean blue—
Not even a mote which swings in air
Up toward the bending heavens there
That is not beautiful."

WHAT SHE SAID.

"There's not a thing the landscape through,
From sands we beat
Beneath our feet
To where the mountains heave in view,
That is not beautiful,
And all for you."

WHAT I SAW.

A scene almost made up of blanks,
Nothing but rocks and sands,
A dull brown waste,
O'er which the crow himself makes haste.
And yet, I mused, "Perhaps 'tis wise
To look abroad through lovers' eyes,
If they may show that round us lies
Beauty like that of paradise."

HOT SHOT FOR FLIRTATIOUS WIVES.

WOMEN WHO ARE NOT BAD, BUT PRETTY SILLY.

Pastor Richardson's Sermon on "The Ideal Wife"—He Gives a Few Facts, and Administers Solid Chunks of Reproof—How a Woman Can Make Her Husband Happy and Her Home Bright.

The Rev. J. W. Richardson, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, delivered a telling sermon last night, taking for his theme "The Ideal Wife". The pastor handled facts without gloves, and administered some solid chunks of reproof.

A large audience filled the church. The text was Ephesians v: 22:

"Wives, submit yourselves unto your husbands as unto the Lord."

The speaker said in part:

"The wife, with her patience and pluck, is the best part of many a man—the wife may also be the worst. The Ideal Wife will be true to her husband. This the day, when we need pure homes and devoted mothers. Too many married women are not careful of their deportment in the street, and parlor. There are husbands whose hearts ache, because evil-tongued gossip has involved the good name of the wife. Some of these women would not commit marital infidelity, any quicker than they would pluck out their right eye. But they engage in that curse of modern society, flirtation. This, in itself, is infidelity to the marriage vow. What virtuous, sane husband, can look on and see his wife cast coy glances at another man, and not feel, that his paradise has been invaded. Frown upon this modern custom of flirtation. No woman can be liberal with her smiles, and yet retain the love of her husband. The meanest specimen of human nature is a man-flirt. But there would be no such creatures in society, if some ladies did not offer them encouragement. No man would take the trouble to wipe his lips, with a handkerchief, in twenty different signals, if his attentions were not invited, and he met with no recognition. Some women imagine that it shows a spirit of independence, to be effusive and bold in address, in their intercourse with the gentlemen whom they meet in society and on the street. But, ladies, such deportment is extremely hazardous. It makes plausible every scandalous story from malicious lips! It causes sensible, virtuous people to regard you with suspicion! It is adding kindlings to the flame in your husband's heart, which will burst forth in fury one of these days! In the fear of God—I speak frankly, young married women—let me utter a solemn warning: if you, by a silly flirtation, place a doubt in your husband's heart concerning your trueness to him, you might bring all the snows of the Arctics, and all the snows of a thousand winters, and pile them as high as Saturn, and you could not hide the spot—and though your body and soul might be as pure as the whiteness of God's throne, forever that husband's eyes would see a stain! O ye wives, you cannot afford to assassinate a loving heart—put the sun of your home into an eclipse—and clothe your soul in mourning garments! Why risk the love and devotion of a warm-hearted husband, to gain a few smirks from the man-flirt? Let the sensible, the truly refined, the pure women of society inaugurate a reform. Let them denounce this practice, and in a short time, flirtation would become so outre, that respectable people would shun the practice as extremely vulgar.

"The Ideal Wife will make the Home Life very attractive. If it is necessary for the husband to be considerate, that his wife may sing in her heart despite household cares: so it is necessary for the wife to make the home-life fragrant with the spirit of patience and affection, that the husband may anticipate during the grind of business, the joy of the evening hour at home. It requires a union of two hearts, to make a bow of promise on the storm clouds of life! Let the wife fill her home with the spirit of contentment. Think more of your home than the whist party! Try and fill home with a holier brightness than that found in the ballroom! Pay more attention to evenings at home, than to evenings out, and unless your husband is a reprobate he will esteem his home of more importance than any outside engagements. It is not great skill which you need, only a plodding, patient perseverance. It may be that sometimes the circumstances surrounding your home are like a crown of thorns; but patiently, and bravely wear that crown, and your husband will come to admire your queenhood. The house is a garden: do not plant it with thorns. Your husband's occupation may place him where he listens to business all out of gear, and faces scowls a yard long. When he comes home from the office, or store, don't meet him with another scowl. If anything goes wrong, don't fret before him. He may have heard for ten long hours the constant growling of impatient men. It is dangerous to subject some husbands to the noise of an unoiled tongue at home. In the courtship days it was delightful to spend an evening in each other's society: both looked their best, and appeared their best. But it is decidedly another thing to live in daily contact with each other, and learn each other's shortcomings. Nevertheless, if the wife will avoid peevishness: take the same care to be agreeable: conduct herself as she did when he was a lover she may continue her queenhood, and find him ready to do her will as at first. The wife must be willing to pay the price of success—and, that price, is loving words, and tender acts, and a rigid attention to personal adornment.

"The Ideal Wife will make Religion the guardian angel of the house. Some of these husbands want to be religious, but the wife is so intent on euchre-parties, and theatres, and a general good time, that these men are prevented from accepting Christ. We know of men who would have been honored servants of the church, had it not been for the whims of the wife. The wife should mould her husband's thoughts, and enrich his aspirations. But if she disregards the religious opinions of the husband—if she shuts Christ out of her home, there will not be any foundation for the stability of the marriage vows, nor any guarantee of the continuation of domestic happiness."

A Daniel Come to Judgment.

The case of Ella Peterson, colored, against John Venable, colored, for alleged assault after the cake walk in T.A.B. Hall, last Thursday night, was tried Saturday at 2 before Justice Nash. Several witnesses swore that Venable had only struck one blow, which was directed at Lew. Peterson, the woman's husband, in retaliation for a blow received from Peterson. The Justice did not think that Peterson and his wife could both be struck in the face and one of them knocked down, with only one blow, and consequently he dismissed the case.

DROWNED IN A BUTTER FIRKIN.

SINGULAR DEATH OF BABY FREDDIE CURTIS.

While His Mother Was Making Out a Sunday-School Card, He Crept Out of the Room and Plunged Headforemost into a Tub of Water.

A sad and remarkable accident occurred yesterday in the family of Esaias P. Curtis, peddler, of 323 New Front street.

Little Freddie Curtis, a baby a few months over a year old, fell into a butter firkin of water and was drowned before any one could reach him to pull him out.

About 2 yesterday afternoon Mrs. Curtis sat down to fill out a Sunday-school card for one of her older children. Little Freddie was playing around the room, and his mother did not notice what he was doing. When she had finished her writing she looked around for the infant and did not see him. As calling was productive of no results, she started to search for the child.

He was nowhere to be found in the house, so Mrs. Curtis went into the yard, and was struck with horror to see the child head downward in the firkin of water. He had doutless been attracted by the shining surface of the liquid and in looking over the edge of the firkin had lost his balance and had fallen in. The child might have been saved had artificial breathing been resorted to immediately, but no one was there who knew what to do.

It seems almost miraculous that the child did not upset the firkin and so save his own life by his struggles.

If accidents of this kind can take place thus on dry land, it makes one believe in the saying that the safest place in the world, as far as drowning is concerned, is on an ocean steamer.

NOT A QUESTION OF POLITICS.

But All That Is Good and True in Citizenship Is Now at Stake.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 20, 1893.

To the People of New Jersey:

Again the State Citizens' League feels compelled to call upon you to enlist in what it is hoped will prove a decisive campaign against race-track gambling and Legislative debauchery in this State. It is well known that last year while people slept, the gamblers attended the party primaries and nominating conventions, and succeeded in foisting upon the State a Legislature whose infamous record is today the shame and humiliation of the whole people.

As you well remember, the unprecedented efforts that were made to prevent this disgrace were scornfully and defiantly ignored.

Power has returned to the hands of the people, and the question now is, How shall we use it? How shall we co-operate in order to expunge these foul stains from our statute-book and rescue the government of our State from the control of men who have so basely betrayed us? Must we believe that a majority of the people in any legislative district in this State will deliberately vote in the interest of gamblers and criminals, and thereby approve the infamous conduct of the last Legislature?

There is but one side to this question. It is not a controversy between political parties; it is a contest between honest and dishonest men. No one pretends to defend the conduct of the last Legislature by argument. Their acts were induced and will be defended only by the most lavish and corrupt use of money gained by wicked and criminal practices.

The just indignation of the people must be expressed by acts as well as words. There is no profit in disguising the fact that our greatest danger lies in the possible supineness of the law-abiding people in our State. The gamblers are openly and confidently counting upon this to win in this conflict. Peradventure their expectation proves well-founded, personal regrets for neglect of duty will come only too late.

In order that our action may be effective in escaping so humiliating and disastrous an issue, the State Citizens' League earnestly and urgently recommends—

First—That all voters who do not approve the action of the last Legislature attend the primaries of the party to which they belong, to be called to elect delegates to the conventions for the nomination of candidates for the Legislature, and for the office of Sheriff in counties wherein these are to be chosen—and there make all earnest and honorable effort to secure the election of delegates who will support as candidates for the Legislature only such men as can be relied upon to vote for the repeal of the race-track statutes; and for Sheriff a man who will faithfully and fairly discharge the duties of the office.

Second—That if practicable, even at personal sacrifice, they attend their party conventions, and by their presence and influence lend their aid to securing the nomination of candidates of sterling character upon whom they can depend to carry out their views, and that they urge the adoption of an explicit resolution demanding the unconditional repeal of the disgraceful race-track laws at once.

Third—In case, notwithstanding your best efforts to the contrary, candidates should be nominated by your party for the Legislature, or for the office of Sheriff, who cannot be trusted on the race-track issue, then, we advise you to bolt such nominations forthwith, and to support with all your might the candidates of the opposite party if there is reason to believe they can be trusted in the matters above stated.

Fourth—If the nominees of both parties seem to be unreliable and therefore unsatisfactory, we advise you to call a meeting immediately of the law-abiding voters of your district, and unitedly nominate and support candidates of well-known ability and integrity whose position is clearly defined.

Experience warns us not to trust too confidently in evasive assurance of candidates who are too weak to resist party dictation, or to scorn a price for their services.

In conclusion, we beg to suggest that there are no political issues to divide the people this Fall. The one sole and paramount issue is the redemption of the State from the infamy of last Winter, and under whatsoever political banner that issue can be best fought out, there should every citizen of New Jersey who regards the honor of his State and the best interests of the community and his home, be found. In such a crisis indifference and apathy are little less than sinful; meek acquiescence in the dictation of professional politicians, a bondage degrading to the manhood of every American citizen.

It Cost Him $5.

Policeman Frederickson last night arrested a young man for being drunk and disorderly on Park avenue. It was his first offence, and he is very penitent. In court this morning he paid five dollars by order of Judge Coddington, and went his way.

DEMONSTRATION POSTPONED.

Trades Unions Defer Their Grand Flower and Open Air Public Demonstration.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The committee appointed by the trades unions to devise means for the relief of the unemployed spent three hours yesterday discussing whether or not it would be advisable to postpone the date of holding a demonstration to answer Gov. Flower's "evasive letter" to the committee's request for the opening of public works to aid the unemployed workmen. The meeting was but poorly attended, and some of those present were opposed to the holding of the demonstration, on the ground that it could not be made a success. The demonstration committee reported in favor of postponing the meeting until Oct. 7, and this was finally adopted. The chairman, Robert M. Campbell, reported that Typographical Union No. 6 had raised $4,000 for unemployed printers.

Five Indians Hanged.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A special to the World from Cado, I. T., says: Parties who have come in from across country where they had been on a hunting and fishing expedition, report finding five Choctaws swinging to a limb about 40 miles from here on Boggy creek. They had evidently been dead for several days. It is impossible to learn anything further. The sheriff has gone to the scene and will report when he returns. It is thought that the recent election is at the bottom of it.

THE REPUBLIC SAFE.

The Brazilian Minister Says Their Form of Government Will Remain.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 25.—When Secretary Gresham returns to Washington it is probable that full and reliable information regarding the revolution in Brazil will be given to the public. Minister Mendonca, who returned to Washington several days ago, intends to have a conference with the secretary immediately on his arrival. The minister said that he was fully informed upon the situation at Rio, being in daily receipt of cablegrams from his colleagues in London, who were in direct communication with the officials of the home government. He persistently refrains from imparting any information to the public, however, until he has had a conference with Secretary Gresham. While he is at liberty to make known his private information on the affairs of Brazil, he believes it would be impolitic to do so, as the information is intended to be conveyed to the government of the United States. He said that the report sent out from London that a new form of government would be established in Brazil was not warranted by facts in his possession.

"I wish you would state in the most emphatic language," said the minister, "that whatever may be the result of the present trouble, there is one thing certain, that Brazil will remain a republic and her institutions will not suffer."

Maitland Kersey, the agent of the White Star line, and the earl's representative in America. On the trip, Lord Dunraven wore the uniform of the Royal Yacht squadron of England. His two daughters, both of whom are grown, wore blue yachting dresses with broad white collars and bright gold buttons and braided caps of the same organization.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former anless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. They are up to date.

DIXON DEFEATS SMITH

An Exciting Encounter of Seven Rounds.

SMITH GAME TO THE FINISH

The Defeated Fighter Arrested After the Completion of the Contest on a Charge of Prize-Fighting in Indiana—Others Wanted But Not to be Found.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., Sep. 26.—Despite the unpleasant evening the sporting fraternity went in droves to the Coney Island athletic club last night to see the much talked-of prize fight between George Dixon and Solly Smith. The fact of Smith having knocked out Johnny Griffin recently at Roby, gave him many supporters. This match has attracted more widespread interest than any other fight that has been held at Coney Island since the club has been in existence. Prominent sporting men were here from all parts of the country and the attendance was very much larger than had been expected. There was a preliminary bout between Jim Burge and Fred Morris, which was won by Morris in ten rounds. The referee, P. J. Donohue, had scarcely rendered his decision in the preliminary bout when George Dixon made his appearance in the ring accompanied by his seconds, Tom O'Rourke, George Godfrey and Jack Haverlin. Solly Smith was a few minutes later in making his appearance. His seconds were Billy Delaney, Seward Smith and Jack Oliver. They fought to a finish for a purse of $9,00 , of which the winner got $3,000 and the loser $1,000. The bout was referred by John P. Eckhart.

Round one—But little time was lost in sparring for an opening. Smith rushed in on Dixon and did some very vicious in-fighting. Dixon found he had a hard nut to crack and he had some hard work during the remainder of the round. Both men fought hard and their work was clean cut. Smith was not the least bit afraid of Dixon.

Round two—Dixon was short with left and Smith planted a stinging left on the nose and fought Dixon to the ropes. Dixon tried his left, but Smith crossed him. Dixon planted his right on Smith's ear and a sharp rally ensued when Dixon planted his right on Smith's jaw. Smith tottered and clinched when the bell rang at what appeared to be the critical point for Smith.

Round three—Dixon followed up the advantage of the previous round and went right in and forced the fighting. He knocked Smith down three times in rapid succession and had him almost out. The fighting was of the most rapid character. Dixon kept swinging his left with great force into Smith's stomach until he had him much exhausted.

Round four—Good condition and handling sent Smith to the center looking fresher. Dixon led on the chest and clinched. Sharp rally and hard in-fighting of which Dixon had all the best. Smith appeared worried while Dixon was smiling. Dixon lands his left twice in succession. This is clearly the colored lad's round.

Round five—Smith came up strong in this round. Dixon forced the fighting and Smith met him with good straight left hand blows, and succeeded in making the blood flow very freely from Dixon's face. Smith grew stronger and landed some good stiff punches. Dixon was still doing the majority of the landing but not fighting quite so rapidly.

Round six—Both responded quickly. Dixon tries and fails but repeats with better success. Smith puts his left hand on Dixon's nose and draws blood which runs freely. Dixon tries his left and is countered hard by Solly. Dixon tries with right and left but it was met gamely by Solly. The bell rings on what appears to be the most evenly contested round of the battle.

Round seven—Dixon landed a stiff left-hander on Smith's jaw shortly after the round commenced and, as Smith staggered backwards, Dixon sprang upon him like a tiger and planted right and left with rapid succession. Smith sank to the floor under this punishment and took advantage of the nine seconds. He rose to his feet only to be sent to the floor again. This time he came up very much weaker than before, but Dixon stood over him knowing full well the value of every second at so vital a stage of the game. Smith never got a chance to recover, as Dixon uppercut him with tremendous force, sending him to the floor on his face. Smith was game and tried his utmost to rally, but was only able to get up to his feet and sink to the floor again from exhaustion before Dixon could get over him. Referee Eckhart then declared Dixon the victor. The time of this round was two minutes and 42 seconds.

The crowd cheered Dixon for his victory and Smith for the game fight he put up. It looked at one time during the early part of the seventh round as though Smith might be able to last for at least a half dozen more rounds, although his punishment about the body was very severe.

Hardly had the battle ended and just as the participants of the contest were donning their citizens' clothes, Smith was put under arrest by a sheriff of Roby, Ind., for being a principal in a prize fight recently with Johnny Griffin. The sheriff had made all preparations to capture his man and exhibited requisition papers. He then placed Smith under arrest, but at Judge Newton's suggestion he allowed Smith his liberty under the promise that Newton would be responsible for the defeated fighter until to-day when Solly will probably be taken into custody and brought to Roby to stand trial. The sheriff also had papers for Griffin who was present at the fight but the latter got the tip and evaded arrest.

NOT DEPOSED.

An Administrator Merely Appointed for Archbishop Kenrick's Diocese.

ST. LOUIS, Sep. 26.—The announcement recently made by the United Press that Archbishop Kenrick of this diocese had been retired and that Archbishop Kain had been appointed administrator created considerable of a sensation among the clergy and laity of the country. Many doubted the statement and a Washington telegram this morning denies the story. Notwithstanding these denials it can be unequivocally stated that such appointment has been made. It was brought about as follows:

A committee of priests from this city visited Cardinal Gibbons at Dubuque, Ia., on Sunday, Sep. 17 and there laid the matter before him. The cardinal said the alternatives were resignation or transfer of administration. In order to accomplish the former Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, was requested to visit Archbishop Kenrick and induce him to resign. His mission was unsuccessful. Archbishop Kenrick flatly refused to resign and therefore nothing was left but the appointment of an administrator. The matter was then referred to Mgr. Satolli and last week the papers bearing on the case reached Washington.

The latter instructed his secretary, Mgr. Papi, to draw up the necessary papers, endowing Archbishop Kain with full administrative powers in the diocese of St. Louis and these papers are expected to reach here to-day.

Archbishop Kenrick, however, has not been "deposed." That would mean degradation. He has merely had an administrator appointed for his diocese.

BROCKWAY FILES ANSWER.

Thinks the State is Responsible for His Actions in the Elmira Reformatory.

NEW YORK, Sep. 26.—Z. Read Brockway, superintendent of the Elmira reformatory, against whom a suit for $25,000 damages has been brought by William Gussman, as guardian of Charles J. Cleare, has just filed an answer through his attorneys, in which he asks that the case be tried at Elmira.

The plaintiff alleged that Brockway assaulted him without justification and contrary to law.

Brockway in his answer makes no specific denial, but claims that if the assaults took place they were committed by him as a matter of discipline while acting as superintendent of the reformatory, and in no other capacity, and he pleads the fact of his being superintendent as a right to commit such assault.

He also seeks to place responsibility on the institution, and accordingly suggests that the state should pay all costs.

THE SITUATION AT BRUNSWICK.

Surgeon Faget Expects More Cases of Fever, But in Lighter Forms.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sep. 26.—In an interview last evening Surgeon Faget stated that while the air was poisoned and the fever was in an epidemic form, he expected that a majority of the cases from now on will be of a mild type and the fatality small, a thorough organization of physicians and nurses having now been perfected to handle the epidemic.

He says further that frost may be expected here within 25 days.

Dr. Faget says the relief now being furnished to the poor will greatly aid in preparing their bodies to resist the ravages of the fever.

HELD UP AN ARSENAL.

Robbers Attack a Decoy Train Full of Armed Detectives.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sep. 26.—The Kansas City, St. Joe & Council Bluffs road foiled an attempt to rob one of its passenger trains, killed two of the bandits and captured three others at Francis, one and a half miles from this city late Sunday night. The dead are Fred Kohler and Hugh Engel.

The names of those captured are N. A. Hurst, Charles Fredericks and William Garvey. Henry Glietze escaped.

Train No. 3 was the intended victim. It left Kansas City at 9:07 and arrived here at 12:30 a. m. The officers of the railroad had been notified that the robbery of the train had been planned, and they notified the police. When the train arrived here a dummy train was made up, and 16 police officers, under the command of the chief of police, were put aboard.

In order to thoroughly deceive the robbers the train was made an exact duplicate of train No. 3, and consisted of an engine and baggage car and the usual coach and Pullmans. When the dummy reached a point two miles north of St. Joseph the engineer's attention was attracted by a lighted lantern moving to and fro between the rails. He obeyed the signal and six masked men surrounded the train.

One of the six mounted the engine, and presenting one revolver at the engineer's head and another at the fireman's, held them in subjection, while the other five men hastened to rob the express car. They ordered the "messenger" to open the door, which he did forthwith. Three of the bandits at once entered the car, leaving two without to keep guard.

The policemen who were guarding the train were distributed in the various cars, the majority of them being concealed in the express car. When the three bandits who had undertaken the work of robbing the car entered the door the police called upon them to surrender. The robbers were taken completely by surprise, but they opened fire at once upon the police. The police returned the fire, and a general fusillade followed. About 25 shots were fired on both sides. When the smoke cleared away the bodies of Kohler and Engel were found.

Coroner Reynolds held an inquest over the bodies of Kohler and Engle the jury deciding that they came to their deaths while attempting to rob a train. Their relatives attempted to prove that the railroad officials could have captured the men without shooting them and tried to make out a case of murder, but it was not entertained.

There is evidence that other robberies have been planned.

IDEALS OF RELIGION

Interesting Papers Before the Religious Parliament.

THE GOSPEL OF HUMANITY

Exalted Opinion of the Marriage Relation—The Worship of God in Man—Any Religion Better Than None—All Religious Propositions for Christianity.

CHICAGO, Sep. 26.—A paper entitled "A White Life for Two," prepared by Miss Frances E. Willard, was read at the evening session of the religious congress by Secretary Pipe. The paper set forth that upon the faithfulness of two lives linked together to each other depended the sanctity of the home, the purity of the church, the stability of society, and the safety of the nation. Marriage was the sum of earthly weal or woe to those that share its sacrament. From a long observation she had arrived at the conclusion that men loved home better than women.

Miss Susan B. Anthony read a paper prepared by Elizabeth Cady Stanton entitled "The Worship of God in Man." In the opinion of the writer of this paper the next form of religion will be the religion of humanity in which men and women will worship what they see of the divine of each other—the virtues, beautudes, attributes and possibilities of Deity as reflected in moral beings. The new religion would teach the dignity of human nature and its individual possibilities or development.

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., founder of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor, read the closing paper of the evening. "However bad things may have been with religion," he said, "they would have been worse without it. Hate, lust, envy, malice, untruthfulness, had no creed and hell had no religion. Superstition without religion would rule without check. China without Confucius would be infinitely worse than China with Confucius. As religions of all kinds were preparations for Christianity, Christian unity, the union of all creeds, was looked upon as an ideal, but every great cause for which men fought, worked and died, had been an ideal at its inception."

ATTACKING CLEVELAND

Senator Stewart Scores the President in a Speech.

ALLEGED ABUSE OF CONGRESS

Several Important Bills Introduced in the House—Proposed Tax on Inheritances—Bill to Include the Secretary of Agriculture in the Presidential Succession.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 26.—President Cleveland was the object of a prolonged personal attack in the senate yesterday on the part of Senator Stewart (rep., Nev.) Mr. Stewart spoke for nearly three hours on the resolution which he had offered last Saturday as to the relative independence of the three branches of the government. That independence he charged the president with disregarding in many ways, but particularly in not causing the silver purchase law and the Chinese expulsion law to be faithfully executed. But worse even than the non-execution of these laws appeared to be, in Mr. Stewart's opinion, the contemptuous allusions to congress which he found in some of Mr. Cleveland's letters and interviews. He was particularly embittered at the president's allusion in one of his letters to "having congress on his hands." This was an indignity beyond endurance. And then in retaliation, the Nevada senator scoffed at the president for his want of a collegiate or any other liberal education that would fit him for his high office, and read the president's brief biography in the congressional directory, laying much stress on, and seeking to extract humor from the points of Mr. Cleveland's career as assistant teacher of the blind, clerk, sheriff, mayor and practicing lawyer.

Speeches against the repeal bill were then made by Mr. Cameron (rep., Pa.) and Mr. Bate (dem., Tenn.) After those speeches Mr. Stewart occupied the remainder of the day's session. The senate adjourned at 5:45.

Mr. Erdman of Pennsylvania introduced in the house yesterday a bill to impose a tax on succession to real estate and legacies. The measure provides that when the successor shall be the lineal issue of the predecessor a duty at the rate of one per centum shall be assessed on the value in excess of $100,000 and less than $500,000, and at five per cent. on value in excess of $500,000. When the successor shall be in any degree of collateral consanguinity to the predecessor, or a stranger in blood to him, a duty at the rate of two per cent. upon the value in excess of $100,000 and less than $500,000 is to be assessed; on value above this a duty of six per cent. The bill contains a proviso that no duty shall be levied in respect of any successor when such shall be the wife of the predecessor.

Mr. Haltman of Montana introduced in the house a bill similar to the Walcott senate bill suspending for the year 1893 the mining laws of the United States requiring all locators of quartz lode mining claims to perform $100 worth of work on each claim annually.

Carter, assistant surgeon, United States of America, to accept from the British government medals awarded them for their humane services to the shipwrecked crew of the British ship Strathblane.

Mr. Powers of Vermont, from the committee on judiciary, reported to the house, with a report recommending its passage, his bill amending the presidential succession act of the 49th congress by making the secretary of agriculture eligible to fill the office of president in case of death of the president, vice president and the other members of the cabinet.

Mr. Lapham of Rhode Island, introduced in the house a bill appropiating $300,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a post office at Providence, R. I.

As the child turned from the pictures, he brushed against the arm of the workman, who had in his hand a ladle of molten solder, which he had melted on a small hand furnace, and was about to pour into a cavity in the railing. The hot metal was dashed into the child's face, making deep burns on the right cheek, and about the forehead and eyes, and taking off the skin. He was carried into a nearby drug store and Dr. J. B. LEYS IN HIDING NEAR BUFFALO.

The Aged Legislator, Embezzled Every Cent of Trust in His Charge.

BUFFALO, Sep. 26.—John Leys of Toronto, queen's counsel and ex-member of the Ontario legislature, who fled from the city last week to escape the consequences of his embezzlement of trust funds in his charge, was in Buffalo yesterday and is now in hiding near this city.

Leys is 60 years of age, and for many years occupied a high position at the Canadian bar, being looked upon as an eminent citizen. He was the legal adviser of the Freehold loan association, which position carried a salary of $6,500 a year, and this with his fees from other corporations gave him an income of over $10,000. He managed several rich estates and dealt much in realty during the boom of 1887-89. He appears to have embezzled every cent of funds in his charge.

The Harsley estate, which represented $158,000, has entirely disappeared, and the Dick estate, representing $20,000, is also completely depleted. These amounts are supplemented by many others, bringing the defalcation, with his debts, to $300,000 at least, and probably much more.

Mr. Leys stated to a reporter that every cent of his fortune had been lost through real estate speculation and he had drawn upon the trust funds in his possession to recover himself, but they too were swallowed up in the same way. He was too old now, he said, to atone for his wrongdoings and restore his good name, and nothing was left him but to get away from Canada and hide himself.

STOLE TO PAY HIS BILLS.

THIS SCOTCH PLAINS HIGH LIVER WAS A DEFAULTER.

He Kept His Family in Fine Style, Astonishing the Villagers, But Is in Disgrace at Last.

Scotch Plains people have long been wondering how John F. Collins lived in such high style. Now they know, and they are grieved at the knowledge.

Collins was cashier for Reinhard, Seidenberg & Co., cotton brokers, 75 Cotton Exchange building. Yesterday they caused his arrest, and that of their bookkeeper. Ernest Jennings Greene, for alleged systematic robbery. According to the confessions of the two men, as made public by Inspector McLaughlin, Greene stole over $3,000 and Collins over $10,000. It is thought that the firm may have lost much more than $13,000.

Greene is 23 years old and unmarried. He lives at 719 Lexington avenue, Brooklyn. His salary as a bookkeeper was comparatively small, yet he lived in luxurious style and always had a plenty of money. So did Collins at Scotch Plains. When Green was arrested, he made a full confession and said that John F. Collins, the cashier for Siedenberg & Co., had been in collusion with him. The police arrested Collins, who also confessed. Collins is 24 years old. He has worked for his employers eleven years. Four years ago he was made cashier. He said that he had been stealing for the last three years and had taken about $10,000. He says he invested it in a house at Scotch Plains, in a stage line, which his father runs, and in jewelry and diamonds. His plan was similar to that of Greene.

Two checks were found and will be used in evidence. One was drawn on May 31 on the Corn Exchange Bank to the order of C. E. Rich for $1,550.64. Collins forged Rich's endorsement. The other check was dated June 16, to C. E. Rich's order, for $837.90. Greene was remanded at the Tombs Police Court. Collins is locked up at Police Headquarters and both were arraigned in the Tombs this morning.

It was decided today to have both hearings tomorrow afternoon.

Collins was well thought of in Scotch Plains, for he always treated the tradesmen right and paid his bills. The family have the sincere sympathy of all in the crushing blow.

Collins had had Greene at his house as a guest, and had had him installed in the Scotch Plains Royal Arcanum.

One of the Fair's Astonishers.

An amusing incident is related of Calverley, the man who has astonished the world by walking across Niagara Falls on a three-quarter-inch cable.

During the week's engagement at the Falls, general arrangements were made whereby the hero of Niagara carried a man across the water on his back. The first journey was made in capital style, both Calverley and his jockey appearing to enjoy the trip, and the spectators shouted themselves hoarse.

But when the end of the wire had been reached a difficulty presented itself which had been overlooked.

Reaching the landing stage, Calverley unbuckled his harness and threw the apparatus to the ground, and then for the first time came the question: How was the jockey to reach the ground, one hundred feet below? There were no steps to the pole, nor were there any means by which the jockey could descend.

The two men looked at one another a moment in blank dismay, and then Calverley laughed till the pole against which the two men were standing shook violently.

The spectators wondered what would happen, and Manager Jackson was getting fidgety, when Calverley struck an idea, the carrying into execution of which produced for the first time a high-wire feat the like of which had never previously been witnessed, and which must rank among the most famous of Calverley's performances.

"All right, Colonel"—he called to his manager, and then, telling his jockey to place his hands on his shoulders and follow him across the wire, stepping only when he stepped, he started. At first the jockey displayed a little nervousness, but after a few steps he recovered his composure, and the pair proceeded slowly across the wire amid the breathless silence of 20,000 spectators. Calverley displayed extraordinary balancing power, and all who saw the feat recorded it as the most wonderful on record.

Mr. Calverley will be one of the many special attractions at the Great Inter-State Fair, now being held at Trenton, and to remain open until September 29. He will give daily performances on a wire eighty feet high.

This Canadian Blondin is the greatest high-wire performer in the world.

Last evening about 8, while one of the electric cars was making its trip on Somerset street, it ran at full speed into a carriage. A severe shock was felt by the occupants; but no serious damage resulted. Henry McKinsey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thoms, and their young child, were the occupants of the carriage.

THEIR NEW PARISH HOME.

Description of the Building Which the Women's Friendly Society of the Church of the Heavenly Rest Have Erected.

The new parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Clinton avenue, Evona, the erection of which was commenced last May, is now wholly completed, and is a monument to the industry of the Women's Friendly Society of the church, to whose efforts the church owes the new building.

The structure is twenty-five by sixty-five feet. It contains a Sunday-school room, a room for the different societies of the church to hold their meetings in, and a library and reading room. The Sunday-school room is much larger than the two other rooms, and is to be well heated, and lighted by stained glass windows.

East of the Sunday-school room are the two smaller rooms. In the Sunday-school room, between the doors which lead into the small rooms, is a raised platform for the Superintendent's desk. In the library and reading room are shelves containing a collection of books, racks for holding newspapers, and tables for reading and the playing of games. In the assembly room are drawers, closets and a large sink, to be used when refreshments are to be served in the building. The building is constructed of brick, finished throughout with hard wood, and lighted with gas.

Much admiration for the new parish building is expressed by friends of the church, and those who hereafter enjoy it will not forget to whom they are indebted for the comfortable and homelike structure.

Gorton's Pleased the People.

Gorton's Minstrels gave their excellent performance in Music Hall last night, to a most appreciative audience. The singing and dancing of the brothers Elliot were received with great applause. J. Walter Wilson's bass solo was another feature of the singing. Griffin and Marks, the funny fat men, caused great amusement by their acrobatic feats. Their best work, however, was done in the scene entitled "Fun in a Chinese Laundry. It would be difficult to find more amusing feats than were performed by these funny make-believe Chinamen. DeWitt Cooke performed wonderful feats with the Indian clubs. He is well named the King of Clubs. The song by Ed. Marks, "The Cat Came Back", caused great merriment. Frank Clayton, the musical comedian, amused the audience with his sallies of wit, and gave some good music. Too much cannot be said for the dancing in last night's performance. It was excellent. Gorton's Minstrels are a credit to Charles H. Larkin, who has the management of the company.

Worse Than Keeping School.

(From The New Brunswick Home News.)

Managing a newspaper is worse than keeping school, for the editor has more to do with human nature than the school teacher, and human nature has more contrarieties in it than a leopard has spots on his overcoat. What may tickle the fancy of one man is likely to exasperate the temper of another. To write about matters which concern the interests of a good many people is to find out that some are highly pleased with what the editor says, while the very same thing will make others so mad they would like to get their hands on him just for once. We caution everybody against envying a newspaper editor and wishing they were in his place. There are times when the editor would be willing to make a brief exchange with somebody else, and that is when an irate stranger with fire in his eye and a heavy bludgeon in his hand darkens the door of the sanctum and inquires if the editor is in. Then a temporary exchange would be convenient. The hod carrier whose back aches after climbing up and down a six-story building all day, and who contemplates a change of business for the sake of relieving his weary limbs, we would advise him to avoid choosing the management of a newspaper, for if he should be so unfortunate as to make such a choice, he will find out that he'll not only have the backache, but the headache and heartache to keep company with it.

A Bright Young Man Outwitted.

A local milkman left his horse and wagon standing unwatched in front of a store on Front street one day last week. It was then that a young man who is inclined to play jokes on his friends took a two-quart can of milk from the wagon, drank the milk and kept the can until a favorable opportunity came for returning it undiscovered.

Yesterday the young man went to the milkman's home, crawled into the yard placed the stolen pail on the back stoop. He was detected by the owner, however, and the laugh is now on him. The joker has paid for the milk which he took so much trouble to secure.

Here's Juvenile Enterprise.

Louise Fisher, Bertha Fisher, Lizzie Denecklau and Frank Denecklau gave a fair at 323 East Front street Saturday afternoon and evening. Many useful things were on sale in the parlors. Last year's "late visitor" was again on hand and purchased liberally. The proceeds of the fair amounted to the handsome sum of $33.43, and will go to the Sunday-school fund of Trinity Reformed church.

McFadden Thrown Down.

James McFadden, of the street cleaning department, was nearly run down by a horse and wagon on East Front street, this morning. Mr. McFadden and his pneumatic push cart were wedged in between the car track and curb when a car came along, frightening a grocery horse, and Mr. McFadden in his endeavor to stop the horse was thrown on the sidewalk.

THE NAUGHTY STATUE.

A Greek Tragedy in One Act by the Author of "Ta-ra-boom-de-ay", "O Fair Dove, O Fond Dove!" "White Wings" and "When Nolan Pays His Rent".

SCENE:—The Little Porch in front of the Park Club. It is late, very, very late, and the night is black. The borough electric lights have gone out and their mother is cognizant of the fact. A young man with soft eyes and a mustache emerges from the microscopic vestibule; and, leaning upon the doorpost, lights a cigar. He is dazed, that is all. Had he appeared at the door of a New York club in the same condition it would not have been called daze, but here it could be nothing more. He stands thus for some time irresolute; and then, pulling himself together with a show of determination, coughs. The cough resounds from the barn across the way and echoes merrily from the little annex that was once a gate-house.

MR. WASHINGTON PARK (for it is he, puffing his cigar thoughtfully)—Yes, I'm going to do it. The thing might as well be settled once and for all, and why not now? (He knocks the ashes from his cigar, and, straightening up again, steps jauntily along the sidewalk, around the corner by the old gate-house and out on the terrace beyond. Here he hesitates a moment to gather his wits, and, approaching the tall, athletic form which stands night and day in the rear of the club keeping tireless watch of the tennis-court and the backyard, blushingly addresses the ebon Umslopagaas) I say, old fellow, pardon the impertinence, but I've been wanting a word with you for some time.

THE NAUGHTY STATUE (assuming an expectant smile and an attitude of attention)—Well, what is it? Speak fast; this is my night on and I've no time to waste.

PARK (encouraged)—It is this: I have a tender, sympathizing disposition, and it seemed to me that with the cool autumnal nights so closely upon us, you might begin to feel that your present costume—

THE STATUE (with a downward glance)—Costume? What costume?

PARK—Well—er—perhaps I should have said lack of costume. I thought you might find your present negligé a bit chilly before long and I wanted to ask if you would n't like to have me see the House Committee about it so that—

THE STATUE (with dignity)—And is not this sufficient. What more, forsooth, do I need?

PARK—Well, I know, suit yourself, but would n't you be glad of an ulster and a pair of trousers? A fig-leaf, you know, is all right enough in summer, but—

THE STATUE (with more dignity)—Young man, you have said your say. Are you not aware that I have several brothers, exactly like me, doing duty as advertising signs in New York, Philadelphia and elsewhere, and that they, perforce, must wear the garb of Eden all winter? Why discriminate? No, thank you; if the tennis girls and boys have stood it all summer I guess I can stagger along through the rest of the year, and, for my part, I much prefer this sort of thing to any cast-off clothing you may happen to have in mind. However, convey to your committee the assurance of my most distinguished, undraped consideration and permit me to bid you a very good evening.

PARK (crushed and cringing)—Good evening; no offence, you know, really I—

THE STATUE—That 's all right, don't mention it, but say—any time you get tired of me here just remember I can have all the jobs I want elsewhere at my own price advertising patent medicines, infants' foods or dress reforms. (But MR. WASHINGTON PARK'S reply is lost in the night as he moves away, and silence broods over terrace and tennis-court and the barn across the way. Then THE NAUGHTY STATUE remounts his pedestal and once more assumes the attitude of a man dodging bricks.) THE CHUMP.

Great Reduction in Rates to the World's Fair, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

In order that a much wider circle of eastern people may have the opportunity of visiting the great Columbian Exposition, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has made a further reduction in its excursion rates. This reduction applies to the excursions of September 28, October 2, and an additional excursion just arranged for October 6. The round-trip rate from New York, Brooklyn, and Newark is $18, Elizabeth and New Brunswick $17.75, Trenton $17.50, and proportionately low rates from other stations. The parties will be carried in special trains running on express schedules, and composed of the standard passenger coaches of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The special train on each of the above dates will leave New York at 9 a. m., Jersey City 9:13, Newark 9:25, Elizabeth 9:32, New Brunswick 9:53, Trenton 10:23, Philadelphia 11:30 a. m., and arrive at Chicago 12:15 noon next day. Return coupons of the tickets will be valid for ten days, available only on trains leaving Chicago at 3:15 and 11:30 p. m.

These excursions place a visit to the Fair within the power of every one, and no person should fail to embrace the golden opportunity.

Christian Endeavor Rally.

What promises to be a most interesting and instructive meeting will be held Thursday evening of this week at 7:30, when the local societies of Christian Endeavor will meet in the First Baptist church.

The subject for the evening will be "Christian Endeavor, Its Past, Present and Future." Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, Eugene M. Cave and Andrew Wilson will make addresses. Vocal and instrumental music will be a feature of the programme.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

WESTFIELD TOPICS.

Club Consolidation—Rallying Day—The Fire Bell—Mr. Endicott Is Well Again.

WESTFIELD, Sept. 26.

The Rev. B. F. Bradford, of Upper Montclair, father of the world-famous Congregational preacher Amory H. Bradford, preached to the Congregationalists Sunday morning.

The Westfield Athletic and the Union League clubs each hold a meeting tonight to discuss further the question of consolidation. The proposed union has been delayed longer than was thought necessary by the friends of the movement. At times it seems destined not to be. If this is so a great injury has been done to club interests in the village by a few people. The healthy rivalry which has existed between the clubs was natural and pardonable. But the feeling of enmity which is manifested at this time by a few in the clubs is not what one should expect from grown men. It is suggestive of the nursery.

The Rallying Day exercises at the Presbyterian church were interesting and impressive. There was singing by the little people of the infant class; and addresses were delivered by the pastor, the Rev. N. W. Cadwell and by the Rev. William H. Ruth, of the M. E. church.

The firemen have purchased a $300 bell and are now getting specifications for a bell tower. It is thought that the tower will be constructed of wood.

Charles G. Endicott is able to attend to business after a long illness. He is a man who cannot be spared long by the town, and his recovery gives Westfielders much pleasure. REESE.

The National Baby in Wax.

Talk about being up to date! The Eden Musee has just added to its wax groups a "lifelike" picture of Baby Esther, the newcomer in the White House. Baby Ruth for a long time occupied the pretty imported cradle which the Musee had designed especially for the group, but now the new National baby occupies it, and Baby Ruth stands in the background holding the hand of her proud father, while Mrs. Cleveland affectionately caresses the new infant. This wax group is much discussed by all the patrons of the Musee, particularly the women.

"The Lovely Meteor", a new illusion by Delprade, the famous Parisian, is now being produced nightly at the Musee, and is most astounding. It represents a lovely woman floating in midair.

The Girards, two famous dancers, are also included in the stage performance.

The Hungarian orchestra's concerts, every afternoon and evening, are brimful of charming and popular selections. A well-conducted buffet is attached to the Winter Garden. There is an afternoon and evening performance every day at the Musee.

Madame Lozem's Reception.

Madame Iza Lezem will hold the opening reception of her school for the teaching of physical culture, Delsarte, deportment, and ball room and fancy dancing, in Hulett's Hall, West Front street, October 3, from 3 to 5 p. m.

Madame Lezem is well known in Plainfield for her excellent work with pupils. She arranged the dances for the St. Mary's school commencement, in Stillman Music Hall, last June. These dances were a source of genuine satisfaction and pleasure to all concerned, and the teachers of the school unite with the Madame's other patrons in recommendations of her ability as an instructor.

All ladies, with their children, are cordially invited to attend the Madame's opening reception to be held in Hulett's Hall October 3.

The time to stop advertising is—
When you are dead.

Held Up.

The day of "holding up" stage coaches is passing away with the stages, and now the highwaymen have taken to holding up railroad trains. No doubt, in the coming day when our descendants will have mastered the art of flying, there will be airy highwaymen who will make them stand and deliver en route, as the fishhawk robs the gull.

There are still stages in the west, and there are still highwaymen out there. Not long since a stage from east Oregon was hurrying toward Portland, and in it were four men and a lady. The lady had been out to the mines to see a brother, and there was that in her face and manner that denoted character and breeding.

They were jolting along, those on the same seat trying to talk and the others trying in vain to sleep, when the stage came to a sudden halt and a heavily bearded man pushed a rifle into the door and called out: "Tumble out, there! First man tries to shoot I'll send daylight through!"

An elderly man sitting by the lady was seen by her to drop some gold pieces into one of his boots, which were outside his trousers.

The passengers and driver were stood up in line, their hands raised above their heads, and two men, evidently disguised, began to turn their pockets inside out.

They were swearing at their ill luck and were about to examine the woman's dress, something rarely done by these wretches, when she said, with great calmness and a sweet smile:

"I have no money about me, except a few dollars in my wallet. Here it is. But this man to my right, to my certain knowledge, has a lot of gold in his right boot."

On hearing this the highwaymen raised their hats, thanked her, and leaving her unmolested turned their attention to the man indicated.

After the mailbags had been rifled the stage was permitted to go on.

The man who had been robbed and his associates were furious at the woman, and the former said:

"When we get to Portland, madam, I'll have you arrested as an associate, an accomplice, of those thieves!"

"When we get to Portland," said the lady, with imperturbable calmness, "I want you and these other gentlemen to dine with me at my hotel, when I think I can explain my conduct to the entire satisfaction of all."

She gave them her address, and in due time they reached Portland and at the appointed time were at the lady's hotel.

They found a fine dinner prepared, and when the meal was concluded the lady took out her pocketbook and showed her company 20 one thousand dollar bills.

"I wanted to divert the attention of the robbers from myself and this prize," she said, "and on the instant it came to me to direct their attention to our friend's boot. As you know, my ruse worked to a charm. I saved my own money and so can well afford to pay this gentleman what he lost."

And the company drank her health and declared that only a woman could have kept her head at such a time.

POCOHONTAS DAUGHTER

Mrs. William Westphal Surprised by Many Friends On Her Birthday—Dancing, Music, Feasting and Games—A Merry Party.

A very pleasant surprise party was given last night to Mrs William A. Westphal by the members of Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., on the occasion of her twenty-fourth birthday.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather, a number of guests assembled at the residence of Mrs. Fred Canfield, West Fifth street, and proceeded in a body to the house of Mrs. Westphal, at Fourth and Liberty streets, and took possession of the premises.

It would be impossible to depict the pleasant surprise of the blushing recipient of the honors, but the hosts proved themselves equal to the occasion, and immediately proceeded to roll up the carpets and supply refreshments. Samuel Frazee furnished music.

In the game entitled "pinning the donkey's tail", the first prize was won by Wm. Newcorn, who managed to pin the donkey's tail in its proper position. The booby prize was won by Mrs. Charles L. Holstein, who succeeded in pinning the tail at the greatest distance from the donkey. The guests then retired to the rooms cleared for the dancing, and had the merriest kind of a time. During the intermissions in the dancing, the guests were favored by songs from J Wm. Klein, Charles L. Holstein and Mrs. William A. Westphal; a recitation was given by William A. Westphal; and specimens of fancy dancing were well executed by five-year-old Miss Ada Westphal, assisted by Miss Amanda Reisberg.

About 1 the guests retired to the banquet room and partook of the collation, during which time William Newcorn in a few well-chosen remarks thanked the host and hostess for their hospitality to the guests assembled and offered the sincere congratulations of the entire company on the celebration of Mrs. William A. Westphal's twenty-fourth birthday.

Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westphal, Sr., Mr. and Fred Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. J. William Klein, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wyckoff, and the Misses Bertha Dreier, Hannah and Amanda Reisberg, Mrs. Emma Weigman, Mrs. Eliza Radin, Mrs. Emily Cox, Mrs. R. Mattis, Miss Mary Duvier and E. VanDorton.

The Tricks of Time.

When I go to get on a horse, I see
I ain't so young as I used to be.
I can't vault into the saddle quite
As easy as one that is spryer might.
I'm as stiff as one that has rheumatism;
This is the trick of old Time—it is!

When I look into the glass, I see
I ain't so young as I used to be.
For at my eyes there are lines that meet,
By some I have heard 'em called "crow feet."
But how did I get 'em? I'll bet a dime
It's another of them old tricks of Time.

When I try to read in a book, I see
I ain't so young as I used to be.
If I want to know what it's all about,
I vow, I must take my glasses out!
It amazes me that I'm in this fix,
But Time is a "terror for playing us tricks."

When I go to brush my pate, I see
I ain't so young as I used to be.
I declare, it makes me feel appalled
To find that I'm getting very bald!
Now, what did the trickster Time want with
The hair of a fellow like old John Smith?

There's a heap of things that make me see
I ain't so young as I used to be,
But after awhile I'll hit by bits
Get to be sorter resigned to it.
Anyhow, 'tain't no use to bawl—
Time plays the same old tricks on all!

—Susie M. Best.

The Source of Song.

Too much we poets sing of love, you say;
You bid us pitch our songs in higher key.
We look, we listen with our souls and pray
To learn if such there be.

Not sing of love? Then we must close our eyes
And ears to every sweetest sight and sound;
For love hath many witnesses that rise,
E'en from the very ground.

Upon the apple's cheek the blushes glow,
Brought thither by the kiss of wind and sun.
The sea calls to the little streams, and lo!
They answer every one.

With sweetest music from the boughs above,
The happy mated birds the whole day long
Give me a glad assurance that 'tis love
That fills the world with song.

Not sing of love, when over all below
It reigns from morn till night, from night till morn?
Atom loved atom ages gone, and so
The worlds were born.

Not sing of that strange power that thrills the heart
To wildest rapture, makes it strong and glad?
That sometimes in a life's all too heavy part
Keeps men from going mad.

You speak in vain. No power 'gainst this can move,
As long as earth by mortal feet is trod,
And this is truest truth—who sings of love
Will sing of God.

And never a song, however great or true,
So well the poet's heritage can prove,
As the heart's simple song, so old, so new,
The song of love.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable. WATERBURY CENTER, VT.—This is a small town, but often interesting happenings take place, even in a small town. This will be found interesting news.

Mrs. C. G. Town, a well-known resident of this place, tells the following story.

"I was suffering terribly from nervousness," she says, "with rheumatism for over 20 years and I did not think I could ever be cured. I have taken only two bottles of Dr. Greenes Nervura blood and nerve remedy and am now taking the third, and I can truly say that I have not been so well and free from pain for twenty years.

"What induced me to use this remedy was seeing the wonderful cure it wrought in my husband—it saved his life.

"I feel it my duty therefore to tell the great benefit I have received from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and to advise all who are ailing to try this wonderful medicine.

MRS. C. G. TOWN.

Just over the state line in Champlain, N. Y., lives a lady widely known, Mrs. B. Wilson by name, who also tells an interesting story.

"I have been seriously afflicted," she says, "with rheumatism for over 20 years and I did not think I could ever be cured. I have taken only two bottles of Dr. Greenes Nervura blood and nerve remedy and am now taking the third, and I can truly say that I have not been so well and free from pain for twenty years.

"What induced me to use this remedy was seeing the wonderful cure it wrought in my husband—it saved his life.

"I feel it my duty therefore to tell the great benefit I have received from the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and to advise all who are ailing to try this wonderful medicine.

MRS. B. WILSON.

"I have the most unbounded confidence in the curative powers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

Take this medicine now if you are not feeling just right, if you are weak, nervous, run down in health and strength; if you do not sleep well nights, and if you wake mornings tired and unrefreshed with little or no appetite for breakfast. Take it for headache, backache, constipation, stomach, liver or kidney complaints it is purely vegetable and harmless and druggists sell it for $1.

It should not be classed with ordinary patent medicines, for it is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th st., New York, the well-known and successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free in any case, personally or by letter.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

A SNUB FOR PEFFER

STEWART CONTINUES HIS STORY

The House Committee on Banking and Currency Will Listen to Everybody's Financial Schemes—Proposed Restriction of Immigration.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 27.—The Populist senator from Kansas met somewhat of a defeat yesterday in having a resolution of his laid on the table by a vote of 37 to 19. It was a call on the treasury department for information as to the anticipation of interest on United States bonds since 1861, information which Mr. Sherman said the senator could obtain for himself in any public library. Mr. Peffer intimated the treasury department was trying to withhold information to which the people were entitled, but Mr. Sherman's view of the case was accepted by the senate.

A resolution intended to have an important bearing on the repeal bill was offered by Mr. Dubois (Rep. Idaho,) proposing that no legislation relating to the federal election laws, the tariff or finance shall be considered until January, 1894, when the vacant seats from the states of Washington, Montana, and Wyoming, may be filled. The resolution went over until to-day when Mr. Dubois is to speak upon it. After the repeal bill was taken up, Mr. Perkins, (Rep. Cal.,) made a speech against it, in which, he declared himself a sincere believer in the use and coinage of both gold and silver. It was Mr. Perkins' first speech in the senate, except a eulogy on his predecessor, Mr. Stanford, and the impression made by it was very favorable to the new senator.

The remainder of the day's session was occupied by Mr. Stewart, in continuation of his remarks began on the previous day.

Mr. Stewart wound up his speech for the day with a passionate indictment of England as a monster that "stalked through the country" breaking down the interests of seven states and territories, that claimed to direct the legislation of congress, and whose voice had been heard last week, on the east front of the capitol, rebuking the senate. The session was closed with a personal explanation by Mr. Morgan, (Dem. Ala.,) denying the imputation of untriendliness between the president and himself, and a short speech by Mr. Voorhees, (Dem. Ind.,) eulogistic of the president.

In the house the debate upon the federal election repeal bill was not as exciting as was expected. Mr. Tucker of Virginia, who in Mr. Fitch's absence is in charge of the measure, delivered a carefully prepared and well considered speech upon the question, devoting himself principally to the constitutional points involved, although he took occasion to make some reference to John I. Davenport and his methods. Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania, replied, defending the election laws. Without transacting further business, the house adjourned.

The house committee on banking and currency has decided to inaugurate a series of hearings devoted to the subjects of the bills on the committee calendar. The first of these hearings will be on Friday next, at which time Representative Oates has been invited to speak for his bill to repeal the 10 per cent. state bank tax, and Representative McLaurin to speak for his resolution authorizing an increase of the currency by an issue of $125,000,000 of greenbacks. The committee will, it is expected, hold three or four sessions a week for the purpose of accommodating gentlemen having views upon the financial system of the government and who wish to bring them to public attention. It will first hear members of congress having bills pending before the committee, then members interested in those measures, and lastly, private citizens. In this same direction the chairman, on motion of Mr. Haugen, was requested to communicate with the proper authorities of the several states and request them to furnish the committee any information that may be obtained from the reports and records thereof relating to the banking systems therein. Under the action of the committee at its last session, Chairman Springer announced the following subcommittees which will have charge of all bills on the subjects named:

Increasing circulation of national banks—Sperry, Cobb of Alabama, and Haugen.

Repeal of tax on state bank circulation—Cox, Springer, Warner, Hall of Missouri, and Henderson of Illinois.

Mr. Curtis of Kansas introduced in the house a bill to further regulate immigration. It establishes additional requirements and provides that a male immigrant unmarried must possess $300, a single woman $100 and the head of a family $500 or they shall not be entitled to land.

The house committee on war claims ordered Mr. Belzhoover to report favorably his bill appropriating $3,447,945 for the payment of damages sustained by citizens of Pennsylvania from union and confederate troops during the late war. The losses occurred in the counties of Adams, Bedford, Cumberland, Franklin, Perry, Somerset and York and are known as the border claims.

Wilson's Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 27.—In conversation Chairman Wilson stated that he has already commenced work on his tariff bill, that unless some unexpected difficulties arise there would probably be no subcommittees appointed on the several schedules as was done in the case of the McKinley bill, and that no announcement of the progress made will be given out until the completed bill is ready for presentation to the house.

WHAT DID THEY FIGHT FOR?

Stories About the Financial End of the Dixon and Smith Contest.

NEW YORK, Sep. 27.—The World to-day says "George Dixon and Solly Smith did not fight for a purse of $10,000 at Coney Island Monday night, according to reports which were freely circulated around town yesterday. Rumor has it that R. Van Buren Newton, the enterprising and outspoken match maker of the organization, obeying John Y. McKane's instructions, refused to hang up a purse of $9,000 for the fight. This sum was offered by the Columbian athletic club, but O'Rourke was not particularly anxious to fight in Indiana. It is said that he proposed to McKane's man that the gross receipts be equally divided between the fighters and the club, which was done in the Dixon-Pierce fight. Rather than take the chance of losing money 'Czar' McKane, as the story goes, finally consented to this arrangement. It was soon learned, however, that Smith and his manager were not willing to enter into a scheme of this kind. So the smooth O'Rourke finally guaranteed Smith $3,000 if he won and $1,000 if Dixon whipped him, according to the reports. The fact that O'Rourke employed half a dozen trusted men to count the tickets after the fight would certainly seem to confirm the rumor. As far as can be learned the gross receipts exceeded $30,000."

WEEKS WILL BE EXTRADITED.

Unless Through Delay He Succeeds in Escaping from the Country.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 27.—The Costa Rican government has agreed to extradite Francis H. Weeks, the defaulter, who is now in San Jose, and unless the legal objection to this course that Weeks' lawyer will raise is successful, the fugitive will be brought back to the United States.

A dispatch was received at the state department from the United States consul at San Jose, stating that the government would be glad to grant papers of extradition. No steps will be taken in the matter, however, until the arrival at San Jose of Mr. Baker, the United States minister, who is now due at the Costa Rican government.

It is said that Weeks has employed one of the shrewdest lawyers in the country, a man of means and fertile resources, and that unless he is quickly sent away he may escape.

LESS HANDSHAKING.

President Cleveland Will Discontinue His Public Receptions.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 27.—The president has determined to discontinue his public receptions. The custom of receiving the public in the east room, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at one o'clock was inaugurated by President Cleveland early in his first term, was practiced by President Harrison throughout his term and was renewed by President Cleveland last March up to the time he went to Gray Gables to recuperate his health. No receptions of this kind have been given since then, and it is understood that the president means to discontinue them entirely, substituting special receptions to visiting bodies whenever the occasion justifies it.

MRS. HALLIDAY SICK.

No Visitors Allowed to See the Accused Woman.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 27.—Mrs. Halliday is a very sick woman. For a week she has been lying on her cot, groaning and mumbling. Last Wednesday she was taken with a severe vomiting fit and has been suffering from stomach troubles and chills. Dr. F. A. McWilliams, the jail physician, has been attending her and absolutely no visitors have been allowed to see her. It is probable the grand jury will finish their work and make known the result of their deliberations in the Halliday case to-day. It is believed that a true bill has been found against her.

ROYALTY IN THE REAR

Safe Place for the Queen's Son at Tell El-Kebir.

LATEST ENGLISH ARMY DISCLOSURE

Gen. Wolsley Said to Have Been Ordered by the Highest Authority in England to Keep the Royal Boy Out of Danger—The Radicals Make Capital of the Incident.

LONDON, Sep. 27.—The radicals have brought out some new evidence as to the charge of cowardice made against the Duke of Connaught, the queen's third son, commander at Aldershot, and the recipient recently of unusual honors during the manoeuvres at Guens. Connaught was accused of seeking to escape danger in the battle of the British troops under Gen. Wolseley with the Arabs at Tell El-Kebir, Egypt, in 1882. The origin of the accusation has been much discussed, especially since Connaught was appointed to the Aldershot command. A special correspondent, who was on the field of Tell El-Kebir, has now come out with a letter giving the full story. When the troops were formed for the attack, he says, the Duke of Connaught with his Guards brigade and Gen. Alison with his Highland brigade were in the first line. Shortly after this formation was made a dispatch from the highest quarter in England was handed to Gen. Wolseley. It instructed him not to expose the duke to danger in battle. Orders were given at once for a change in the line of attack. Connaught and his Guards brigade were marched to the rear and the Irish brigade was brought to the front. The purport of this change, says the correspondent, was understood perfectly throughout the army. Everybody knew that had the guards not been under the command of the queen's son, they would have retained their original post of peril and honor. This statement is accepted generally here as the bare truth. In the officers' corps the facts in it are said to have been known for years.

MITCHELL'S TRAINING PLACE.

Sandy Hill Selected, But It May Be Saratoga Lake.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sep. 27.—Charlie Mitchell, the English pugilist, has decided to go into training for his fight with champion James J. Corbett at Sandy Hill, three miles south of this place. According to the present arrangements he will arrive there with his trainer about Oct. 15. Mitchell will make his headquarters at the Clark House. W. B. Clark, the proprietor, who is an old friend of Mitchell, met him at the Hoffman house, New York, during a visit there last week, and secured the selection of Sandy Hill as a training place. The pugilist had not fully decided where he would go, but finally concluded to visit Mr. Clark for three or four weeks at least. If he is not submitted to too much annoyance he will remain until he has fitted himself for the great fight. It is said that Mitchell's trainers object to Sandy Hill as a training place, they preferring Saratoga lake.

ALLEGED CHICKEN THIEVES.

Two Vineland Women Arrested for Accumulating Neighbors' Fowls.

VINELAND, N. J., Sep. 27.—There was a sensation at this place yesterday when two women, Mrs. Sarah McCue and her daughter, Mrs. Noga, were arrested on the charge of being chicken thieves. A number of cases of chicken stealing have occurred in the last few days. Monday night some blooded fowls were stolen from W. C. McMahon. Mrs. McCue's house was searched, and it is alleged that not only were McMahon's chickens found, but a large number of other fowls were identified as the property of various parties. Mrs. McCue was held in bail for court and her daughter was discharged.

AMERICAN STOCKS IN LONDON.

The Market Flat—Silver Repeal the Cause. Gold Imports Expected.

LONDON, Sep. 27.—Silver has risen to 34 1-8 pence on small special orders and scanty supplies. There are no gold movements. The demand continues in the market. Stocks were flat. Americans closed at the worst on dividend misgivings and opposition to the repeal of the silver act. All opinions here agree that such pertinacious opposition to the will of the nation deserves severe condemnation. Gold exports from America are expected.

Race Track Matters in New Jersey.

NEW YORK, Sep. 27.—The September term of the Passaic county court opened at Paterson, N. J., Judge Dixon presiding. He made a brief charge to the jury, saying that at present nothing could be done towards preventing racing at the Clifton race track, owing to the state of the statutes. The trials of the indicted officials were set down for next Tuesday.

Jealous of Royalists.

PARIS, Sep. 27.—The cordiality with which the czar has received the Count of Paris and the Duke of Orleans in Copenhagen, is regarded here with distrust. Several newspapers say that by his unusual attention to the two arch-royalists, the czar is publicly slighting the republicans who are preparing to honor the Russian navy.

Medical Instruction at Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sep. 27.—Another practical step has been taken towards carrying out the plans for the establishment of a medical school in Princeton by the addition of three medical elective branches to the course of study.

ERIE'S WESTERN SYSTEM.

Decision Which May Break Up the Through Line to Chicago.

NEW YORK, Sep. 27.—In the United States circuit court Judge Lacombe denied the motion of the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio railroad company to instruct the receivers of the Erie company to pay the full amount due them as rentals or have it charged as a first lien against the Erie company. In 1883 the line from Salamanca, N. Y., to Dayton, O., was leased by the Erie at a rental of 32 per cent on its gross earnings. When the company went into the hands of receivers it owed $300,000, most of which was secured by drafts payable in the fall. The Erie company subsequently paid $331,439.83 which was greater than the net earnings of the road for the same time and according to the contract $240,000 would fall due in August and $100,000 in September. Judge Lacombe held that the receivers in their appointment did not hold themselves bound by the terms of the contract and the plaintiffs could if they wish enter into possession of the leased road. He refused the motion on these grounds.

GOVERNMENT VICTORIES.

Several Reported Defeats for the South American Rebels.

BUENOS AYRES, Sep. 27.—Gen. Pelligrini at the head of the government troops has recaptured the city of Tucuman. The insurgent forces occupying the city made only feeble resistance. After half an hour's fighting they fled. Pellegrini, his staff and 1,500 infantry at once marched to the building where the junta was sitting. All the members were taken prisoners and locked up under a strong military guard.

A smart fight took place off the coast between the government squadron and the torpedo boats which have joined the rebels. The torpedo boats made the attack. The whole government fleet bore down on them, silenced and boarded them and brought back all their crews as prisoners. Several officers on both sides were killed.

SETTLED AT LAST.

Manufacturers and the Amalgamated Reach an Agreement.

PITTSBURG, Sep. 27.—The trouble between the Iron Manufacturers association and the Amalgamated association has been settled. The conditions are a reduction of the price nearer to the selling card rate, with a 1 1-2 cent rate as the minimum basis. This is a reduction of 10 per cent. but it is not fixed, being a sort of sliding scale. For every advance of 1 1-10 in the selling price of iron above the 1 1-2 selling card rate, the finishers will receive an advance of 2 per cent. If the price advances 3-10 or 1-2 per cent the old scale rate will be paid. The change will not apply to the changes made at the June conference and will not affect the puddlers in any way.

The St. Paul Belle Leaves Her Negro Husband and Starts for New York.

ST. PAUL, Sep. 27. — The sensation over the marriage of Miss Jennie Mehl, the daughter of the former proprietor of the Hotel Ryan, was revived when it was announced that the young lady had resolved to forsake James Robinson, her negro husband. The girl has left for New York with her parents. The family will hereafter live in New York and Jennie will be placed in a convent. She will, however, have to wait the usual three years before she can secure a legal separation from Robinson.

CALL ANARCHISTS IDIOTS.

Vienna Socialists Cast Serious Reflections on the Police.

VIENNA, Sep. 27.—At a socialist meeting held in this city the speakers denounced the anarchists as idiots.

They suggested that the "discovery" of an anarchist conspiracy in Vienna was not such a startling matter as the newspapers claimed it to be, and hinted that the anarchists arrested here and at Brueun were in the pay of the police, whose object was to use the excitement caused by the alleged discovery of a plot as a counterchek to the socialist agitation for the extension of the franchise.

BOSTON, Sep. 27.—The slate of the democratic state convention to-day is Joseph H. O'Neil for permanent chairman and Josiah Quincy for chairman of the committee on resolutions. The platform takes strong ground for honest money and the repeal of the Sherman act. The tariff plank holds that the tariff is a closed question, the people having decided in 1890-1892 the whole question, and calls for the passing of a bill revising the schedules in accordance with the verdict of the people.

BISMARCK A WRECK

Only a Shadow of the Iron Chancellor.

SYMPATHETIC CORRESPONDENCE

Telegrams Between the Prince and the Emperor—Bismarck Unable to be Removed From His Present Surroundings—Talk About Reconciliation.

BERLIN, Sep 27.—Herr Allers, an artist, who is a close friend of the Bismarck family, has arrived here from Kissengen. He gives an unexpectedly discouraging report of the prince's condition. The most formidable of Bismarck's maladies, he says, has been acute pneumonia. The disease was not discovered by the physicians until Bismarck's condition had become critical. The physicians and family are exceedingly anxious and watch Bismarck constantly, as, although convalescing, he is very weak and quite liable to a relapse, which must prove fatal. According to Herr Aller's report the old man seems like a wreck. His splendid frame has shrunk and his flesh has fallen off until his clothes hang in folds. He appears as if fully a head shorter than before his illness. The princess is strongly opposed to removing him to Friedrichsruh. He, however, is anxious to go home.

Count Lehndorff, the emperor's adjutant, has returned from Kissingen, where he was trying to arrange for an interview between the emperor and Bismarck in the near future. Bismarck's physicians, the princess, Count Herbert, and his brother-in-law, Count Rantzau, wish to have the meeting deferred until the prince shall regain his strength. Nothing has been done, therefore, towards fixing definitely a date for the interview.

It is now possible for the first time to obtain the text of Emperor William's telegraphic correspondence with Prince Bismarck. From Guens the emperor sent, on Sept. 19, the following message to Kissingen:

"I have, to my great regret, only just learned that your highness has gone recently through a somewhat serious illness. At the same time I have received the news, thank God, that you are making steady progress towards recovery. I therefore beg to express my great satisfaction with this encouraging development. Being anxious to assist in thoroughly completing your recovery and establishing your health, I beg your highness, in view of the unfavorable climate and location of Friedrichsruh, as well as Varzin, to take up your quarters for the winter in one of my castles in central Germany. After conferring with my court marshal I shall communicate to your highness the names of the castles which will be most suitable to your purpose."

Prince Bismarck's reply to this dispatch was:

"With the deepest respect I thank your majesty for the gracious expression of your sympathy with me in my illness and of your satisfaction with the more recent improvement of my health. I thank your majesty no less for your gracious desire to assist in furthering my recovery by providing for me a residence under the most favorable climatic conditions. My respectful gratitude for your majesty's gracious intentions is in no way diminished by the conviction that, should it be God's will that I regain my health, my recovery would be quickest in my family circle, in the surroundings to which I now have been so long accustomed. My complaint being of a nervous nature, I share the opinion of my doctor that if I pass the winter in my wonted surroundings and occupations, my mode of life will be the most likely means of promoting my recovery. I agree with my doctor also in the opinion that the disturbance of my nervous system, which might result from a sojourn in strange surroundings and new associations such as would be necessitated by your majesty's gracious wishes, is, in view of my advanced age, to be avoided. Schweninger will take the earliest opportunity to put in writing these opinions, which I share with him."

SLAUGHTERED A COW.

FARMER COLE'S ANIMAL FOUND DEAD IN THE PASTURE.

An Unknown Man, who Must Have Been Desperate Through Hunger, Slew the Cow and Cut Off a Hind Quarter—The Deed Was Committed Last Night.

Louis Cole is a farmer, living on Front street, near Terrill road, Scotch Plains. Today he and the neighbors are wondering who the man is that slaughtered one of his cows last night and cut from the carcass a hind quarter of beef.

Mr. Cole has charge of the place on Front street near Terrill road belonging to Franklin Wylie, of New York; and during the summer he has pastured his three cows in the field behind the Wylie house.

The cows are generally left in the pasture over night, secured by long chains, which allows them considerable freedom.

One of Cole's farm hands, who with his family occupies the Wylie house, going into the pasture at six this morning, found one of the cows bound closely to a tree, slaughtered. In the throat of the animal were three ugly gashes. One of the hind quarters had been cut off and carried away. Tracks resembling those of a wheelbarrow were found in the field.

James Heath, a butcher, who dressed the meat this morning, said that the slaughtering of the animal was the work of an experienced person. No butcher working in daylight could have done a neater job.

Great interest in the affair is manifested by the people of the village. Crowds came and went in the field throughout the morning. Great indignation is expressed against the man who did the deed. It is thought that he must have been desperate through hunger.

The Plainfield police are at work on the case.

STOLE A ROOSTER.

That's the Charge to Be Made Against a Prominent Citizen.

One of the popular and most successful entertainments of the day is the mock court trial, given under the direction of an expert, Capt. A. V. Newton, manager of the Newton Entertainment Bureau of Worcester, Mass. Many of the cities and large towns in New England as well as in the Middle States have been greatly excited over it as attested by the lengthy and favorable reports in the newspapers, and by the great audiences that have packed the largest halls and opera-houses to the doors.

So great has been the interest that in many instances hundreds are said to have been turned away, unable to even obtain standing room.

It is a pleasure to announce that the mock court trial will be given in Stillman Music Hall, Monday evening, October 16, under the personal direction of its originator.

One of Plainfield's prominent citizens will be tried for the larceny of a Plymouth Rock rooster, and it is safe to predict that there will be fun by the acre.

The entertainment is instructive, interesting and exciting as well as fun-provoking. All the rules of a regular court of justice will be observed.

STABBED IN SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Boys Play Over a Rubber Ring and an Open Knife, with Serious Results.

(From The Elizabeth Herald.)

WESTFIELD, Sept. 25.—Yesterday morning at the Presbyterian Sunday-school Frank Warnicke was accidentally stabbed by Chauncey Smith during a playful tussle over a rubber ring. Young Smith was cutting the ring with his knife when Warnicke attempted to snatch it from his hand. Smith drew back and Warnicke sprang at him, not seeing the knife in his hand. The blade penetrated Warnicke's breast two inches below the heart. A doctor was called at once, but the boy almost bled to death. He is not yet out of danger.

Exposed When One Robbed the Other.

John F. Collins, of Scotch Plains, and Ernest Jennings Greene, the alleged dishonest cashier and bookkeeper of Reinhard, Siedenberg & Co., cotton brokers, of 75 Cotton Exchange building, New York, were held at the Tombs yesterday for examination this afternoon.

The discovery of the thefts is said to have come about in this way: Collins placed the last $500 which he stole in the firm's safe. Greene found the money there and stole it. Collins reported the disappearance of the money to his employers, who notified Inspector McLaughlin. While the Inspector's detectives were working up the case Greene went to Collins and told him that he had taken the money. Then each explained to the other that he had been robbing the firm. It was then too late to stop the police investigation, and exposure followed.

AUTUMNAL BRIDAL.

GRACEFUL BEGINNING OF THE FALL CHURCH WEDDING SEASON.

Miss Hull and Dr. Baker Adopt the Vows to Cherish and Protect—Charming Match of Two Highly Popular Young People.

It was a pretty wedding that was solemnized in Grace church at high noon yesterday, when, as these columns briefly stated, Dr Vincent Washington Baker and Bessie, daughter of the late William L. Hull, were united in marriage by the Rev. E. M. Bodman.

Mrs. B. T. Barnes was organist. There were no bridesmaids. The bride wore white brocaded silk, trimmed with duchess lace.

Only relatives were invited to the wedding. Those present were Mrs. William L. Hull, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Abram Baker and Miss Baker, of Asbury Park, the father, mother and sister of the groom; Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Gaston, of Plainfield; Mrs. Peret, of East Orange; Mrs. B. T. Barnes, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. George Blauvelt, Miss Blauvelt, B. Blauvelt, Mrs. S. L. Conant, Miss M. B. Weeks, Miss Housemann and Miss O'Neill, of New York; Miss Howard, Miss Mary Howard, Frank E. Howard, Mrs. Taylor Carpenter, and Miss Alice Carpenter, of Brooklyn.

After the wedding ceremony, the guests were driven to the home of the bride's mother, 32 Norwood avenue, where a wedding breakfast was spread. The company spent two hours most happily, showering good wishes on the bride and groom, who departed at 2 on their wedding trip, which will last three weeks. On their return Dr. and Mrs. Baker will reside for a time with the bride's mother, on Norwood avenue. Choice wedding gifts testified to the esteem in which the young people are held. They will be at at home after Nov. 1.

FLOURISHING CONGREGATIONALISTS

They Look Back with Pleasure on Their Good Year's Work.

The annual meetings of the Congregational church and society were held last evening. The report of the Official Board, read by Pastor Goodrich, showed that good work was done last year in the many lines of church activity, and especially in the way of missionary collections. During 1892 the church benevolences amounted to $1,325.

The report of the Board of Trustees, of which Wm. H. Brower is President, and George W. Rockfellow Treasurer, showed that the church is in good financial condition. The society has a valuable property, including church and parsonage, on which there is no debt

An amendment to the constitution was proposed last evening, to change the time of the annual meeting to April of each year. This will be considered at a special meeting October 10.

HAS HIS EYE ON PLAINFIELD.

A Howling, Funereal Dog That Makes Wretched Discord When People Die.

The people living up Westervelt avenue way are looking for a dog that has been doing its best to unsettle the minds of superstitious people in that neighborhood. When a resident on the street died a week or two ago this dog stood beneath the window and howled dismally, as the dying man's breath grew fainter. Another death has since come to the neighborhood, and as the spirit of the dying man was passing away the howling dog drew nigh and filled the night air with his discord. This strange and uncanny critter has considerably upset the neighborhood, and superstitious people are shaking their heads ominously, and hoping that something will happen to silence the dog forever.

The concerts will take place at dates to be announced hereafter, and at each of them the society will be assisted by artists of high reputation, who have not been heard in Plainfield.

DOWN CRASHED THE LAMP.

But Men Enough Were on Hand to Prevent a Fire.

A lamp in one of the show windows at "The Dairy", on West Front street, fell from its position last evening at 8 It had been suspended from the ceiling by a chain, which broke.

The proprietor and several other men around the store assisted in getting the lamp out into the street. One man took off his coat and smothered the flames, and there was no explosion. Besides the burning of some of the woodwork, no damage was done, there being nothing combustible in the window.

They All Know the Judge.

The other day little Patsey Kelly rode out with George Marsh of Scotch Plains, who was making his usual tour of customers. As Mr. Marsh drove into the grounds of Judge Moore, little Patsey looked up quickly and nervously said: "Oh, Mr. Marsh! What are you driving in here for! Do you want to go to Elizabeth?"

NO TAFFY FOR THE DOCTOR.

BUT GOOD, SQUARE, HONEST, AND DESERVED EULOGIUM.

Dr. Huribut's Church People Can't Bear to Think of His Leaving Town, and Are Planning to Give Him a Royal Send-off.

The removal of the Rev. Dr. Jesse Lyman Huribut from Plainfield is a matter of sincere sorrow to all Plainfield. He will be especially missed from his church, and as a parting testimonial of the sentiment of the congregation the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church is arranging for a farewell reception to the Doctor and his family. This will take place Friday evening, Oct. 6, and will be in connection with and a feature of the home-coming sociable planned for that date. By that time nearly all of the vacation wanderings will be at an end, and Pastor Barnes hopes for a general rally of the home-comers, as well as the stay-at-homes.

In his September issue of his sprightly church paper, The Visitor, Dr. Barnes writes:

REV. J. L. HURLBUT, D. D.—It is with no ordinary regret that we contemplate the removal of Dr. Huribut, from this city to New York. In the spring of 1874, Dr. Huribut became pastor of our church, having declined an invitation the year previous, thinking it his duty to remain at Trinity, Staten Island. While pastor here, he came into close relations with Dr. (now Bishop) Vincent, and became more closely identified with Sunday-school work than ever before. In 1877 he left Plainfield to become pastor in Hoboken, but in the Spring of 1879 was induced by Dr. Vincent to give up the pastorate and devote himself to Sunday-school work with him.

He then took up his residence here, and has lived in Plainfield ever since. Dr. Huribut has been deeply interested in our church, and has contributed by counsel and labor to its welfare. In him the pastors have always found a friend and co-laborer. His prominent position before the denomination did not make him any the less approachable and willing to lend his aid to the local church. Both himself and Mrs. Huribut have been valuable teachers in the Sunday-school.

While greatly attached to Methodism, Dr. Huribut is a true churchman, delighting in the welfare of all Christian organizations. He was welcome to any of the pulpits of the city, and endeared himself to members of all denominations.

The Doctor was a member of the Board of Education from 1883 to 1893; and Superintendent of Schools from 1885 to 1892.

Scholarly by nature and training, kind in heart and deed, Dr. Huribut attracted to him very many of his townspeople, who consider his removal a personal loss. Were The Visitor as autocrat, it would seriously consider an edict forbidding his removal, but being ordinary folk it is compelled to acquiesc. We can enjoy a sweet revenge, however, and wish the Doctor and his family prosperity in their new home. When they weary of the confinement of city walls, and long again for nearer communion with Nature, that dear mother of all, Plainfield will forgive the prodigals, and welcome them again with the old love and friendship.

P. S.—This is neither Taffy nor Epitaphy.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY.

The North Plainfield Board of Health Sustained a Great Loss in the Death of Robert T. Currie, Who Was a Member.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the family and also to the city press.

A Scholarly Plainfield Author.

[From The M. E. Visitor.]

James R. Joy and family started on their vacation Thursday, Sept. 14. We take this opportunity of referring to Mr. Joy as an author. A gentleman in New York, a few days since, said: "I had a conversation with Dr. Wilkinson, who spake on this wise: 'I have carefully studied every history of the English people from Hume to Green, and before or since; but I have never risen from the perusal of a history with higher esteem of the abilities of the author, or more pleasure from the mere exercise of reading than came to me from the reading of the history written by Mr. Joy.' Recently he has written for the Chautauqua Series a work entitled 'Rome and the Making of Modern Europe'. We have no hesitation in saying that it surpasses in grasp of thought and style of authorship any work he has yet produced."

This author, whose work is so highly spoken of, is one of our number, and we prefer that in this case the prophet shall not be without honor in his own country.

IS MAKING REPARATION.

John F. Collins, the Scotch Plains Defaulter, Is Doing His Best to Pay Up, Says Lawyer Friend, Who Ought to Know.

Emanuel M. Friend, of the law firm of Friend & House, World Building, New York, attorneys for Reinhard, Seidenberg & Co., whom John F. Collins, of Scotch Plains, robbed of over $10,000, as told in yesterday's Press, was in Plainfield today on business connected with the case.

To a Press reporter who managed to get an interview with Mr. Friend the lawyer said: "I am glad to talk with the representative of a Plainfield newspaper about the case of Collins. As counsel of the firm whom Collins has robbed, I cannot be suspected of partiality to him and his family.

I desire to say, however, that Collins has acted in a most creditable manner since his defalcation became known, and both he and his good wife are doing all in their power to make reparation to those he has robbed.

"Collins bought a line of stages for his father, and this interest is to be sold at auction next Monday, together with all the property connected with the interest. This is done to help repay my clients.

"Nothing has yet been said by the newspapers of this aspect of the case; and I think the creditable action of young Collins and all his family should be made known."

The lawyer returned to New York this afternoon.

Reliable Dyes For Brown.

To color dresses, jackets, suits, etc., a brown that will not crock, fade or wash out, use any of the fast diamond dye browns. There are three kinds for wool: brown, dark brown and seal brown; also a special brown for cotton.

These fast brown diamond dyes are made from patented dyestuffs that cannot be obtained in any other form, and this explains their superiority.

JUSTICE ON WHEELS.

A JERSEY CENTRAL RAILROAD CAR AS A COURT ROOM.

City Judge Coddington and Borough Counselor Reed Argue a Case Before Judge Magie on the Way from Somerville, and Get a Verdict that Suits 'Em Both.

A novel proceeding took place yesterday, when a law case in which Judge William A. Coddington and Borough Counselor Charles A. Reed figured as attorneys, was tried on the train coming from Somerville. It was a case in which both sides desired a trial as soon as possible, and as Judge Magie wished to catch the train at once when the case was reached on the calendar in the court house he suggested trying it on the train.

The lawyers on both sides agreed, and when the train was boarded the car was turned into a court room, and Jersey justice was administered speedily. The Judge heard both sides, and a verdict was rendered before the train had crossed the bounds of Somerset county.

Both sides were perfectly satisfied, as it was a friendly suit to have settled a technicality in the matter of an estate, and the verdict for the plaintiff was what was expected.

MRS. TOMLINSON STILL RESIGNS.

The Union County Union Can't Find a Better President.

The ninth annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U. was held yesterday in the Park M. E. church, Elizabeth.

President Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of Plainfield, presided. A large number of delegates attended from Rahway, Cranford, Roselle, Dunellen, Westfield and Plainfield, besides members from the Elizabeth unions.

The Rev. Mr. Hutchinson, in an address, said in part:

"Formerly I have been associated with and helped to formulate and carry out plans for Sunday-school conventions, and I have the opinion that a welcome speech of very few words was quite as much appreciated and understood as a long drawn out one." He drew the picture of a boy coming back to his old homestead. His mother did n't recite in a thirty-minute address her joy and welcome, but all through the day he knew they were glad of his coming. And so he hoped the delegates would know all through the day the welcome expressed and felt. The Park M. E. church, its pastor and members, were glad of their coming.

Mrs. Baker, president of the Elizabeth Union, also welcomed those present.

In the absence of the recording secretary, Miss Starr of Westfield was appointed.

The corresponding secretary's report showed the membership of the County Union to be 490. Thirty-eight new members had come in during the year, and forty-three honorary members. It requires a membership of 500 in each county to send a delegate to National convention. A motion was made and carried that the corresponding secretary pay over the required assessment to make up the deficiency in membership, and hold Plainfield responsible for the balance of the membership.

The president's address was then read, followed by the treasurer's report.

In the evening Mrs. Henrietta Moore, of Ohio, made an address on "Personal Responsibility".

Mrs. M. J. Francis was appointed a delegate to National Convention, with Mrs. L. H. Noe alternate; both are from the Elizabeth Union.

The officers elected were:

President—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss C. R. Yates.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. D. D. Irving.
Treasurer—Mrs. L. H. Noe.

(signed) MISS C. R. YATES,
Press Superintendent.

Eighty Years Old and a Thief.

[From The Elizabeth Herald.]

WESTFIELD, Sept. 25.—Robert Hudspeth, of Branch Mills, the octogenarian chicken thief who has only been out of jail seven days, is in trouble again. Complaint was made against him Saturday by one of his neighbors, upon whose poultry he has been making inroads since his release from jail. Efforts will be made to have the old man taken care of by the authorities, as he has no means of support and depends for a living upon what he can steal.

Junior Vice, Charles Westphal.

At the regular meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., held last evening, Charles Westphal was elected Junior Vice-Commander, in place of Monroe Brewster, who moved away.

It is expected that the grand officers will make a visit to the Post in the near future.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

LATEST DESPATCHES.

TWO KILLED.

A Special Car on the Grand Trunk Wrecked in a Collision.

BELLEVUE, Mich., Sept. 27.—A bad accident occurred on the Chicago & Grand Trunk Railroad at the station here at 2 this morning. Express train No. 5, westbound, which was two hours late, was standing at the station when it was run into by the Erie express, also westbound, demolishing a special car attached to train No. 5.

The special car contained Cashier Meredith of the Chicago & Grand Trunk road and his wife, Henry A. Newland and wife, father and mother of Mrs. Meredith; William Costles, porter, and William Abernathy, cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Newland were killed outright. Mr. and Mrs. Meredith are badly injured. William Costles is fatally hurt, but William Abernathy escaped with slight injuries. The fireman of the Erie express, named Jennison, was badly scalded.

A PEST SHIP.

Twenty to Thirty Persons Dying Daily on an Italian Ship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Capt. Black of the steamship Hogarth, which arrived in the lower bay this morning from Santos, reports that while at Santos Sept. 20, he was informed that the Italian steamship Vincenzo Fiori, which sailed from Genoa on Aug. 24 for Rio Janeiro, loaded with immigrants, and which had been unable to secure admission to the ports of Brazil because she had cholera aboard, had for some days been lying outside the harbor of Santos in a helpless condition.

The deaths on board the plague-stricken steamship were reported to be from twenty to thirty daily. The bodies of the unfortunate victims, together with their clothing and bedding, were thrown overboard and washed ashore near Santos, to the great alarm of the inhabitants.

SENSATIONAL SHORTAGE.

A Discrepancy of $96,000 Discovered in the Old Colony Treasurer's Office.

BOSTON, Sep. 27.—President Chas. F. Choate caused something of a sensation at a meeting of the Old Colony stockholders at the United States hotel yesterday by the announcement that since the printing and distribution of the annual report, a discrepancy had been discovered in the accounts of the treasurer, Mr. John Washburn.

According to the treasurer's report there was $96,000 in cash in the treasury. It was found, however, that securities, stocks and bonds purchased with the company's money represented a part of this cash. The purchase was unauthorized.

The treasurer's office has been vacated, and the treasurer has made an assignment of all his outside property for the benefit of the corporation.

"It cannot be told," said Mr. Choate, "how much the loss will be. The securities are not all worth their nominal value, which was represented to be so much cash. It will not affect the property; it will not affect the dividends. The matter will be further investigated and pushed. In other respects the books of the treasurer are all right."

Experimenting.

A German friend recently told me this story to illustrate the fondness of the professors in his country for experimenting. It may be as well to add that I do not vouch for its truth:

Herr Grun is a famous naturalist, and he lives at Stettin, on the Baltic. He is fond of making experiments to prove that the environment of animals affects their habits.

One day he captured a live herring, carried it home and put it in a vat of salt water. Every morning the professor dipped out of this vat a half teaspoonful of salt water and replaced it with the same amount of fresh, his purpose being gradually to accustom the fish to live in fresh water instead of salt.

The herring lived on apparently in the best of spirits. In course of time the water in the tank was perfectly fresh, and the herring still flourished.

Next the professor began to deprive the fish, little by little, of the fresh water element in which he lived. In this also he was successful, and after a time the herring gamboled around in a perfectly dry tank. The herr professor congratulated himself that another transformation had been accomplished. He had at last a land herring.

Next the professor put the herring into a birdcage, and the intelligent creature began to utter chirps of satisfaction and to manifest unmistakable signs of affection for his master. His food was gradually changed, and his mouth grew into resemblance to a canary's.

One day the professor noticed that his pet was ailing. The poor thing was molting its scales, and it seemed to yearn for something not present in its cage. The professor meditated.

"Ah!" he exclaimed at length, "I have it! I have forgotten for two days to give the poor little fellow anything to drink. I shall remedy that oversight at once."

He brought a large dish of water and put it in the cage so that the fish might drink at his leisure.

Next morning when the herr professor came to look at his fish a sad sight met his gaze. The herring had fallen head first into the dish of water and had been drowned.

Printers' Errors.

When very much younger than I am at present, I, like Silas Wegg, was addicted to "dropping into poetry." Although my opinion of this poetry has undergone a radical though by no means a violent change, I recall the time when I thought it equal to the best.

One of my early poems was called "Two Brothers." My purpose was to show how two brothers, brought up alike and subjected to precisely the same influences, took opposite sides in our civil war, each dying for the cause he thought to be right.

I still think the idea a good one. One of my lines read:

"And these brothers were like as the stars in the books." Imagine my horror on getting the paper in which the poem appeared to find the line butchered in this way:

"And these brothers were like as the steers on the hooks." In correcting proofs the author or proofreader writes on the margin what is to take the place of the words erased. A friend of mine who is an editorial writer had even a more curious experience. In his copy appeared the sentence:

"Tomorrow is the anniversary of the death of Louis Philippe." When the proof came back, the editor was surprised to find the phrase:

"Tomorrow is the anniversary of the death of Sam Phillips." Angered and at the same time amused at the blunder, the editor wrote on the margin for the benefit of the proofreader in the composing room:

"Who the dickens is Sam Phillips? See copy!"

Satisfied that all would now be right, the editor went home, but when he looked over the article next morning he fairly foamed with anger. It read:

"Tomorrow is the anniversary of the death of Sam Phillips. Who the dickens is Sam Phillips? See copy!"

INTERESTING TALES OF ADVENTURE ON SEA AND LAND.

The Golden Ranch—How Franz Loeb Became a Prosperous Hotel Keeper—A Sudden Fortune—The Cloud With a Golden Lining—Bricks and Nuggets.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

As the name implies, Franz Loeb was a German, at least by birth and descent, yet he felt not a little proud of being an American by adoption. He had shown his loyalty to the United States by serving gallantly during the civil war. Being of an adventuresome disposition, he drifted out west in 1866, with a dim notion in his by no means active brain that he would reach California and make his fortune in the gold mines of that state, as others had done before him. "But," he said to the friends who came down to the Pacific Mail steamer to see him off for Colon, "eef so pe I gant tig dem goit de rocks oud, den meppe so pe I dakes a vrow unt obens a peer saloon already."

There was a general but unexpressed opinion among Franz's friends that in the event of his starting a saloon he would prove to be his own best customer. But they beered him and cheered him off with Teutonic camaraderie, and in due time the ex-soldier found himself in that Mecca of the world's adventurers, San Francisco.

Although convivial in his nature, Franz had in him much of the race thrift, so that when he reached the mines in Placer county he had still on hand a few hundred dollars of the back pay received when he left the service. He found board with a widow, a country woman, whom he married before he had been a week at the diggings. There were five children by a former husband, but Franz regarded a ready made family as rather an advantage.

Soon after his marriage the diggings were practically abandoned for the want of water, but while single men could make up their packs and start off on short orders Franz found the wife and children impediments requiring more capital and preparation.

After due consultation with his wife, who had a little money, it was decided to turn the boarding house into a hotel for the accommodation of prospectors going into the mountains with fortunes in their hearts or coming back about broke.

Mrs. Loeb's first husband was a Mexican, and he had a Mexican's fondness for the adobe or sun dried bricks of his native land. There were the house, a one story structure, the stable and a half dozen little outhouses clustered about, all constructed of adobe, the clay for which the builder found in a pocket along the bank of the creek, in the bed of which, by the way, water flowed for only six weeks in the year.

As soon as the white miners and their attendant camp followers, in the shape of gamblers and dance hall women, shook the dust of Grouse Gulch from their feet and hied them to some more promising diggings, the inevitable heathen Chinese showed up in mysterious swarms and settled down to make fortunes in the abandoned camp.

With the first advent of the Mongols Franz Loeb was inclined to regard them favorably, but as they never ordered a meal or a beer at his house he soon found himself treating them with more than the hate born of race prejudice.

During the three months following the advent of the Chinese, Franz Loeb's business as hotel keeper amounted to next to nothing, and as beer, at least so he thought, would not keep forever, he soon became his own best customer, and his wife followed a close second. Suddenly, and to his great surprise, the Chinese began flocking into the bar of the Imperial Nevada hotel every night. They filled all the chairs and squatted on the floor, and they developed an inordinate liking for vile cigars and bottled beer, while they generously insisted that the landlord and Mrs. Loeb should join them, which, with an eye to profit and pleasure, they invariably did.

This went on for a month, and Franz was in high spirits, but a cloud came over the sunshine of his prosperity when his wife came into the bar one day and cried out:

"Gott im himmel, Franz! De vails oaf dem oudhouses is all goned, unt de sthable! Unt some one, so help me krashus, peen diggin into de valls oaf de Imberial Nifada hotel!"

Franz broadly hinted that the last bottle of beer had unduly excited his wife's imagination, but to be sure of this he went out and looked over the ground for himself. Mrs. Loeb was right. All the adobe outbuildings were carried away, and the marauders evidently intended treating the hotel in the same way.

"Id's dem cussed Shineeze!" cried Franz. "Bud vot for shall dey stheal unt garry off dem mut valls already?"

He could not answer the question, neither could Mrs. Loeb. So they stood and looked at each other with the awed expression of people about to become homeless.

That night the Chinese, now regular visitors, put in an appearance again, but instead of the amiable landlord ready to draw the corks and fill their glasses they were confronted by a woman with a carving knife, a bulldog with one eye and that a bad one, and an angry man with a double barrel shotgun raised to his shoulder.

Franz Loeb charged the men with the theft of the outbuildings and with the intention of treating the hotel in the same way, and they smiled knowingly for reply, but made no denial.

A man whose eyes were inserted with more bias than that of his companions, and who appeared to be the leader, instead of going out, as he was ordered, produced from a little bag $500 in gold, and pointing to it said:

"You ally same belly good man, Missa Loeb. You savy me. You take money; I take hotel. Wat you say, Missa Loeb?"

"Goom back tomorrow, unt ve talk mid ourselves," replied Franz as he motioned the man to the door with his gun and followed him out.

On getting into the moonlight outside Franz Loeb's anger exceeded all bounds for he discovered that the Chinamen, who had left in obedience to his first command, were actually razing the hotel walls not three feet from the head of his own bed. He shouted to the dog to follow the flying thieves, which the creature did, and he accelerated their flight with two charges of buckshot.

Puzzled to know why the wretches should indulge in this kind of wanton and unheard of robbery, Franz and his wife gathered up the bricks that had been dropped by the fugitives and carried them in and laid them for dissection on the bar.

With Mrs. Loeb's knife Franz opened and broke up one of the bricks, but found nothing unusual. He tried others with the same result and was about to give up in disgust when, picking up a brick that had fallen to the floor, he gave a shout that might have been heard in the Mongol camp. The inside of that particular brick was as full of yellow nuggets as a Christmas pudding is of plums, and the secret of the Chinese raid was Franz Loeb's property.

The following morning, with the aid of his wife, the five children and the dog, Franz forced the Chinese to seek other quarters. Then the family erected an old tent for an abode and went to mining in the walls of the Imperial Nevada hotel.

It is said Franz took $100,000 from the bricks, but be that as it may certain it is that he is now one of the most prosperous hotel keepers in San Francisco, and his private residence in the suburbs is known as the "Golden Ranch."

Be Thorough.

In lawful pursuits, whatever you do—
Building a mansion or mending a shoe—
Be honestly earnest in all of your work,
Never attempting plain duty to shirk.
Whether you climb, dig, delve or burrow,
Do each thing completely; always be thorough.
Slipshod expedients avoid as a snare;
Perform every task with painstaking care.
Negligent methods won't bear the world's test;
Give it, unstinting, always your best.
Whether you labor with head or with hand—
Writing a book or tilling the land—
Do everything well; as well as you can.
No more is expected by God or by man.
No less will suffice for your own self respect
Or save you from sting of willful neglect.
The purest of pleasure can only be found
In virtuous effort, healthful and sound.
This truest of maxims cherish and nurse—
"Work is a blessing, and ease but a curse."
—W. Thomson.

SPLEEN IN THE SENATE.

Leaders Losing Patience Over Silver Talk.

PROPOSED COMPROMISE MEASURE

Commission of Nine to Study and Determine Financial Questions in General. Night Sessions of the Senate Suggested and Filibustering Threatened.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 28.—The debate in the senate yesterday was the most interesting and exciting of the numerous debates which have taken place in that body during the extraordinary session. It began early in the day on the resolution introduced by Mr. Dubois (rep., Idaho) for the postponement of consideration of the silver bill, the tariff and the federal election laws until January next, so that the vacant seats from Montana, Wyoming and Washington may be filled in the meantime.

After a speech from Mr. Dubois in favor of the resolution and one from Mr. Mitchell (rep., Ore.) against it, Mr. Chandler (rep., N. H.) suggested its postponement for the present, stating that, if it should become probable that the vote on the repeal bill would be so close as to be affected either way by three votes, he would support the resolution, but that otherwise he would oppose it.

Mr. Wolcott (rep., Col.) followed Mr. Chandler. He advocated the resolution, protested against the cruel and unusual test of endurance to which, he understood, the senate was to be subjected by requiring senators to sit from 11 in the morning until midnight, and made some unpleasant remarks about Senator Gorman of Maryland being a "steerer" for the friends of the bill on the democratic side of the chamber, and Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island being a like "steerer" on the republican side.

This taunt stung to the quick both the senators alluded to, and they repelled it indignantly.

Mr. Gorman came first, and with an appearance of much irritation he defended his course, that of Senator Voorhees, and that of the president, and turned the tables upon the Colorado senator by suggesting that he had got his information as to what was contemplated by listening (either personally or through eavesdroppers) at the doors of the committee rooms. Mr. Wolcott resented the insinuation with equal indignation, and Mr. Gorman toned down the statement so as to deprive it of some of its offensiveness. Finally the resolution was sent to the calendar, and the repeal bill itself came up for discussion. Mr. Pasco (dem., Fla.) made a speech against unconditional repeal, but saying that he would interpose no obstruction to a vote.

The day's debate closed by a speech from Mr. Teller (rep., Col.) in which he defended Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) against the animadversions to which he had been subjected on account of his discussing the president's course.

Compromise Silver Bill.

The compromise silver measure prepared by Senator Jones, of Arkansas, was introduced in the senate by its author. It provides that there shall be a commission composed of three senators to be selected by the senate, three representatives to be selected by the speaker of the house and three persons to be selected by the president subject to confirmation by the senate. The commission shall organize by the election or one of their number president, and the president is to appoint a clerk. The commission is to hold its sessions in the capitol and in such other places as a majority shall direct, and employ necessary stenographers, employees, and may administer oaths and send for persons and papers.

The commission is charged with an examination into the financial and monetary condition of the government and people of the United States with a view to devising means for the betterment thereof and is given full jurisdiction. It is charged to specially examine and report upon, by one or more bills, the following subjects: the full or partial remonetization of silver and a proper ratio between it and gold; revision of legal tender laws to prevent discrimination between various descriptions of money; state bank tax repeal with necessary restrictions; the cause of the present paralysis of trade and the necessity of legislation to prevent national banks from abusing their power.

The second section of the resolution directs the secretary of the treasury to set apart and retain in the treasury so much of the silver bullion now in the treasury as will be necessary to redeem the outstanding treasury notes in compliance with the terms of the act of July 14th, 1890, and provides that the remainder of the bullion shall be set apart to be coined and the secretary is required to coin it at the rate of not less than four million standard silver dollars per month, which when coined shall be an asset in the treasury and while this coinage is in progress the purchases of silver bullion under the terms of the Sherman act shall be suspended.

House of Representatives.

Three hours of yesterday's session were occupied in an effort to secure the adoption of a resolution to which there was no objection. This apparent paradox was due to the attitude assumed by Representative Morse of Massachusetts. Several days ago he made some remark about Pension Commissioner Lochren, and stated that he would include in his remarks in the Record some newspaper clippings. These clippings had been withheld from the Record by Speaker Crisp because Representative Morse had not formally obtained unanimous consent of the house for their insertion. He made the request, but Representative Fithian of Illinois objected, whereupon Mr. Morse declined to permit business to proceed in the absence of a quorum, and it was 3:15 before Mr. Bland could get the resolution passed, which called on the secretary of the treasury for the reason why he had not bought 4,500,000 ounces of silver in each of July and August as required by the Sherman law.

That having been finally accomplished, with no dissenting votes, the bill to repeal the federal election laws was taken up, and Representative Lawson (dem., Ga.) and Daniels, (rep., N. Y.) members of the committee on the election of president and vice-president and representatives in congress spoke respectively for and against the bill.

Filibustering Threatened.

Next Monday, according to the present programme, Senator Voorhees will renew his request for the silver senators to fix a time when a vote shall be taken on the repeal bill.

An answer being denied him he will ask the senate to remain in session at night and from day to day will endeavor to increase the length of the session.

The silver men have no hesitation in saying that as soon as Mr. Voorhees attempts to hold night sessions they will begin filibustering.

MOVING ARSENALS.

Michigan Central Trains Armed With Repeating Shot Guns.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sep. 28.—All the Michigan Central trains arriving in Buffalo from Chicago and the west have the appearance of "moving arsenals."

Alarmed at the recent train robberies the road has armed its passenger train and employees with "Rice" shot guns. They are only 22 inches long and resemble a carbine. Each holds six cartridges, and all the charges can be fired in the space of a few seconds.

The engineers, firemen, express messengers and conductors are armed with these weapons of defense. Racks have been constructed on the trains to hold them, and each man is supposed to know just where to look for his gun.

Accompanying each gun there are 500 rounds of ammunition.

A BOSTON COURT ORDER.

"Cases to Be Tried in the Courts and Not in the Newspapers."

BOSTON, Sep. 28.—On the opening of a breach of promise suit in the supreme court, at the conclusion of remarks of counsel, Judge Barker instructed the clerk to enter an order that no report of the case, or comment thereon, is to be made in any newspaper until the case is ended. The reporters then retired. A lawyer said later: "It is believed that there has been an understanding among the justices of the courts that hereafter cases are to be tried in the courts and not in the newspapers." The move is a novel one in this city.

CLEVELAND ON FINANCE

An Outspoken Letter to the Governor of Georgia.

"GOOD, SOUND AND STABLE MONEY"

For Repeal of the Sherman Act First and Readjustment of Currency Legislation Afterward—Opposed to Free Coinage of Silver by This Country Alone.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sep. 28.—The Constitution prints a letter from President Cleveland to Gov. Northern, in which the president states his position on the financial question at some length. The letter is in reply to one written by Gov. Northern on the 15th inst. The governor refuses to give his letter out for publication but it is known that it presented a graphic condition of the political situation in Georgia and the south, and urged upon the president the expediency of a public utterance from him more comprehensive than his recent message as to the proper policy to be pursued by congress upon questions affecting the stringency of the times and the needs of the people. It is understood that in his letter Gov. Northern pointed out inroads being made in the democratic ranks by the populists by reason of the neglect or delay on the part of the democratic majority in congress to meet legislation on the line of the party platform and pledges. He dwelt especially upon the financial condition and political unrest of the farmers of the south who constitute so great a proportion of the democracy.

The president's reply to that letter is as follows:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sep. 25.

"Hon. W. J. NORTHEN:

"MY DEAR SIR—I hardly know how to reply to your letter of the 15th inst. It seems to me that I am quite plainly on record concerning the financial question. My letter accepting the nomination to the presidency when read in connection with the message lately sent to the congress in extraordinary session appears to me to be very explicit. I want a currency that is stable and safe in the hands of our people. I will not knowingly be implicated in a condition that will justly make me in the least degree answerable to any laborer or farmer in the United States for a shrinkage in the purchasing power of the dollar he has received for a full dollar's worth of work, or for a good dollar's worth of the product of his toil. I not only want our currency to be of such a character that all kinds of dollars will be of equal purchasing power at home, but I want it to be of such a character as will demonstrate abroad our wisdom and good faith, thus placing upon firm foundation and credit among the nations of the earth. I want our financial conditions and the laws relating to our currency safe and reassuring; that those who have money will spend and invest in business and new enterprises instead of hoarding it. You cannot cure fright by calling it foolish and unreasonable, and you cannot prevent the frightened man from hoarding his money.

"I want good, sound, and stable money, and a condition of confidence that will keep it in use.

"Within the limits of what I have written, I am a friend of silver, but I believe its proper place in our currency can only be fixed by a readjustment of our currency legislation and the inauguration of a consistent and comprehensive financial scheme. I think such a thing can only be entered upon profitably and hopefully after the repeal of the law which is charged with all our financial woes. In the present state of the public mind, this law cannot be built upon, nor patched in such a way as to relieve the situation.

"I am therefore opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone and independently, and I am in favor of the immediate and unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the so-called Sherman law.

"I confess I am astonished by the opposition in the senate to such prompt action as would relieve the present unfortunate situation.

"My prayer is that the delay occasioned by such opposition may not be the cause of plunging the country into deeper depression than I have yet known, and that the democratic party may not be justly held responsible for such a catastrophe.

"Yours very truly,

"GROVER CLEVELAND."

Big Knitting Mill Assigns.

ELKHART, Ind., Sep. 28.—The Elkhart knitting company, one of the largest manufacturies in this city, has assigned to M. U. Demarest. The liabilities are $70,000 and it is said the assets will reach $104,000. Financial stringency caused the assignment. The business will be continued by the assignees.

Convicted of Manslaughter.

DOVER, N. H., Sep. 28.—In the case of William Adolph Lagy, charged with the killing of Hiram J. Philpot at Somersworth, on Feb. 9 last, the jury rendered a verdict of guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. Lagy was sentenced to eight years at hard labor.

Won't Work Over Time for Extra Pay.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sep. 28.—Fifty freight hands in the New York & New England yard struck because they were ordered to go to work at five instead of seven o'clock in the morning, although the superintendent agreed to give them extra pay.

BULLETS FOR BULLS AND BEARS.

A Lunatic Fires Into the Chicago Board of Trade Pit.

CHICAGO, Sep. 28.—Five shots fired in quick succession reached throughout the hall of the board of trade shortly after noon while the floor of the exchange was crowded with operators.

A panic resulted, the operators rushing pell mell from the floor and tumbling over each other in their haste to reach the outer hall.

When the first shot was heard the operators, who looked in the direction whence it came, saw the individual in question flourishing his pistol and endeavoring to pull the trigger of the weapon, which appeared to momentarily have caught on his finger.

He was still flourishing the pistol aimlessly when it discharged four times in rapid succession. Three of the five shots took effect. The injured are:

Amri Bennett, a prominent operator and president of the Board of Trade insurance company, bullet in the neck, believed to be seriously wounded.

Mrs. W. W. Lewis of Titusville, Pa., World's Fair visitor, who was sitting in the gallery, flesh wound.

C. W. Roswell, assistant chief operator of the Western Union telegraph company, on 'change, fractured jaw by a bullet.

Before the lunatic could empty the remaining chambers of his revolver, he was caught from behind by Tom Barrett, the floor officer of the board, and a noted athlete, who threw him to the floor and pinioned his hands.

He was then taken down to the private room of the executive committee of the board, shouting at the top of his voice: "I warned them beforehand and they did not heed me; I gave them plenty of fair warning."

His name is Cassius H. Belden, and he has been living with his sister, Mrs. A. Williams, a dressmaker, and his brother, T. F. Belden, a speculator. When Mrs. Williams was told of the shooting she said: "My brother has not been in his right mind for five years and he has been unable to work during that time, being entirely dependent on my other brother and me for support. He used to be a sign painter, but overwork and domestic troubles unsettled his mind, and he has, since his divorce from his wife in Camden, N. J., been a lunatic. I believe he committed the act in the thought that his brother was being robbed or in some way injured by the men in the pit."

FATAL WRECK IN MICHIGAN.

Collision in Which Three People Were Killed and Several Injured.

BELLEVUE, Mich., Sep. 28.—A bad accident occurred on the Chicago & Grand Trunk railroad at this station yesterday. Express train No. 5, west-bound, which was two hours late, was standing at the station when it was run into by the Erie express, also west-bound, demolishing a special car attached to train No. 5.

The special car contained Cashier Meredith, of the Chicago & Grand Trunk road, and his wife; Henry A. Newland and wife, father and mother of Mrs. Meredith; William Costles, porter, and William Abernathy, cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Newland were killed outright, Mr. and Mrs. Meredith are badly injured, William Costles is fatally hurt, but William Abernathy escaped with slight injuries. The fireman of the Erie express, named Jemison, is badly scalded.

The special car was telescoped. The roof was hurled into the ticket office of the station, completely demolishing it, leaving only the telegraph instruments. The telegraph operator had just stepped outside, and escaped instant death. The rest of the special car was broken into splinters.

There is no telegraph operator at Olivet, and there was no way to signal No. 9 of No. 5's stop at that station. There was a dense fog at the time of the accident, and the engineer of No. 9 could not see the lights ahead of him.

The cause of the accident was that the trains were running too close together. A coroner's jury has been summoned to investigate the cause of the accident.

Engineer Desmond of train No. 19 claims that he was running on an order and had the right of way. He and his fireman did not see the lights of train No. 5 until within 100 feet of them. Then there was no time to do anything. The crash came before either of them could move. The engineer escaped miraculously without a scratch though his fireman was badly scalded.

The officials of the road intimate that Desmond had no such orders as he claims. The matter is being investigated.

GLADSTONE IS DEFIANT

Deep But Diplomatic Thrust at the Lords.

PEERS ALWAYS AGAINST PROGRESS

The Will of the Country "Cannot Submit to the House of Lords, Although They Bear High-Sounding Titles and Sit in a Gilded Chamber."

LONDON, Sep. 28.—In his speech at Edinburgh yesterday Mr. Gladstone referred to the Irish home rule bill, and spoke substantially as follows:

"In spite of all that has been said, the last session of the house of commons will not have to be recorded as a barren one. The many days spent on the home rule bill will not be without a harvest. The fact that the people's chamber deliberately and advisedly passed, after a long and searching discussion, a bill of such vast importance, is the most significant step in connection with the whole subject of the contentment, happiness and peace of Ireland. The fact is that the present parliamentary institutions are too weak for their purpose. They overweigh and do not meet the demands of the country. In spite of the sacrifices of the house of commons during the past session there has been a legislative famine. There is something wrong and defective in the great institutions. The condition is intolerable and demands the concentrated attention of the nation with the view to the removal of the defects. The evil is immeasurable. On one hand is the nation expressing just demands; on the other hand are the necessary measures to satisfy those demands. But between the two there is a great barrier, namely, the Irish question, which has taken the energy and mortgaged the time of parliament generation after generation. Why has this question continued to exist so long, and who is answerable for its remaining before us? There is only one reply—the responsibility rests with the house of lords. Who has the remedy in dealing with this great evil?"

Mr. Gladstone then proceeded to review the relations that have existed between the house of lords and the house of commons since the passage of the Reform bill in 1832.

"Since 1841," he said, "the legislation of the house of commons has been a perpetual challenge to the house of lords. Sometimes the latter has declined to accept the challenge and has passed the measure proposed because unless they had done so there would have been no house of lords at this date."

As instances he cited the repeal of the corn laws in 1846 the repeal of the soap duty in 1853, Irish disestablishment in 1869 and the passage of the land act in 1870. He also noticed three cases in which the house of lords had taken a different course. The first of these was when, in 1831, the lords rejected the bill to reform the house of commons, which they regarded as a great triumph, as great as they now regard the rejection of home rule. But within six months they were ignominiously compelled to pass the measure under threat that unless they did so a sufficient number of peers would be created to carry it over their heads. The next was the rejection of the bill for the abolition of the paper duty, in 1860, which resulted in the peers losing all influence over the country's finances. The third was the refusal of the lords to pass the home rule bill in 1886. This measure having been rejected by the upper house the question was discussed incessantly until 1892, when the entire country returned a majority in its favor.

"That verdict," continued Mr. Gladstone, "the lords have now reversed. What are their pleas for that reversal? A majority of the lords gave an opinion hostile to the bill, a majority of the commons an opinion in its favor. Yet it is hardly a case in which one opinion is as good as another. The peers form their opinion for themselves; they are responsible to nobody, and if it proves wrong they will neither be ousted nor be made to suffer in any way. Our opinion is not solely our own, but was formed in discussion with the nation and was given with all the authority that a national verdict can confer."

After a passing reference to the intelligence and incomparable unity of the liberals, without which the minority would, he said, have broken and destroyed the bill without sending it to the house of lords, Mr. Gladstone continued: "Should it ever happen in the vicissitudes of political affairs that the house of lords, by some accident or collateral process, should bring about a dissolution of the house of commons, depend upon it, the people will not consider home rule alone, but will mix with it another question, on which the lords may bitterly lament, when it is too late, that they ever raised an issue."

Mr. Gladstone counseled neither violence nor vehemence. If the worst came, the worst consolation that could be offered would be to remind them of recent history and of the vast changes in the past sixty years, not one of which originated in the house of lords or was promoted by lords or the existence of which on the statute book was due to the impartial opinion of the lords. To every one of these changes the opinion of the house of lords had been adverse, although its manifestations might have been prudently restrained, and might, perhaps, be prudently restrained again.

"For my part," said Mr. Gladstone, "I find this retrospect sufficiently encouraging. If the nation is determined it will not be baffled by a phalanx of 500 peers. We have the will of the country to execute, and cannot submit to the house of lords, although they bear high sounding titles and sit in a gilded chamber. The next session will not pass without your seeing this subject again appearing above the waves, where it has for the moment appeared to founder. The nation has given us the authority and propelled us on our course, and it is our duty and our hope and belief that we shall find, with the help of the Almighty, means to reach the goal."

By order of the Executive Committee:
JOS. W. BALLANTINE, Ch'n.

ALL GOOD CITIZENS, ATTEND!

The Anti-Race Track League of Plainfield will meet in the Common Council chambers Saturday evening, September 30, at 8.

It is the duty of every citizen who loves law and order and who wishes to preserve the purity of youth and the sanctity of home to participate.

Men of Plainfield, make this meeting a rouser!

An electric funeral-car is a California innovation. About nine miles distant from San Francisco are four large cemeteries and a crematory, and it was to bring them near the city that an electric railroad company introduced the new hearse. Its first patron was a benevolent organization, one of whose members had died. When the Plainfield Street Railway gets up Netherwood way, it should extend to Hillside Cemetery, and might profitably arrange a funeral-car on a similar plan.

The female barber having become an institution in Chicago, Plainfield, to keep up the times, must follow suit. In Chicago there are no less than twenty women who earn from $12 to $18 a week in public shops in that city. They say that at other occupations they could command only meagre wages, and as at this business they make themselves independent of family assistance, there is no reason but a dread of criticism why they should not follow it. One shop in Chicago belongs to a woman who employs six of her sex to cut hair and shave, and although she got very little patronage at first she now makes a comfortable living. This woman has been a barber for ten years. Her shop is said to be neater than those of her male competitors, and the women she employs attract custom, because they are spruce in their dress and person, and are just as handy with a razor as a man.

The car-fender is a success, and as a matter of precaution should be adopted by the Plainfield Street Railway Company. Since its adoption by a Buffalo electric railroad company, fifteen lives have been saved. The fender or life-guard resembles a large wire door-mat, with the outer corners rounded off, the edges bound with piping, and sticking out from the front end of the car about two inches from the ground. It is made of 1¼-inch gas-pipe, bent in circular form, cushioned with two-inch rubber hose and interlaced with tarred rope; has two spiral springs at the back that act as a cushion in conjunction with the hose on the front. The guard is fastened to the car with two large hooks, one at each corner, and at the end of each trip can be easily lifted off by the conductor and motorman or gripman and put in position at the other end of the car. Of the fifteen people that have been struck by the cars since the life-guard was attached, fourteen escaped injury. The fifteenth was a small boy who was injured under rather peculiar circumstances. Not noticing where he was going, he ran into a rapidly moving car. Even then the guard picked him up, but the boy was partly unconscious, either from fright or from striking his head against the dasher. He soon recovered, and is now as well as ever. Before the invention of the fender, the company was frequently in court defending actions for damages, but it seldom figures in such suits now.

Swindled by a Fakir.

An agent representing an electro-plating company visited Plainfield yesterday, and was quite successful in doing business. He called on several saloon-keepers and explained the merits of a composition he had for sale, saying it would not only plate but polish. Two or three of the saloon-keepers bought the stuff. It polished right enough, but the after-effects were bad, as the composition was so powerful that metal trays cracked, and holes were burned through them. The composition ruined everything it came in contact with. The agent has left town.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Garret Packer's Sorrel Mare Enlivens Second and Liberty Streets.

Yesterday afternoon William Kline was delivering goods for Garret Q. Packer, in the eastern part of the city. He had a light wagon, to which was attached a sorrel mare. While Kline was carrying some things into Dr. Rodman's house, the mare, which was tied to a post, began to pull on the tie strap, and eventually broke the strap and the bridle.

The animal then started to run, and went down LaGrande avenue at high speed. On the way the wagon caught in a post, and became detached from the harness. The mare continued to Richmond street, to Second, to Liberty street thence to Sixth, and Arlington avenue, where she was caught by Letter-Carrier Edward VanWinkle.

In the meantime, Ben Crane, the butcher, and Dog-catcher Frisbie had taken a horse and wagon and started after the runaway horse. They relieved VanWinkle and escorted the animal back to its stable.

The wagon was damaged considerably. The horse was not injured.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Little Raritan Girl Plays With Matches and Sets Fire to Her Clothes.

Lizzie Kerchofer, 5 years of age, of Raritan, was playing with matches Tuesday afternoon, when her clothes caught fire, and she was burned so severely that death resulted yesterday morning.

Christian Endeavor Tonight.

It is not likely that many members of the Christian Endeavor societies of this community will be absent from the union meeting of all the local societies which takes place at 7:30 tonight in the First Baptist church. Miss Clara Mears (formerly of Old Homestead Company, and well known in Plainfield) will sing several solos. B. T. Barnes will favor the audience with one or more selections. The speakers of the evening are Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, Eugene M. Cave and Andrew Wilson. Subject: "Christian Endeavor; Its Past, Present and Future." Howard Case will preside at the piano.

The meeting will be preceded by a song service of fifteen minutes. Charles McCutchen will lead the singing. At the conclusion of the services the meeting will be changed into a vast sociable where the members of the different societies may become better acquainted with each other and with the work of the society at large.

Progressive Euchre.

Upon invitation of Robert and Edward Clark, a few friends gathered at their home in Washington Valley, last evening. The time was pleasantly spent in dancing and playing progressive euchre. Those present were:

The Misses Maggie and Edith Miles, Miss Martin, of Newark; Miss May McLaughlin, Miss Josephine Fritz, Miss Mamie Steiner, Miss Lena Smalley, Miss Ida Lewis, Miss Belle Lewis; Mr. Menthrop, of New York; William Morrison, William Woodland, Harry Drake, Frank Dodge, William Kitchen, Harry Coddington, Henry Rogers, Stewart Moffett, of Rahway; Theodore Leueressen.

A Bad Bridge.

The old bridge crossing Green Brook at Sandford avenue is in a dangerous condition. The cross planks are broken, and in case a horse or pedestrian should step into one of the crevices a suit for damages, it is said, could be brought against the two counties. It is a line bridge between Union and Somerset counties.

A Scotch Plains Freak.

A maple at the foot of the mountain, near Scotch Plains, is turned a bright scarlet. Not any of the other foliage that the eye takes in while looking towards it, has changed color. The tree is a spot of crimson on a background of pure green. The effect is pretty and quite unique.

The End is Not Yet, Perhaps.

Mrs. Clara Johnson, who keeps a small restaurant on Park avenue, was troubled Tuesday by a customer who was drunk and disorderly and somewhat profane. In Court this morning Judge Coddington administered a severe reproof to the prisoner, and reserved sentence.

'Twill Be Good Music.

The First Presbyterian church is to change organists. William H. Miner will furnish the music next Sunday. The choir will remain unchanged.

THREATENED RAILROAD MEN.

Tramps Who Infested the Jersey Central Sand House and Were Insolent, Arrested by Plainfield Policemen.

A number of tramps have of late been riding on coal trains between this city and Bound Brook, and have slept nights in the house beyond Dunellen in which sand for engines is stored. The house is left open nights. To Central Railroad employes who disturbed them, the tramps were insolent and threatened violence. In obedience to instructions from the Railroad Company, Policemen Corsa, Cooney and Frederickson last night went to the sand house, arrested four of the tramps, and lodged them in jail.

Justice Mosher sent them to jail for 40 days. It then transpired that the Judge had no jurisdiction over Middlesex county, where the sand house is situated, and had exceeded by 10 days the time limit of punishment for disorderly conduct. Mr. Corsa therefore had to go to Dunellen and get a Justice there to act.

The names of the offenders are: James Finley, Patrick Hynes, James Walsh and John O'Brien.

Later the tramps promised to keep away from this neighboring, and were released.

Thomas Staats, of Elizabeth, has been in the borough a few days visiting his brother-in-law, William H. Shotwell.

Every twelve minutes the street cars pass one another at the switch in front of the school building on Somerset street.

Contractor John Smith, of Greenbrook road, has finished his contract with the street railway company to remove the old electric light poles.

Letter-carrier J. W. A. Bauersachs, wife and daughter, are spending the week with Mr. Bauersachs's sister in Newark. He also visits the Inter-State Fair at Trenton.

Councilman George H. Neal, Chairman of the Streets Committee, is to be congratulated on the large amount of work done the past season under his supervision; and Street Commissioner Gavin has proved himself a first-class official.

Middlesex and Hunterdon statesmen, with a few from Somerset county, who met recently in the Astor House, New York, will find before they are through that the voters of this county will have something to say as to who shall receive the Democratic nomination in this county this fall for Senator. Our county has not been in the habit of selecting its candidates for office across the Hudson river, even if they have voted for candidates for Congress who were there named over "hot birds" and a few bottles of "sec". The wave from this gathering has already struck North Plainfield, and The Stroller can assure the gentlemen that there will certainly be a stubborn fight when the caucus meets.

The Stroller was driven behind Meyers Compton's thoroughbred "Toby", to Smalleytown, where he halted at Horace Holcomb's dock, at the edge of the muddy stream which disciples of Izaak Walton designate as a river. He donned a fisherman's outfit at the nearby hospitable residence of a former Plainfielder—at one time a prominent builder of this place—and availed himself of permission to trespass on forbidden lands owned by ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant of New York city and others. Having fishing paraphernalia galore, he was determined to bring home a string of fish that would paralyze all local sports. The drive over the mountains, passing acquaintances made in boyhood, and the hearty, honest greetings that were encountered on the way, were enough themselves to repay for the trip, not taking into consideration the hour's drive home in the face of that beaming, beautiful, bright harvest moon that illuminated our journey and made us sentimental and meditate and wonder and go way back into memory to revive events that had long since vanished. Woodland, dale and dell seemed never dressed so stylishly and even looked as though gentle Nature held both hands outstretched pleading with her lovers to enjoy all her blessings and in the autumn of life to take a day off and get near to Nature's heart by going fishing. The Stroller just fished and fished beyond all expectations. Sunfish by the dozen were captured in short time. The tackle was then prepared for that fighting, gamey, small-mouthed black bass. It being late in the afternoon, almost sundown, The Stroller had to be satisfied with capturing five good-sized bass, and reluctantly stopped fishing, with a firm conviction that the king of all fresh-water fish is more largely represented in this river than in any place in this vicinity. To those Press readers who enjoy this sport a visit to this riverside is recommended. It is a spot where an artist would long linger, and one of poetic tendency cannot help but be amazed at what Nature has wrought in and alongside this babbling river in the lap of the mountain ranges.

THE STROLLER.

The Detective Had His Way.

John F. Collins, of Scotch Plains, and Ernest Jennings Greene, of Brooklyn, who are accused of stealing about $13,000 from Reinhard, Siedenburg & Co. of 75 Cotton Exchange Building, New York, were arraigned for examination at the Tombs Police Court yesterday. Detective Heidelberg asked for an adjournment until Friday. Robert L. Turk, counsel for Greene, said that the case should go on according to law.

"Law!"—exclaimed Detective Heidelberg.—"What do you know about law? The Judge says that this case is going over until Friday and you have nothing to say about it."

"As Mr. Greene's counsel I think I have"—replied Mr. Turk.

"When I get through with these fellows they won't need any lawyer"—Heidelberg went on.—"I never read a law book, but I know more law than you myself."

Justice Martin granted the adjournment.

REDUCING ROAD EXPENSES.

Essex's Method of Repairing to be Adopted in Union County.

The Road Committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders, Messrs. Moore of Elizabeth, Hubbard of Plainfield, Roll of Springfield, Scudder of Westfield, and Swain of Summit, accompanied by Director Sauer and Inspector Corbett, visited Essex county recently, for the purpose of inspecting the system of building and reparing county roads in vogue in that county. A visit was paid to South Orange avenue, now being repaired, and the method was explained to them by Inspector Burke. The committee found that by adopting a similar system in Union county the county roads could be repaired at a much smaller expense than under the present system. Inspector Burke, who is a road builder of many years experience, declares that the use of large quanties of water and continual rolling in repairing the county roads, the present method in Union county, is entirely unnecessary.

In repairing a county road in Union county enormous quantities of water are used for sprinkling the road, followed by rolling with a heavy roller. The sprinkling cart is filled about 25 times each day, and the Freeholders are obliged to pay the sum of twelve cents per load for the water. The committee decided to adopt Essex county's method of repairing roads, and it is estimated that it will result in a saving of about fifteen dollars per day on each section of the county roads repaired.

A Valuable Remedy.

Hon. Edmund L. Pitts, the late president of the New York State Senate, writes

"STATE OF N. Y., SENATE CHAMBER,
ALBANY, March 11, 1886.

I have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past five years, and can truthfully say they are a valuable remedy and effect great cures. I would not be without them. I have in several instances given some to friends suffering with weak and lame backs, and they have invariably afforded certain and speedy relief. They cannot be too highly commended."

The time to stop advertising is—

When you do not wish to make any more money;
When you wish to go out of business; or,
When you are dead.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

PLOUGHSHARE.

DANGER FROM ELIZABETH.

Editor Lane Thinks Her Too Selfish to Care for the Rest of the County.

(From The Summit Record.)

The clever manner in which the Freeholders from the townships of Union county thwarted the scheme to abandon one of the sections of county road in the upper end of the county is worthy the warmest commendation. But for the vigilance and energy of Freeholders Swain and Roll and the firm support of their colleagues in the Board, their scheme would doubtless have succeeded, and too much praise cannot be bestowed on those who prevented the Board from repudiating its past pledges and bringing discredit on the good name the Union county Board of Freeholders has hitherto enjoyed.

The incident, however, serves as an object lesson, in the danger of too great an increase in the representation of the city of Elizabeth in the Board of Chosen Freeholders. That city is of course entitled to a larger representation in the Board than it now enjoys, but the spirit its representatives displayed in dealing with the question of distributing the road moneys should serve as a warning against ever permitting it to secure a representation large enough to be a majority of the Board. If it does, there will be little mercy shown to the rest of the county.

Didn't Like Cats.

Only those who have examined the matter carefully have any idea of the many figures of speech in use in our ordinary everyday language. Indeed these figures are as intimately woven into the web and woof of our language as the figures in a Persian rug. Even the most rigid science has to depend on figures of speech to make itself understood.

But as some people use more personal ornaments than others, so some indulge in more figures of speech, and Mr. Robb of Williamsburg, N. Y., is one of these.

Recently, when thinking of changing his dwelling, he called on a German landlord who had a number of houses to let.

Mr. Robb was shown the most desirable of these. It was a very nice residence, but it struck the prospective tenant that the rooms were rather small, and he expressed his opinion in this way:

"It's a nice house, Mr. Goldberg, but the rooms are too small. Why, in most of them there isn't room to swing a cat."

"Vot's dot you say?" asked the landlord.

"I say I couldn't swing a cat in most of these rooms."

"Gott im himmel! Vot for you vant to swing der gat in dem rooms, eh?"

"Well," laughed Robb, "I might want to, you know, and if I should there isn't room."

"I don'd like dings like dot," muttered Goldberg. "I own dem houses den year unt haf goot denants, bud none oof dem vos in dot swingin gat plainess."

Promising to see Goldberg again, Mr. Bobb left, but he did not return; for that evening Mr. Goldberg's son called on him and said:

"Mein fader, Mister Goldberg, he send me rount to say he is goin to rent dot house py a family widout gats."

A Queer Change.

Mr. Simon Belford, recently retired, lived within hearing distance of two blacksmith shops for 37 years, yet so long as he was in active business he never knew that he had nerves, nor was he ever disturbed in the slightest by the clattering on the anvils, if indeed he ever heard them. But he has time to think of and to be disturbed by such things now.

Just when he wants to take that second sleep in the early morning the sons of Vulcan begin their pounding, and the poor man has to get up. He stuffed cotton into his ears, but without effect, and so he has come to have a positive envy of men who are born deaf.

Driven to desperation, Mr. Belford one day sent for the two rival blacksmiths, and on their appearing in his library he said:

"My friends, I am getting to be an old man, I fear. Now, you two have been neighbors of mine for a long time, and I have given each of you some work." Not caring to tell them his real purpose, he went on: "I am anxious to be of service to you both. If you two agree to set up in another shop some distance from where each of you is now working, I will give you $500 apiece. What do you say?"

The two blacksmiths promptly said, "Yes, sir," and were profuse in their thanks to the good man.

They left, but after two days and nights of restful quiet, which Mr. Belford enjoyed thoroughly, the pounding on the anvils began again, with greater vigor than before.

Much angered, Mr. Belford sent for the men and said, "Did I not give you money, my friends, that each of you might secure another shop?"

"Yes, sir," said one, "and so we have. I've moved into Ned Greene's shop, and he's moved into mine."

VAN EMBURGH & SON,

UP TO DATE.

Good violins improve with use and age. If Stradivarius had made Pianos as well as violins, no one would care to own one of the former unless as a curiosity. There is little new in violin making, but there is something new every year in Piano making. Take care you do not buy a Piano simply because it was famous. With any Piano of ancient name and fame we invite you to compare the Steinway, Gabler, Vose, Sterling and Braumuller Pianos. They contain all new improvements that are desirable.

They are up to date.

MINISTERS TELL IT.

We Have Our Pastors' Assurance of These Facts

THE WORD OF MINISTERS TAKEN AS THE STRONGEST PROOF.

Persons Believe the Pastor Before Anyone Else in the World.

There are no words so strong as those spoken by the true minister of the gospel. One knows and feels instinctively that such words come from the heart and are prompted only by the earnest purpose of doing good to humanity.

We do not wonder, therefore, at the great influence with the public of the strong and ringing words of praise which the eminent divine, Rev. C. D. B. Meacham, gives that most wonderful of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. When he was run down in health weak in nerves, prostrated in strength, and with his blood badly impaired, he was restored to sound and vigorous health by this marvellous health redewer.

Here are the exact facts in his own words:

"I am very glad to say in regard to Dr. Greene's great remedy that when my blood was badly impoverished by an old scrofula humor, and my nervous system was greatly impaired, Dr. Greene's medicine gave me wonderful relief.

"At the present time my health is as good as at any time in my life, and my confidence in Dr. Greene's remedy is constantly increasing.

REV. C. D. B. MEACHAM,
Pastor Baptist church, Townshend, Vt.

Doubtless the same heartfelt sympathy and great desire to see the sick made well inspired the Rev. Dr. J. W. Walker, presiding elder of the Methodist church, Fort Dodge, Ia., to also recommend Dr. Greenes Nervura blood and nerve remedy to the sick and suffering. He, too, has used it himself; he, too, knows that it cures, that it is sure to make the sick well if they use it.

"I have given Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a fair feet, and am free to say that I consider it rightly named. I have recommended its use to several.

REV. J. W. WALKER,
Presiding Elder, Fort Dodge, Ia.

They have published the testimonials of vast numbers of people who were cured by the use of the great discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy but we take more pleasure in giving to the world Rev. Mr. Meacham's own word in regard to the wonderful benefits he received from this valuable remedy, because we realize that the earnest words of a minister will have great weight with sufferers from disease, and everybody who reads their convincing words in regard to the sure and remarkable curative powers of this medicine will lose no time in securing a bottle and thus obtain a cure.

Take this medicine now if you are not feeling just right, if you are weak, nervous, run down in health and strength; if you do not sleep well nights, and if you wake mornings tired and unrefreshed with little or no appetite for breakfast. Take it for headache, backache, constipation, stomach, liver or kidney complaints It is purely vegetable and harmless and druggists sell it for $1.

It should not be classed with ordinary patent medicines, for it is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene of 35 W 14th st., New York, the well-known and successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The doctor can be consulted free in any case, personally or by letter.

GEMS IN VERSE.

A Dead Bee.

Silent in a lily tent,
Dead, the bandit lies,
Over him the white leaves bent,
Shutting out the skies.

Clad in all his shining gold,
When the soft wind blows
You may see him here—the bold
Robber of the rose.

Strange the fate that brought him here
Thus to die amid
All the honey-plunder dear
In this lily hid!

Yet how just it seems that he,
Folded in this bloom,
Sleeps in death—a honeybee
Within a honey tomb!

—Frank Dempster Sherman.

The Farmer's Resolve.

I seen an advertisement in a city magazine
Of some new patent medicine—they called it Tiredine—
As said a quart—ten doses—was the surest kind o' cure
For them whose inclinations for to work was ruther poor.

It seems to me that that's the stuff for me to go an buy
For that young son o' mine to take an sort o' make him spry.
He needs a thurer bracin up when haytime comes around,
Although when fish is runnin good he's pretty slick an sound.

I dunno why it is that boy kin take a heavy gun
An walk from ten to twenty miles an think he's havin fun.
But when there's suthin for to do that's in the plowin line
He doesn't even seem to have the symptoms of a spine.

He'll take in all the picnics, an he'll work like all possessed
At pushin scups for country girls, but never has no chest
When 't comes to tossin up the hay or gatherin in the wheat—
The very idea of that seems to knock him off his feet.

An so I think I'll go to town an sample that there stuff
An mebbe buy a lot for Tom—one bottle ain't enough.
Ten doses may suffice to put an average man in trim;
But, Tom—I think I'll hafter get a dozen quarts for him.

—Harper's Bazar.

To be a martyr, one need not be hanged,
Or be beheaded by one sudden stroke.
Rather he must live out his weary life.

—Walter Malone.

MILD DAY IN CONGRESS

Senator Hoar Contradicts an Ancient Slander.

HOW SOME STORIES KEEP GOING

Senator Peffer Does the Talking on the Silver Question—Federal Election Laws the Topic of Debate in the House, With Occasional Personalities.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 29.—The senate yesterday was in a calm and quiescent mood, very different from its condition the previous day. There was only one instance in which there was a ripple on the surface of its proceedings, and that was over a matter of ancient history which Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.,) brought up in the way of personal explanation on behalf of a former colleague of his in the house of representatives, now long dead, Mr. Hooper. This senator was chairman of the committee on banking and currency at the time of the passage of what is commonly known as the silver demonetization act of 1873. A story has been in circulation to the effect that Mr. Ernest Seyd, a French writer on finance, has had much to do with the passage of that act by the use of a corruption fund of $500,000 contributed by foreign capitalists. The absurdity and falsity of the story have often been exposed, but it always comes up again. A recent letter from Mr. Seyd's son asserting that his father had not been in the United States since 1853 was supposed to have given the slander its death blow, but it seems that even that statement failed of its purpose. In order to contradict it, an extract from one of Mr. Hooper's speeches was published a few days since in the Peoria Journal (and a copy of the paper sent to Mr. Hoar) in which a reference to Mr. Seyd was made and the words "Now here" were fraudulently interpolated. In denouncing the fraud Mr. Hoar forgot his usual benignity of manner and language, and characterized its author as belonging to the species of "The bed bug, or the squash bug."

Mr. Cullom (rep., Ill.) came to the defense of the editor of the Peoria Journal, as a man who would not knowingly commit such a fraud and forgery. And it appeared, after much discussion, that the extract from Mr. Hooper's speech has been floating about (thus falsified) for the last 15 or 20 years.

The only speech made on the silver purchasing repeal bill was by Mr. Peffer (pop., Kas.). His remedy for the financial trouble is the adoption of an amendment offered by him to restore the free coinage act of 1837. With that amendment, he said, the repeal bill could be passed in 25 minutes.

The debate in the house yesterday on the federal election repeal bill was productive of but little excitement. Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky and Mr. Johnson of Indiana became involved in a personal controversy, which at one time promised to become exciting, but finally lapsed into insignificance. Prior to this time there had been a a colloquy between Mr. Morse of Massachusetts and Mr. Fithian of Illinois, wherein the epithet of "falsehood" was passed, but this also ended amicably.

TREASURY STATEMENT.

It Will Show that the Receipts for September Have Materially Increased.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 29.—The treasury statement on Oct. 1 will show that the receipts for September have improved materially over August, and the loss for the month to be made good out of the treasury balance will not be more than $2,000,000, making about $30,500,000 excess of expenditures over receipts for the first quarter of the current fiscal year.

A loss of $5,000,000 is shown in internal revenue receipts as compared with the first quarter of 1892.

Custom receipts too show a decline for the quarter of $13,5000,000.

GEN. YOUNG'S TROUBLES DOMESTIC.

After Many Reverses in Court He at Last Gains a Point.

NEW YORK, Sep. 29.—Another phase of the trouble arising out of the marriage of Gen. Henry C. Young of Cincinnati has just been disclosed in the supreme court chambers before Justice Ingraham.

The general has thrice tried to get rid of his wife, but has not yet succeeded. When he married her in Connecticut, in August, 1886, she was the divorced wife of Robert Smith. She and Gen. Young did not live happily together and he began a suit against her in Cincinnati for absolute divorce. He discontinued that action and began one for abandonment, but it only resulted in his being ordered to pay $100 a month for her support. Then he came to this city and sought to have his marriage annulled on the ground that the divorce obtained by Smith forbade Mrs. Smith to remarry, but the court held that the marriage was valid in Connecticut, and being valid there was valid in all other states. During all this trouble Mrs. Caroline M. Collins, Gen. Young's sister, remained his wife's firm friend, and about this time sued him for $6,000 for necessaries furnished to her.

Gen. Young in his answer, charged his sister with conniving at his wife's infidelity and allowing her to meet a male acquaintance in her home. Thereupon Mrs. Collins sued him for $20,000 damages for libel, and obtained judgment by default. Now Gen. Young's counsel moves to have the default opened, claiming that his client was in Paris at the time judgment was obtained against him and that his counsel had made a mistake as to the time when the suit was to be called up.

Justice Ingraham has granted the motion.

LESSONS FROM THE VICTORIA.

Arguments Against Large Ironclads and Cruisers.

LONDON, Sep. 29.—The annual meeting of the Armstrong and Mitchell company of shipbuilders, who constructed the warship Victoria, sunk in collision with the Camperdown, was held in London yesterday. In speaking of the collision Lord Armstrong contended that the arguments against building immense ironclads were unassailable. The same arguments, he said, held as good, however, against gigantic cruisers as against gigantic battleships. The collision off Tripoli had certainly taught a valuable lesson. The strength and stability of the Camperdown's prow ram were quite insufficient to enable her to deliver an effective blow without peril to herself. The same defect probably existed in the other rams. The life of a battleship, however, was far too valuable to be staked on the use of her ram. Besides, a big battleship was too unwieldy to give full effect to her ram.

Lord Armstrong advocated, therefore, the building of several vessels especially designed for ramming. "These vessels should not be too large," he said, "and should be kept free from the costly complications of battleships. Personal dash on the part of the commander would be the principal quality needed in handling such a rammer. The occasional loss of such an inexpensive vessel would be of small importance as compared with the loss of a great battleship like the Victoria."

FATAL RETRIBUTION.

Two Negroes Will Die from an Explosion of Stolen Powder.

SAVANNAH, Sep. 29.—A special from Asheville to the Morning News says: Two negroes, Shads Lee and Gus Alexander, met last night at Lee's house to divide some stolen goods, among which was a 250-pound can of powder. In dividing the powder some was spilled on the floor. Shade threw a spoonful of this into the fire, which flashed and set off the remainder on the floor. This in turn caused the can to explode, which demolished the house and dreadfully mangled the two thieves. A shot gun lying near was also discharged, the load wounding Lee's wife. Alexander was placed in jail, but he will probably die. Lee is expected to die.

A Native Christian Murdered for His Religion.

STORY OF FALSEHOOD AND CRUELTY

A Woman's False Charge Made the Pretext for Death by Torture—The Victim's Body Frantically Cut to Pieces with Knives and Daggers.

NEW YORK, Sep. 29.—The Rev. Dr. Benjamin Labaree, recording secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, has received news from Oroomiah, Persia, of the brutal murder of an Armenian Christian in that city recently at the hands of a mob of Mohammedans. The name of the victim of the outrage was Agah Jon. He was an Armenian by birth and was a prosperous merchant in the city of Oroomiah and a prominent member of the Presbyterian church in that place, having been converted to Christianity some time ago by the missionaries of the board at that station. According to the accounts, Ajah Jon acted as the agent of a Mohammedan woman, who wished to purchase a piece of property. She called at the shop of her agent on the day in question and he reported that he had not as yet been able to make the purchase of the land she desired to obtain.

Much angered at the delay in carrying out her wishes, the woman went to some of the most influential among the natives and told them that Ajah Jon had grossly insulted her. These people quickly spread the rumor abroad and in a short time a howling mob gathered in front of the unfortunate merchant's store. The crowd broke down the doors and dragged the poor man out into the street and then carried him to the mosque. There they offered him his life and a large sum of money if he would renounce Christianity. He refused to comply with their demands and, after torturing him cruelly, they dragged him aloft to the top of the mosque and then threw him bodily to the ground.

As he lay prostrate and scarcely breathing a heavy stone was dropped upon him from a great height, which crushed all the life out of him and broke every bone in his body. Not satisfied with their accomplishments, the mob savagely attacked the corpse with knives and daggers. A wife and five children survive him.

A CRANK AFTER CLEVELAND.

He Visits the White House and Demands the Presidential Chair.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 29.—Yesterday a white man about 28 years of age, in some unexplained way found his way into the lower regions of the white house and meeting the colored cook, said to her: "I want to see father."

"Who is your father?" the cook asked him.

"Mr. Cleveland, of course," was the response.

Just then Policeman Heller appeared on the scene and saw at a glance that the man was not altogether right and so he dealt with him accordingly.

"Your father is out in the garden," he told the mysterious visitor. "Come with me and we'll find him."

Arm in arm they started towards the door, the intruder thinking he was going to meet the president, but the officer knew that he would land him at the watch box.

On their way to the box the officer asked the man: "What did you want in the white house?"

"I wanted that chair," was the response.

"What chair?"

"The president's chair."

"Don't you think the president fills it satisfactorily?"

"No, I don't;" was his reply, "and I intend to get it by fair means or foul. Give us each a pistol and I'll show who will get it d—— quick."

When they got to the watch box they found Policeman Hilde on duty. Before that officer knew what was going on the prisoner grabbed the policeman's black jack from his pocket, evidently thinking he was going to get a pistol. He tried to use the club on the officer, but both officers grabbed him and the struggle lasted but a few minutes before the man was overpowered.

The crank was conveyed to the police station where he gave the name of Joseph Washington and said he came from Pennsylvania. A charge of being a suspicious character was lodged against him.

TURKISH GOVERNOR REMOVED.

Radical Measures to Avenge the Outrage on Anna Melton.

NEW YORK, Sep. 29.—Prompt action on the part of the United States government has compelled the Turkish authorities to adopt radical measures to avenge the outrage perpetrated upon Miss Anna Melton, an American missionary of the Presbyterian board in Mosul, who was attacked on the night of June 14 last, while stopping in a little village in the Koordish mountains, near Amadia. The latest phase of the matter shows that the grand vizier, in Constantinople, has ordered the removal of the governor of Mosul, because that official did not act with sufficient promptitude in bringing the offenders to justice, after repeated demands by the government of this country. Several Amadians are under arrest, charged with the crime, but their trial for some reason has been postponed from time to time.

VALKYRIE A MYSTERY

Takes a Sail Down the Bay and Creates Comment.

NOT EASY TO SIZE UP THE YACHT

Critics Think Her Sails Do Not Quite Fit and that She Does Not Drift as Well as the Vigilant But Nothing Significant Can be Determined.

NEW YORK, Sep. 29.—The Valkyrie went out for her first sail in American waters under racing rig yesterday, and those who watched her are no wiser than they were before. There was not a thing to be learned about the British champion which could be learned from her performances. She went drifting about the lower bay, stretching her newly bent sails, and when the evening was approaching she signalled a tug and was brought back to her anchorage off the Atlantic yacht club house. To the observers, the sails of the British champion did not appear to set well, but that was not at all surprising considering that this was the first time they had been tried.

To those who saw the Valkyrie, she did not seem to have the facility of drifting developed in such a remarkable degree as the Vigilant. That also proved nothing, as no effort was made to take advantage of even the light airs which wandered from the northward over the almost unruffled surface of the waters. Thus from an inquisitive point of view and from one of more or less anxiety, the first sail of the Valkyrie proved nothing and showed nothing except that her sails did not set well at first.

While the Valkyrie was stretching her sails the Vigilant was being hauled out of the water at City island. She went over from her anchorage off Mr. Iselin's house at New Rochelle early in the day and will remain on the ways until Monday, when she will again be put in the water.

It was unofficially stated that the America's cup committee had decided to have a one-gun start for the international race.

WITH SPEECHES AND GOOD CHEER.

LOCAL CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS OPEN THEIR FALL CAMPAIGN.

Enthusiastic Gathering Last Night in the First Baptist Church—Speeches by Miss Spangenberg, Eugene M. Cave, and Andrew Wilson—Music and Singing—The Past, Present and Future of Christian Endeavor Discussed—Sociability After the Meeting.

The union meeting of the local societies of Christian Endeavor which took place in the lecture room of the First Baptist church, last evening, was a most successful affair.

The fifteen-minute song service, beginning at 7:45, was led by E. C. Pease.

After the opening prayer by the Rev. Dr. Yerkes, George H. Batchelor, who presided over the meeting, introduced Andrew Wilson, Vice-President of the County Union, who delivered an address on "Christian Endeavor; its past".

The speaker said in part, that in the twelve years of the life of Christian Endeavor, a very large proportion of the energy which the movement embodies has been spent in organization. Now the forces are well organized and they ought to do organized work. The million and a half Christian Endeavorers are not doing what they can do. They have not really got to work yet. The purpose of the society is to make young Christians more useful in the service of Christ.

"I like the pledge of our society,"—continued Mr. Wilson—"and think it ought not to be modified in the least. It binds us to read God's word, to take active part in Christian work, and to confess Christ with the lips. The Christian Endeavor pledge is the life of the Christian Endeavor society, and if the pledge be faithfully, loyally kept, the society will become the life of the church.

When Mr. Wilson had finished his address, Miss Clara Mears sang with excellent effect a solo, "Deal Gently With the Erring One". Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Netherwood, the district secretary of Christian Endeavor societies, spoke on "Christian Endeavor; its present condition, work and needs". Miss Spangenberg is thoroughly conversant with Christian Endeavor work, and is besides an effective and interesting speaker. Her remarks were closely followed; and the audience were easily won to sympathy with her work.

Miss Spangenberg said in part:

"I should like to speak briefly tonight upon several branches of the work which at present are attracting some attention. I refer to the Floating Societies of C. E., the work at the life saving stations, the Police C. E. Societies and the C. E. Travelers Union. In speaking of these branches, it seems that at the present time there is scarcely a person in any walk in life who may not if he so desire, be connected with or under the influence of the C. E. Society.

"The secretary of the N. Y. C. E. A. proposed the organization of a police society of C. E. last March. The society was formed, and is now very prosperous. Their motto is, 'The policemen of New York city for the Lord Jesus Christ". And then we also find societies in prisons and houses of correction, where the unfortunate inmates are being born into the Kingdom of God, and prepared for his service."

Speaking of President Clark's missionary journey round the world, the speaker said:

"The welcome at Ranipet Dr. Clark described as a genuine New Jersey welcome, not only because many of the members of the mission were connected with New Jersey by education and residence, but because, he said, he knew of nothing more delightfully cordial than a genuine New Jersey welcome.

"If the time ever was it has certainly passed when the Endeavorer felt that after he had finished his private devotions and spent an hour in the prayer meeting, where he testified and rendered other service, that his work was completed. Worship is not work, but a preparation for work. The Endeavor Societies of today are great work shops where the machinery of God's Kingdom is kept perpetually in motion by the untiring and indefatigable Endeavor workers. Anything, everything that can be done to minister to the souls and bodies of perperishing humanity, is practical work for Endeavorers."

After Miss Spangenberg's address, the meeting sang "The Sweetest Name".

Eugene M. Cave next delivered an address on "Christian Endeavor; its future".

"Tradition tells us"—said the speaker in part—"that after every financial crisis we have had in this country, there has always been a religious revival. I am looking forward to the time when our city shall have another revival among her churches, and I want to see the C. E. societies foremost in the work.

"This is an age of opportunities. The vacation season is over; your associates have retured to their homes; the opportunity for work is now before you. Take to it, actively, boldly. Let nothing deter you in aiming at high things in your Christian life."

Mr. Cave's address was listened to with much interest.

B. T. Barnes at its close sang a pleasing solo, "Be Thou with Me," and Miss Clara Mears sang "Take, oh take me to your care".

The meeting sang "God be with you till we meet again", and the Rev. Dr. Yerkes came forward and pronounced the benediction.

Twenty minutes were then given to social intercourse. The sociability was of the genuine Christian Endeavor brand; and when the young folks left for home, it was with pleasant impressions of Christian Endeavor good cheer.

MR. SCHEPFLIN HAS THE CUP.

Dunellen Club Three Times Victorious, and Holds the Trophy.

The annual games for the prize cup were bowled on Mr. Schepflin's green at Dunellen yesterday by the Middlesex and Dunellen bowling clubs. The two rinks of the Dunellens were:

FIRST RINK.	SECOND RINK.
George Haynes,	James Smyth,
George Haffner,	William Elliott,
D. B. S. Cockburn,	Andrew Love,
James Stevens, skip.	C. Schepflin, skip.

The second rink of the Middlesex club had H. B. Willis for skip, and the first Dr. Betts. Both Dunellen rinks were winners; the first, 21 to 13; and the second, 21 to 9. Col. Moore was referee.

As this was the final game, the cup became the permanent property of the Dunellen club.

It was unanimously agreed by the members of the victorious club to present the cup to Mr. Schepflin as a testimonial of his interest in the games, and as its President it was felt that he was justly entitled to become its possessor.

Mr. Cockburn, who presented the club with the handsome and ornamental score boards, was enthusiastically cheered and heartily thanked.

Mayor Haynes of Newark was an interested witness of the match, and in a toast was complimented on the fact that his appearance showed no change from the time when the cup was first bowled for, three years ago.

Pays the Penalty After Many Days.

John Newman was drunk and disorderly and pulled pickets from a fence on the Boulevard two weeks ago. Police Sergeant Kiely this morning arrested Newman, and Judge Coddington fined him $5.

He'll Pay the Penalty, Next Time.

Thomas Barber, 15, amused himself this morning by throwing stones at a house on East Second street. Police Sergeant Kiely arrested the youth. In court, as it was Barber's first offense, Judge Coddington administered a severe reproof and suspended sentence.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

A SCOTCH PLAINS WEDDING.

MISS MAMIE MURPHY BECOMES MRS. THOMAS WALSH.

Father Scanlon of Stony Hill Unites Two Happy Hearts—The Groom a Progressive New York Banker—The Bride a Belle of Her Neighborhood.

A very pretty home wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 5, at the home of the bride, in Scotch Plains, when Miss Mamie Murphy became the wife of Thos. Walsh, of Brooklyn. Father Scanlon, of Stony Hill, performed the ceremony before a large gathering of friends and relatives.

The rooms were tastefully decorated, adding new beauty to the scene. After the marriage all partook of the elaborate supper prepared. The table was laden with choice viands, served in excellent style by those in charge.

The bride was charmingly attired in a neat traveling costume.

The groom is the junior partner of the firm of James Walsh & Son, brokers and bankers, Wall street, New York.

David E. Morgan was best man, and Miss Mary Murphy bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left early in the evening for Chicago, and on their return will reside in Scotch Plains.

Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, father and mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, father and mother of the groom, and Miss Mamie Walsh, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Mann, Miss Harriette Squires, Rahway; Miss Anna Murphy, Plainfield; Mr. Johnson, New York; Harry Smith and William Mace, Brooklyn; Miss Mamie Murphy, Newark; Mrs. Hollinsworth, Miss Hollinsworth, Miss Carter, Harry Carter, Miss Lillian Nichols, Mrs. Rourke, Mr. Duycknick, Scotch Plains; Detective Lyman, of Inspector McLoughlin's Staff, New York.

ANOTHER HOME WEDDING.

The Western Cousin of Dr. George W. Endicott Married at Westfield—Miss Stilwell Becomes Mrs. Malcolm McDonald.

Another charming home wedding took place at 12:30 yesterday at the residence of Charles G. Endicott, Prospect street, Westfield, when Miss Emma Stilwell, and Malcolm McDonald, both of Seattle, Washington, were married by the Rev. W. Cadwell. Only the relatives of the bride and the groom were present.

The happy couple left immediately for Washington, where they will make their home.

The bride is a popular and accomplished young woman, and will be much missed in church and social circles in Westfield, in which she has moved for the past year.

She is a cousin of Charles G. Endicott, and of Dr. George W. Endicott of this city.

HE POWER OF GOLD.

Walter Sanford's Famous Production to Be Produced in Music Hall.

Walter Sanford brings his recent successful production, "The Power of Gold", to Music Hall, Saturday night, Oct. 7. This play has evoked considerable favorable comment in New York. Though it came before the public when English melodrama was considered dead, yet it has proved a greater money-maker than any of its predecessors. While the scene of action is laid in London and while the characters are all of English type, still the author has so fashioned his story that it is perfectly understandable on this side of the Atlantic, and its comedy is of that cosmopolitan order appreciated all over the world. It is a scenic melodrama of modern London life, and in its telling shows massive stage pictures of well-known localities. The readers of Dickens will find many dramatic landmarks in "The Power of Gold": St. Hilda's Foundling Asylum, where Walter Wilding (No Thoroughfare) was placed; the Houndsditch Mad House on the sunken Marshes, where Barnaby Rudge and his Raven rested in durance vile after the Lord George Gordon Riots; an interior of Apsley House near Hyde Park Gate (the former home of the Duke of Wellington); squalid section of Whitechapel, where Fagan taught his proteges the art of theft; and the Regent's Canal, passing through Old London: all being thrillingly realistic in the extreme. The company has been very carefully selected by Mr. Sanford from his many players, and are all well-known people in the dramatic circles.

Can't Wait Forever.

(From The Westfield Leader.)

The assistance of Justice Mosher of Plainfield has been invoked to compel some young Westfield men to pay for damage they did some property in that village about two weeks ago. At the time mentioned, five young men stole two buggies from beneath a shed and after wheeling them some distance away from their owner's place, they smashed the buggies pretty generally. Justice Mosher has the names of the guilty parties and has written them to pay for the damage, which amounts to about $40, or else be dealt with according to law. Since writing to them the Justice has received an answer from one of the guilty parties, who on his part has offered to settle. As soon as the other four men do likewise, the case will be settled, but the Justice does not propose to wait much longer.

Valuable Dyes for Cotton.

Recent discoveries have resulted in fast diamond dyes for cotton, pink, purple, orange, turkey red, etc., that are absolutely non-fading colors. Washing with soap will not hurt the colors made by these dyes. A ten cent package makes a rich color on one pound of goods or lighter shades on from two to ten pounds. For coloring yarns, carpet rags, etc., they are the only reliable dyes.

A PLEA FOR THE VOICE.

Miss Bronson Believes in Educating Children to Speak and Sing by Method.

Herewith is published a portion of a lecture on "The Child-Voice", delivered recently by Miss Annie J. Bronson, of East Ninth street, at Round Lake, N. Y., an educational resort on the Chautauqua plan. It is an admirable setting-forth of the views of this teacher of voice culture, who has been induced to settle in Plainfield because of the city's reputation abroad for being progressive and music-loving. Miss Bronson says:

The adult-voice is literally the offspring of the child-voice, and inherits its good and bad qualities. Strain the child-voice and you cripple the adult-voice; or leave it untrained, and like the spoiled child it grows unmanageable, and even with much after care hardly ever becomes as charming as might have been, had its early education not been neglected. * * * Parents, we are not asking you to send your children around the world on concert tours, or to make them elocutionists; but we do urge that you give them the same advantages in voice culture that you do in other educational branches. If you prepare your children for college work or a business career, by giving them a common school education, why do you begin as early to have them taught the rudiments of correct speaking and singing? * * * We plead most earnestly for the early training which will endow America's youths and maidens with beautifully colored speaking voices, correct articulation and pronunciation in speech and song, musical laughs which will make our hearts merry, instead of grating sounds which cause us to shudder, and wish that people would not laugh aloud. * * * Ye parents, who aspire to make your children kings, and queens in the realm of fashionable society, why do you ignore such a fascinating art? Yet you send them to dancing masters, you employ nursery governesses, begin their education in the languages, before they can hardly lisp their native tongue, you place them on the piano stool when their feet cannot touch the floor, or their little fingers stretch an octave, and instruct them in table etiquette as soon as they can hold a spoon. * * * A careful development of the voice should date from a child's first attempts to speak or sing; therefore if parents' tones are nasal, harsh, high pitched, or breathy, their articulation and pronunciation defective, it is only natural that their children should fall into similar errors. * * * By a co-operative movement on the part of mothers especially, and voice teachers, not only can the possibilities of the child-voice be revealed in a race of naturally artistic speakers and singers, but weak lungs and throats, narrow chests and round shoulders be avoided. Not only will the physiques of men be better developed, but women will no longer be so ready to sacrifice their bodies, minds and souls on the altars of fashion. * * * "The birds must know. Who wisely sings will sing as they."

Let us begin to teach the children of America to sing as the birds sing, if we desire to rear a race of speakers and singers who can raise the standard of the English language in speech and song, and establish national opera. The musical beauties of our native tongue are locked up in the undeveloped child-voice.

A Good Word for Jersey.

(From The Philadelphia Record.)

It is not fair to hold the State of New Jersey responsible for all the crimes committed within its boundaries. Across the Hudson lies the city of New York, across the Delaware the city of Philadelphia, with an aggregate of population far exceeding the population of New Jersey. Criminals gravitate toward the cities as water runs to the sea, and they find in New Jersey a place of refuge when the scent becomes too hot in the cities. Subtract from the sum of Jersey rascality that which originates elsewhere, perpetrated by stragglers from metropolitan hotbeds of vice who are "not to the manor born", and the State would hold its own for morality with any of its sisters, no matter how straight-laced. The bulk of the State's lesser criminalities, as well as the more heinous, are not of spontaneous growth. It is a very common thing, when the antic disposition is on, for the festive urban law-breaker to betake himself to New Jersey to run amuck against the penal statutes.

The World's Fair Will be Financially Clear on Chicago Day.

CHICAGO, Sep. 29.—On Chicago Day, October 9, the exposition will be free from debt, excepting, of course, the stock subscriptions, which are not a legal liability.

The floating indebtedness on contracts and the pay roll will be cleared up on that day also. The committee estimates that $1,900,000 will be required to accomplish this purpose.

The executive committee of the board of directors, at its meeting last night, concurred in the recommendation of the finance committee to pay off all the bonds and floating indebtedness Chicago Day.

Interstate Fair at Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., Sep. 29.—The interstate fair grounds never held a denser mass of people than yesterday. They came from all sections of the state and Pennsylvania and New York, and the turnstiles showed that nearly 50,000 passed the paying gates. It being "politicians day" Gov. Werts and the leading men of both parties were in attendance.

WENT TO SEA UNSAFE.

The Russian Warship Which Went Down With 170 Men.

LONDON, Sep. 29.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Chronicle says that the ironclad Rioualka was unseaworthy when she left Revel on her last voyage. She had been repaired clumsily, leaked badly and was generally unfitted for heavy weather. Her deck was but three feet above the surface of the water and her captain was ill. The total number of lives lost, says the Chronicle correspondent, was 179. The first news of the accident came to the czar from a foreign source. This fact has greatly irritated him.

MRS. HALLIDAY INDICTED.

Her Trial Will Probably be Held Next May.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sep. 29.—George H. Carpenter, who was appointed to defend Mrs. Halliday by the court, was interviewed last evening in regard to having a commission appointed to examine into her sanity. Mr. Carpenter stated that it had been decided not to have a commission appointed.

When court convened yesterday Mrs. Halliday was brought in. The district attorney began to read the indictment which charged her with the murder of Sarah Jane McQuillan, Margaret McQuillan and Paul Halliday, and finding the charge of murder in the first degree against her.

As the district attorney read to her she looked at him and blinked, not seeming to realize the terrible charge presented against her.

When the reading of the indictment was finished, Judge Fursman asked her whether she pleaded guilty or not guilty.

The prisoner did not answer, she apparently not understanding the question.

Mrs. Halliday was asked if she knew there were three indictments against her. She said in a low voice that she did not. Her apparent return to a semblance of reason is due, it is claimed, to her being kept free from visitors and all excitement the past week.

It is believed that her case will be tried at the next May term of court, and that she will receive a life sentence.

The End of a Selfish Life—A Story That Points a Plain Moral—Dead at a Woman's Grave—The Want of Wholesome Influence.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

There are men—and women, too—whose lives would seem to be one unbroken record of selfishness, and yet who manage to get on in the world and to win where others much better than themselves fail.

Dick Folingsby was a man of this kind. Dick and I were distant cousins and playmates and schoolmates in our boyhood. I recall as distinctly as if it were yesterday that Dick had a great habit of breaking tops, letting kites get loose, losing books and bursting the barrels of shotguns, but the things lost or injured were never his own—they always belonged to myself or to some other boy.

Whenever it came down to the division of an apple, an orange or a piece of cake—always the property of some other boy, for Dick never divided his things—he invariably managed to do the cutting and always got what we called "the biggest half."

He grew up to be a fine looking fellow, though with rather a cynical expression. I remember my father, with the privilege of a kinsman, pointed out to Dick's parents on one occasion what he thought were the defects in the boy's character, but they thought his peculiarities would the better qualify him for the calling of a merchant, which it was decided he should be.

Soon after Dick Folingsby came of age, his father and mother died, leaving him an estate that brought in about $9,000 a year. If Dick had been left poor, I am quite sure that he would have won his way, like many men of the same disposition, and achieved a fortune, but a competency was a death-blow to his ambition. It seemed to enervate all his nobler impulses, while it intensified his selfishness.

From first to last I do not recall having heard of Dick's giving away one cent in charity or helping a man who was down from that impulse of sympathy which we often find associated with natures that are far from noble.

And yet as I look back upon his career I cannot help thinking that with proper influences about him, when his character was in process of formation, that Dick Folingsby might have been a most useful man, who in dying could look back upon a well spent life.

I recall that when we were boys of 8 or 9 years in Kentucky, that one of our chums of the same age had a pretty baby sister of about 3. Even unto this day I never see a baby with golden hair and laughing blue eyes without being reminded of Edna Davis.

A STARTLING ASSERTION.

"I am going to have her for my wife," Dick would say, and as he always managed to get whatever he wanted I, as a child, believed that the marriage was a foregone conclusion.

Dick was not inclined to be intellectual. So when I went away to boarding school and subsequently to college our lives parted practically, though we met often afterward, and I think, after his fashion, he liked me. I know I had come to regard him with indifference, if not with contempt, for I never forgot his meanness to me when I was a boy. Indeed, and curiously enough, the wrongs borne passively when I was a child roused my anger when I thought of them after I had grown to be more than Dick Folingsby's physical equal.

Like all selfish men, Dick was inordinately vain, particularly of his power over women.

He had many love affairs before he reached the age of 25, yet from first to last he always clung to Edna Davis, the only person in the world who seemed to have any influence over him.

Edna had grown up in fulfillment of all the promise of her childhood. I saw her last when she was but little more than 19, and, although her friends assured me that the doctors could not find any organic disease, her lifelike beauty and the evident lack of physical strength convinced me that she was not long for this world.

Little did I then think that the poor girl was dying of a broken heart and that Dick Folingsby was the cause. He had asked her to marry him, that is certain, but she refused, though she loved him from first to last, and him only.

One day when I was visiting a friend in Lexington, Ky., Dick came into my room, and pointing to the death notices in a newspaper he said hoarsely:

"Read that."

I glanced at the notice, but was not surprised, for two days before this I had attended the funeral of Edna Davis and wondered that Dick was not there.

"It's awful!" he gasped.

"Yes; very sad," I replied.

He sprang to his feet, his face the color of the ashes on the hearth, and whispered:

"She was murdered! I tell you Edna Davis was murdered!"

"Nonsense," I said.

"But it's true. And I know the murderer!"

I told him a rest would do him good and begged him to lie down.

"Yes, old fellow, I need a rest mighty bad, and I'll soon take a long one. But, I repeat, she was murdered, and I know the murderer!"

Hoping to quiet him, for I could see he had been drinking, I asked:

"Well, who is the fellow?"

"Can't you think?"

"No, and I don't propose to try."

"Look at me!"

I did so.

"I am the guilty man, and I must pay the penalty!" he cried. "Had I done right Edna would be living and my happy wife today, but I did wrong, and she knew it. That's why she would not marry me, though she never loved a man but me."

"Take a sleep," I suggested, "and you will feel better tomorrow."

"No," he said. "Edna's dead. She was the one thing that held me to life. I can never feel well again."

He reeled out of the room, and I supposed he had gone off to drown his woes, real or imaginary, with more liquor, and so, as he was not a pleasant subject for thought, I tried to forget him.

The next morning my host came into my room looking very much disturbed, for he, too, had been one of my childhood's playmates.

"My God!" he gasped, "this news is terrible!"

"What is it?" I asked.

"This morning Dick Folingsby was found lying across poor Edna's grave with a bullet through his heart."

And this was the end of a selfish life which, under proper guidance, might have been noble and happy.

Kindness to Animals.

A man may be harsh to his own wife, but he will not permit another to take such a liberty, nor is he inclined to stand by while another woman is being abused.

A man may be in the habit of flogging his own child brutally, but he is ready to fight if he sees another man striking a boy on the streets. This was recently illustrated in Justice Walsh's court in Brooklyn.

An officer had found a German driver of an express wagon thrashing a boy of 9, and as the boy was not the driver's son he arrested the man after calling him a coward.

The officer made the complaint, and on being called on to plead in his own defense the German said:

"Shudge, I pin one of dem men vats very font oaf all dumb animals. I likes all dem dings, unt I likes dem vot likes dem dings.

"Vell, shudge, aiz I vos sayin, I vos sittin oup on de seat at de gorner oaf Goort unt Ramsen streets vaidin for a shob, ven dees leetle poy he gome rount to de horse's head, unt I see aiz he haf in his hant a pig shunk oaf bret vot he has peen eadin.

"Bimepy he give de horse some oaf dot bret, unt dot horse he ead id unt like it.

"'Dot's all ride, sonny,' I say to dot leedle poy; 'you geep ride on bein kind to dem animals vot is dumb, unt bimepy mebbe you vos already de bresident oaf dot society for nod doin gruelty to animals.'

"Vell, dot poy he laught unt geep ride on feedin dot horse. Den I say, 'Sonny, vot for your mudder gif you so much bret?' But he said: 'Oh come off, Dutchy! My mudder she don'd gif me dot bret.'

"Vell, shudge, ven I hear dot leedle poy talk like dot I pegins to suspeg somedings. Den I looks pack in mine vagen, vere mine frau leaf mine tinner under de seat dot mornin, unt, so help me krashous, id vos gone!

"Dot poy, shudge, he stole mine tinner, unt ven he gan't ead no more he gome rount ride pefore mine eyes, unt he feet de rest to mine horse.

"I sharge him for a tief. Den he laugh unt put his finger up to his nose shust like dot. Den I ged mat, unt I shump down unt gatch dot poy unt vollop him. Dot's all." And the German looked round with an air of injured innocence.

The court and the spectators laughed, and the German was at once discharged. The judge read the boy a lecture, but as the youngster still grinned over his joke it is doubtful if he benefited by this experience.

Purely a Supposed Case.

Their love had reached that stage where she didn't care whether he mussed her hair or not, such was her trust in him.

Her sun kissed tresses stood out in bold relief against his pink shirt, in spite of which he had a not unintellectual countenance.

"Wouldn't it be lovely"——

It was the sweet voice of the maiden that broke the stillness.

——"if pa should lose all his money? Then"——

She was gazing at his collar button, fortunately, and she did not see him turn pale.

——"my lovey-dovey would adore his tootsey-wootsey for her own sake, wouldn't he?"

He cleared his throat.

"Dearest," he said, "I should like to inquire, before I make answer to you, whether or not that is a purely hypothetical question?"

She assured him that it was, whereupon he said yes, he would certainly love her for her own sake under the circumstances she had outlined.—Detroit Tribune.

He Knew.

Von Blumer—To my mind this racing business is one of the greatest evils of the day. It's especially bad for the young men. Old man, you have no idea how many a promising fellow has been ruined on the race track. For instance, take a nephew of mine. He's only 20, and yesterday he was down on the track betting right and left.

Witherly—How do you know so much about him?

Von Blumer—Why, I met him there. —Clothier and Furnisher.

Obligation.

If ever some pure hearted one should give Responsive look for gentle glance of thine,
Forget it not as long as thou shalt live,
But in thy heart of hearts enshrine!

Should ever some congenial spirit say
A tender word in friendship's garden grown,
Oh, let it not as frosted flowers decay,
But be as amaranthine crown!

If ever some unselfish one should do
An act of kindness in thy time of need,
Within thy mem'ry faithfully renew
The fragrant incense of the deed!

Should ever some angelic woman trust
The treasures of her coming years to thee,
Let not her hopes be trodden in the dust,
But loyal to thy promise be.

CITIZEN BOYNTON GETS ARRESTED

He Attempts to Attack Insurgent Ships With a Tug Illegally Flying the British Flag—The United States May be Asked to Explain.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—A spice of international interest has been injected into the situation of affairs in Brazil through two incidents that may lead to some complications. The first of these is based on the action of merchant vessels, flying the stars and stripes, in furnishing provisions to the rebel fleet which threatens Rio Janeiro. The other is the arrest of a man named Boynton, commanding a tug and illegally floating the British flag. It is presumed he intended to attack the insurgent ships, as he had a torpedo. He was arrested by a British man-of-war and turned over to the captain of the United States cruiser Charleston at Rio.

It is understood that the state department has directed the minister to caution captains of the American merchantmen from giving stores to the belligerants, the United States not having recognized the rebellious faction. Whether American vessels have actually given provisions to the rebels and, if so, whether the government of Brazil, if it be successful in the present trouble, will ask for an explanation, perhaps something more from the United States, are questions that cannot now be considered in any other form than as mere surmise. It is understood that other questions submitted by Mr. Thompson for advice as to his attitude in the premises, are covered by his general instructions and that he has been so informed. On the face of it the Boynton incident would appear to be more important but opinion in official circles differs as to its gravity.

A majority of those questioned on the subject are inclined to think that it will not amount to anything. The construction placed on the matter at the navy department is this: A tug of the Brazilian government flying the British flag attempted to blow up an insurgent ship. The commander of the tug, a United States citizen, was arrested by British officers on the charge of piracy in showing colors under which he had no right to sail, and, was turned over to the United States naval authorities for conveyance to the United States for trial.

At the state department where the matter has been examined with some care, it is said that the incident is not at all serious. Boynton had been captured on suspicion of intending to commit an assault on one of the rebel ships and had been through courtesy, turned over to the United States commander for whatever action the United States saw fit to take in his case. It is stated that no severe punishment could be inflicted on Boynton and that neither Great Britain nor Brazil would attempt to hold the United States responsible for the matter and furthermore that even if it be shown that Boynton's tug was in the service of the Brazilian government while floating the British flag, Great Britain would not be sufficiently interested to demand redress from Brazil.

Relief Asked for Second Preference Income Bonds.

PHILADELPHIA, Sep. 30.—Counsel for Alfred Sully filed a bill in equity in the United States circuit court against the Philadelphia & Reading railroad and coal and iron companies and the Pennsylvania company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities, as trustees of the income mortgage, asking for certain relief, as a holder of $60,000 second preference income mortgage bonds.

It was related that the interest on the bonds became payable on the 1st of February, 1893, and that there was default.

The court was asked to determine the rights of the second preference income mortgage bondholders. A decree directing the sale of Reading property was also asked, unless the default be made good. The appointment of a receiver or receivers to take charge of the Reading property and run it, and to enjoin the present receivers from interfering, was also asked.

George Robert Tyler Elected Lord Mayor of London.

LONDON, Sep. 30.—Yesterday being Michaelmas Day, in accordance with the usual custom, the liverymen of the various guilds of the city of London assembled in the Guildhall for the purpose of electing a Lord Mayor in succession to Sir Stuart Knill, whose term of office expires on Nov. 9 next.

When the Lord Mayor and his party arrived at the Guildhall they were met by the Alderman, the Recorder, the Chamberlain and the other high officers of the corporation, all of whom were attired in court dress and their robes of office. The civic dignitaries, conducted by the City Marshal, then walked in procession to the neighboring Church of St. Lawrence, Jewry, where divine service was held.

At the conclusion of the service the party returned in procession to the Guildhall, and passed to the hustings in the great hall, which, according to ancient usage, was strewn with sweet herbs.

The regular election proceedings then began, the Common Crier directing all persons who were not liverymen to depart from the hall on pain of imprisonment.

The Recorder then formally informed the liverymen of the occasion of their meeting, and stated that in order that their choice might be free and unfettered the Lord Mayor and Aldermen would withdrew.

The Common Sergeant informed the liverymen as to the Aldermen who had served the office of Sheriff, a condition precedent to election to the Lord Mayoralty. Among the Aldermen so named was George Robert Tyler, Alderman for Queenhithe, who, upon the return of the Lord Mayor to the hall, was declared by the Recorder to have been elected.

READING COLLIERY BURNING.

On Fire Several Days Before the Company Found it Out.

MAHANOY PLAIN, Pa., Sep. 30.—A fierce colliery fire is raging at the Boston Run workings of the Reading company, located near St. Nicholas, in the Mahanoy Valley.

One of the principal veins worked at this colliery outcrops on the mountain side, and several months ago while mountain fires were raging near by, some timber which had fallen across the outcropping burned with the brush, and in this way fired the coal, unknown to the colliery employes.

This has been buring its way gradually to the main workings of the mine and the company have a veritable volcano on their hands to contend with.

The officials took prompt steps, however, as soon as the fire was discovered, a few days ago, and expect to have it extinguished in a day or two.

The matter has been kept quiet by the company, and very few employes knew until last evening that the mine in which they were working was on fire.

This colliery is one of the most important plants of the Reading company. Upwards of 500 men and boys are employed. The workings are very deep, and if the fire gets a good start on the veins it will prove very disastrous.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEAD

Ghastly Details of the Michigan Mining Horror.

WAS THERE CRIMINAL NEGLECT?

It is Charged That the Mine Was Worked Directly Under a River Without Proper Supports—A Rigid Investigation to be Instituted.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sep. 30.—With a terrific rush the water of the Michigamme river broke through a bed weakened by mining into the Mansfield mine yesterday, drowning 28 men who were at work directly under the cave-in. There were 46 men in the mine when the accident occurred, but 18 of them who were working in the lower levels managed to escape. The names of the drowned miners are: Sam Peters, James Strongman, W. H. Pierce, Chas. Pohl, Ole Carson and Joe Kohls, all married; Swan Johnson, Mike Harrington, Frank Rucko, Al Torresani, Frank Johnson, Sam Johnson, Shellimo Zadra, Peter Turry, Nicolo Fontani, John Regula, John Holmstrum, Ross Fortimato, John Kirsche, John Warner, John Ascangelo, August Cologna, Vigilis Zeadra, John Randala, Oscar Lundquist, Anto Steffano, O. Constanti and Celesti Negri.

For more than two years the chief workings have been directly under the bed of the river. There has been much trouble with water, and predictions have not been wanting that the river would some day break through the roof of the mine. The news of the disaster sped on swift wings throughout the little hamlet and a wild cry of alarm was voiced by the inhabitants as they rushed from their homes, gathering about the shaft, just as the last one of the 18 men was brought to the surface. When the cause of the accident was explained to the anxious inquirers a cry of horror went up, as they realized that the long expected and much dreaded accident had taken place at last and brought with it the results so long feared by the wives and mothers. None of the bodies have been recovered, and it is believed that it will be necessary to divert the channel of the river before they can be secured.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sep. 30.—John M. Longyear, of this city, is one of the chief owners of the Mansfield property. He said that the land has been leased to Calhoun and Tenny, of Chicago, and that they had formed the Mansfield mining company.

Mr. Longyear's belief is that the disaster was caused by "robbing" the mine. That is, by working in a reckless manner and taking down pillars of ore in the upper levels that should have been left to support the roof. Mr. Longyear would not affirm that such was the case, but believed it probable. The mine inspector of Iron county will conduct a most rigid examination into the cause of the disaster. The vein of ore was only 16 feet wide and the nature of the ground was such that experts say it was easy to afford an adequate support to the hanging wall of the mine.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sep. 30.—Already talk of suits for damages against the operators by relatives of the dead men is being heard. The mine was being operated by the receiver of Corrigan, Ives & Co. of Cleveland. The money loss will be $600,000.

M'KAY'S CHINESE WIFE.

Statute Discovered Which Admits Her Without Paying Poll Tax.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sep. 30.—The report that has been circulated in the east concerning the Chinese wife of Missionary McKay paying poll tax is not true. On landing at Vancouver the customs officers were in a quandry how to treat the case. They were rather inclined to impose the tax as a solution of the question. From this fact, no doubt, the erroneous report obtained currency. The fact is, after considerable indecision and delay, the statute bearing on the case was unearthed. This statute provides that a Chinese woman married to a man of another nationality shall be deemed of same nationality as her husband. When the officers were thus enlightened, the reverend gentleman and his wife came ashore and apologies were made for undue detention.

TAMMANY MEETING.

In Line With Cleveland in Restoring Business Confidence.

NEW YORK, Sep. 30.—Tammany's big general committee met last night in the Fourteenth street wigwam for the first time since spring. There was a large attendance of the prominent members of the organization. Only routine business was transacted. This had wholly to do with the adoption of the report of the committee on organization, which called the local conventions and primary.

Chairman Smith in opening the meeting made a short speech, in which he placed the Tammany organization straight in line with the national administration in its efforts to restore full confidence to the business community.

Northern Pacific Defaults.

NEW YORK, Sep. 30.—It is definitely announced that the Northern Pacific railroad will default the interest on its $19,328,000 worth of second mortgage bonds, due October 1. The bonds bear 6 per cent. interest, payable semi-annually.

$3,000 Sewed in a Mattress.

PATERSON, N. J., Sep. 30.—While examining a bed on which her husband died a week ago, Mrs. Adolph Colditz found $3,000 sewed in the mattress. Colditz was a silk weaver, 48 years old. He had not lived happily with his wife for some time.

CHAUTAUQUA POLITICS.

Cleveland and Hill Factions Have an Exciting Row.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sep. 30.—The democratic city caucus to elect delegates to the county convention was called by the city committee to be held in this city yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. At that hour Frank E. Sherman, chairman of the democratic city committee and also of the county committee, called the meeting to order and announced that the city committee had selected Frank E. Sherman, Geo. C. Vanduesen and Edward L. Derry, inspectors of the caucus. The inspectors had organized by electing F. E. Sherman, chairman, and the other two, tellers, and were ready to receive ballots. They were all Cleveland men. Immediately the Hill men perfected another organization by electing Conrad A. Hull chairman and John J. Mahoney, John Monyhan and S. S. Lewis, inspectors. By the time this was done the Cleveland officers had received about 25 ballots when the Hill officers demanded control of the ballot box. This was refused, when a free fight occurred between the two factions to obtain control of it. The hall was crowded and the ballot box played the part of a foot ball in the heat of an exciting game. During the melee, Sherman declared the caucus adjourned because it was impossible to proceed with business. Officers were called and the quarrel was quelled when the ballot box was found to be in the possession of the Hill men. The secretary's table had been overturned in the fight and the records of the caucus so far as it had proceeded were trampled under foot and soiled almost beyond recognition by the ink which had been spilled. The records, however, were kept in possession of the Cleveland men who went to another hall and both sides elected delegations to the county convention which will be held at Mayville. There the fight will be renewed but the Cleveland men will control that body and that faction will undoubtedly be admitted to the convention. But the trouble will not end here. The Hill men will organize another convention if they are not admitted here and elect delegates to the state convention where they will be admitted.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Mahoney, Monyhan, M. G. Martin and Thomas Ferrin, charging them with stealing the ballot boxes.

HARVARD'S HALF MILLION.

Efforts to Ascertain What Mr. Ames Wished Done.

BOSTON, Sep. 30.—Samuel Carr, one of the executors of the Ames estate, returned to New York, and said of the reported intended gift of Mr. Ames to Harvard:

"Mr. Ames had some plan in his mind for Harvard university, but just what its nature and scope were the executors do not know yet. It is our desire so far as we are able to carry out the wishes of Mr. Ames, so far as they can be ascertained."

There will doub less be a conference between President Eliot and the heirs of Mr. Ames, in order to gain from the former any proofs which may exist of Mr. Ames' intentions regarding the college. It is from that source the proofs must come. Mr. Ames left no written statement of his wishes, or instructions regarding public bequests, though he had signified to his son his intention of publicly disposing of a portion of his wealth, and had mentioned Harvard as a beneficiary.

WILLIAM AND BISMARCK.

Hopes of a Reconciliation Said to Have Collapsed.

BERLIN, Sep. 30.—The Zukunft, a periodical of Bismarckian tendencies, edited by Maximilian Harden, publishes an article concerning Bismarck and the emperor. The writer speaks of the "collapse of the hopes of a reconciliation," and closes his comment thus:

"The words exchanged by the emperor and Prince Bismarck in the last official interview continue to indicate the relations between them. In that interview the emperor said: 'You refuse, then, even in your master commands!' Prince Bismarck replied: 'My master's power ends at the threshold of my wife's drawing-room.'"

Harden has had several interviews with Prince Bismarck in the last two years, and is supposed to have received "inspiration" occasionally. It is believed, however, that in this case he speaks with authority.

NOW SCHOOL HAS BEGUN

LOOK WELL TO THE HEALTH OF THE CHILDREN.

Girls and Boys Who Are Studying Need Strength—Experience of Principal L. L. Camp and Prof. C. C. Harper.

School has begun.

Days of suffering for many nervous, sickly children, especially in the high and grammar schools, are at hand. Parents and teachers should see that the store of nervous vitality acquired in the summer vacation is not impaired. The value of Paine's celery compound in keeping children strong and vigorous is illustrated in the experience of Mr. A. W. Fisher, of South Bay City, Mich., who writes:

"My children, Florence, Clarence and Demott are now enjoying excellent health since they used Paine's celery compound, though before they were weak and run down. I credit their strength and vigor entirely to the liberal use of the compound.

PROF. C. C. HARPER.

"Principal L. L. Camp, of the famous Dwight School of New Haven, and father of Walter Camp, the celebrated college athelete, says: 'I have taken several bottles of Paine's celery compound, not because I was sick but because I wanted to keep well. I believe in keeping well and can do so best by the use of this helper of nature.'

"Prof. C. C. Harper of Mt. Carmel, Ill., says:

"'My school work has proven a great mental strain, and every spring I have found myself thoroughly worn out. In the spring of 1890 I thought that I could not complete the school term, for I was almost prostrated.

"'About that time I commenced the use of Paine's celery compound with splendid results. The use of two bottles completely restored my health. I have been in my present position for eight years, and I am certain that this compound has enabled me to carry on my school work, when without it I should have been compelled to give up.'

BOOMING THEIR OWN TOWNS.

Railroad Trains Not Stopping at Government Mapped Out Sites.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—Complaints are being received at the interior department that the railroads running through the Cherokee outlet are discriminating against the town sites located by the government and in favor of sites established by themselves. This discrimination, it is reported, has gone so far that mail trains do not stop at Enid where the land office is located and where there is a town of 20,000 people, but run their mail trains through the town to their own town site nearly three miles beyond and send back the mail by wagons.

Discrimination is also reported against the town of Perry.

The interior and postoffice department officials have the matter under telegraphic investigation, and will promptly right whatever wrongs are being perpetrated.

Secretary Hoke Smith has the matter under his personal charge and is determined that the settlers on the government town sites shall have every mail facility that is needed. It is said at the post office department that if the facts are as reported the railroad companies are liable to a severe penalty and that it will be exacted. It is feared that through misrepresentation the post office, which should be located at Enid, has been placed on the railroad company's town site and if this is true the location of the office will be changed at once.

MEAT INSPECTION.

Consumers Like the New Order But Packers Object.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—From numerous communications received at the department of agriculture it is evident that Secretary Morton's extension of the meat inspection system to include an ante and post mortem inspection of all animals slaughtered for meat which is to be the object of interstate trade is very generally gratifying to consumers. On the other hand considerable complaint is being made by packers, especially in the east. These packers declare that such inspection will involve much interference and annoyance in their business. The secretary has decided, however, that his order of the 13th inst. must be carried out.

BEER AND WHISKEY TAX.

No Change in Internal Revenue Until the Tariff is Fixed.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—A part of the gossip regarding the intention of members of the committee on ways and means in respect to revenue measures, relates to their probable action towards the rates of internal revenue taxation. Numerous reports are in circulation that the taxes on whiskey and beer are to be increased at various ratios from 10 to 100 per cent.

While it is true these subjects enter somewhat into the discussion of members where they meet informally, it may be said that until the tariff bill is fully framed, nothing will be decided regarding the internal revenue.

The Y. M. C. A. Wheelmen, of New Brunswick, to the number of forty-two, took a club run to this city last night, leaving New Brunswick at 8. An hour and a quarter was consumed in the 12-mile run. At 9:15, like fireflies their lanterns showed through the darkness on Park avenue, and they wheeled up to Hotel Albion. Arrangements had been made beforehand with Mine Host A. H. King; steeds were pastured in the hotel basement, and the riders took possession of the dining hall, where, at a long table, covers were spread for the party.

Mixed Nuts Layer Raisins
Cheese Coffee

All this was "a mighty good layout", as the boys said; and if one had a flash-light of the satisfied and smiling faces after the feast it would make a pleasant picture for presentation and a capital testimonial for Mr. King.

Those who sat at the table were: H. G. Parker, President; Dr. H. Iredell, Captain; Dr. Walter Rice, First Lieutenant: Herbert Rastall, Second Lieutenant; George VanVechten, Secretary and Treasurer; William D. Burt, Dr. William Macom, J. A. Blish, George K. Parsell, Charles Farman, Theodore Lester, Duncan Battison, William Shinnin, E. E. Sampson, Charles Zimmerman, Amil Volkert, Clifford B. Dunham, W. A. Jackson, C. E. Head, William Foulkes, F. Daire, William Drake, Ray Pawley, Daniel Stelle, John Clayton, Ernest Devere, D. M. Vail Kinports, Alexander Merchant, John Strassburger, R. Rastall, E. VanCleef, Daniel H. Voorhees, William E. Wineland, H. Bartle, C. Wolff, Theodore Tegtmeyer, J. S. Reed, A. Atkinson and Charles Kilbourne, all of New Brunswick; and S. H. Thomas and the Daily Press representative.

When the last course had been served, a box of fragrant Havanas was passed round with the compliments of Frank L. C. Martin, Captain of the P. Bi. C. A vote of thanks to Capt. Martin for his kind remembrance was proposed by Dr. Iredell, and unanimously carried.

The smoke wreaths curled upward and vanished, and dull care went with them. At this point, when all things favored, President H. G. Parker, as toast master, arose and, after a few happy remarks and sallies of wit, called on several of the orators present to favor the company with speeches. Among those who told amusing stories were C. E. Head, William Foulks and Daniel Stelle. In jest and merry-making time passed quickly It was 12 before the last plesantry was uttered and the bugle sounded the mount. Forty wheels were quickly in motion, forty lanterns flashed brilliant light over the road, good-byes and compliment were showered on Landlord King, the whirr of wheels seunded, and the jolly party were off for the quaint old city on the Raritan.

FLOODED OUT.

Sad Drowning Accident, in Which The Victim Was a Small Fire.

An alarm of fire was rung by Chief of Police Grant at 10 last night from box 12. Fire had been seen in the second story of the wooden dwelling back of the stores 211 and 213 West Front street.

The fire originated in or under a bed or in the floor under the bed on the second floor, and crept through the floor into the stores occupied by A. Lusardi & Co., and by David Modewinck, barber.

The firemen responded promptly, and deluged the stores with water from five streams. The water flowing from the fruit store doorway into the street resembled a mill race in volume and force. The fire was speedily drowned out, the damage resulting mostly from water.

The stock in Patterson's tobacco store was also damaged by water, though some was protected by salvage blankets. The stock of Lusardi was insured for $800 in the Philadelphia Fire Insurance Co., J. C. Pope & Co., agents. The dwelling back of the stores in which the fire originated was insured for $1,000 in the same company.

"HOLY CITY" AND "ELIJAH".

Plans and Prospects of the Choral Society's Work.

C. W. McCutchen, Chairman of the Music Committee of the Plainfield Choral Society, announces that for the season of 1893-94 the society will pursue a course of musical study similar to that of last year. It is proposed to give for the first concert Gaul's "Holy City", and for the third "Elijah", or perhaps a new work not heretofore produced in Plainfield. The programme for the second concert will contain selections or part songs, unaccompanied choruses, and short numbers of a lighter class of music.

The American Catarrh Cure

Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by I. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

THE MAN ON THE CARS.

HAVING BEEN THERE HIMSELF, HE WAXES EARNEST.

He Dives Into the Elopement Question, and as Usual Seems to Know What He Is Talking About.

"I overheard a most interesting dialogue on the ferryboat tonight,"—said The Man on the Cars one evening recently as the train left Elizabeth behind and put in for higher ground.—"Two obviously respectable business men were the participants and this was the drift of the story that one of them told: His daughter, supposedly a beautiful girl—girls in such narratives are generally attractive and it is right to give this one the benefit of the doubt—his daughter, he said, had eloped a month or so back with a hard-working, honest fellow, a painter, for whom she had conceived a violent affection in defiance of parental opposition. He, the father, had repeatedly refused consent to the marriage and had finally forbidden the girl receiving calls from her lover. This action was prompted by no particular reasons other than the dictation of an obtuse nature and a desire not to lose a daughter in the home. Result—clandestine meetings and elopement. The father is sorry now, so he said, the young people having gone away down South, whereas had consent been given to the union they might very probably have settled here and the girl still been able to be at home often. He had written to her his tardy forgiveness but she answered that her husband had secured a paying job somewhere in Florida, that they were very happy and preferred to remain so. I wonder how many parents there are who might profit amazingly by this little episode? Love usually laughs just as merrily at fatherly selfishness as he has been reputed to do at blacksmiths, and even had the beau been discouraged by too much opposition, it might have been a very disheartened daughter who was left home. That misguided father stood in his own light, shadowed everyone else, and he has lived to regret it. Don't understand me as an advocate of indiscriminate eloping, but be assured that the children are not always wrong. I have known mothers, carrying out the ancient idea that old heads are wisest, persistently working untold injury to dutiful daughters by ill-considered, though well-meant, interference in small matters until the girls became afraid to have minds of their own, and the girl without original notions and the courage to assert them is not the one for me. However, I suppose, it is all an affair of opinion like everything else, and those most intimately concerned can do their own guessing. They tell me that there are at present quantities of young people in Plainfield engaged to be married, and I hope that none of them will find elopement necessary, but if they do, and the parents are of the sort of my ferry boat friend, the runaways may be sure of my blessing, and I 'll go around and give the folks they leave behind a little lecture of small consolation.

"Plainfield, eh? Well, I 've barely let you say a word for twenty minutes! Good-night—oh, by-the-way, did anyone ever tell you that my wife and I eloped to get married? No? I 'll tell you about it someday." And he disappeared beyond the freight-house.

A Play of Rare Interest.

"The Power of Gold", the latest of Walter Sanford's massive productions, will be seen in Music Hall next Saturday night, Oct. 7. This play is one of modern life, tells a story common to all great communities, pictures a tale of love, despair and poverty, and shows a series of elaborate stage pictures, rarely seen in local theatres. For the elaborate settings which frame the dramatic incidents, the artists have chosen some of the most weird and most prominent quarters of London, where the action of the play is laid. Most of the localities are about that world-famed church of Sir Christopher Wrens, St. Paul's, which forms the hub of Old London. Ten elaborate scenes, requiring the full dimensions of the stage, are employed, and the story of the drama is left to the hands of those varied types of the upper and lower streets of London society, the one claiming Thackeray as its historian, the other reeking with Fagins, Sykes, Dodgers, Hexams and Riderhoods, immortalized by Dickens. Mr. Sanford will bring to Plainfield one of his very best dramatic companies.

All Their Customers Feel Like This.

A Plainfield man who for many years has purchased his clothing in Newark of Stoutenburg & Co., saw an advertisement of the "fall opening" of this house in The Constitutionalist, Thursday night, and this led him to "hold forth" regarding the substantial clothing that he bought there every season. "You might think I was a talking advertisement for Stoutenburgh & Co., if you did n't know me better,"—said he—"but the truth of the matter is that every customer they have talks just as I do. Every man in that store makes it his particular business to satisfy every purchaser who enters the doors. They have the clothing and they have the low price to do it, so I suppose the rest is an easy matter; and I don't wonder that they have an enormous business. For style, fit and quality of goods for a fair price, Stoutenburgh & Co. surely cannot be beat."

And Married Only Two Years!

Myra Heath, of 314 East Fourth street, complained to the police yesterday that her husband, James B. Heath, the butcher who left town some time ago, had not supported her for the past year. Marshal Pangborn and Constable Taynor last night arrested Heath in the borough. In court this morning the prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge of nonsupport. Judge Coddington placed Heath under bonds to pay his wife $5 a week for one year.

CHARITY BENEFIT.

Fair of The Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital intend to hold a fair on the 1st and 2d of November, both afternoons and evenings, at the Casino of the Union County Country Club on Seventh street.

The members of this board are very anxious to make this fair a great success, financially as well as socially, and for this purpose have taken special pains in preparing a large variety of handsome needlework for the different tables. A grand display of fancy and useful articles will not fail to tempt our friends and patrons into purchasing suitable presents for the approaching Christmas holidays.

The demands upon our hospital during the past summer season have been unusually heavy, and the Woman's Board is therefore particularly desirous of realizing a goodly sum, to be used at their discretion for the benefit of the hospital.

As all the different denominations in Plainfield are represented in our board, it is distinctly understood that the fair will not be held under the auspices of one or more churches, but is to be entirely unsectarian.

Contributions of any kind, money, useful or fancy articles, dolls, toys, large or small, cake, etc., etc., will be gratefully received by the undersigned or any member of the board, and a large attendance at the fair is earnestly requested.

EMILIE SCHIPPER,
Corresponding Secretary.
705 West Seventh street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—A song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms tonight.

—L. C. Randolph, milkman, has a new delivery wagon, which is a beauty.

—Did you find $70? The workingman who lost it lives at 5 Spooner avenue.

—Miss E. E. Chase of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, opened a household-goods store today, at Westfield.

—On account of the scarcity of water in the brook, French Bros. are now running their grist mill by steam.

—The Red Men's anniversary celebration, which was set for next Friday, has been postponed to Monday, October 9.

—One week from tomorrow the choir at the First Baptist church will probably resume singing for the fall and winter months.

—The football team of Leal's school play the Pingry school team of Elizabeth, on the Crescent grounds, Somerset street, this afternoon.

—B. R. Force, the Park avenue boot, shoe and hat dealer, is making a special sale today, at cut prices. He sells a good hat for 99 cents.

—Charles Oakley and Arthur Mulford, of the Elizabeth Wheelmen, are making a century run today, riding from Elizabeth to Captain F. L. C. Martin's in this city and return, four times. The start was made at 9 this morning.

—It transpires that The Press was misinformed in the statement made that the coming Hospital fair was to be given by Grace P. E. church. That excellent organization, the Woman's Auxiliary Board, is responsible for the enterprise, and is preparing to make this event a great success.

HOW TO IMPROVE

Your Dress Appearance and Get Your Clothing at Half of Last Year's Prices.

When Watson & Co. closed out all their broken lots of $5, $6 and $7 Pantaloons at $3 a pair, everybody thought they were getting the greatest bargains ever seen in this city, and so they were, but the great fall in the price of all fine Woolen goods since the first of September enables Watson & Co. to open up their new fall styles at far greater bargains.

This week they will complete and show in all their Broad and Market street windows all the leading styles of fine black Worsteds and fancy Cassimere pantaloons in beautiful shades and patterns at $3 a pair for any kind you may select, and also full lines of elegant Cheviot suits (Cassimere lined) in all the new cuts complete for $10 which you should see before you buy—and it is a good time to buy them now as any change will certainly be towards higher prices—besides you always get the choicest goods at the opening of the season.

Watson & Co. are now employing almost every idle custom tailor in the city on the fine Overcoats they are making, as they say the great depression in Merchant Tailoring and the want of money by importers has enabled them to buy for spot cash large lines of the finest Meltons, Kerseys, Beavers, Chinchillas and Elysians at such extremely low prices that they will be able to furnish the handsomest styles of Overcoats and Ulsters at $15, and show durable genteel garments of equal correct cut for $8, $10 and $12.—Newark Item.

Don't Want a Foreigner.

[From The Bound Brook Chronicle.]

North Plainfield Democrats are kicking because of the slate lately made at the Astor House, New York, to secure the nomination of H. M. T. Beekman, a Jersey City lawyer, as Senator for Somerset county.

SETS FIRE TO HIS BED.

More About the Crank Who Wants the White House Chair.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—The authorities are endeavoring to ascertain something of the identity of Joseph Washington, the alleged crank, who was arrested in the white house. When the prison van reached the workhouse and the office he turned to guard Thompson, and handing over a $5 bill said: "Here's a $5 bill; I want the best room in the house."

The guard, who knew it was necessary to humor the prisoner, took the bill and then went through the institution.

"I want this room," he said after he had gone through the building and the guard let him have it. At this time the prisoner was perfectly calm and collected, but before sundown he caused a scare in the building by setting fire to some bedding. The smoke from the burning bedding attracted one of the guards to the cell and there it was found that he had set fire to an extra blanket and pillow in his cell and had thrown them out the window. There was no danger of burning the building because of the nature of the material of which it is constructed, but it was feared that he had set fire to his clothing.

He still says that he is entitled to his place in the white house.

The authorities think that the man probably escaped from the Norristown insane asylum and will communicate with the superintendent of that institution concerning the prisoner.

Unprofitable Assignment.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sep. 30.—The grand jury returned true bills against Peter Lazarevits and Isaac Schaffer, the Russian Hebrew bankers, who recently made an assignment, charging them with embezzlement.

BOSTON, Sep. 30.—Col. John T. Wheelwright has declined the democratic nomination for state auditor owing to the demands of his private business.

Opposition Delaying Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—The opposition manifested in the Senate to the confirmation of the Indian agents appointed by the President from States other than those in which the agencies are located, has succeeded in prolonging the fight and postponing action from day to day.

The Dalton Gang.

WAGONER, I. T., Sep. 30.—Bill Dalton, Frank Cheney and Bill Dolan, the noted train robbers, are now camped near this place. They have been making their nightly visits to this town returning to their camps after spending a few hours among their old friends.

Five Hanged Together.

VERNON, Ga., Sep. 30.—Five negroes convicted of murder, were executed on one scaffold at the same time, making the largest public execution that ever occurred in Georgia. The names of the men were Welton Gordon, P. Strickland, L. Mansel, H. Brewington and Hiram Jacobs.

A Valuable Remedy.

Hon. Edmund L. Pitts, the late president of the New York State Senate, writes:

"STATE OF N. Y., SENATE CHAMBER, ALBANY, March 11, 1886.

I have used ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS in my family for the past five years, and can truthfully say they are a valuable remedy and effect great cures. I would not be without them. I have in several instances given some to friends suffering with weak and lame backs, and they have invariably afforded certain and speedy relief. They cannot be too highly commended."

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

SILVER MEN EMPHATIC

They Say Repeal Would End Silver as Money.

MESSRS. HARRIS AND MORGAN TALK

The Proposed International Agreement Declared an Idle Dream—Animosity Against President Cleveland—Federal Election Law Debate Creates Little Interest in the House.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 30.—Two of the most distinguished senators on the democratic side of the chamber—Harris of Tennessee and Morgan of Alabama—made vigorous attacks in the senate yesterday on the silver purchase repeal bill. Mr. Harris asserted that the repeal of the Sherman act would be the last recognition of silver as money, and that the republicans who were now aiding Mr. Voorhees would desert him as soon as they accomplished their purpose, and would oppose any measure that might be presented to utilize silver in any way and to any extent.

Mr. Harris expressed his readiness to accept any fair and reasonable compromise and his determination to vote against unconditional repeal.

Senator Morgan ridiculed the proposed international agreement as "an idle dream only to be realized by the fervid imagination of every enthusiastic statesman," (meaning Mr. Allison, rep., Iowa).

He also characterized it as "a tub thrown to the whale," and spoke eloquently of the failure of the struggle for American independence, if this country could not establish its own financial system without the consent of Great Britain. He opposed the bill and argued for the constitutional right of the free coinage of silver. At the close of his speech he developed a good deal of animosity against President Cleveland and intimated that the democrats "would not love him for the friends he had made."

Senator Cameron (rep., Pa.) presented a petition bearing the signatures of Mr. Wharton Barker and probably more than a hundred business men and firms of Philadelphia, asking the senate to preserve the protective character of the tariff and the integrity of silver as a money metal.

In the house instead of interest in the discussion of the federal election repeal bill increasing, it is rapidly diminishing. At no one time in the house yesterday after the bill was taken up were there more than 100 members present, and the average attendance throughout the debate would not exceed 25.

Gillett of Massachusetts was the chief speaker. He spoke against the bill as did Lacey of Iowa. Blair of New Hampshire, Dearmond of Missouri and Wheeler of Alabama advocated the repeal. But the surroundings were depressing and none of the gentlemen could do themselves justice.

$900 FOR A 15-YEAR-OLD BRIDE.

Chu Fong, a Wealthy Chinaman, Wanted for Smuggling on His Wedding Eve.

NEW YORK, Sep. 30.—Commissioner Shields yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Chu Fong, manager of the Chinese theatre, on the charge of assisting in the smuggling of Chinese into the United States. When Deputy Marshal Grant reached Mott street he found it all agog with excitement over the marriage of Chu Feng to Shuen Toy, the niece of Lee Chouk.

Deputy Marshal Grant decided to postpone the arrest until after the ceremony. A lawyer subsequently appeared before the commissioner and gave bonds for the Chinaman's appearance. Lee Chouk is worth $80,000.

Chu Fong's bride is but 15 years old, and Chu, it is said, gave $900 for her to Lee Kue Tin, who bought her in California when she was a child.

WHAT HER MOTHER SAYS

Impressive Story of a Very Beautiful Girl.

AND MANY ANOTHER GIRL NEEDS THE LESSON IT TEACHES.

The Facts Also Afford Parents Food For Deep Thought.

The following will prove interesting reading.

Young girls should read it carefully and all parents should weigh well the lesson to be learned.

The mother of the young girl, Mrs. J. A. Ferre, who resides rear 905 Main street, Hartfor, Conn., thus gives the facts as they happened.

"My daughter Lulu," began Mrs. Ferre, "is seventeen years old and became very ill with St. Vitus' dance over a year ago. She became so bad that she lost the use of her right arm and side and we thought at one time she would lose her speech. Her tongue was almost paralyzed.

"She was so bad she could not feed herself and at night she would get so nervous I had to sit and hold her.

"I tried several doctors but they did not do her any good. I did not find anything that would help her until I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy She is now, by the use of this medicine, entirely cured.

"I wish you could have seen her last summer and see her now. She does not look like the same person. Her friends all thought that she would not live.

"I thank God and Dr. Green's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for restoring my daughter to health.

LULU MAUD FERRE.

"My son also had very hard fits, but has not had one since using this wonderful medicine.

"Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is one of the greatest blessings on earth."

So say all the mothers who have used it for their children when sick. It is above all other medicines the best children's remedy. It should be given to weak, nervous, pale and sickly children, for it will make them strong, vigorous and healthy. It will cure epileptic fits and St. Vitus' dance. It will produce natural sleep for wakeful, restless and nervous infants. Above all should it be given to young girls just changing into womanhood for it will regulate all their functions and develope them into vigorous and healthy womanhood. It is purely vegetable and harmless to give children of any age.

This great children's remedy is the discovery and prescription of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 We t 14th street, New York, the well-known and successful specialist in the cure of all forms of nervous and chronic diseases and the doctor can be consulted free concerning any case, personally or by letter.

If your child is sick do not fail to try this wonderful medicine.

A Pagan's Prayer.

O Mother, I have loved thee without fear,
And looked upon the mystery of change,
Since first a child, upon the closing year,
I saw the snowflakes fall and whispered, "Strange."

Because in these pale borderlands of fate
Grief hath companioned me, I have not quailed,
And when love passed into the outer strait
I have not faltered, and thou hast not failed.

For I have lifted up my heart to thee,
And thou hast ever hearkened and drawn near,
And bowed thy shining face down over me
Till I could hear thee as the hill flowers hear.

And I have cried to thee in lonely need,
Being but a child of thine bereft and wrung,
Till all the rivers in the hills gave heed,
And the great hill winds in thy holy tongue—

That ancient incommunicable speech
The April stars and autumn sunsets know—
Soothed me and calmed with solace beyond reach
Of human ken, mysterious and low.

Then in that day when the last snow shall come
And chill the fair round world within its fold,
Leave me not friendless in the gathering gloom,
But gird thine arms about me as of old.

With sleep once more in thy compassionate hands,
Croon me a murmur as of many rills
When I would rove the crimson valley lands,
With all my vanished comrades of the hills.

When that great storm out of the dark shall drive
And blur the sun and bugle my release,
Let not thy weary earthling faint nor strive,
Faring beyond the tumult to thy peace.

—Bliss Carman.

Her Day.

He was a mighty, rolling river;
She was a little, rippling rill;
He was a mountain naught could shiver;
She was a tiny, shifting hill.

He was a lion, loudly roaring;
She was a lambkin, born to love;
He was an eagle, proudly soaring;
She was a gentle, cooing dove.

He was a sturdy oak, defiant;
She was a slender, clinging vine;
He was a brave and brawny giant;
She was a wee thing feminine.

Ah, but the day when they went shopping
She was the one who took the lead;
She was the earth, so far o'ertopping
Him that he seemed a mustard seed!

—Washington Post.

The Maid—Mrs. Brown-Jones, ma'am.
The Mistress—Oh, such a bore! Tell her I am out, Jane.
The Maid—Yes'm.
The Mistress—But stay. What kind of a dress is she wearing?
The Maid—A new one, ma'am, and it looks just like a late Parisian style.
The Mistress—Gracious! Tell her I'll be down without a moment's delay.—
